KING ALEXANDER IS MORGANTICALLY MARRIED

PARIS, May 28. — King Alexander of Greece is reported here to have been married morganatically to Mademoiselle Manos, daughter of a former aide-de-camp to his father, King Constantine. The Greek legation in Paris has refused to confirm or deny this report.

King Alexander's marriage is said to have been the culmination of a boyhood friendship ,and occurred before he was in a direct line to the throne and while his chances for succeeding his father appeared most remote.

The king and his wife are living at the same hotel here, and yesterday went to Versailles, where they lunched together and visited the gardens.

RETURN OF JEWS FULFILS PROPHESY

PHILIP SIDURSKY REFERS TO RECENT EVENTS IN ADDRESS AT BETHANY TABERNACLE.

Those who attended Bethany Tabernacle on Sunday morning, had the rare privilege of listening to one of the foremost Jewish Christians of the American continent.

Mr. Philip Sidursky, Yiddish editor and evangelist of Baltimore, Md. gave an address on "The Jew Among the Nations."

He read the 137th Psalm, to which he referred as the lament of the Jews of all ages.

His text was I Thess. IV., 18: —"Wherefore comfort one another with these words," meaning the great truth of the second coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.

He said that in this day we need a message of comfort and that the only comfort which he could find was in this great truth, that "Jesus is coming again."

He spoke of the Jews drawing comfort amidst the most terrible persecution from the blessed promise of a delivering Messiah who would put an end to all suffering of the people of Israel and be king over the re-gathered "chosen people."

Mr. Sidursky referred to the mighty fulfilments of prophecy which surrounded us on all sides ,and said:—"Things are transpiring which point to the proximity of the re-appearing of Christ despite all that men may say to the contrary.

The Fulfilment of Prophecies re the Jews.

We are told that the scattered Jews shall be re-united and shall form a nation in their own land Palestine. For this the Jews have been praying throughout the centuries. For this they have formed the great Zionist movement, which was a failure.

Now, however, in the fulness of God's time, the Jews are being miraculously re-united and restored once more to the "Promised Land."

Gentiles no longer ask where the Jews are going for they realize that they are returning to the homeland; but wonder wheer on earth they all came from. And truly it is amazing that despite the fact that they have been persecuted as have no other people they are as numerous to-day as in the time of Solomon.

"God is not dealing with the Jews according to their desserts," said Mr. Sidursky, "but in accordance with his great promises."

A few examples of the fulfilments of prophecy were given, among them: Isaiah 31. 5th verse: "As birds flying, so will the Lord of Hosts defend Jerusalem." It was by the use of aeroplanes that Allenby drove the Arabs and Turks in fright from the holy places.

Another — Isaiah 60:10. "And the sons of strangers shall build up thy walls." The Jews in their great demonstrations of rejoicing over the gift of the Holy Land to the Jews were led by Gentile bands and are being given their land by the Genfile nations.

While the Jews are being regathered we must not forget that over nine million Jews in Europe are still bleeding from the awful persecutions of the past.

It is creating a much closer tie between Jew and Gentile that so many Christians are looking for the second coming of Christ in much the same manner as the Jews are looking for the Messiah. This symoathy makes the Jew more ready to listen to the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

ADVANCE IN FLOUR ON MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 27.—A higher wheat market the past two days was reflected in an advance of 25 cents a barrel for flour at one of the mills here to-day. Family patents in carload lots in 98-pound cotton sacks were quoted at $14.85 a barrel at this place. Another large mill which has been selling this grade of flour at a slightly higher price kept their quotation unchanged to-day.

A DANGER SIGNAL—TENDER AND BLEEDING GUMS

Healthy teeth cannot live in diseased tissue. Gums tainted with Pyorrhea are dangerously diseased. For not only the teeth are affected, but Pyorrhea germs seep into the body, lower its vitality and cause many ills.

Pyorrhea begins with tender and bleeding gums. Then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the poisonous germs that breed in pockets about them.

Four out of five people over forty have this disease. But you need not have it. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection. And keep Pyorrhea away by using Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For The Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy, the teeth white and clean. If you have tender or bleeding gums, start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

REPORTS THRIFT ON INCREASE.

Chicago Reserve District Sees Growing Tendency to Lower Prices.

CHICAGO.— A growing tendency toward thrift, a general revision downward of prices of all commodities except food, and improvement in the labor situation are three encouraging factors in the report of the Seventh Federal Reserve District issued today.

"A most encouraging development of the last month has been a growing tendency on the part of the general public toward thrift," says the report. "Ever since the armistice was signed, people have been indulging in a wild spending orgy, buying only the highest priced goods and satisfying extravagances almost to an extreme. This spending hysteria now seems to be waning, although the change is not yet pronounced."

The report refers to a "disturbing element" in the almost demoralized condition of our railroads, transportation being on the verge of a breakdown by reason of a shortage of freight cars and a serious congestion in all leading railroad centres caused by the strike of switchmen ond other rail workers.

The credit supply is still restricted and the demand outstrips any previous total in the history of the world. There is the additional complication of growing signs of a general revision of prices of all commodities, with the trend in most cases downward. The continued high price of food is the most important exception, the review states, adding that "other living costs offer great encouragement, particularly the price of clothing."

SKYROCKETS BLAMED FOR $5,000 BLAZE

Ex-Mayor Tuson's Family Are Driven into Street in Nightclothes.

WINDSOR, May 28.—Skyrockets used in connection with Victoria Day celebrations here are blamed for a fire which caused $5,000 damage at the home of ex-Mayor Charles R. Tuson, and drove members of the family into the streets in their nightclothes. The flames were noticed shortly before midnight, and only efficient work by the fire department saved the blaze from destroying the entire building, he flames found their origin in a one-story outbuilding, recently erected, which houses kitchen, bathroom and pantry.

500,000 LABORERS ARE REQUIRED TO REBUILD FRANCE

Workers Are Needed in the Devastated Sections.

PARIS, May 28.—Four to five hundred thousand imported laborers are needed urgently in France for the devastated regions, according to the newly-created superior council of materials and labor appointed by Jean Ogier, minister of the liberated regions. It is calculated that France's post-war force of 1,100,000 builders has been reduced by heavy war casualties and application of the eight-hour law to the equivalent of about 650,000, which is inadequate.

The new commission, which has been functioning unofficially for several weeks, has drawn up a program to speed up work, reclaimed materials from the wreckage will be utilized first and then material capable of being manufactured on the spot, where it is needed before bringing in products of other regions or importing them.

The departure of more than 200,000 Germans and the return home of some Chinese contract laborers have made the shortage of workers more acute. The recent arrival of thousands of Polish laborers brought small relief, and it is considered probable some arrangement will be effected soon by which German will send unemployed men to France.

HUSBAND WAS "TOO GOOD."

But the Judge would not take this as Cause for Legal Action.

NEW YORK, May 28. — A "too good" husband does not constitute a cause for legal separation, according to a ruling handed down by Justice Horschauser to Mrs. Richmond J. Reese, wife of a New York lawyer, at White Plains recently. Mrs. Reese testified during the trial that her husband was "so good he was impossible." Mr. Reese swore that his wife called him "woolley lamb," and "piggie Pie," as evidence of her affection.

MRS. MAY COULD NOT WORK

Made Well and Strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbia, Pa.—"I was very weak and run down and had dragging-down pains and pains in my back. I could not get around to do my work and had to sit down and rest often during the day. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the papers and read the testimonials, so I thought I would try it. Now I am healthier than I ever was in my life, and can recommend it to any woman who suffers as I did." —Mrs. ELIZABETH MAY, R.F.D. No. 1, Columbia, Pa.

The reason Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills is because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, curative influence, and the letters which we are constantly publishing from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of this famous root and herb medicine.

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get slugish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or the kidneys are not acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal action; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder troubles.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and the urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

DR. SPEER APPEALS FOR HELP FOR SERBIAN ORPHANS

PASTOR OF WESTMORELAND METHODIST CHURCH, TORONTO, MAKE ELOQUENT PLEA FOR SUPPORT FOR THE FUND---YESTERDAY'S SERVICES AT THE GEORGE ST. METHODIST CHURCH.

Rev. J. C. Speer, D.D., pastor of Westmoreland Methodist church, Toronto, occupied the pulpit in George street church yesterday morning. Dr. Speer represented the Brotherhood Federation and made an appeal for Serbia's 500,000 orphans.

The text on which Dr. Speer based his remarks was taken from Matthew, 23:8, "or one is your Master, even Christ, and all ye are brethren." At the outset the speaker stated that he did not advocate any scheme, institution or propaganda which he did not find endorsed in the New Testament.

Many Great Movements.

There have been a great many wonderful movements in the history of the world, including that of the Crusaders, one of the greatest religious movements the world has ever known. One of the great present day movements that will stand with those of past ages, is that of the Brotherhood Federation.

"If anyone has not come to the realization that this movement will stand side by side with all the great ones of history," said Dr. Speer, "then they ought to find out for themselves what is the meaning of this movement today. The movement of brotherhood is apparently small and insignificant, especially so to the people who have not investigated it. Depend upon it, however, there is a human and Divine dynamic in it which is the power of God. This movement is becoming concentrated upon the forces of the world and men and women are gathering themselves together for the purpose of doing things, inspired by that Lord Jesus who said, "for one is your Master, even Christ; and all ye are brethren."

Instinct of Brotherhood.

God always uses the fundamentals of life to work out his great problems. There is nothing more distinctive in the human mind and breast than the instinct of brotherhood. God intended that there should be a great human brotherhood in every age and nation. Mighty things have and can be done by men and women who work in harmony with one another. At the World's Brotherhood Federation convention in London, 60 different nations were represented for the purpose of bringing men together that they might carry out the great behest of our Master.

"I am convinced," said Dr. Speer, "that the purpose of Jesus is that the people of this world shall be cemented into one great family."

Objects of Federation.

One object of the Brotherhood Federation is that there shall be no more war—that they shall do everything in their power to eliminate war. Another object is that ultimately denominationlism shall be one of kindness, courtesy, good feeling and harmony. A third object is that there shall be no Bolshevism in the world. And there will be no Bolshevism if there is no cause for it.

In making his appeal for Serbia's 500,000 orphans, Dr. Speer pointed out that Peterborough county was being asked to contribute $5,000 to this cause. He left the matter with the congregation by asking them to suppose that if he were to disappear from their vew, his voice were to cease and in his place should appear Jesus himself, saying, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto Me," he was cerrtain that everyone would respond to the call for assistance from suffering Serbia.

Mount Carmel—Mount of Prayer.

The pastor, Rev. A. J. Thomas, preached at the evening service, giving the third of his series of sermons on Bible mountains. Taking as his text, I Kings, 18:38-39, he spoke of the wonderful revelation and vindication of God to the Israelites on Mt. Carmel.

Ahab, king of Israel, had not proved himself a particularly good one, and the people had wandered from God and were worshipping Baal. Elijah, as the familiar story goes, issued a challenge to the priests of Baal to see whether their Gods or his God would produce fire from heaven upon their respective altars. The God of Elijah prevailed.

Elijah stood alone among all the people, with unshaken faith. He is a great example to the world as one who stood firm, fulfilling his duty. There is a tendency to be swayed and carried away by the crowd. It is hard to stand alone, but those who trust in God and do the right will not lose ultimately.

Mount Carmel is an evidence that God both sees and answers prayer, and Elijah had the faith. Faith is the essential to Christianity. If there is no faith there is not vitality. Prayer has not only a subjective influence, but objective also. There have been many Mt. Carmels, some not as spectacular, but quite as effective, where the fires of blessing have descended upon the soul.

The scene on Mt. Carmel was the culmination of a long conflict between Monotheism, and Polytheism. But it was more to get the Israelites to acknowledge God. Every individual ought to come to a Mt. Carmel decision. We have to choose between God and the world.

Secret of National Strength.

The secret of national strength is through the spirit of God. Our nation needs more than anything else, a revival of religion. Behind the unrest, confusion and disorders is a lack of religion. We as a people have forsaken God and his altars. Better than all recourses is righteousness. Unless we get back to God, Canada will never be the great power she has the right to be.

Now the Time of Decision.

Now is the time of decision in every life. A lifetime on earth is but a day with God. Let us come to our Mt. Carmel and acknowledge God and our Lord Jesus.

Suffered With Boils

Last 5 Years.

Boils are simply a breaking out of bad blood, and anyone who has suffered from them, knows how sick and miserable they make you feel. Just when you think you are cured of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your misery. All the poulticing and lancing you can do will not get rid of them.

While the skin appears to be the cause of the irritation the real disease is rooted in the blood, and to get rid of these painful pests it is necessary to get right at the seat of the trouble. When the blood is purified, cleansed and vitalized, by Burdock Blood Bitters, the boils will quickly disappear, your misery it at an end, and health and strength come back again.

Mr. Robert Johnson, Barkway, Ont., writes:—"I have suffered very much, during the last five years from boils, having as many as five at once. I tried different remedies without any relief. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after taking just one bottle I have had no more boils."

B.B.B. has been on the market for over 40 years and is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SMILING RALPH MULFORD "TOPSY" OF SPEEDWAY BACK THIS YEAR

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 28.—"Smiling Ralph" Mulford, one of the select few drivers who has faced the starter in every 500-mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway has entered a Mulford Special in the Eighth International Sweepstakes to be held at the speedway, Monday, May 31.

And incidentally, Ralph has finished five time out of his seven starts.

Mulford is the "Topsy" of the racing game. He just naturally knew what was wrong with a gasoline engine when it did not behave and ot his ability as a boy to tinker marine engines into running order, he owes his prowess as a racing driver. Lozier built boats before cars, and when Mulford nursed a particularly balky engine into good health, in his home town, the factory hired him.

The first race in which he got a chance, he won, although he was forced to share with Harry Michner, for whom he was driving relief. This was back in 1907 in a 24-hour race on the Points Breeze track in Philadelphia. "Twice-around-the-clock" events became his favorites and he still holds the non-stock and stock nine and ten years ago, respectively. For many years he was star of the Lozier team, winning the first Elgin roadrace in 1910, when it was still a stock car contest.

"Smiling Ralph" is a real veteran of the Indianapolis track. In the first race in 1911 he was second in a Lozier, the year following he was tenth in a Knox ,in 1912 he drove a Merced es to seventh place, while the next race found him in eleventh place with the same make of car. The 1915 race was the first he did not finish. He was driving a Duesenberg, but was forced out. His best position was third in Peugeot in 1916 Last year, driving a Frontenac, dropped out in the 37th lap with a broken driveshaft.

ROSE TEA DANCE.

Given by Mrs. Charles Perry at Grand Central Apartments.

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Charles Perry, Jr., entertained at a charming little rose tea dance in honor of her sister-in-law, Miss May Perry, at her home in the Grand Central Apartments. The reception room was most attractive with profuse decorations of roses, narcissi, carnations and sweet peas and streamers of pink and green. A pretty feature of the afternoon was the presentation to each of the guests of a beautiful bouquet of sweetheart roses tied with a pink ribbon. The dainty tea table with its beautiful lace covers and central appointments of roses and sweet peas, was presided over by Mrs. Charles Perry and Mrs. H. Lush.

Following the dainty refreshments the guests enjoyed a very successful dance. Those noticed amongst the guests were: Mrs. Charles Perry, Sr., Betty Macdonald, Grace Conroy, Rebecca Arthurs, Martha Kirn, Margaret Cameron, Dorothy McClelland, Violet McKewan, Jean Mervin, Jean Elliott, Aloha Horn, Kathaline Cuffe, and Dorohty Thompson Curry.

LAKEFIELD PASTOR PRAYED FOR RAIN

CROPS HAVE DONE WELL BUT TURNING POINT HAS COME.

LAKEFIELD, May 31.—Mr. W. Thompson, of Mount Julian, has purchased a motor boat from Mr. F. J. Moore.

Unless rain comes very soon the crop outlook is very poor in this section. Gardens are almost at a standstill. Dr. Archbold, of the Church of England in the village, offered prayers for rain at the Sunday services.

Mr. J. W. Ridpath has moved into his new home on Concession Street, and Mr. Frank Morin has moved into the house on Chipewa Avenue vacated by Mr. Ridpath, while Mr. H. Wannamaker has moved to his new home on Chippewa Avenue.

Represent Baseball Team.

Mr. W. Ford has been elected third vice-president of the East Peterborough Baseball League, and Mr. W. G. Morrison is on the executive. Mr. Ford is a newcomer in baseball circles, but Mr. Morrison is a veteran of former baseball leagues in the village, and the appointment of these two gentlemen to represent Lakefield is very popular.

PULPIT APPEALS FOR SERBIAN RELIEF FUND

The campaign for the Serbian Relief Fund was given most generous assistance on Sunday from the pulpits of the city churches, and the local campaign committee are grateful to the ministers for their co-operation.

The thanks of the committee are also extended to the banks and The Examiner for their support, including the receiving of subscriptions.

Capt. Joe Lawson is preparing for a canvass throughout the city. He has completed his organisation work, and is confident that Peterborough will make a splendid response, and that the objective of $5,000 for city and county will be realised.

Dollars from Peterborough will save the lives of these little ones.

Judge Huycke, Mayor McIntyre, Rev. F. E. Malott, R. M. Glover, J. J. Hartley, D. H. Moore, C. E. Curtis, and W. H. Dunsford, manager of the Bank of Commerce, the treasurer, form the local committee for the campaign.

THESE ARE DAYS OF PRACTICAL ATHEISM

IT DENIES CHRIST IN PRACTICE THOUGH NOT IN THEORY.

Rev. Dr. Ribourg, preaching at Saint Alban's Cathedral, Toronto, Sunday evening on "The Three Manifestations of God," said in part.

"We are living in days of practical atheism, not an atheism which denies God in theory, but which denies Him in practice. Unless the Christian people practice the creed they profess to believe, the world will witness an exhibition of unbelief and antagonism to churches unparalleled in theworld's history. The masses are weary of the sentimentalized type of religion which tolerates shallow pietism one day in the week and a scandalous disregard of the Christian ethics the other six days.

"We are living in an atmosphere poisoned by a coarse materialism, which is distorting our conception of right and justice. Lip religion has no value. Religion pure and undefiled must be something which appeals as a reality to men and comes home to them as practical in daily life, stimulating conduct and formative of character."

GIRL GUIDES AT LAKEFIELD CHURCH

LAKEFIELD, May 31.—About one dozen of the local Girl Guides marched to service in the Anglican Church on Sunday morning, under Captain (Mrs.) Osborne. The girls presented a good appearance, and were types of the healthy, fresh-looking Canadian girls of which we are justly proud.

Rev. Dr. Archbold preached an appropriate sermon not only to the young girls, but to everyone present. He spoke of the occasion (Trinity Sunday) of the three-fold object of the Girl Guides—loyalty, service, and honesty. They are not taught the creed of any particular body, but if they follow the rules relating to loyalty they will not fail to attend faithfully the services of their churches. They are pledged to be loyal and true to their God, their King, and their country. So if they obey that rule, they will surely not neglect their opportunities for religious instruction. Service is the second law—that each day some kind deed will be done and a kind word spoken. Service is what this world needs most to-day. Honesty is another of the Guide laws, which is important. The temptation to cheat or copy in school is too often yielded to, and is a dishonourable practice. Dr. Archbold urged the girls against the pitfalls which selfishness lays for us all, and urged cheerful obedience to their parents and a greater desire to help them in their duties. Also to avoid the cankerworm of jealousy which produces such terrible results.

Dr. Archbold made a strong and earnest appeal to the girls, in closing, to preserve their modesty, which is a priceless heritage, for with a loss of modesty comes serious results which can never be undone. A special plea to parents to enlighten their boys and girls of the pitfalls which menace the moral and social life of our nation was also thrown out by the rector.

CAR OFF THE TRACK.

On Saturday evening a car was being shunted into the G. T. R. siding at King and Sherbrooke Streets, and, it is supposed, on striking a standing car, rebounded and the leading bogey wheels jumped the metals. A gang of men were soon at work and set the car on the track.

REV. FRED ASHTON'S FAREWELL SERMON

LEAVING THE LAKEFIELD BAPTIST CHURCH----FRIENDS BID HIM GOOD-BYE.

Lakefield, May 31.—Rev. Frederick Ashton preached his farewell sermon in the Lakefield Baptist church on Sunday evening. There was a good congregation which testified to the esteem in which Mr. Ashton and his family are held in their congregation.

Mr. Ashton took as a text for his sermon, God's call to Abraham to take himself forth from his own country and kindred and to go to a far country. God has his own ways of dealing with men and some men have to be brought very low nto appreciate God. In order that they may attain to a more speritual life, God's call often leads through ways of suffering and affliction.

Circumstances sometimes constitute a call; God sometimes seems to fairly thrust out people to work for him.

Thousands of unsaved persons will go down to endless destruction with out Christ if He should come now.

Abraham was called on to take a step in the dark and to leave home and country and kindred and go to a land which he knew not, but God did.

We do not properly appreciate the sacrifice of missionaries who far away to foreign lands to live in filthy conditions to which they have not been accustomed.

At the age of seventy-five, Abraham was called to be a missionary to a dark benighted race. In days gone by those men who lived in monastaries and in caves in the wilderness men called godly but those days are past and now Christians live in the world but we must not let ourselves be of the world

Our Lord himself was called on to take a step in the dark when he was sent into the wilderness for forty days to be tempted of the devil. He suffered all the temptations of the human race and came out conqueror. This is for the encouragement of all Christians for "He was in all points tempted like as we are and yet is without sin."

In regard to his own approaching departure Mr. Ashton said that it was also a step in the dark as he knows not what awaits him but if Jesus goes with him, he is willing to go anywhere. The church also takes a step in the dark as they do not know what awaits them but if we are all sincere God will do the best thing for all. No matter what betides God still lives and is at the helm. May we meet again in Heaven. "May Love's banner keep floating o'er you."

After service Mr. Ashton bade a personal good-bye to his parishoners, Rev. S. F. Dixon and his wife of the Methodist church went over to the Baptist church to say "goodbye and God speed" to Mr. and Mrs. Ashton This was a kindly touch of friendship which was much appreciated both by Mr. Ashton and the Baptist people.

R. A. DENNISON, of Los Angeles, owner and trainer of fine trotting horses, who says Tanlac put him right back on his feet again, after he had been in bad health for over a year. Declares he is feeling like his old self now.

"For the past year or more I have not been just right physically; I just didn't feel good at all, but last April 22nd I had an awful attack with my stomach which nearly drew me up and I have been worse ever since.

"About the best way I can describe the way I felt is to say I was just legweary and all in. I really did not have strength to keep going and I gave up all idea of trying to work. For a long while I had no appetite but would eat anyhow though my food never seemed to do me any good.

"I would go to bed at night, and would sleep but apparently did not rest for I would get up just as tired as when I went to bed. I got so I could scarcely get a block but what I would have to stop and rest.

"Well, I read about Tanlac one day and that reminded me that a friend had spoken about the same medicine so I got some and began to take it. I had ben taking it for about a week when one evening after supper I started to walk and before I realized it I had walked up to First Street and back about 14 blocks, and never felt it at all and then I realized that the tonic was helping me.

"I have taken four bottles now and am just feeling real good again. I am able to be back at the Exposition Stock Yards every day and have just as much energy as I ever had. I get up refreshed in the mornings now, and I have a real appetite which makes me enjoy three good square meals every day. Anyone who needs a good tonic will certainly be satisfied with Tanlac and I am glad to recommend it to my friends."

The above statement was made recently by R. A Dennison, a well-known owner and trainer of trotting horses, residing at 214 East 8th St., Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. Dennison has lived in California for 32 years; he is 63 years of age, and has followed his present line of business for thirty years. He is well known on the Pacific Coast.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corner by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; and in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

Fine Illustrations of Decision and Indecision Are Furnished at Every Busy Street Crossing

Self-confident persons take the situation in at a glance, step from the curb, and never falter until the sidewalk is reached. The undecided ones hesitate every now and then, and sometimes retrace their steps.

Nearly always it is safer to keep going than to turn back, whether it is in crossing a street or in business.

Hundreds of decisions have been made by this Store, but we think the greatest was made years ago when it was decided to assume the responsibility for all the merchandise sold by this establishment. We have never hesitated to adjust a claim that was reasonable.

Many Lovely Skirts

This glimmering Skirt of White Wash Satin will appear at its best on a slim figure. There is a six-inch Navy Blue band around the bottom. This border is printed in Foulard design, and is formed of spots and stripes. On the left side is a gathered patch pocket partly concealed by two cross-over panels that meet and terminate with a Silk tassel. The tie girdle is bordered with Blue to correspond with the border. Price $20.00.

Wool Jersey has come to stay, and this Skirt of Light Blue furnishes a fine example of its suitability for outing wear. The band is finished with a novel arranged girdle trimmed with Smoked Pearl Buttons. A nice amount of fulness is gathered under the belt, and two pockets are uniquely arranged with Smoked Pearl Buckles run through with pointed straps. Price $16.75.

White Gabardine knows no fear on wash day. This Skirt has ten circular rows of cable stitching grouped just below the two set-in pockets that are garnished with three Pearl Buttons. There is a comfortable amount of fulness, the measurement being 60 inches around the bottom. The price is $8.50.

Another of White Gabardine introduces a novelty feature in so much that the eight-inch Grecian Key design that goes all around the bottom is defined by hemstitching, and the girdle has been given the same treatment. The two man-fashioned side pockets have a flap, and are trimmed with a solitary large bone button. The price is $6.75.

The pattern of this Gabardine Skirt is certainly unique. It is half White and half Pink for every other check in the large checker board pattern alternates in colour. The Pink portions are not solid, but are formed of fine closely-grouped stitching. There are two patch pockets, with turned back pointed flaps. The price is $7.50.

If Rose is your colour and a Melon shade suits your fancy, then let us introduce this Sweater Coat, that is a fine rib knit and has long reveres that commence at the hem and continue around the neck and form the collar. A White Wool Jersey Vestee in front, trimmed with white buttons, strikes a new note, and the narrow belt is fastened with a metal buckle. The price is $14.75.

Another that is much on the same order is Bosphore Blue in colour (lighter than Navy), and the Vestee is of Knitted Wool, with a row of Blue numerals at the top. It is priced at $15.00.

This Coat of Sea Green will have much in common with any outdoor scene. It is a fine ribbed knit, and has a Grey Brushed Wool Sailor Collar and Cuffs and round Grey balls on the ends of the girdle, from which are suspended a fringe of Green Wool. There are two pockets, of course. Price $12.00.

Very dainty is a Lavender Pull-over with a flared frill, combined with an equal amount of White. The flat round collar is on the same order, and the flared cuffs are the same and are narrowed by means of a cord and tassel. The price is $12.00.

A jaunty little Polo Coat of Polo Cloth. It is such a short skirted little affair that it is ideal for many utility purposes, and especially motoring. Its large sailor collar can be comfortably fastened around the neck if the wind is too chillsome. It is deep Blue in colour, but has a Green cast. Grouped rows of Black Silk Stitching and Grey Smoked Pearl Buttons are the principal trimmings, and the panel back with long rows of self-covered buttons add to its attractiveness. The shoulders are lined with a Floral Silk. Price $55.00.

Some of the Most Beautiful Floor Lamps We Have Ever Been Privileged to Display Can Be Seen in Our Lounge Room

They arrived recently and we are delighted with them. The stems are shapely and the shades are artistically arranged of silk, in beautiful blendings that result in a soft subdued light filtering through. We invite your inspection.

One very handsome model with an umbrella style shade of Silk can be had in either Copenhagen Blue or Rose. There are twelve round scallops, from which is suspended a deep fringe. There is also a pretty Gimp binding outlining the scallops. The shapely mahogany birch stem is fitted with two lights. Price $30.00.

An octagon panelled effect is always handsome, and this one is particularly so because of figured inserts that fill the 2½ inch panels. A deep Rose fringe is used for a finish. You can have Rose lined with Blue or Blue lined with Rose. The stem is mahogany birch. Price $43.50.

The shape of this deep Blue Shade resembles a mushroom, and the six-inch band that runs in a scroll effect causes every other panel to be slightly smaller. These panels are outlined with Gold Gimp, and filled with pleated Silk, and rosetted in the centre. The Blue is lined with Rose, and when lighted the result is a soft delicate glow. It is mounted on a birch mahogany stem, fitted with two lights. Price $46.50.

The aristocrat of the assortment is Rose Silk veiled with Navy Blue Georgette, and the extremely long fringe is Blue mingled with Rose—an equal quantity of each. It has a beautiful subdued effect when lighted, and takes on a Mulberry appearance. The Shade is 24 inches in diameter, and has no less than ten panels that are seven inches square. These panels are pleated with Georgette and rosetted in the centre. It is mounted on a graceful birch mahogany stem. The price is $87.50.

The same can be had in Old Gold lined with Yellow and veiled with Mulberry Georgette. It is purely a matter of taste which is the prettier.

TWO PETERBORO DIOCESE YOUNG MEN WERE ORDAINED PRIESTS

IMPRESSIVE INVESTMENT CEREMONIES AT ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL ON SUNDAY—BISHOP SCOLLARD ADMINISTERED SACRAMENT OF HOLY ORDERS TO REV. K. A. CORKERY AN REV. P. J. COLLINS.

LARGE CONGREGATION PRESENT

Kevin A. Corkery of this city and Joseph P. Collins of Otonabee township were ordained in the Catholic priesthood at St. Peter's Cathedral on Sunday morning by His Lordship Bishop Scollard of Sault Ste. Marie who officiated in the absence of Bishop O'Brien. The ceremony was witnessed by a large congregation including the candidates' relatives and friends for whom front seats in the nave of the church were reserved.

Bishop Scollard was assisted in the ordination mass by Rev. J. J. O'Brien as deacon, Rev. Father Cantillon as subdeacon and Rev. P. J. McGuire assistant priest.

Father Collins was attended by Rev. M. J. McGuire pastor of St. Martin's church, Douro of which Father Collins and his family have been members, and Father Corkery was attended by Father Costello. Rev. J. V. McAuley of Ennismore, was master of ceremonies, and Monsignor Casey of Lindsay and Rev. Father Phelan, rector o fthe Cathedral also participated in the solemnities.

Father Corkery is the third son of Mr. and Mrs. John Corkery of this city. He was born here and received his primary education in the Separate Schools and Collegiate Institute afterwards attending St. Michael's college, Toronto and St. Augustine's seminary. Father Collins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Collins who lives near Indian River in Otonabee He is also a graduate of St. Michael's College and St. Augustine's seminary. After reading the announcements for the week preceding the sermon by Rev. Father Cline of Toronto Father Phelan congratulated both young men on their elevation to the office and dignity of the priesthood and referring especially to Father Corkery stated that it was a pleasure to know that the Cathedral parish had given another son to the church.

The Ceremony

The mass proceeded to the Tract when the two candidates were called before the Bishop, who was seated in front of the altar. He exhorted them to preserve chastity unstained and to lead holy lives "Let your doctrine be as spiritual medicine for the people of God and let the order of your lives be the joy of the church of Christ, that you may build up, as well by example as by precept, the house of God, which is His family; so that neither we who ordain you, nor you who are ordained, may incur the wrath of the Most High but rather deserved to be remunerated by Him, which may He grant by His holy grace."

Following the imposition of hands and the recital of the Litany of the Saints and other prayers, the candidates were individually invested with the stole and folded chasuble, the Bishop saying. "Receive thou the yoke of the Lord, for His yoke is sweet and His burden light"; "Receive, the sacredotal vestment by which charity is understood, for God is powerful to increase in thee charity and every perfect work."

During thesinging of "Veni Creator Spiritus," the Bishop annointed with Holy Oil the hands of each candidate, saying: "Deign to consecrate and sanctify, O Lord, these hands through this unction and our benediction, that whatever these hands bless shall be blessed, and whatever they consecrate shall be consecrated and sanctified in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ." They were then presented by the Bishop with a chalice containing wine and water, and patena with a host, while the Bishop recited, "Receive the power to offer sacrifice to God; to celebrate mass as well for the living as for the dead in the name of the Lord." When the ordained had received communion they made a profession of faith by reciting the Creed, and as they knelt before the Bishop he placed his hands on the head of each sayinug, "Receive ye the Holy Ghost, whose sins you shall forgive they are forgiven them, and whose sins you shall retain they are retained." The chasubles were then unfolded and the investiture was complete. The new priests promised reverence and obedience to the Bishop, who gave them the kiss of peace, saying, "The peace of the Lord be with you forever," and afterwards pronounced over them the following benediction, "May the blessing of God, the omnipotent Father of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, descend upon you, that you may be blessed in the order of the Priesthood, and that you may offer pleasing sacrifices for the sins and offences of the people of the omnipotent God, to whom be honour and glory for ever and ever."

The Sermons.

Rev. Father Cline pastor of the church of the Holy Name preached the ordination sermon from the text St. John 15:16 "You have not chosen me; but I have chosen you, and have appointed you, that you should go, and should bring forth fruit; and your fruit should remain; that whatsoever you shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it to you."

"We are here to share in this great spiritual occasion and to add our prayers to those of the Bishop in laying hands on them that they may be worthy of the vocation to which they have been called, that they may be worthy champions of the cause of Christ, that they may bring forth fruit and that that fruit may remain.

"I do not like to withhold from these young men the thought that theirs is a hazardous vocation", Father Cline continued. "Their responsibilities are many. In the first place a priest must take his part in the world and yet must never be of it. He must go down into life but he must retain a reserve power to pray alone and be the companion of his own thoughts. The ministry brings him into the closest possible contacts, but he must not remain long with the crowd. The priest who is too much a layman becomes shopworn. He needs to be alone to get poise and balance."

A Man of Prayer.

"A priest must always be a man of prayer," said Father Cline. His efforts would be shallow and weak, and his work would fail unless he toned himself up by intimate talks with Christ whose ambassador he was Christ was a specialist at prayer. His apostles were charmed by the beauty of his countenance when he prayed. They tried to catch the secret. When they asked him, "Will you teach us how to pray," he gave them and us the Our Father, the Lord's prayer.

The priest was also a minister of the sacraments. When he poured water on the child's head in baptism the child was born again as really as in its physical birth. So with the sacrament of penance It had been attacked many times Father Cline remarked "Why does the priest take it upon himself to forgive sins", some people ask.

"You have the answer this morning. These two young men get the power from the Bishop. Jesus Christ the high priest gave His power to the apostles not to be locked up but to be exercised "Whose sins you shall forgive they are forgiven them", were Christ's words."

The priesthood was no place for weaklings, Father Cline remarked. It required men of courage and stout hearts. It demanded sacrifices. Christ Himself never took count of his sacrifices. He bade the son of Zebedee leave their fishing tackle to follow Him. That is why priests do not marry. They have to throw their whole life into the work of Christ. The Lord says "No man putting his his hand to the plough, and looking back, is worthy of the Kingdom of Heaven." That means he must throw his all into his work having once begun. He must preach the gospel and trust to the dignity of the gospel and the greatness of the cause. He must not live for himself or for his relatives, but should put his whole life at the disposal of Christ. This doesn't mean that there are two standards of morality, one for the priest and one for the layman. There is one standard for all—the ten commandments. The young man who asked Christ how he could gain everlasting life was told to keep the commandments. This young man wished to obtain honours in the spiritual life. To be perfect he was told that he must sell all and give to the poor."

The parents of the young priests, Father Cline said, did not think of them as entering a profession or of preparing for a remunerative position but they did think that they were bringing them up to Christ. Early in their wedded lives they heard those words, "Suffer children to come to me and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of God".

Father Cline said it was a great consolation to parents to have a son in the priesthood. Many poor homes that live close to God gave offerings to the convent or priesthood while too often wealthy homes provide never a son or daughter. The reason was chiefly because the atmosphere of the street and the ideas of the world dominated such homes and there wasn't much room for God.

"I hope these young priests will be worthy of their vocation. As with matrimony, the priesthood one is free to enter but he is not free to leave. I hope that having put their hands to the plough they will produce a big work until the knell of parting day."

To-night's Game.

G. W. V. A. vs. C. G. E.—Riverside Park 6.15 p.m

The Canadian Woollens sprung the biggest surprise of the ball season in the second game of the double header in the City League series at Riverside Park on Saturday when they came from behind in the dying stages of the battle and scoring five runs in the last innings beat the Canadian General outfit by 9 runs to 8. The C. G.E. crew regarded the playing of the game as a mere formality, and with the score 5 to 0 in their favour at their end of the fifth, it looked as if their confidence was justified. The Woollens bagged one in their half as a taste of what was coming. And in the sixth the storm broke. Before the Electricians knew they were in a ball game they found themselves mixed up with a veritable shower of base hits, clean, solid, ringing drives that chased three runs over the plate with one out and caused the exit of Bun Frost, who had been dispensing the curves for Manager Rahmel's crew up to that stage. Lornie Rose was sent to the rescue and he stopped the hitting and run getting with a jolt—for that innings.

When the C.G.E. came back with three runs in the last innings, giving them an 8 to 4 lead there wasn't a fan in the crowd who conceded the Woollens a chance. But they did the trick and by a combination of timely hitting and throws to the plate that went wild, five runs were chased in, winning the battle for the Mulhall cohorts.

The result of the game shows you can never tell anything about baseball. The Woollens, beaten 23 to 1 the previous Saturday, were expected to prove easy picking for the Canadian General, but instead they hit like a lot of Babe Ruths, mussing the offerings of Frost and Rose for fourteen perfectly good hits.

Manager Mulhall introduced a new twirler in Gilchrist, a husky right-handed youngster with a fine turn of speed, who delivered a nice brand of pitching. He had good control, not issuing a single pass, while the Electricians had some trouble in solving his delivery. The Woollen's fielding, too, was snappier than usual, Lawrence making a couple of nice catches of foul flies, while Heenan tore off a nice running catch and nipped a runner at third with a perfect throw.

In the third Cherrett beat out a roller to Mulhall, went to second when Gilchrist's throw hit him, and to third on a single by Ross. He was out trying to steal home. Ross scored when, after making a great catch of Ray Rose's foul fly, Lawrence tossed the ball into the diamond, thinking the side was out.

In the fourth Lornie Rose was safe when Legros lost a throw from Mulhall, went to second on a wild pitch and to third on McCarney's sacrifice, scoring while Mulhall was tossing Helson out.

The score was 5 to 0 against them when the Woollens outfit started their run getting in the fifth. Lawrence opened with a single over second and Bergoine singled to right. When Mulhall drove a safe one to centre, Lawrence came home with the first counter for the ultimate winners.

They came right back in the sixth. Russell started things with a double to right, which Helson misjudged. Smith grounded out to Collins, Russell going to third. Gilchrist came through with a single to centre, scoring Russell, and Lawrence promptly doubled over McCarney's head. Chris. Bergoine rose to the occasion with a slashing single down the right field foul line, scoring Gilchrist and Lawrence and leaving the score 5 to 4. That was enough for Frost and he was sent to left field, Jackson going to third and Lornie Rose to the rubber. Cherrett disposed of Mulhall on a grounder to short and the relief pitcher fanned Heenan for the third put.

The Canadian General crew, after being groggy in the sixth, rallied in the seventh and bagged three runs. Cherrett, first up, singled to centre. Ross bunted for a sacrifice, but Gilchrist made a bad toss to first and the runner reached second, Cherrett pulled up at third. Ray Rose whaled a long fly to left which Shaw missed and Cherrett and Ross scored, the batter reaching second. Jackson struck out, but Lornie Rose singled to centre, scoring hs brother. McCarney hoisted a fly to Mulhall, which was dropped after a one-handed attempt. Rose was forced at second on the play. Connors, batting for Helson, was safe on Bergoine's low throw, but Frost ended the innings with a fly to Legros.

With the score 8 to 4 against them there did not look to be a chance for the Woollens, but baseball is a queer old game. Shaw opened the fun by shooting a single over third. Legros was easy on a fly to Ray Rose, but Russell doubled to left, sending Shaw to third. Smith was hit, filling the bases. Gilchrist helped to win his own game by a clean single to centre, Shaw and Russell scoring, and when McCarney's throw bounced over Ross's head, Smith also counted. Lawrence singled to right, scoring Gilchrist, and Connors' wide throw to the plate, which struck Manager Mulhall of the Woollens as he was runningout to speak to the umpire, let Lawrence go to third. The score was tied, and with one out it was up to Bergoine. He boomed a sacrifice fly to centre and Lawrence came home with the winning run, ending the most exciting battle of the year.

The First Game.

Harrison's sterling pitching for the Thistles never left any doubt as to the result of the first game. The big twirler had the Vets at his mercy all the way and Manager Louis Yeotes' Thistles had little difficulty in winning their third straight victory—the score on Saturday being 10 to 1. Harrison's smoke was too much for the G.W.V.A. gang and ten of them fanned, while four singles was the total of their club swinging, the first hit coming with two out in the fourth. Two singles and an error in the sixth gave the losers their only counter.

Alan Wade was on the rubber for the Vets, and the game he pitched deserved a much closer score. He mixed a slow curve with a good fast one and gave the Thistles a lot of trouble, more than the box score shows, for some of their hits were very scratchy and others were made after opportunities to retire the side had been given. Wade's support was very loose, and the slow fielding of the Vets was poor encouragement for their twirler.

The Thistles started the scoring in the first when Adams drew a pass and Lowe was safe on Foley's error. After Murray had fanned Swanston bunted safely, scoring Adams. Harrison and Shaughnessy fanned to end the innings.

They got three in the second after the side should have been retired. With one out Coursey was safe on Wade's error. Kirn fanned, but Adams reached first on Foley's error. Lowe beat out a hit to short, Murray singled past third and Foley gummed up Swanston's roller, the net result being three counters. Harrison missed three for the third out.

The winners went scoreless in the third, but added a brace more in the fourth. There were two out when Murray was hit and Swanston singled through short. Harrison brought them home with a double to left centre.

Singles by Holyman and Coursey and errors by Anderson, Corrin and Wade gave the Thistles two more in the fifth, and they ran their string up to ten in the sixth session. Swanston was safe on Anderson's fumble and Harrison slammed one through short. Shaughnessy singled to left Holyman's safety to right scored Swanston and Harrison. Coursey fouled out to Dugan. Kirn forced Shaughnessy at third and Adams flied out to Rose.

The Vets did not get a man on the sacks until the third, when Campbell was safe on Shaughnessy's fumble. He died stealing a moment after, Swanston to Shaughnessy, and the next two were easy.

They had a chance in the fifth when, with one down, Rose singled to left. Campbell hit to Harrison and everybody was safe when Holyman lost the throw to second. When Swanston threw down to second to nip Campbell, Rose tried to score, but Holyman's perfect peg to Swanston got the runner at the plate.

The only Veteran run was sent over in the sixth. Dugan led off with a single to left and went to second when Harrison made a low throw to Kirn. Murphy and Morse fanned, but Corrin came through with a slashing single, scoring Dugan. Wade fanned for the third out.

This Service Increases Tire Mileage

The largest single group of tire users in the world agree that the first step on the way to maximum tire mileage is a set of Goodyear Tires.

A large proportion of these users also realize that even Goodyear Tires will more surely deliver greater mileage when they are cared for.

Our agreement with this is evident in our sincere attempt, through Goodyear Service Stations and Goodyear Tire Savers, to further tire mileage in every possible way.

Among other things, we have produced Goodyear Tire Putty—the cure for small tread cuts, the prevention of tread separation and tire decay.

Not even the toughness of the Goodyear All-Weather Tread can protect tires from all tread cuts. Scraps of metal, glass, switch-points will cut the toughest tread when struck squarely.

The Goodyear Service Station Dealer who supplies and uses Goodyear Tire Putty, will do other things for you, and will tell you of things you should do yourself to increase your tire mileage.

We will be glad to send you free our Tire Conservation Course if you will write us at Toronto.

A CITY LEAGUE GAME WILL BE PLAYED AT RIVERSIDE TO-NIGHT

The unexpected defeat of the Canadian General Electric team by the Canadian Woollens in the City Ball League on Saturday has aroused new interest in the League and there will undoubtedly be a big crowd at Riverside Park this evening when the first twilight game will be played with the C.G.E. teams and the War Veterans as the opposing teams. Both lost on Saturday, and as neither can afford to drop another game they are out for blood to-night with their strongest line-ups in action. Rose will likely do the twirling for the C. G.E., while the Vets' choice has not been announced. The game is called for 6.15 o'clock sharp.

The first City League official averages will be published in the Examiner next Saturday, giving the batting records of all the City Leaguers who have performed in at least two games.

You don't have to go further than the pitching records to see why Louis Yeotes' Thistles are two games in front in the City League race. In the three games played so far, the Thistles pitchers, Harrison, Kirn and Scates, the latter pitching only two innings, have allowed their opponents only fourteen hits and four runs, and have given only three bases on balls, while they have struck out 28 men. You can't beat that brand of twirling.

THE WAR VETERANS WHACKED THE CALEDONIANS ON SATURDAY

CALEYS' DERANGED TEAM LOST—WILTSHAW KICKED THROUGH HIS OWN GOALS—VETS ADDED TWO MORE—HALF-TIME, VETS 3, CALDONIANS 0—JAS. SHAW SCORED FOR THE SCOTSMEN—HANNAH USELESS—VETS WIN OUT 3 TO 1.

The return Football League fixture between the Caledonians and the Great War Veterans attracted a good attendance of spectators to witness the game on Saturday last at the Exhibition grounds. The Caledonians introduced John Shaw at outside right and at the last minute Alex. McArthur had to fill up the team, owing to the non-appearance of Bob Willshaw and Matt. Shaw. After last Thursday night's game the Vets rearranged the attack, that proved a success. The weather was ideal, although a little bit to the hot side. The teams:

G.W.V.A. — C. Griffine, goal; H. Gamble and A. Bishop, backs; A. Burrows, P. D. Ryan and J. Peel, halfbacks; S. Curtiss, J. Gant, H. Norman, N. Jones and J. Sharman, forwards.

Caledonians—R. Brunton, goal; J. Willshaw and S. McMillan and C. Fenner and H. Frost halfbacks; John Shaw, A. McArthur, Jas. Shaw, Ed. Hardie and R. McDowall, forwards.

Referee—Mr. F. Keller.

With the aid of the wind, the Vets raided Brunton's goal, calling upon McMillan to clear, but the Caleys soon were dangerous, Hardie having a drive which was only a few inches over the bar. Hannah confined the play to the Vets' goal, Gamble punting across to Norman. Willshaw missed the ball and the Vets' centre carried it into the goal. Brunton came out to meet the incoming player. Norman let drive past the far upright. Play was transferred to midfield for a little while. A brisk raid by the Vets and a grand shot by Sharman, saw Brunton in great difficulty and J. Willshaw conceding a corner. The resulting kick went down the field to Jas. Shaw, who passed out to Hannah, Gamble kicking to touch to save his goal. From the throw-in the ball went to McDowall, and with plenty of time to steady himself missed an opportunity to score.

Caleys' Forwards Slow.

On three raids the Caledonian forwards were dilatory in front of goal. McDowall on the left beat Gamble on the run, centred the ball that went to John Shaw, who returned it to Jas. Shaw, then Ed Hardie and to the surprise of themselves witnessed Gamble clear easily. Sharman accepted the pass, outwitted Willshaw, and if it had not been for Frost kicking to touch the Vets' left-winger would have had an open goal. The throw-in travelled to the Vets' right-winger who shot past. On an individual effort on the left, Hannah lashed the ball across the field with nobody there to accept it. Ryan cleared, played continued with Jones and Sharman, McMillan kicked the ball against the latter to go past the touch.

Willshaw Scored Against His Own Side.

A free kick for a foul and an offside interrupted play for a time, then Curtiss run the ball down into the corner, shot the ball across where J. Willshaw tried to stop the ball with his left foot that bounced through for the Vets' first goal. A few minutes afterward Hannah on the right tore down the wing and just as he was parting with the ball he was noticed to be in great difficulty, allowing the Vets a goal-kick. He went behind touch for five minutes, then tried to play on, but he was practically useless for the rest of the game. The whole forward line of the Vets played nice combination and during the attack Curtiss hit the ball with his hand. The Caleys claimed a foul but the refree paid no attention, play continued.

Vets Added Another.

Just five minutes afterwards, Jones and Sharman confined play to the Caleys' goal. Jones sliped the ball to the left winger and putting off no time tested Brunton with a fast drive, went back into play to Sharman, who lifted the ball in the goal mouth, where it bounced on a hill in front of goal and went through between the goal-keeper's two arms for number two. Play ran from end to end with the Caleys doing everything but score, while Gamble and Bishop were playing their best game of the season. Offside against Sharman, the ball struck Ryan on the hand a few minutes later for a foul.

Vets. Three Goals Ahead.

McMillan punted into goal, Jas. Shaw and Ed. Hardie got into one another's way. At any rate, Jas. Shaw tested Griffine with a long drive. After the Vets' gaol-keeper had repelled another attack, Curtiss accepted a nice pass on the line from Burrows. The Vets' forwards were up to meet the cross from the right-winger and they all met in a heap and beat Brunton for the third time.

Caledonians Pressed.

Following a throw-in, McDowall carried the ball too far into the corner to go past. A corner-kick was taken by the Caleys' left wing, went to Jas. Shaw who beat the two backs and finished by shooting into Griffine's hands. The Vets' goal-keeper had to come out of his goal to stop the Caleys' centre forward on the return play, then offside against J. Shaw cleared the situation. It was now a battle between the Vets' defence and Caleys' forwards. Just as half time arrived McDowall tested Griffine. Half time—Vets 3, Caledonians 0.

Half Time.

On resuming Bishop cleared to John Shaw. The Caleys pressed all the time for just ten minutes, and during the attack Gamble gave a corner. John Shaw placed a beauty into goal with the Caleys' forwards clamoring for the ball, Burrows cleared. The only thing the Caley forwards could get were two corner kicks that were unproductive. Ryan carried the ball to Sharman, who forced a corner off Willshaw—it was fruitless.

Jas. Shaw Scored.

Then McDowall went romping along the wing, and crossed finely to Jas. Shaw and Alex. McArthur, who in turn passed it between one another until Jas. Shaw put the finish on it by a swift shot past Griffine. At the other end Peel put past. A foul against Ryan about 20 yards out looked dangerous for the Vets. Just as the whistle blew Ryan jumped in against the ball as Frost tried for goal, the Caleys claiming an infringement play continued, McMillan shot across to Alex. McArthur who forced a corner off Bishop. He placed the ball 10 yards out, where Hannah missed the upright with a low ground shot. Another corner to Caleys was put past by McDowall. Just afterwards Norman carried the ball between the two defence men, and running on was stopped in the nickof time by Brunton.

Hardie Injured.

On mid-field play, Hardie was slightly injured and retired for next five minutes to recover. A foul was awarded the Scotsmen for Peel's illegitimate charge. McMillan shot across the goal to go past. A little while later Brunton saved in darng style from Norman and Jones. With fully 30 minutes gone, Curtiss rounded Fenner and from close range shot, Brunton fisted the ball into play that went to Ryan, who let drive for goal. It was just good fortune that saved the goal as Jas. Shaw jumped up to divert the ball to a corner, with Brunton at the other end of the goal.

Questionable Corner Kick.

Norman shot over the bar from the corner-kick taken by Sharman and on return play the left winger landed a beauty in goal, but the referee awarded a goal-kick because the ball went over the touch in the air and dropped into play. Nothing of interest transpired after this and the game ended with the Vets getting the two points. Vets 3, Caledonians 1.

". . . . It brings home the spirit that won the war, the spirit that faced hardships with devotion and with humour, quite free from stagey heroics."—Daily Mail and Empire, Toronto.

THE P.B.I. WON THE WAR

THE MACHINE GUNNERS STILL KEEP CLIMBING IN THE FOOTBALL LEAGUE

AN EVEN FIRST-HALF—FRAZER OPENED THE SCORING—HALF-TIME, GUNNERS 1, WOOLENS 0—E. BELL SCORES A BEAUTIFUL GOAL—FRAZER ADDED 2 MORE—GUNNERS 4, CANADIAN WOOLENS 0.

Now that half the Football Schedule has been played the teams are now filling in return games. The Canadian Woollens were the guests of the Machine Gunners at Nicholls Oval on Saturday. Owing to the suspension of J. Crowe the Gunners played Dodds in his place at right back Prompt to time Referee McKinley got the game started.

The Teams.

Machine Gunners.—W. Flowers, goal; A. Dodds and R. H. Perry, backs; N. Metcalfe, R. G. McLeish and Hilliard Darling half backs; Wm. Darling, R. Payne, L. Frazer, E. Bell and Harold Darling, forwards.

Canadian Woollens:—Sam Calladine, goal, J. Cridland and J. Hillman backs, A. Barton, H. Jackson and A. Styles half backs; W. Baldwin, A. Read, C. Thorpe, G. Hodson and C. Clarke forwards.

Play started with a raid on Calladine's goal where Cridland cleared. Opportunities to serve went abegging through the over-eagerness of both teams trying to get the first goal. A nice play on the Gunner's right brought them a corner-kick off J. Hillman. From the resulting kick taken by Metcalfe the ball travelled straight to Frazer's head, who had no difficulty in putting the Gunners in the lead. The Woollen tried hard to equalize but they were too slow in shooting that left the Gunners defence an easy clearance. Just before half-time the play run from end to end with both sides kicking to touch to save their goals

Half-Time.

On the exchange of goals the Canadian Woollens forced the play on the Gunners defence and Referee McKinley calling the inside-right up for offside that spoiled nice piece of combination. The Gunners added a second goal through the efforts of E. Bell who drew out the defence and with a hard shot gave Calladine no chance whatever to clear. Play was confined to midfield for a little while until on a nice pass from W. Darling to Payne, who gave the Woollens custodian a hot one to hold. Calladine saved the shot but he made a poor clearance and Frazer lying close in caught the rebound to put his side three goals ahead. Not long afterwards the Gunners centre forward caught the Woollens custodians on same play thereby adding the fourth goal. The game was of a one sided nature with Gunners having the advantage but if it had not been for the Woollens two defence men the score might have been larger. Machine Gunners 4, Canadian Woollens 0.

The Vets had a new attack that produced nice combination, although the newcomer in Gant was pretty much at sea. Curtiss was the outstanding forward, with Norman not far behind.

The first goal for the Vets was scored by J. Willshaw, the Caledonian right back, kicking the ball through his own goal in an attempt to clear the shot from Harry Norman.

A foul was demanded by the Caledonians for the ball striking Curtiss on the hand, but the referee paid no attention to the appeal. Curtiss and Frost laughed at it being allowed to go.

For "kidding" and "rootin'" you have got to hand it to Mr. Bald—, who occupied a very conspicuous place on Saturday up on the band stand. He would shout occasionally, "good old Sunderland," forgetting he was in Canada.

$300.00 FOR REMOVING SURPLUS FAT

Actress Estimates Damage at $15,000.

NEW YORK, May 28. — Gladys Bergman, an actress, recently paid $300 to Dr. Augustus W. Pratt of New York, to have some surplus fat removed from her chin and to lose some of the facial wrinkles. She took legal action against the doctor because she alleges an abscess formed and she suffered injuries which have kept her from the footlights.

She thinks 15,000 a fair compensation for the damage she claims was caused to her face.

BANQUET WAS A BIG SUCCESS

LAKEFIELD A.Y.P.A. PARTICIPATED IN FUNCTION.

LAKEFIELD, May 29.—Between thirty-five and forty were present at the banquet given by the A.Y.P.A. last evening. This was the first banquet given by the society since 1916 and it was a very pleasant function. The decorating committee had made the Sunday school room very pretty with flags, pennants and floral decorations. The table committee worked out the A.Y.P.A. color scheme of blue and white and gold very effectively and with the appetizing viands provided by the refreshment committee, produced a tempting meal. Several guests were present, including the church wardens, Magistrate Langley and Mr. S. White, and their wives.

When the rector had said grace, a verse of 'O Canada' was sung, after which the members and guests partook of supper. The meal was interspersed with songs, such as "Katy," 'Where do we go from here boys,' and 'Annie Laurie,' which was heartily sung. When the meal was finished Dr. Archbold called on Mr. Trude Leggott to propose the toast to Our King and Country, which he did in a neat speech. The National Anthem and 'The Maple Leaf' were sung, after which Miss Wood replied. Both speakers were heartily applauded.

The next toast was to "Our Returned Men," which was proposed by the Rector, who asked for a silent toast to the fallen members of the parish, as well as the toast to the returned men. He made a strong appeal for justice for the men who fought our battles. Mr. C. Stenner, a member of the original Princess Pats, replied. He begged for patience with the returned men, who were manfully struggling to get their bearings after their army life, where their individual life was submerged in the collective life of their unit. He spoke of the "grousing" of the soldier and ex-soldier and made a good point when he asked if the soldiers had not a right to a voice in ruling the country they fought for. (Applause.) Mr. Stenner is a veteran of two wars, the Boer war and the Great War. The song "The Rose of No Man's Land" was sung.

Mrs. Trude Waldon proposed the toast to our branch of the A.Y.P.A. and Miss M. Hampton replied. Both these ladies are officers of the branch with a record which they should be very proud of, and both speeches were a modest tribute to the society to which thew have given both love and loyalty. "Fight the Good Fight" was sung very heartily.

The toast to the officers, past, present and future, was proposed by Miss Rhoda Alford in a brief but clever speech. Miss Graham replied with a few facts about the officers, past and present. Mrs. Waldon has been a strong head of the society for five years, and Miss Hilliard has been a faithful vice-president also for five years, while Miss Hampton has acted in the capacity of treasurer very efficiently for five years. Mr. Stenner is a comparative newcomer among the officers, but he has made a name for himself which foreshadows a long term in the ranks of the officers. The old favorite, "Tenting To-night," was sung after this toast.

Miss Hilliard in a witty little poem, proposed the toast to the parish, which was responded to by Magistrate Langley in a stirring speech. The hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers" followed this toast.

Mr. Thomas Simpson made the hit of the evening in his speech proposing the health of the ladies. Mr. Simpson has become a famous orator in the society on this subject. Mr. Trude Leggott made a graceful reply.

The toast to the visitors was proposed by Dr. Archbold and replied to by Mr. Frank Dell (late of the Royal Navy) and Mr. Sam Dunk (late of the 93rd Battalion.)

Mr. Frank Graystock spoke a few words of appreciation to the society for their cordial treatment of him when a stranger in their midst.

The departing member was tendered a toast by Dr. Archbold, who referred to the terrible gap that Miss Hillard's departure would leave in the ranks. Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard also have been outstanding figures in the parish and will be missed very much. Miss Hilliard replied in her graceful manner, and "Auld Lang Syne" was sung.

Votes of thanks to the committees who made the affair such a success were given. The refreshment committee were: Mrs. T. Waldon, Miss Ogilvie and Chappell and Mr. T. Leggott. Miss Hamilton and Mrs. Stenner were in charge of the table appointments, Misses Smith and Rhoda Alford and Mr. Frank Graystock were responsible for the decorations which added so much to the success. Mrs. Archbold and Miss Wood were the invitation committee, and Dr. Archbold, Mr. Stenner and Miss Graham the toast committee.

A picnic will be held in the near future.

Special reference was made to the flag pole which had been erected during the week and from which the A.Y.P.A. flag flew proudly. Messrs. Stenner, Leggott, Simpson and Alford worked very faithfully in this matter and were congratulated on the success of their endeavour.

12000 Black Acres Where Forests Stood

NORTH ONTARIO, TOO

(Canadian Press.)

HALIFAX, N.S., June 1.— Fires are still raging in Halifax county, particularly in the vicinity of Dartmouth, but they are under control and the situation in Hants county where the village of Selma was threatened, is now reported to be less alarming The village of River Hebert, in Cumberland county, is still in great danger and its eight hundred odd inhabitants are prepared to fight the flames when the reach the limits of the village. Word received from the village this morning was to the effect that the fire had started to burn up again and was gradually working its way to the village.

12,000 Acres a Charred Desert.

HALIFAX, May 31.— The forest fires in Cumberland county raged all day, and were still burning to-night. Twelve thousand acres have been burned, three miles destroyed and the property loss so far is half a million dollars.

River Hebert, with its population of 1,000 people; Two Rivers, Shulee, San River and Maccan, and all in imminent danger to-night of the flames from the forest holocaust that has endangered this particular section of Cumberland county. Twelve thousand acres of land, the major portion covered with standing timber, has been converted into a desert of charred and scorched timber. The sea of green that covered the foothills of the Cobequidis in this district is to-day covered with smoking debris and ashes.

The fire is now raging up through the Maclean Woods and is only about three miles distant from the settlement on the main line of the railroad. At the same time it is fighting back against the wind toward the short line.

Relief Measures.

ST. JOHN, N.B., May 1.—The provincial Red Cross executive met here to-day in emergency session to arrange relief for the St. Quentin fire sufferers. Premier Foster said that a committee had already been formed in Campbellton, and on behalf of the government he had wired $2,000 to be used to relieve the conditions in the village, while it it was reported, 1500 people were made homeless. A committee was formed to send at once blankets and other such supplies which are in the Red Cross stores, with a further assurance of financial assistance pending a report to the situation.

North Ontario Fires.

COBALT, May 31.— Forest fires are raging in many parts of Timiskaming, according to reports here tonight. The sawmill, west of Hillview, owned by John McChesney, has been destroyed, together with the winter's cut of logs, and other mills are believed to have been burned. Conditions are particularly bad in Timmins, Kelso, Bourkes, Boston Creek and Elk Lake branch of the railway districts and a heavy pall of smoke hangs over the whole country. There is no sign of the badly-needed rain and the fires are being fanned by a steady breeze.

STRICKEN SERBIA

Kingdom of Serbia has Been Bathed in blood—Estimates Place Loss of Population at 20 Per Cent.

The Kingdom of Serbia, now known as the Kingdom of the Serbians, Croatians, and Slovenes, was at war from 1912 until the signing of the armistice in 1919 No less than 369,818 Serbian soldiers lost their lives during that time. Among the civilian population 1,500,000 persons lost their lives at the hands of the enemy, by the ravages of infectious diseases, or as a result of exposure and starvation.

From statistics recently compiled it is shown that there are 500,000 war orphans in Jugo-Slav territory, and that of this number more than 100,000 are without father and mother. The worst devastation has taken place in the old Kingdom of Serbia, and it is there that the largest number of orphans are found.

During the occupation of the country by the Austrians, Hungarians, Germans and Bulgars the state of the children in Bosnia Hercegovina, Dalmatia, and Montenegro, was indescribably horrible. In these countries wide areas were devasted and plundered, and the result was a state of famine. Child life was decimated by tuberculosis and other diseases

The mortality rate among children in certain districts became five times greater then in the period before the war. In pre-war times the mortality rate among children in their first year was from 15 to 18 per cent.

WILL THERE BE AN ALDERMANIC JAZZ?

Mayor Proposes That Council Attend Community Dances.

At last night's meeting of the Board of Works, the request of the C. G. E. machinists for the use of the pavement on Hunter Street between ueen and Water Streets, for a community dance on Wednesday next was granted. It appears that invitations have been received by the Mayor and City Fathers to attend the dance, and also that of the I.O.D.E., and at the meeting last night the Mayor told the aldermen they should attend the dance and have a good time.

It was assumed that the Mayor would set the example, and Aldermanic Jazz may be a feature of the festivity. Someone said the Council learned the "Hunter Street Bridge" Hesitation last year.

50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR WEDDING

MR. AND MRS. ANDREW FAIRBAIRN WERE MARRIED AT SELWYN IN 1870.

To-day at the family residence at Lakefield, surrounded by their immediate family and a number of friends who dropped in to congratulate them upon the event, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fairbairn celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding.

The bride and groom of half a century ago were married in Selwyn on 1st June, 1870, the bride's maiden name being Sarah McKee. Since that date Mr. and Mrs. Fairbairn have lived at the Fairbairn homestead, where Mr. Fairbairn was born 77 years ago.

The members of the family included Mr. and Mrs. Fairbairn's children, Mrs. C. L. Bickell, of Toronto, Mrs. Hugh Kidd, of Lakefield, Mrs. John Hampton, of Peterborough, and Mr. William A. Fairbairn at home. Mr. Fairbairn's sister, Mrs. Wm. Falls, of Nestleton, and Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, Lakefield, and his brother, Mr. John Fairbairn, of Lakefield, and Mrs. Fairbairn's brother, Mr. George McKee, of Peterborough, and her sister, Mrs. Wm. Middleton.

Tea was served on the splendid lawns surrounding the house, and a very happy evening was spent by all present, the guests departing after wishing the bride and groom continued success and many years of happiness such as they have already spent.

CANTATA SUNG AT TRINITY CHURCH

"THE SAVIOUR OF MEN" PRESENTED BY THE CHOIR.

Those who attended Trinity Church on Sunday evening, had the pleasure of listening to a very fine choral service, when Arthur J. Jamounean's sacred cantata, entitled, "The Saviour of Men", was rendered by the choir in a very excellent manner.

A great deal could be said in reference to the very effective way in which th "Gospel in Song" was interpreted by the well-trained choir and which, judging from comments was much appreciated by the large congregation who assembled to listen to one of the finest song services ever given in the Church.

Special mention should be made of the excellent service rendered by Mrs Hooper and Mr. Hartshorn on the violin and the soloists, Mrs. Maurice Park, Mrs. Geo. King, Mr. Fred Hartshorn and Capt. Park, are worthy of the highest praise for the very effective way the various solos were rendered by them.

The quartette, Miss Thursa Given, Miss Corbett, Mr. Albert Lee and Mr. John Ridyard deserve praise also for the special parts so ably rendered.

Trinity Church is to be congratulated on having such an efficient choir under the talented leadership of Mr. Geo. King, the organist.

After listening to Sunday night's song service we may well look for great things from this choir and Peterboro music lovers should be glad of the opportunity afforded them of hearing high-class music in their home city.

OLD SPIRIT IN GERMANY

APPROACHING ELECTIONS BRING OUT STRONG NATIONAL FEELING—ANTI-REPUBLICAN ACTIVITIES.

PUBLIC NERVOUSNESS.

BERLIN, May 31. — All Germany is in a state of nervous apprehension. Within seven days of the general elections the air is full of rumours of an impending coup, or, rather a series of opposing coups. Nationalists and Communists acuse each other of plotting and every day brings its revelations.

To a certain extent these are only a matter of political tactics but at the same time it is impossible to ignore the accumulating evidence that teh situation is full of serious possibilities. So uneasy is public feeling that the government has felt itself compeleld to issue a long statement in which are reviewed all the reports in circulation, and to draw certain conclusons. These however are of such a vague character that they failed tntirely to restore public confidence.

"It is impossible to deny," says this communique, "that danger exists both from the Right and from the Left. Both dangers are serious but they are not acute and they can be overcome if faced boldly."

One factor of the situation is whether the government has power to enforce its will. The possibilities of a militarst coup are based on the exstence o fthe so called free corps of temporary volunteers, the Baltic troops and other formations, which, though nominally d mobilized, are wholly or partially still in being, either under new names in recognized forces as as armed individuals linked together by various secret organizations. The elements are present and willing if it is believed that the moment has arrived to seize power by force of arms, and the crux of the situation is that not even the government itself knowns how far the regular forces can be relied upon to oppose any such coup.

It is doubtful whether it is really able to do more than await events.

Helfferich Calls for Germanic Revival

An election meeting in Berlin addressed by Herr Helfferich, Finance Minister under the old regime, was the occasion of the most violent Nationalist and anti-republican demonstration that Germany has known since the recent revolution. Not only was the building where the meeting was held packed but enormous crowds assembled in the streets to cheer Helfferich.

Some gems from the Nationalist leader's speech, were:

"What we have most at heart is the revival of Germanic ideas. We must see the incorporation of these ideas in the old black and white flag. We swear to hoist those colors again. Go to the polling booths under the motto 'Deutschland ueber Alles in der Welt.'"

Helfferich's great audience joined in singin gthe old anthem, followng with cheers for the Hohenzollerns and cries of "Down with the German Republic."

Meantime the crowds outside created diversion in attacks on passing Jews, including some women, who had finally to be reseued by the military police. The anti-Semitic demonstration continued in the neighbouring streets until a late hour.

Of more political importance than the signs of a revived spirit of Prussianism was the fact that Helferich in the course of his speech hinted at a possible union between the Nationalist and the so called German People's Party. He suggested as a motto, "March apart, but strike together."

So that the one possible result of the elections would seem to be a return to power of the "two strong Nationalist parties."

$2,000 FOR LAKEFIELD COMMUNITY HALL

LAKEFIELD, June 1.—Mr. J. C. Strickland has received word that a grant of $2,000.00 has been given the Lakefield Community Hall by the Ontario Legislature. This will help to complete the building.

Tenders for the completion of the hall were opened on Monday evening, but as none of them can be accepted until after a vote of the people for the necessary funds, they are at present held in abeyance.

Board of Commerce Powers Unchanged

SOVIET INDUSTRY HAS HUGE DEFICIT

Official Organ Admits Twelve Million Debit.

LONDON, May 31.— The official organ of the Russian Bolshevik Government reports an estimated deficit for 1920 on the operations of nationalized industries of 23,756,700,000 rubles (a ruble is nominally 50 cents), according to a Berlin despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The expenditures include 6,650,,000,000 rubles spent on officials' salaries and on organization of the industries; 14,393,000,000 rubles lost owing to production cost exceeding sale prices, and 12,121,000,000 rubles spent on political measures which were found necessary to keep the workmen quiet. The political measures, the despatch says, consist chiefly in stationing soldiers and gendarmes in the more turbulent factories.

GRANTS TO PUBLIC LIBRARIES RAISED

LEGISLATURE'S NEW ACT EMPLOYS PER CAPITA TAX.

TORONTO, June 1.—The Legislature's new public libraries act is designed to give a big stimulus to the library movement in the rural districts and smaller places in Ontario and also to provide a more just and adequate support for the libraries of the province generally. The basis of the support of the libraries will hereafter be on a per capita basis instead of he old fraction of a mill rate. The whole act has been revised and brought into line with the newer developments of library work and it is the opinion of the minister, Hon. R. H. Grant, that no better libraries act can be found anywhere than that which is now in force in Ontario.

A New Principle.

The library rate in municipalities will hereafter be on an entirely new principle. In the past library boards in cities with a population of 100,000 or over were entitled to ask up to a quarter mill of taxation, while those in cities of under 100,000 population could ask up to half a mill. This was found unsatisfactory in many respects. The assessment in places having the same population varied as much as 100 per cent., while the variation between small and large places was as much as 600 per cent. Some libraries received fair support, others very poor support. In future the library rate will be on the basis of population, 50 cents per capita, and any city council by a majority vote may increase this to 75 cents per capita for special need. Thus, in a city of 40,000 population the public library board will be entitled to ask up to $20,000 as their share of the taxation.

Applies To All.

This will apply to every place in Ontario, from the small hamlet to the city of Toronto, but its greatest benefit will be in the smaller places, which in the past have been badly hampered in their work by niggardly support. The act is designed practically to give an impetus to the free library movement in the rural districts and in the small places where libraries are so much needed. It is provided that a school section may go on with a free pu library if it so desires, and it is anticipated that with the coming into effect of the act there will be a marked growth in the number of free libraries in the rural districts of Ontario. Grants paid to the libraries will be determined in future largely by regulation rather than, as in the past, by statute.

ATHENS STOPS SPEEDERS.

Greek Policemen Drop Nail Barriers in Front of Autos.

ATHENS, Greece, June 1.—Policemen of this city have an effective and rather unique method of curbing the speeding automobilists. Officers posted along the principal streets carry planks studded with long, sharp nails, and when they see a car approaching at a rate they believe is excessive, they drop the plank in front of the machine. If the car is speeding it cannot be stopped in time, and as a result its tires are punctured, but if the machine is proceeding at a reasonable pace it can be stopped before the plank is reached.

The Chief of Police finds the system is cheaper than maintaining a motor cycle squad, and has the additional advantage of making the capture of speeders comparatively easy.

INCOME TAX TOO LENIENT

CRERAR SAYS BUDGET THROWS BURDEN ON SHOULDERS LEAST ABLE TO BEAR IT—DISCUSSES FAIR TRADE.

FAVOURS BRITISH SYSTEM

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, May 31. — The budget debate is drawing to a close. A tacit agreement has been reached between the two sides of the House to terminate it to-morrow night if possible but the best laid plans of whips are sometimes apt to run astray.

To-day Hon. T. A. Crerar, one-time Minister of Agriculture in the Union Government, now leader of the National Progressives, was the principal speaker. To-morrow Hon. W. L. McKenzie King, leader of the opposition, will continue the debate.

Mr. Crerar's main criticism of the budget was that its whole tenor was to place the burden of taxation on the shoulders of the man least able to bear it. On the broad question of protection and free trade he declared that the Canadian Council of Agriculture did not stand for absolute free trade as so many persons seemed to think. It stood for placing on the free list such articles as the implements of production needed for the development of natural resources.

Favors Britain's Policy.

"Are you in favour of free trade in Canada," interjected H. H. Stevens of Vancouver.

"I will say this," Mr. Crerar replied, "that the fiscal policy obtaining in Great Britain would be a much better one for Canada than the policy we now have in operation here."

Crerar Scores Nicholson.

Referring to the charge that he was the chief supporter of the One Big Union idea in Canada, Mr. Crerar said that that movement was largely the product of unjust conditions in Canada, and that the member for Algoma (G. B. Nicholson) would be better occupied in working to remove those conditions than in aiming pointless criticism at a member of the House. Mr. Crerar denied acquaintance with Mrs. Rose Henderson, a Socialist speaker that he was accused of having sent to Timiskaming to influence the election there recently.

"It was pretty cheap of the member for Algoma to accuse me of that," said Mr. Crerar. "I think he is suffering from political delirium tremens."

The Minister of Finance had done a useful thing in disclosing the true finacial condition of the country. It must have required courage to introduce tax legislation much of which was read. Mr. Crerar suggested that it would be better to cut the national expenditure than to try and make national revenue meet the enormously increased expense.

Mr. Crerar said the new taxes pressed more heavily on the necessities than they did on the luxuries, as a matter of fact.

Income Tax Too Small?

The minister of Finance had referred to increases in the income tax. Mr. Crerar declared that the man with a $5000 income would pay only $6 more next year than he had done last year. The $50,000-a-year man was increased $459.50 and the $100,000-

SUPREME COURT DIVIDED IN OPINION ON QUESTION OF JURISDICTION IN FIXING THE PRICES—PROFITS ON MEN'S CLOTHING A SPECIFIED CASE.

GOES TO PRIVY COUNCIL

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, June 1. — The Supreme Court divided in its opinion to-day on the jurisdiction of the Board of Commerce as a fixing profit tribunal. An order which the board proposed to serve on retail clothiers in Ottawa, limiting the profit which the retailers may take on men's suits and overcoats to net 15 per cent., was upheld by Chief Justice Sir L. alis Davies and Justices Anglin and Mignault.

Justices Idengton, Duff and Brodeur refused to uphold the order.

It is understood that reference will be taken to the Privy Council.

The effect of the judgment is that the status quo remains unchanged as regards the powers of the Board of Commerce.

The order which the Board referred for ruling to the Supreme court sought to apply powers which the Board ostensibly derives from the Combines and Fair Prices Act to a particular commodity in specified community. The offer of the Board to investigate alleged combines and price fixing arrangements is specified in the Act and has never really been called in question. Recent reference tested only the power of the Board to particularize and to regulate profit-taking in a limited area instead of through an order affecting the whole Dominion.

Altogether about 56 acres of land were seized by the people.

Jiffy-Jell

Real Fruit Desserts The new kind with Flavors in Vials

The New Fruit Dessert

Which millions have adopted

Bottle in each package

Jiffy-Jell is the new fruit dessert which millions have adopted.

You know the old-style quick gelatine desserts. The fruit flavors came in dry form in the mixture.

Learn what this new type means, flavored with condensed fruit essence sealed in glass. It is supplanting the old style in millions of homes which have tried it.

Fruits are crushed

Jiffy-Jell has no artificial flavors. We crush the fruit, condense the juice and seal it in a vial.

Each dessert brings you—sealed in a glass—a wealth of fruit-juice essence.

The flavor is abundant. For instance, we crush half a pineapple to make the flavor for one Jiffy-Jell dessert. This is done in Hawaii, from fruits too ripe to ship.

Thus the whole dessert, rich in fruit, costs you no more than the fruit we use would cost you separately.

Six big servings

One package of Jiffy-Jell makes six servings in mold form, or twelve if you whip the jell.

It supplies real-fruit dainties at a fraction of the cost of jams and marmalades.

It comes ready-sweetened, and with sugar—not with saccharine. It comes acidulated with lemon or grape acid.

You simply add boiling water, then the fruit-juice essence from the vial, and let cool.

A moment's time and a trifling cost will serve your family with a fruit dessert, healthful and delightful.

Compare with the old

Fruit is essential. Everybody needs it daily, and a mere flavor does not suffice.

Now you can get it—eight kinds of fruit—in this delicious form for a little. Try it once. It will change your whole conception of these quick fruity dainties.

Also for salads

Jiffy-Jell in lime-fruit flavor makes a tart, green salad jell. Serve with your salads or mix the salad in before cooling. Then you have a zestful salad loaf. Or mix in meat scraps and make an appetizing meat loaf.

Jiffy-Jell in mint flavor makes a green mint jell. Serve with your meats, hot or cold. Or serve as a side dish.

Try Loganberry or Pineapple for desserts. They are two of our finest flavors. But Jiffy-Jell in any fruit flavor tastes like a fresh-fruit dainty.

Ten Flavors in Glass Vials

Bottle in each package

Mint	Strawberry
Lime	Pineapple
Cherry	Orange

OILING OF STREETS PROCEEDING AS RAPIDLY AS POSSIBLE

CITY ENGINEER PARSONS REPORTED THAT NEW MATERIAL DRIES SLOWLY BUT WILL PROVE A GOOD BINDER FOR ROADS—OTHER BUSINESS OF BOARD OF WORKS.

A lengthy list of communications mostly relative to street oiling or new sidewalk construction were on the Board of Work's agenda last night but were dealt with in a record time to be exact in one hour. Alderman F. Whitehouse was in the chair with Mayor McIntyre, Aldermen Copping, Gainey, Turner, and Morrison present.

City Engineer Parsons reported that he had secured another car of oil and the work was being proceeded with as quickly as possible. The material he told the Examiner before the meeting was a tar product costing 11 1-2 cents a gallon and he believed it would work excellently. It took longer to dry in, the City Engineer stated, but made a fine roadbed when properly dried in if the road was in good condition.

Why Water Now Oil is Here.

From a George street resident came a request that George street south from Romaine street be watered he said for the watering outfits were busy on construction work Street Commissioner Evans pointed out that that part would be oiled when the time came. Feeling that a motion was in order it was moved and carried that that part be oiled in due time. Residents on the Gravel Road just west of the boundary desired the strip past their residences to be oiled and those living on Monaghan Road also wanted a similar treatment. J. O. Donaldson wrote on behalf of the Gravel Road residents claiming that the dust was unbearable.

"The city should be done first," Ald. Gainey remarked. "I would move that the request be granted after the streets of the city have been done.

Mr. Parsons claimed that they did not have enough oil now and if they went ahead with any larger programme they would exceed their appropriations. "Providing there is sufficient material", was added to the motion which carried unanimously

The Utilities Commission requested that the city oil in front of the Water work as in other years at the expense the commission was granted.

Mr. E. A. Peck wrote on behalf of Mr. A. Wilson asking for part of the agreement for the purchase of the site for the sewage disposal plant be struck out. His request was granted and he is thereby free to enter action for damages to his remaining property if the plant prove a nuisance

Permission was granted to the Schneider Estate to remove two trees on condition that two more be put in to replace them.

A long list of streets on which the hydro electric propose to lay gas mains was read.

Can't Lay Sewer on Crescent Street.

A petition from the residents along Crescent street was read asking that the present sewer on Crescent street be continued to Haggart street. The City Engineer stated that it was almost impossible to lay a sewer there because there was no grade. It would have to be above the ground, he said. The only solution he offered was to run it both ways from Ware street and then it would be very shallow and impossible to drain a cellar. He was asked to present a further report.

The legal committee requested the board to give attention to the C.G.E. drain on King street which has been causing some litte damage to residents along that street resulting in threatening letters to the council. The City Engineer stated that he had looked into the matter. The drain was 26 years old and had seen its better days and the only thing to do was to gradually rebuild it.

"We have already rebuilt it as far as Aylmer street", he said. The trouble had occurred at the west end of the street he replied to a querry It was left in his hands to look into.

G. T. R. Show the Way.

The G.T.R. in their efforts to make their line through this city more beautiful struck a snag in the appearance of the east side of the Port Hope track at Rink street. This scenery here did not exactly coincide with the pictured fairyland on account of a pile of rubbish, an old delapidated fence and other equally offensive sights. They wrote to the board about it.

Didn't that come up before the Council, queried Alderman Copping.

Yes, but it was referred to this committee replied the City Clerk who stated that he saw Mr. Lundy the owner of the property and was promised an improvement especially when the Raybestos Co., move in.

The request of the Canadian Woollens for a sidewalk on the north side of McDonnel street past their new building was granted. While on this matter Ald. Turner pointed out that it would be in the interests of the city to oil up as far as their plant on account of the traffic and the many business men visiting it. Mr. Parsons said, that nothing could be done till the road was prepared.

The City Engineer was instructed to report on a sidewalk that was requested on the west side of Concession street north of Hazlitt. It was moved by Ald. Turner seconded by Ald. Copping that this be included in the work on which tenders are called.

Ald. Gainey said that a sidewalk was badly needed on Burnham street in East City along the old Dawson property. This will be enquired into by the City Engineer.

Mr. W. J. McElderry wrote asking for a sidewalk to be built from Weller street to his house on the west side of the Monaghan Road. The matter will be taken up Ald. Whitehouse and the City Engineer.

Repair Bridge.

In accordance with a plan he described to repair the cracks in the Smith street bridge the City Engineer was instructed to go ahead and also repair the railing and do any necessary repairs.

William Taylor wrote to the board offering to dispose of a strip of land 3 feet by 155 feet at the corner of Hilliard and George streets, to the city. It was referred to the chairman to look into. With Mr. Taylor's offer came a plan by Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald showing the exact location of this strip.

Ald. Turner urged to the board the necessity of oiling Simcoe street and across the temporary bridge into East City and he graphically emphasized the dusty qualities of this strip of road. Because the new road oil dries slowly this stretch of highway presented a problem. Ald. Gainey suggested the temporary diversion of traffic but the whole question was left in abeyance.

The last motion of the meeting gave the City Engineer permission to dispose of some old equipment and junk that is lying idle at the city yards on Townshend street.

PRICES IN ENGLAND SAME AS IN CANADA

BUDGET OF HOUSEHOLD STAPLES COSTS DOLLAR MORE IN OTTAWA THAN LONDON.

OTTAWA, May 31.—A remarkable similarity in the cost of groceries in England and in Canada is revealed in a comparison of a budget of the household staples in the two countries made within the last three weeks. The figures are given out by a Canadian official. Pricing a score of staples, ranging from bread to custard powder, the whole supply costs about a dollar more in Ottawa than in London, England.

Bread is 4 cents higher in Canada, sugar is 10 cents a pound higher, and jam and marmalade ranges from 10 to 18 cents higher here; but in England, bacon, eggs, lard, milk, sausages, Worcester sauce, rice, oranges, and dried fruits are all higher in price. Eggs were $1.00 a dozen and butter about $1.10 a pound for good grade. Both these prices are due for a sharp decrease in London, however.

Vegetables are still much cheaper in England than in Canada, and the butcher meats average from 30 to 40 cents a pound. Coal is about $1.25 per ton cheaper in England.

FATAL CLOUDBURST IN LINCOLNSHIRE

SMALL RIVER LUD OVERFLOWS BANKS, DROWNING FIFTY LOUTH CITIZENS.

LOUTH, Linc., Eng., May 30. — Fifty deaths have resulted here so far from the sudden overflow of the small river Lud, running through the town, which is attributed to a cloudburst in the woods nearby on Saturday night. The water spread so raidly that houses in the low-lying part of the town were immediately engulfed in a rush which carried away bridges, fences, trees and other obstacles.

One terrace, containing 15 houses, was entirely swept away, there being only one survivor.

Most of the people were in their homes, taking shelter from the thunderstorm when there came a rush of water three feet deep through the town. In many cases the weight of the water prevented the opening of doors, or otherwise many persons could have reached a place of safety. Within a short time the entire ground floors of houses were engulfed by the torrent, which was 200 yards wide.

The water swept on its crest portions of demolished cottages, automobiles, wagons, furniture, uprooted trees and the bodies of drowned animals. Bridges crumbled before the rushing flood. So sudden was the approach of the waters that a majority of the deaths occurred during the first moments of the flood when the lower rooms of houses were swamped. This was particularly true in the lower parts of the town. In the higher parts of the town many persons escaped, but only after wading waist-deep through the water.

Hundreds of persons are homeless and many householders have lost most of their belongings.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM.

On several occasions the Examiner has found it necessary to plead for a more respectful attitude on the part of those who attend public entertainments, towards the National Anthem. Unfortunately, however, no improvement is to be noticed in this respect and the number of people who stand at attention when "God Save the King" is played at the close of a theatrical performance is becoming gradually less. Many, with the first strains of the National Anthem, start for the exits, and others, while they do not leave until the orchestra is finished, busy themselves with coats and wraps. It is not a very edifying spectacle to see the rush for the doors that is started by the beginning of the national air of the Empire, and visitors, especially those from the United States, form a rather poor opinion of the patriotism of Canadians when they see the playing of "God Save the King" treated in a disrespectful manner.

BETTER ORDER NEEDED.

With the advent of the band concert season a few words of well intentioned advice may not be out of place. There are many people who visit the parks for the purpose of listening to the music of the band and they would like an opportunity to enjoy the programme under comfortable conditions. Unforunately, however, there are many others who seem to regard the band concert merely as a chance to turn their youngsters loose to make all the noise and disturb as many people as they can. At the concert of the Great War Veterans' band in Victoria Park on Sunday the disorder created by the hundreds of children who romped around and over those who were trying to hear the music was indescribable. The parents of these youngsters are more to blame than the children themselves and for the benefit of music-lovers they should endeavour to impress upon the little ones the desirability of keeping quiet while the band is playing. If they must romp let them do so in the intervals between the numbers of the programme, when they will cause the least annoyance. Certainly under conditions such as prevailed at Victoria Park the other night the bands of the city are handicapped in their efforts to give an enjoyable concert, for their pianissimo passages are lost in the noise and confusion of the crowd.

THE INDEMNITY QUESTION.

The reports from Ottawa that the Dominion government may yet yield to the demand for increased sessional indemnities will not make pleasant reading for the country. There is no doubt of the fact that the mass of the people are opposed to Parliament voting itself larger allowances. The tone of the press comments from one end of Canada to the other shows that the feeling is strongly against what is being termed salary-grabbing on the part of members and an attempt to put the increased indemnities through at the same time as larger pensions for soldiers are established will result in general condemnation. The chief agitation for the sessional allowances comes from the ranks of the government. Many Unionist members have been pressing for an increase and it is said that the recalcitrants are giving point to their demand by absenting themselves from the House and trying to frighten the government by a showing of empty seats. The cabinet is declared to be weakening under the pressure and the reports say that the increases would been been granted long ago had it not been that the Farmer members of the House refused to sign the round robin circulated among the members. In spite of this refusal, however, the cabinet is showing signs of yielding to the demand from the Unionist rank and file, and the increase may yet be made before the session concludes. The government may as well prepare for a storm of criticism for it will surely come if the indemnities are raised and the granting of larger pensions will not stop the returned soldiers from being in the forefront of the opposition to bigger allowances for the members.

THE MERCHANTS' REQUEST.

The request of the deputation of merchants from all parts of Canada that the luxury tax should be collected from the manufacturer and importer instead of by the retailer directly from the consumer is one that is not difficult to understand, for undoubtedly the collection of the new tax is a burden upon the shoulders of the retailers, resulting in a great deal of confusion and necessitating in many cases more clerical help or increased work for the present staff. From the merchants' viewpoint there is every reason for complaint and it is no wonder that the petition submitted by the retailers described the plan now in operation as "ill-advised and poorly conceived and devised." Nevertheless, however, if the luxury tax, is as Sir Henry Drayton declared, aimed at the curbing of extravagance, there is no doubt of the fact that the direct collection of the tax from the consumer would be more effective in driving home the need of economy than would the collection of the same tax from the manufacturer and the importer. The citizen who buys a taxable article and is told that he must pay ten per cent. or perhaps twenty per cent. of the retail price as a luxury tax is brought in direct connection with the tax, whereas under the system proposed by the retailers the curbing influence of the tax would be more or less lost. Although the revenue collected would reach the same total there would not be the same tendency on the part of the purchaser to choose an article if possible that comes within the taxable minimum. Possibly it was with this fact in mind that the Finance Minister decided that the tax should be collected at first hand from the consumer, rather than to tax the manufacturer and allow him to pass it on to the people through increased prices.

THE MILK COMMISSION.

The appointment of a milk commission by the Ontario government to investigate and report upon the cost of milk production is a step upon which the government is to be commended. The average consumer knows little or nothing about the matter and is inclined to think that the present prices are exorbitant and unjustified. Periodical investigations of the cost of producing milk will satisfy those who have to pay as well as those who sell. It is to the interest of the consumer to know that he is not being robbed and it is equally to the interest of the dealer that the conditions under which his business is operated are made clear to the public. Every increase in the price of milk has led to complaints of profiteering— there will be no occasion for such charges in the future for the milk commission, which is to be a permanent body will make reports at least three times a year on the cost of producing and distributing milk in the various parts of Ontario. The figures secured by the commission will enable the public to understand what constitutes a fair price to the consumer and much of the trouble that has followed price-raising in the past will be done away with. The people will know that when prices are increased the raise is necessary to meet conditions, and if the present prices are found to be too high, the Commission's report will undoubtedly result in a reduction. The personnel of the Commission ensures a thorough investigation. The interests of the consumer are being looked after by Mr. Thomas Bradshaw, former Finance Commissioner of Toronto.

"THE MOVIES."

Even those of us who are not movie fans will be inclined to accuse P. F. Casgrain, M.P., of some slight exaggeration in the somewhat sweeping condemnation of the moving picture expressed by him in Parliament yesterday.

It is perfectly true that there are undesirable picture houses, frequented by undesirable people, and where undesirable pitcures are shown, but this is surely no adequate reason for condemning the whole business of making and exhibiting moving pictures. The same argument might be urged against the legitimate stage. Indeed, there are few businesses of amusements where some abuses have not crept in.

The "movies" are yet in their infancy. It is a matter of regrét that so far the best has not always been made of them. There is far too much vulgarity in many of the films shown, and the humor is too often of the stick and bladder variety. The finer potentialities have been disregarded in the pursuit of profit and the development of what is best retarded, at least upon this continent, for the same reason. But perhaps this is not to be wondered at. Much money has awaited the successful producer and exhibitor. The public, pleased with what is even yet a new toy, has not as yet been too critical, and it is scarcely surprising that "the movies" have somewhat too consistently played down to the public rather than attempted to educate the public to levels which it could reach.

But even if this be true, it is not a sufficient reason for a sweeping and wholly generalized condemnation of the moving picture business. It is very doubtful indeed whether better value has ever been given for money expended upon amusement than is given in the bigger and better class moving picture houses to-day, and it is only a question of time before the standards set by these places will be the standards of the smaller ones. The public will go where it gets the best value for its money.

The movies have come to stay. There is no reason why they should not be of enormous educational and artistic importance in modern culture, and one does not have to be an enthusiast to see a steady and perhaps unfortunately slow improvement. —Montreal Star

MR. BURNHAM WOULD FOSTER ORATORY

OFFERS PRIZES FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN TO BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The following is a copy of a letter from Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., to the Board of Education:—

Ottawa, 31st May, 1920

To the Chairman of the Board of School Trustees, Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir:—You are doubtless aware that debating contests and public "exhibitions" under the patronage and supervision of Boards of School Trustees, have for many years been established in Western Ontario and elsewhere in Canada and the U.S.

These contests are intended for pupils from the city and rural schools the details of which as to age etc., will suggest themselves to you without further reference. I hear constantly from Members of the House of Commons of the splendid effect these Exhibitions have in their districts. As you are aware, ability to debate is something that rarely comes naturally but is capable of being acquired by study and practice. It conduces to research, clears the mind and the mode of expression and promotes originality. It has for some time been upon my mind, that we should revive these Exhibitions in Peterborough, and I will gladly give prizes for the City and West Riding of Peterborough for such an enterprise under your patronage. M. Wearing has had much experience in these matters and might help also. It would be necessary, I should think, that a body like yours established as it is in public confidence and having the power and opportunity should take charge of such an undertaking. Public speaking is a most essential acquirement and becomes more so every day and I submit that it is something that we ought to develop for the benefit of the rising generation of both sexes as it is something which they cannot possibly develop for themselves

Yours truly,
J. W. Burnham.

LIBERIA IS PRIMITIVE.

No Modern Conveniences There—Negro Mayor Makes a Fortune.

LONDON, May 31.—Liberia is truly a hermit republic, writes Alan Bourchier Lethbridge, author and traveller, in the Daily Telegraph. The country, he ads, has no roads, no railways, no telegraphs, no steamboats on her rivers, nor any practical exploitation of her wealth.

Lodgings in Monrovia, the capital, virtually do not exist with the exception of one place which is conducted by the Mayor. This man is an enterprising negro of North Carolina, who besides attending to the duties of the Mayoralty and conducting his hotel, operates an ice plant and an ice-cream parlour which formerly were German property. From these latter his profits are said to be gigantic. He also has "something to do with the Post Office," and is a Police Court Magistrate.

"In fact," says Mr. Lethbridge, "this remarkable man, starting from nothing has made himself a Rockefeller of Liberia."

In Monrovia, says the traveller, there are no horses, motors, rickshaws or other wheel vehicles; no street lighting, no drinking water, and not infrequently food supplies for the European colony run out and strict rationing is enforced until the ship arrives.

Montreal Manufacturers are Warned to Economize.

MONTREAL, May 29.—A warning circular on economy in the use of steam coal has been sent to manufacturers here. SANDRA THE JEALOUS

By JANE PHELPS

SANDRA HEARS FROM ROSE KEMP.

CHAPTER CXXXVI.

Does it seem to you who read my story that I was little and mean? If so, consider my jealous nature, suspicous of every word and action of either my husband, or those whom he appeared to like. I used to thank God my child was a boy, so would not have to suffer as I have done because of jealousy. I held the opinion held by most women, that men never loved in the same way; never cared quite so much as women did. As I grew older I found out I was wrong. But at this time, I thought of men, most men, as rather gay Lotharites, intent upon making themselves agreeable to any pretty woman, regardless of others.

Rose Kemp had gone back to her husband.

When I read her letter I scarcely grasped its contents, so surprised was I that she had decided to return to him.

Dear Sandra: You will be interested to know that I have gone back to Walter," she commenced her letter, "I found I could not be happy away from him. Had I been, I never should have gone back, because he has changed in no slightest particular. But as I was unhappy away from him, much more so than with him, I have concluded so stay with him as long as he will have me.

"You see, Sandra, I constantly visualized him as with some other woman; planning to divorce me. (It may be that I can at least put off that day by being with him. I shall keep his home as best I can; and shall try not to find fault, no matter what he does—I did at first, you know. He is the sort of man who will not endure to be criticized. I will never complain, or make things unpleasant when he is around. Perhaps I may at least win him to the extent that he will not be so anxious to be free."

"Never cease to be thankful, Sandra, that you have a husband who does not run after other women. That is putting it badly, but why should I try to hide things from you? I know you had to play second fiddle, but what is that when the other woman is dead and gone, to playing second, third, or fourth as I am doing? As I have done ever since I married Walter?"

"I shall never leave him again. If things become too hard to bear I shall end it all. Life without him, without at least the pretense of his affection, isn't worth living for me. It is strange isn't it, Sandra, how we women give ourselves, body and soul ,to the man we love? While with them there is always something withheld.

"I would ask you to visit me, but I do not want even you to see the way I am neglected; what I have to bear. I have pride enough left for that; even if I have none where it is between Walter and me.

"Write me occasionally, and send me a picture of your boy."

"Love, Rose."

I cried bitterly over Rose's letter. It was so utterly hopeless. Then I showed it to Everett.

"Do you suppose she really would do what she threatens?" I asked fearfully.

"I hardly think so—yet, she might. Your friend is a very temperamental woman. She is willful, and her unfortunate marriage seems to have made her very despondent. Don't think about her any more than you can help. You can do her no good, and it will only make you unhappy."

He had made no mention of the paragraph in which Rose had spoken of me as playing "second fiddle." I had forgotten all about it when I let him read the letter. I wouldn't have had him see what she had said for a good deal. And I was thankful and grateful that he did not mention it.

I answered the letter at once, and sent her a picture of Junior, a lovely one we had just had taken of him. I also sent her a book I had just read and which I had enjoyed hugely. Her reply, just a short note, was full of gratitude.

"Junior's picture is on my dressing table. I call him my little sweetheart," she said at the close.

"She has no other," I thought pityingly.

If wages are to stay up in Canada there must be money to pay them.

Every time you buy an "imported" product in place of one made in Canada you are helping to build up "outside" industries and provide work and wages for "outside" labor.

The way to protect your job is to buy Canadian-made goods.

Be sure, too, that the machines or goods you buy are actually made in Canada.

Look for the C.C.M. trade mark.

It is the sure guide to a true made-in-Canada bicycle.

The frames, forks, axles, cranks and sprockets of C.C.M. Bicycles are made in Canada.

Also the handle bars, seat posts and front hubs.

And that is not all—

The pedals, chains, mudguards and gripe are made in Canada.

The wood rims, spokes, nipples, cups and cones are made in Canada.

Yes, and the Hercules Coaster Brakes, frame pumps, and tires are made in Canada, too.

Only the saddles and the steel balls are imported. No one in Canada makes these lines as yet.

If the C.C.M. Company imported their parts and merely assembled C.C.M. Bicycles a much smaller plant would be required. Only about one-twentieth of the number of workmen would be employed.

By buying real "Made-in-Canada" Bicycles—C.C.M. Bicycles—you provide more employment for Canadians. You keep Canadian dollars working at home where they are worth one hundred cents.

And you get a better bicycle for your money—a bicycle with the new Hercules Positive Drive Brake—the Coaster Brake without a side arm.

THINK BIG THINGS.

Give Your Imagination Play and Try to Live Up to Your Dreams.

Isn't it true that the only thing which makes it possible for us to perform the daily drudgeries of life is the hope for better things which blooms in our hearts?

Hope is romance. Ambition is romance. All the fine, true inspirations of life are romantic. Romance leads to achievement, unless it blossoms in the mind of a lazy, shiftless creature who is incapable of action.

The man who leads a forlorn hope is romantic. The hero who gives his life fighting a dread disease to which he succumbs, but against which he has insured humanity, is romantic. Romance is the thing which makes it worth while for men to sacrifice material comforts and die on strange fields of honor.

In a materialistic world, where we have to deal with the facts of earning our living and fighting for place and position, the thing which lifts us above blind instinct is romance. Cherish your dreams, for they give you a glimpse of beauty and make you willing to struggle over cruel mountains and harsh plains to the pot of gold at the rainbow's end. Dreams give respite from dreary reality and urge on to all that is big and fine.—Exchange.

When Lafayette Was In Jail.

After our Revolutionary war, while Lafayette was trying to reach Holland to escape enemies at home, he was seized by the Austrian government and imprisoned as a dangerous character. His wife also was imprisoned at Paris during the reign of terror, but succeeded in getting to Vienna and pleaded with the emperor for her husband's release. Lafayette's friends in this country did what they could in his behalf, and finally, on the 25th of August, 1797, he was set at liberty after five years' confinement in a dungeon. During this imprisonment two American friends of Lafayette—Francis K. Huger of Charleston, S. C., and Dr. Eric Bollman—made a daring attempt to liberate him, for which they both were imprisoned.

Horses Have Quick Ears.

The horse is really one of the best listeners in the world. He is always on the alert for sounds which concern or interest him. When he looks at anything he turns his ears toward it to observe the better whether any sound comes from it. If a horse is particularly interested in your driving of him he aways turns his ears backward toward you, but if he has no concern on that subject or if he sees anything ahead that interests him he keeps his ears pricked forward. A horse hears the whinny of another horse at a greater distance than the average man can hear.

Vegetable Cutlets.

Try the following recipe on your "meatless day." Take equal quantities of carrots, turnips, parsnips and onions and sufficient potatoes to form half the mixture. Slice the onions and brown in a little butter. Boil the other vegetables and chop them up finely, mixing them with the potatoes, which should be mashed. Season and add some chopped parsley. When cold form into cutlets and fry in egg and breadcrumbs.—London Answers.

The Real Wonder Workers.

"Do you believe in fairies?" asked the sentimentalist.

"Fairies!" grunted the practical person. "What did they ever do? It took us human beings to put over things like locomotives and telephones and electric lights."

Glaciers Are Brittle.

The substance of a glacier is brittle, though solid, and its descent down a valley is caused by its constant fracture, produced by gravitation and the sliding forward of the whole mass.

Money.

If money is the root of all evil there are undoubtedly times when it is possible to secure a medicinal extract from the root.

Wheat, Barley and Oats.

A bushel of wheat weighs on an average 60 pounds, barley 47 pounds and oats 32 to 40 pounds.

ONLY SOLUTION OF THE CREEK CONTROL

That the property owners along the Downie Street Creek be met with a view to getting a right-of-way for the city free of cost along this part of the troublesome stream so that it might eventually be concreted was decided by the Board of Works last night.

The City Engineer pointed out emphatically that this was the only way to get the Creek cleaned up properly and eliminate the annual freshets and their aftermaths of damage bills. Although it might take a couple of years he contended that now was the time to make a start.

Ald. Turner moved to the above effec, and it carried unanimously.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

MR. TOOMS OBSERVATIONS AS GUEST OF TORONTO FIRE DEPT.

SOME OF NEWEST STATIONS HAVE NO ACCOMMODATION FOR HORSES —DISTRICT CHIEF GUNN DESCRIBES IDEAL TYPE OF FIREMEN AND METHODS OF OBTAINING AND MAINTAINING EFFICIENCY.

BANQUET IN WINTER

(By T. Tooms, M. L.A.)

It was my privilege to personally inspect the various fire departments of the city of Toronto, being accompanied by District Chief Gunn, Capt. D. Leslie and Lieut. P. Hurd. I made enquiry as to suggestions for the efficiency of a properly conducted fire station which seemed of apparent interest. I inspected the almost obsolete horse-drawn appliances, steamers and ladders. Horses were harnessed and out on the road in about one minute and 15 seconds. A 70 ft. hand extension ladder was removed from the truck and placed in position against a building ready for use in 1 1-4 minutes, and the men were ordered to scale the ladder in turn, being timed by the chief. Some accomplished it in 14 seconds, others in 13 seconds. This system created a spirit of friendly rivalry. At a signal a sheet was unloaded from the truck, unfolded, men in their positions, and a man jumped from a window of the building into the sheet in 7 seconds.

I noticed that with the horse drawn vehicle that while they were picturesque and appealed to the imagination of our school day pictures of a fire brigade, the horses while galloping and laying to their collars, did not make great speed, as the trucks weighed anything between 3 to 5 tons. When compared with the motor trucks the picture was almost grotesque, as the motor truck was started up and practically out of sight in 45 seconds, carrying 1500 feet of hose, chemical appliances and pumps that were worked by the same motor that drives the vehicle. I think this is known as the triple combination truck.

Then the hose waggon was drawn out and 150 feet of hose laid down, coupled to a hydrant and nozzle fixed, carried up a 70 ft. ladder by 3 men at equal distance apart supporting the hose, which was ready for use in 45 seconds.

Some with ladders fixed on the truck known as the water tower. This is raised by a mechanical derrick on the truck and hose is hooked on the ladder and is raised with it.

No Stable Accommodation.

In the new stations lately built no stable accommodation is provided for horses; also the silver-plated and brass steamers are fast being relegated to the discard. I noticed that in a number of stations the ladder trucks were the old horse drawn ones converted into motor trucks, a motor and bonnet taking the place of the pole.

Best Type of Men.

I am chiefly indebted to District Chief Gunn for the following information. The District Chief is very keen and full of enthusiasm with regard to the business which seems to radiate among the men, who all seemed real anxious to meet the wishes of their chief. I asked him as to the class of men best suited for firemen. He said, "Slick men, from 21 to 28 years of age, height 5 ft. 8 inches to 5 ft. 10 inches; upstanding and snappy in appearance; read, write and do simple arithmetic; positively residents of the city he desires to serve; should undergo thorough medical examination after which the commissioner or chief officer shall select the candidates passing the most successful examination. The candidate should then study the rules and regulations, all type of apparatus and equipment attached thereto for two hours per day, five days per week, and at the end of four weeks shall pass an examination on the department's duties of at least 75 per cent. efficiency, after which he shall be appointed to the department permanently. Men should always be sized up to work to the best advantage possible. The tall men are usually better for ladder work on account of their reach.

Should Drill Regularly.

"You can readily understand," said the chief, "that a tall man and a short one are a serious handicap to one another. As to keeping members in good shape for their duties men should have a drill of at least one hour each day, from April 1st to Nov. 16th, and always under the competitive system, or in other words, hold the watch in hand. In this way you create a friendly rivalry. Have a yearly test for speed in all the branches of the department. Give merit marks for meritorious acts. It encourages the members. Encourage outdoor sport during the summer season such as baseball, basket ball and all kinds of athletics so far as possible. Have a banquet in the winter if at all possible to get the men together—it helps to make them contented and avoid a grouch.

Specialize on Chemicals.

Chemical Apparatus: I observed that special interest was taken by all members in this particular branch; in some stations a one cylinder of 40 gallons was in use, while in others a two cylinder aparatus was in vogue. The two cylinders (or tanks) were undoubtedly the best system, for as a rule the second tank was untouched and was ready for immediate use — should another call come immediately after their return; also couplings were attached to these for lines of light hose should the chemicals give out. All this equipment seemed most up to date and is credited with saving many a serious fire and avoiding great water damage, as is often inevitable with the old system.

On these trucks I noticed a spray nozzle and bent nozzle is carried for cellar fires when the men cannot get into the basement where a fire might have origiated. Thh hottest spot in the floor is located and a hole made there and the pray nozzle inserted.

Some of the stations had photographs of fire fighting heroes who had succumbed while carrying out their noble work in attempting to save others, and n other very hazardous duties.

Promotions: Always consider the senior member first; after which he should pass an examination in the duties of the position he is seeking; this does more to keep the men on edge at all times than anything else ertaining to fire department work.

Discipline: Officers and men shall at all times address one another by the title of the office held; obedience to the letter of the law, but be sure the law is founded on common sense, and in the best interests of the department.

In winter, if quarters are suitable have physical drill about three days of the week of 30 minutes duration.

The morale and spirit of the men was splendid. The conditions between the men and their superiors was one of respectful friendliness and was much to be appreciated.

I also visited the central call station. One could well spend half a day studying the different systems of switchboards and mechanical devices, but regarding which I cannot go into detail here.

FOUR KILLED BY FALLING BIPLANE

ALSO SCORE WOUNDED WHEN TANK EXPLODED.

MEXICO CITY, May 31. — Four persons were killed and more than a score were seriously injured here yesterday when a large military biplane crashed to the ground and its gasoline tank exploded.

The four perosns killed were passengers in the plane and its fifth occupant also reecived probably fatal injuries. The exploding gasoline tank sent a wave of fire over a crowd of bystanders of both sexes and more than 20 of them were removed to the hospital. Of the four men killed two were Frenchmen, one an Italian and one a Mexican.

TRANSFER 21ST COLOURS JUNE 3RD

PETERBORO OFFICERS OF OLD BATTALION ARE INVITED TO ATTEND.

KINGSTON, June 1. — On the morning of the 3rd of June an event of importance will take place on the Cricket Field when, at 10.15 a.m., the colors of the 21st Battalion, C.E.F., will be officially received by the Princess of Wales' Own Regiment. This will be a unique ceremony, in all probability the first occasion on which the colors of an Expeditionary Force unit have been handed over, for custody, to the unit which represents it in the active militia.

There are three parallel cases in this military district, the re-organization of which have been affected during the tenure of command of Major-General V. A. S. Williams, C.M.G. Three of the service units of the Eastern Ontario Regiment are to be perpetuated in Ottawa Peterboro and Kingston battalions. The "Royal Second" (1st Canadian Division) is perpetuated in the active battalion of the Peterboro Rangers (the old 57th); in the active battalion of the Princess of Wales' Own Regiment (the old 14th) the 21st Battallion of the 2nd Canadian Division is perpetuated, while the traditions of the 38th Battalion (4th Canadian Division) are perpetuated in the active battallion of the Ottawa Regiment (Duke of Cornwall's Own). Prior to the recent re-organization the Ottawa and Kingston regiments were rifle units, but, in order to fittingly represent the two overseas battallions of infantry, they have been changed to infantry.

On the King's birthday the escort for the colors will be composed of ex-officers, N.C.O.'s and men of the 21st who are not at present members of the local regiment. This personnel will also include members of the Battallion clubs of Toronto, Ottawa and Peterboro as well as some from other outside places. A parade of the local unit will receive the colors.

From a recent report, it is probable that the handing over of the 38th Battalion colors to the Ottawa Regiment will take place during the month of June.

An invitation has been sent to all the ex-officers of the 21st Battalion in Peterboro to attend the Colour ceremony and also a luncheon at the Frontenac club.

"I HAVE PROVED"

Zam-Buk invaluable for eczema, both in the case of my baby and myself," says Mrs. L. Bonin of West Arichat, N.S. She adds: "Baby's skin was badly broken out, but repeated applications of Zam-Buk entirely cured it.

"In my own case, I had eczema on my hands, which made it very inconvenient for me to do my housework. Particularly was this so, as it aggravated the trouble so to put my hands in water. By using Zam-Buk, however, I soon got relief, and it was not very long before every trace of the trouble had disappeared. I really think no home should be without Zam-Buk."

STOP HEADACHES BEFOREHAND

You never had a headache when you were well.

To keep well is to keep clean, inside.

To relieve headache, and to prevent it, keep the liver active and industrious and the bowels as regular as a clock.

Two generations of healthy, vigorous people have done this by taking one pill at bedtime, regularly—a larger dose when nature gives the warning.

AGAINST PARTITION BY HOME RULE BILL

COMMITTEE OF DUBLIN BOARD OF COMMERCE PREPARE REPORT.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, June 1. — The partition of Ireland under the terms of the new Home Rule Bill is condemned on commercial and financial grounds in a report prepared by the Special Committee appointed by the Dublin Chamber of Commerce to examine the Home Rule measure, says a Times despatch from Dublin. The report which wille' b submitted to-day also denounces the establishment of a second judiciary and adversely criticizes the scheme in many particulars.

WILL BUILD SIDEWALK TO ALADDIN FACTORY.

At last night's meeting of the Board of Works, E. L. Telford wrote asking if he could get permission to construct a sewer to a house on Carroll Street if he built it. The matter was referred to the City Engineer.

It was moved by the Mayor, seconded by Ald. Copping, that notice be given of the intention of the Council to construct a sidewalk on the east side of the Monaghan Road from De Laval Street 150 feet south.

DO YOU EXPECT TO LIVE LONG?

The facts are against you. In one Life Insurance Company during three months, Sixteen died of OLD AGE, 2,736 died at PREMATURE AGES, and each one was sound when the Insurance was issued.

Each one had just as good a right to expect to live to old age as you have.

Another Insurance Company shows that out of Claims paid last year, 6.8 per cent. died the FIRST YEAR, and 72.5 per cent. died INSIDE OF TWENTY YEARS.

Note well that the Men and Women who died the first year left approximately fifty times as much to their heirs as if they had "saved" the premium.

THE SUN LIFE OF CANADA, with over $105,000,000.00 of Assets, is the logical place to Insure.

FUNERAL OF MRS. GEORGE MATTHEWS

SERVICE AT THE FAMILY HOME IN LINDSAY YESTERDAY.

At the funeral of Mrs. George Matthews in Lindsay yesterday the pastor of Murray street Baptist church said:

"No one who knows anything of the traditions of this home would think of making the occasion one of a lengthy address. There are, however here a a large number of friends and neighbors who would be sorry not to have made vocal something of what they feel with regard to the dear one who has been called home.

Our Master has said something about the possibility of our taking seats so prominent at the feasts of life that we invite embarrassment and humiliation. He speaks also of those who take the lowest seats and are compelled by the very quality that suggests such modest, to occupy seats of honor of which they have never dreamed.

Grace, found her a place at the Gospel feast, and how she delighted in it. In the house of God, which was to her the very gate of heaven she sought no prominence. It was enough that week by week she should feast upon the bread of life with her friends and show her loyalty to the name that she had so early in life espoused. To her it mattered very much whether her pew was full or empty, but, as for desiring anything like prominence or the applause of others, it was as remote from her whole constitution as anything could possibly be.

Love, gave her a place at the feast of the family. I like to think of her as a young girl being lured by the witchery of the heart to the responsibilities of this home life. How she graced the family table and presided over the departments that were peculiarly hers is too sacred a topic for a stranger, and too well known by her sons and daughters to require comment. How gladly would every member of the family testify to the fact that as far as ease and personal comfort was concerned she always sought the lowest place. There are those who have the rare faculty of managing affairs without ever imposing themselves. The silent partners who have convictions and reveal them without any clamor or unnecessary emphasis. These are the home builders. Under their direction the fabric of the home rises as did the temple, without sound of axe or hammer. But these are also such as cannot be hid. When there issues from any home young men and women whose very endowments demand that they should take large responsibilities in the world of affairs and in the Church of Christ, there are a multitude of voices heard crying out, "Who was their mother?" and such voices refuse to be silenced. Thus it comes to pass that she who sought the lowest seat is compelled to go up higher. The world will see the little women who make such contributions to the common good, and will not be satified if some opportunity for grateful expression is denied.

Compassion, enlarged the festive circle in which she had a place. She, with her Saviour, had pity for the multitude, and she at His behest, was one of those who gave her all into His hands and then at His direction handed it to the seated groups as did the disicples, the multplied bread by the Sea of Galilee.

When Mrs. Matthews and her husband devised liberal things for missionary enterprises, there was no flaunting of the name, and in our college days we were anxious to know from whence came the generous gifts that appeared anonymously in our denominational reports after the three words, "In His Name." In later years we had access to the Board correspondence and discovered that in Lindsay these things were planned by those who sought for their Master the success of His enterprises and for themselves the lowest seats. Such deeds are like the perfume of Mary's nard; they betray themselves in spite of their authors by their very fragrance.

I heard less than an hour ago from the one who cared for our friend during her last illness, that even in those trying days she never thought of herself. "Can't you find a chair—you must be tired," were among her last words to her nurse. It was characteristic.

I am afraid I am transgressing the judgment of the family while I am speaking the thoughts of all. She herself would never wish these words spoken. For as the sons and daughters have ransacked the best gardens to bring these flowers to her feet, so would she wish that any bloom that has been miraculously begotten in the human heart should all be gathered and brought as tribute to the feet of Christ.

She is at rest. This is no time for tears, but for thanksgiving—no time for regret but for rejoicing. The Lord has himself said to Annie Smithson Matthews: "It is enough — Come up higher." This is all I wish to say today. Now her sons will carry her dear body and lay it beside that of their father—

"Under the daisies there, Against that day."

MAKES GRANT TO SERBIAN FUND

TRINITY EPWORTH LEAGUE CONTRIBUTES $25 IN LOCAL CAMPAIGN.

At a well-attended meeting of Trinity Epworth League held last evening in the S.S. Hall, Captain Lawson gave an address on "Service" and made an appeal for help for Serbian Orphans. An offering was taken amounting to $25.00. This amount will no doubt be increased by later contributions for this worthy fund.

During the evening Miss Greta LeBarr gave a very pleasing vocal solo and Mr. Otto Glidden delighted the audience with one of his fine clarionette solos. This will be the last in door meeting for the summer, but the League Tennis Club will afford the members opportunities of getting together during the summer.

IS VICTIM OF PECULIAR ACCIDENT

Her many friends will regret to learn that Mrs. John Pope of Chemong Park, was badly hurt as the result of a peculiar accident at the Park yesterday. She was carrying a water pail when she tripped over a piece of board and fell, her throat coming in contact with the edge of the pail. She was painfully shaken up as a result of the fall and had to be removed to Nicholls Hospital.

TURKS AND FRENCH ARRANGE ARMISTICE

To Make Your Hair Look Naturally Curly

Just apply a little liquid silmerine with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair and you will have as beautiful curls and waves as you could wish for. They will be perfectly natural in appearance and will last a long time, even in damp or windy weather. The full effect is secured within three hours usually.

A few ounces of liquid silmerine—which, of course, can be had at any drug store—will last for weeks, so it is quite economical to use. It also serves as an excellent dressing, giving the hair a delightful gloss. When the hair is combed out it will be as fluffy as though it had just been shampooed

LOCAL BASEBALL COMMENT

After some of the incidents of the past few weeks, the City League might be pardoned if it took chloroform. Then coming back to life, the past could be forgotten, and a fresh start made. These words, cruel as they may sem, sum up the thoughts in the domes of most fans.

But in the meantime, cheer up, there are others who suffer. Canadian Woollens trimmed the Hind and Dauch team here on the holiday. The Toronto gang went into their Industrial League game at the week end and Gutta Percha beat them 22 to 4. Rather a rasch shame, we'll say.

Jake Solomon's East Peterboro League opens to-morrow afternoon with a game at Norwood with Keene as the visiting team.

The Trent Valley section of the O.B.A.A. will start the parade at Tweed to-morrow afternoon, Tweed and St. Michael's of Belleville coming together.

Alex. Kay will call them in the Lindsay-Oshawa Central League go at Lindsay to-morrow evening. The game is billed for five o'clock.

In introducing the Port Hope team who come here Saturday, it can truthfully be said that the Lockington crowd have a high-class twirler in McDonald. He fanned twelve in the game with Belleville and allowed seven hits. While his help were doing Ocean Wave manoeuvres, McDonald never withered and he was going great guns after the game was well under way.

"Hap" Harrison is the choice for slab work for the Petes against the Hopers with Swanston in the shade of the willows. The Petes will practice to-morrow epening at Riverside Park. They have got to show the fans something at the weekend.

Queen Mary seniors had a close call yesterday evening when they managed to beat Centrals by 12 to 11, in a Public School league gamn.

Walter Kidd, who is an honorary-president of the East Peterboro ball league has the Thompson trophy in his possession. It will be exhibited in one of the big store windows.

They're all paying attention to the E.P.A.B. circuit. The boys from the 12th Line, Otonabee have made application for a berth in the league. Another application comes from Hastings.

a-year man $1559.50. Mr. Crerar compared the figures in Canada and Great Britain for income tax. A $5000 income was taxed $750 in Britain, against about $120 in Canada; $10,000 income, $2250 in Great Britain, against $619.50 in Canada; $20,000 income, $6812.50 in Britain, against $2,089.50 in Canada; $100,000 income $47,187 in Britain and $32,740 in Canada.

The whole tenor of the budget, Mr. Crerar declared, was to place the burden on the shoulders of those who were the least able to bear it. It was no wonder that there was unrest throughout the country.

He declared himself pleased that the government had at last announced its policy on the tariff.

Defends Free Trade.

Mr. Crerar was pleased that there was no doubt now as to where both the government and the Liberal party stood in regard to the tariff. Mr. Meighen had set out to show that free trade in Britain had proved a failure. Mr. Meighen had many times to defend doubtful cases on behalf of the government but there never was such a hard proposition undertaken as the one assigned to him the other night. Mr. Meighen had talked a great deal about Great Britain's adverse trade balance but it was not so much the trade balance as the total volume of trade. All the European countries especially those with high protection, had experienced adverse trade balances. He quoted figures to show that for 50 years prior to the time that Britain had adopted free trade, her total trade volume in five years was $39,000,000,000, whereas since she adopted free trade the figures for a term of five years went as high as $253,000,000,000. It was all nonsense to say that the change in her fiscal policy was not the one essential factor in Great Britain's prosperity.

Crerar Defines Policy.

H. H. Stevens, Vancouver, demanded of Mr. Crerar if he was in favor of free trade in Canada. Mr. Crerar replied that he would say this, that the fiscal policy obtaining in Great Britain would be a much better one for Canada than the one now in operation. The platform of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, he added, in response to another question, did not espouse the principle of absolute free trade as many seemed to think. It stood for placing on the free list such articles as the implements of production from the soil and the development of natural resources.

Refers to Steel Merger.

He referred to the steel merger and a statement by Colonel Grant Morden that under the merger they would be able to compete with any other steel company in the world. If that were true why not take off the duty on iron and steel products. This merger would corner all the iron and steel in sight and the inevitable result would be large dividends on watered stock.

MUNRO HOUSE HAS A NEW GRILL ROOM

LUNCH COUNTER AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS FOR PUBLIC.

Having taken over the management of the Munro House, Mrs. Bertha Munro has remodelled the entire building bringing it up to the level of the most up-to-date city houses and making it an ideal spot for the travelling public to get something as nearly like home as possible.

Downstairs the dining room has been converted into a splendid billiard room, the rotunda divided into a rest room and a grill and tea room, while to the west a very up to date lunch counter has been installed, each department redecorated in most attractive manner. The tea and grill room carry out a color scheme of grey and rose while the table of mahogany are covered plate glass over chintz to match the mural decorations. The new management has gone to unlimited trouble in securing the best of everything in fitting up the place and is determined that all service will be likewise of the best.

A testimony as to the efficiency and general comfort of the hotel lies in the assurance from Mr. McMillan, who is 80 years of age and has travelled for years, that he had never before been in a hotel which had such an air of home or where the service was so good.

Mrs. Munroe is to be congratulated upon her enterprise and the result and is sure to meet with continued increasing patronage as the reputation of the establishment spreads as it will undoubtedly do

CENTRAL LEAGUE WILL OPEN HERE ON SATURDAY

The local Central League season will be opened on Saturday when the Port Hope Ontarios will clash with the Petes at Riverside Park. The fans have been eagerly awaiting the first game of the season with an outside team and a record opening day crowd will undoubtedly see the battle. Hap Harrison is slated to do the twirling for the home crew, while the Port Hope gang will pin their faith on McDonald, who pitched a splendid game against Belleville last Saturday. The Ontarios have strengthened their lineup, and Bob Chalk and Co., who incidentally put the Petes out of the Central League championship last year by beating them in a critical stage of the race are confident that they can take the measure of the Peterborough crew on Saturday. There will be usual opening ceremonies and a big afternoon's sport.

BENEFIT GAME TO-NIGHT—THE LEAGUE STANDING—OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST.

A benefit game ,under the auspices of the Machinists Union, will be played to-night at the Nicholls' oval, at 6:30 prompt, between a picked team representing the C.G.E. and the Caledonians, who may have some outside players helping them. Mr. Alex. McKinley will referee the game.

The picked team representing the C. G. E. for to-night's game will be Jones (De Laval) goal; McDonald (C. G. E.) and Perry (Machine Gun), backs; Ryan (G.W.V.A.) Cridland (Can. Woollens) and Edwards (G.W. V. A.) half backs; Manders and Hotson (C.G.E.), Norman (G.W.V.A.) Turner and Bartley (C.G.E.) forwards.

A few new players may have a try out with the Caledonians to-night. The executive have had some difficulty in getting a strong team owing to departures and injuries.

Many football enthusiasts extended the glad hand to Manders, the C. G. E. outside right, when he arrived back in the city. He will play in to-night's game.

The C. G. E. team may have a number of new faces on the line up for game next Saturday. Bestard is still unable to move around yet and Bert Mason is under the doctor's care. Bert says "he will not be able to play again this season." A similar accident to Bert in England spoiled his chance to a trial for a first league team that compelled him to give up the game for two seasons.

A new comer is Dodds of the Machine Gunners. He put up a great exhibition of defence play during the Canadian Woollens game.

In the death by drowning of Willie Wilton, for a score of years secretary of the Glasgow Rangers, many Peterboro fans felt that they have lost a personal friend and much regret is expressed at the sad occurrence.

During the last few weeks the Machine Gunners have won three straight games. On Thursday evening the War Veterans will be the guests of the Gunners. This fixture is of interest because it will decide the standing of the League.

It is not often that you get a football league to come out as the Peterboro one. There have been 34 games (17 schedule games) played with the total of 34 points to the winning teams; 17 goals won and 17 lost; 152 goals have been scored since the beginning of the season—76 goals for and 76 goals against. No team has had a draw game yet. Games and points even; won and lost even; and goals for and against even.

In last Saturday's game between the Caledonians and the G.W.V.A., Sharman of the Vets took a corner kick that travelled over touch in the air and dropped into play. Referee Keller was standing behind the bar upright when the kick was taken and immediately awarded a goal kick.

The Caledonians have been hard hit during the last few games. Alex. Hardie left for the United States a few days ago and now Hannah will be off for a week or two.

The Comrades' Football Club will play the Canadian Woollens an exhibition game on Wednesday evening, at the Nicholls Oval; kick off at 6:30 prompt. Comrades' team: Houghton, goal; R. Leach and J. Knowles, backs. H. Walkins, R. Jolliffe and V. Hopkins, half backs; A.Lee, M.Dunkley, A. Nicholls, B. Martin and H. Knowles ,forwards. Reserves: J. Haw and B. Moore.

A Rollicking Comedy of Canadian Soldier Life in France

"It gives a true and realistic picture of the life of 'The Poor Bally Infantry' in France."—Toronto Globe.

". . . . It brings home the spirit that won the war, the spirit that faced hardships with devotion and with humour, quite free from stagey heroics."—Daily Mail and Empire, Toronto.

"A military play devoid of heroics, in fhich a vast number of characters are presented with a versimilitude that convinces the auditors who know, is something of an achievement. . . . A panoramic vision of the life of the infantry. The cast, a very large one, showing almost every type of soldier . . unmistakably the real thing."—Toronto Saturday Night.

"If the essence of drama be the unfolding of our actual sight of visible representations of character . . . then surely 'Madamoiselle of Bully Grenay' is real drama."—Toronto Evening Telegram.

"The veterans can take their production of 'The P. B. I.' anywhere, and be assured that they will do themselves and their country credit."—Toronto Evening Telegram (Editorial Page).

THE P.B.I. WON THE WAR

Two of the Characters in the "P. B. I." the Great Canadian Play, which is to be seen at the Grand on Friday and Saturday with Matinee On Saturday Afternoon.

GREAT WAR PLAY IS "P.B.I.", WHICH COMES TO GRAND NEXT WEEK

The Toronto Telegram has the following to say of "The P. B. I.", the Canadian war play which appears at the Grand an Friday and Saturday of this week:

War as penned by playwrights and acted by stage stars is footlight fighting alongside of the real stuff written and played in "P. B. I., or Mademoiselle of Bully Grenay."

It is a play of war as seen through the eyes of a man who served and lived through the War. The actors are men who draw from their past experience as they act.

Their stage clothes are soiled with the clay of the greatest stretch of stage in the history of drama. They were individuals in the most magnificent company of "actors" that ever drew a sword.

That seems a reason why other war plays appear footlight fights in comparison. The memories of being sent up to, and pulled out of, various front line trenches as Pte. W. L. McGeary (P.P.C.L.I.) enable that author to introduce officers and men shorn of all conventional masks.

The "Gigadier-Breneral."

The P. B. I. "dugout" staff officer is a military genius of afternoon tea taste, together with a thirst to visit the front line trenches. The self-exalted subaltern newly out from Bexhill, with his Brasso and Shino and "training" sprouting all over him, is made one of the chief comedians of the play, under the title of "War Baby," until his platoon (and batman) drill him into a brave officer. The author also parades to his audience such characters as the platoon grouch, the ladies' man, the non-coms, and voila! the mademoiselles as he has seen and found them out there. There are heroes, traitors, and lovers, but a platoon of laurels would be insufficient, and up to the last curtain it is risky to decide whether "Beel" or "Percy" or the "Sarge" wins the love of coquettish Suzanne of the Bully Grenay Billet.

Was It Mock Rum?

Mock rum issues and a front line trench that is squeezed into a theatre stage might be expected to warp the free-and-easy devil-may-care spirit of the C.E.F. The P.B.I. cast could easily have been carolling and cursing the Chalk Pits. Their natural true-to-life acting is refreshment after a series of artificial and obviously acted episodes of the war. Passages of humour, pathos, courage, and tragedy are done in the simple, unaffected ways that characterised the revelation of those qualities when duty demanded them.

The author kept up the courage in showing the troops' capacity for the French brew and in detailing the character of Pte. 'Erb 'Awkins, of East London fame, to voice his grievances in regimental language. Pte. 'Awkins decides that "this is a 'ell of a war, this is," and adds that "the ooos blinkin', Bloomin', bloody Infantry does all the fightin'." Whence to interpret a mystery, is derived the name P. B. I.

Hist! Mr. Generalissimo.

An omission of the War Office is also rectified in P.B.I., in that Pte. Harris, the batman, shows how batmen as a rank, and Harris in particular, have trained some of the finest officers in the C.E.F.

None of the little etceteras that help to win a war and make a play real are A.W.L. in P.B.I. There's an example of one of the many famous estaminets and two examples of the more famous mademoiselles. The choruses, the poker game, and the mail from home are vivid recollections. Flickering candles, filling the dugouts with dark shadows of waiting men, are a speaking representation of other shadows and other dugouts. In this scene Pte. 'Erb 'Awkins wriggles off his army shirt and conducts a private war on the side. Perilous expeditions over the top, shots that find their mark, and the work of medical men and stretcher-bearers, are brought out as the play unfolds. And before the curtains go down there are cheers for promotions and decorations for the brave.

AT THE ALLEN

"The Strange Boarder" is the latest Goldwyn starring vehicle for Will Rogers, which may be seen at the Allen Theatre, for two days, commencing to-morrow.

The picture is adapted to the particular branches of the acting art in which Mr. Rogers excels, comedy drama. It is the story of a rancher who for the sake of advancing himself financially, that his little son may enjoy the fruits of his work and sacrifices, sells his ranch and becomes the prey of financial sharks and loses all that he possessed. The Goldwyn star is equal to the suddenness of the change from portraying pathos and taking up the comedy role that his part in "The Strange Boarder" demands. His versatality has, with his many other qualities, brought him into the limelight as one of America's foremost screen actors. Mr. Rogers always puts that little natural touch in his work that compels an audience to feel that they have a real sympathy with his characterizations in all his pictures.

Before becoming a screen actor Will Rogers was well known as the Follies comedian. It was on the vaudeville stage that he proved his claim to originality. Night after night he would stage new acts, based entirely on the news contained in the morning newspapers. His popularity as a hero of screen dramas is now universal, and it says a lot for the company who had the foresight to see his possibilities as an actor of the silent drama.

No system of tests yet devised is sufficient to give any real indication of the impression a player is going to create when he is tried in a five-reel production. The first picture however, tells the tale. Either an actor is or is not suited to studio work, and if he is not, no amount of boosting is going to make him popular. Mr. Goldwyn and his associates now are sure that they have brought to the screen a remarkable comedian of an entirely distinctive type. Also in common with other picture men, they feel that the most imperative call is for comedy films marked by a fresh individuality.

The question was whether Will Rogers could "get across" when robbed of his clever monologues. The most critical audience of directors and writers that could be summoned on the coast was unanimous in its declaration that this new discovery has solved the problem of screen comedy without losing any of his laugh getting powers.

Tunics are wide and narrow, long and short.

The circus season in Peterborough for 1920 was inaugurated this morning when the Sparks world-famous shows, making its second visit to Canada, put out a most creditable procession that was viewed and enjoyed by a large crowd.

The circus was in Guelph yesterday and arrived early this morning, unloading its train at the C.P.R. yards, soon after seven o'clock.

The circus men had all of the tents in the air before nine o'clock, and aside from the inspection of the horses and listening to an occasional roar from the wild animals confined in the menagerie cage there was not much to hold the attention of the visitors at the show grounds.

The circus people were astir bright and early this morning, and as soon as breakfast was over the preparations for the parade began. This feature left the show grounds about 10.30 and was on view on George street about eleven.

There was a liberal display of wild animals, music from three bands and the calliope the manipulator of which was right up to date, playing in an artistic manner among other selections, the Maple Leaf, as well as late popular Jazz numbers, sections of mounted ladies and gentlemen, horses driven tandem, and more than 100 others, all gaily caprisoned, stately elephants and a novelty in a camel team, drawing a cage of monkeys, wild west cowboys nad cowgirls, clowns galore and a funny clown band, and closed dens that doubtless held some exclusive menagerie feature. It was a very attractive parade and sent a big crowd out to the show grounds where for an hour previous to the opening of the circus the menagerie held undivided attention.

Many New Animals.

The Sparks show this season has in this department several new and rare specimens, including a family of Australian kangaroos, with a little baby but a few days out of its mother's pouch. It is a cute little beggar about as big as a fox terrier, with a little black pointed nose, black tipped ears, and snapping black eyes. Then there are two fine specimens of Nygals, or African deer, a Russian bear, a cage of baby monkeys as well as the customary lions, elephants and other more common jungle beasts.

Circus Has Many Features.

There was a big crowd at the performance this afternoon. The performances were marked by rapidity of action, the performers being full of ginger, and this was especially true in regard to the platoon of clowns. An usually large number of funny men appeared on the tan bark and they saw to it that there was not a dull moment from start to finish. The comedy was a strong feature of the Sparks' performances.

The most thrilling act on the big bill was the work of Hiro Matuka, a Jap, on an incline rope. Twice, once forward and once backward, he slid from the top of the white top to the ground and elicited loud applause. Another Jap, Kike Youmada, did a decidedly novel act, ascending a flight of steps on his head.

An aerial ballet by the Misses York Evans and Harris, was another thrilling feature of the show, and was heartily applauded.

Altogether the performances were fully up to expectations, and the performers were fully up to expectations and the peformers were freely rewarded with applause.

PUT STUDEBAKER CARS THROUGH TEST RIVALING MOVIE THRILLERS

Roads Impassable, so Drivers Pilot Cars Over Interurban Tracks — High Bridge Across River Furnishes Climax—Trip Proves Reliability of Steering Mechanism.

Shades of all the movie serials ever written! Three Studbaker Sixes were recently put through an ordeal that rival some of the most thrilling of the film thrillers, and they came out with colors flying and the lives of their pilots safe. The test was not in the nature of a "stunt," but was forced upon the drivers by a situation beyond their control.

Because of the freight car shortage, three purchasers of Studebaker cars decided to drive their automobiles over the road from Detroit to Olean, N. Y. Upon reaching Conneaut, O., they were informed that the road between that town and Erie, Pa., was impassable. They decided to adopt the only other alternative of driving over the interurban tracks. They waited until 2 a.m. when the interurban cars stopped running and started upon their way to Erie over the ties.

Following each winding and twisting of the car tracks, the Studebakers pulled up long grades, turned sharp curves, or skimmed over the straightaway, until the trestle of Crooked Creek was reached. Here the supreme difficulty, traversing the narrow bridge, presented itself. Below the drivers and their cars were eighty feet of space.

After a consultation, it was decided that to go back was impossible; so, turning one wheel just inside the track and the other just outside, the trip across the bridge was made.

In risking their cars and themselves, the pilots depended upon the absolute sureness of the steering merchanism and the easy-riding qualities of the cars. The feat was accomplished without a mishap and the party continued on its way to Erie after spending an adventurous half hour.

COLUMBIA RECORDS COVER BIG FIELD

JUNE RELEASES RANGE ALL THE WAY FROM GRAND OPERA TO JIGS.

There are more than a dozen distinct varieties of Columbia Records released this month. The first is a Grand Opera aria by Maria Barrientos. This great soprano sings "Omera Leggera," the charming and ethereal "Shadow Song" from Meyerbeer's Dinorah.

The second variety consists of simple songs by great concert singers. Lucy Gates has made Columbia Records of two sweet lullabies this month. In "Baby Mine" she thrills you with all the awakened hope and anticipation of the mother whose husband is coming back from abroad. "Mammy's Song" is a cunning lullaby crooned to a little pickaninny.

"The Want of You" and "I Know a Lovely Garden" are two love ballads made truly great by Louis Graveure's magnificent baritone. He has a real gift of interpretation and his singing of these two songs is impressive.

Popular Song Hits.

This is the third variety of Columbia Records this month. Al Jolson sings a song to his dashing Spanish sweetheart, and Al Jolson in Spain is the funniest Al that has made a Columbia Record yet. In "That Wonderful Kid from Madrid" this popular Sinbad star turns loose and tries to sing in Spanish with up roarious results. Coupled with Jack Kaufman's convicted tenor solo, "I'll See You in C-U-B-A."

Campbell and Burr's harmonious tenor duet tells of a pickaninny's dreams of the days with his old black mammy in the Sunny South of long ago. On the other side of this record Henry Burr sings as a solo "Rose of Virginia," a Southern love song with an alluring melody.

Love and nature are the themes of Lewis James' tenor solo "Hiawatha's Melody of Love." The tenor duet by Lewis James and Charles Harrison is "Underneath the Southern Skies," an appealing nature song with a harmonious orchestral interlude.

The Peerless Quartette sings "Who'll take the Place of Mary?" a ballad with an even balance between its lyrical sentiment and musical harmony. This is coupled with "Mother's Hands,' a tenor solo by Lewis James.

The first Columbia Records made by Frank Kamplain, the popular vaudeville yodler, are "Emmet's Cuckoo Song' and "Emmet's Lullaby."

"Jean," an amusing song of a persistent serenader, is very well sung by the Peerless Quartette. This selection is coupled with Frank Crumit's sympathetic tenor solo, "What a Day That'll Be."

Orchestra Selections.

This is a variety number four of this month's Columbia Records. Prince's Orchestra plays "Smoky Mokes," a two-step cakewalk which might perhaps be classed among the dance selections, and "Happy Days in Dixie," with an incidental chorus by the Peerless Quartette.

The Philharmonic Orchesra of New York plays the overture from The Mikado, which is in reality a medley of most of its immortal airs, and also that other medley of airs from Mlle. Modiste which make up that opera's overture.

Instrumental Solos.

Patrick J. Scanlon, who holds the record of having played for the greatest Irish reel and jig dancers in the world, furnishes the fifth variety in this month's Columbia Records with four accordion solos. They are "Swallow Tail," "Greenfields of America," "Liverpool," and "O'Neil's Favorite," and they all have a flavor of the "ould sod."

The sixth variety consists of Percy Grainger's three piano solos—"Molly on the Shore," an Irish reel; "Brahm's Valse in A Flat"; and the "Juba Dance," a Southern negro selection. This composer-pianist's flying fingers have gained Grainger hosts of friends.

Sascha Jacobsen's violin solos furnish the seventh variety. He plays that ultra popular fox-trot, "Dardanella," and the waltz, "If You Could Care," from "As You Were. The fox-trot is the leading jazz sensation of the day, and the player is one of leading symphony artists.

Other Varieties.

The "Boston Commandery March" and the "Colonel Bogey March," both by the Columbia Band under the direction of Charles A. Prince, furnish band selections as an eighth variety in this month's Columbia Records.

The Fiske University Jubilee Singers sing two appealing negro folk songs, "Oh! Reign, Massa Jesus, Reign," and "Most Done Traveling," which form variety number nine.

The tenth variety consists of two Hawaiian guitar duets, "Hawaiian Smiles," a waltz and "In the Heart of Hawaii," by Louise and Ferera.

Two screamingly comic Columbia records by Harry Hershfield, of "Abie the Agent" fame, form variety number eleven. They are "Abe Kabibble at the Ball Game," and "Abe Kabibble Dictates a Letter."

Two speeches by prominent men recorded for the Nation's Forum, round out a dozen varieties. Governor Coolidge, of Massachusetts, talks on the subject of "Law and Order," and the other speech presents the first opportunity to hear Bainbridge Colby, our new Secretary of State.

"Khaki Boys' March" is an ununusual bell solo, made in England, with an accompaniment by the British Orchestra. This is on eside of thi smonth's novelty record.

Dances.

"When My Baby Smiles at Me" is an extra funny fox-trot by the Ted Lewis Jazz Band. This is the first Columbia Record in which they make thier trombone laugh. And its some laugh — the father of all laughs, in fact, because it engenders so many more. This dance is coupled with that widely popular new fox-trot, "Rose of Washington Square," played by the Kentucky Serenaders.

The Columbia Saxophone Sextette plays wt onew fox-trots for Columbia Records this month., "Who Wants a Baby?" a medlex fox-trot, and "The Crocodile." This sextette is made up of the pick of more than sixty saxophone players, and its dance records show that the picking was good.

The Columbia Dance Orchestra plays "Swanee," a medley one-step introducing "Come to the Moon"; and the Happy Six plays "Mystery," a medley fox-trot with an incidental chorus sung by Jack Kaufman.

Art Hickman's Orchestra from the St. Francis Hotel, San Francisco, plays "Hold Me," a fox-trot with an incidental piano duet by Hickman and Ellis, and "Dance With Me Again," a one-step. Prince's Dance Orchestra plays the one-step "Oriental Stars" and the fox-trot "Bound in Morocco."

Finally the Columbia Mexican Band plays a native waltz entitled "Among Flowers," the coupling of the bell solo, "Khaki Boys' March," completing this month's novelty record.

Bad Complexions Peeled Off at Home

The girl with the poor complexion complains, "I have to touch up my cheeks. I am sallow and a sight, and only my make-up saves me."

Now, as a matter of fact, more women spoil their good looks than improve them with cosmetics. The practice certainly is unnecessary, now that the virues of ordinary mercolized wax as a beautifier have become known. It has been found that the wax has wonderful absorbent powers. It causes the faded or discoloured scarf skin to flake off in a minute, almost imperceptible particles, so gently, gradually, as to cause no inconvenience at all. In this way the old complexion is actually removed—likewise all fine lines, freckles, pimples, blotches, moth patches, and other surface defects. A new complexion appears — a clear, smooth, youthful, healthy-hued skin such as no rouge, powder, or cream can produce. Mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store in convenient size packages, is applied like cold cream and allowed to remain on over night.

POLICE IN HELMETS.

Not to be outdone by the multitude of males who have donned the straw "lids" in the last few days, the policemen have got out their white canvas headgear and with the whitening and polishing up they have received they present a summery appearance that is only beaten by the sunshine smiles of the wearers.

HAD TO GO TO BED HEADACHES SO BAD

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS MADE HER WELL

When your liver gets sluggish and inactive, your whole health suffers. Your bowels become constipated, your head aches, your tongue is coated, breath bad, specks float before the eyes, you are bilious, have heartburn, water-brash, pain under the right shoulder, muddy and brown spotted complexion, etc.

Help the liver to resume its proper function by removing the bile that is circulating in the blood and poisoning the system.

Mrs. E. Bainbridge, 80 Maple Ave., Amherst, N.S., writes: "I take pleasure in writing you of the good I received by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for headaches. I was so bad I had to go to bed, and could not sit up. A friend told me about your wonderful medicine, and two vials have made me as well as I can be."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are small and easy to take, do not gripe, weaken or sicken, do not leave any bad after-effects. Price 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES AND DARKENS HAIR

Don't Stay Gray! It Darkens So Naturally that Nobody Can Tell.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautifull.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with you dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

Voice Of The People

The Edtior of The Examiner, City:

Dear Sir,—It seems to me in the interests of fair play that an explanation is due to the Hon. Frederick Nicholls' telegram sent to the Minister of Labor, and to the Mayor of Peterborough, under date of May, 1920, a copy of which appeared in the front page of the Examiner on Saturday. The reasonable conclusion that would be drawn from the way Senator Nicholls has worded his telegram is, the men who are out on strike or who have been locked out refused to accept the last Conciliation Board's finding, and they are still on strike. As a matter of fact this Board's findings dealt with only a mere handful of Electrical Workers numbering probably twelve to fifteen, and they did strike in support of the Electrical Workers.

The fact, however, remains that Alderman Whitehouse says that an agreement was entered into with the Local Superintendent of the Company setting the machinists' and certain other employees' rates of wages and the Company repudiated this, and posted up notices notifying the men not to go to work, which, according to the average human mind, constitutes a lockout, and not a strike, as the men offered to go back, according to Ald. Whitehouse's statement, when a settlement had been reached. In view of the fact that an advertisement appears in a Montral paper offering Machinists seventy-five cents an hour to start with, one can hardly understand why this Company refuses to fix a minimum rate of seventy-five cents per hour for Machinists living in Peterborough, and who are now leaving town to the injury of the city generally.

Senator Nicholls has always professed to have a very high regard for the City of Peterborough, and such being the case one would naturally think he would prefer Peterborough Machinists who lived here, and have their homes and families in Peterborough, rather than hire outsiders from another Province at seventy-five cents per hour to start.

The Minister of Labour told me yesterday over the phone that he had appointed a Conciliation Board, and that Senator Nicholls refused to be bound by it, or to have anything to do with it, and, such being the case, if he is dealing generously, as he claims he is, one would expect he would have sufficient confidence in his case to name his member of the Conciliation Board, and have the dispute dealt with. In my brief experience I have usually found that if a man has a poor case he is afraid to have it arbitrated.

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON.

"WET" OR "DRY"

Milk is the food of children and old people. Combined with cereals it makes the ideal ration—but if your stomach does not take kindly to milk pour a little hot water over two Shredded Wheat Biscuits, put a small chunk of butter on each Biscuit, allowing it to melt into the shreds. If you like the Biscuit "dry" split it into two halves and crisp them in the oven and eat them with butter — a real whole wheat toast, wholesome and nourishing.

ONLY TABLETS MARKED "BAYER" ARE ASPIRIN

Not Aspirin at All without the "Bayer Cross"

The name "Bayer" on Aspirin is like 14 Karat on gold. It positively identifies the only genuine Aspirin,—the Aspirin prescribed by physicians for over nineteen years and now made in Canada.

Always buy an unbroken package of "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" which contains proper directions for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Joint Pains, and Pain generally.

Tin boxes of 12 tablets cost but a few cents. Larger "Bayer" packages.

There is only one Aspirin—"Bayer"—You must say "Bayer"

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

RAN OVER BOY BUT DID NOT STOP TO HELP

Harold Wright, the little seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wright, 532 Charlotte street, was severely hurt this morning at about ten o'clock when he was knocked down on George street, just outside of the Hydro-Electric office, by a bicycle ridden by a man whose ideas of courtesy were not such that he should stop to see what injury he had done, but continued on his way. The little boy was taken home and Dr. Scott called and he is resting well this afternoon.

GARDENS NEED RAIN.

Field Crops Near the City are Showing the Effects of Drought.

That the prospects of good crops and bountiful gardens which at first looked so promising is nothing but an idle dream ,is the opinoin of one local market gardener.

The extreme drought was responsible for the backwardness of the crops and gardens and with cutworms annihilating them also in numbers unprecedented for years the outlook was bleak indeed. As an example he said that only about one-quarter of his oats had sprouted. He anticipated a good strawberry crop but the raspberries he did not think would be as good.

25,000 CIVIL SERVANTS ARE RETURNED MEN

JAPANESE WORKING INTO B. C. SALMON INDUSTRY.

OTTAWA, June 1.—Speaking before the Parliamentary Committee on Pensions and Re-establishment this morning, William Foran, secretary of Civil Service Commission, said that of sixty thousand civil servants over twenty-five thousand were returned men, but only seven thousand were permanent employees. Commission had recommended after the armistice that no further appointments be made permanent until all Canada's soldiers were home. The government did not accept the recommendation, however.

Lieut.-Col. Peck, testifying regarding conditions in British Columbia, stated that Japanese fishermen are gaining much too strong a hold on the salmon fishing industry in that province. Last year there were over two thousand Japanese given licenses as against four hundred native born Canadians.

Col. Peck declared that fifty thousand more returned men had gone to British Columbia than the total numbr which went overseas from that province.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

IN WALKED MARY.

In a role which suits her as none other she has ever played before June Caprice has made a big impression in the feature picture being shown at the Grand at present. "In Walked Mary," a delightful and charmingly simple story of the South, adapted from the play "Liza Ann." Her bewitching beauty and charm are exactly what was needed to mark the charming romance a big success, and this Miss Caprice has done. Added to the feature programme a number of comedies are shown making in all a most delightful programme to while away a few hours in the delightfully cool opera house.

AT THE EMPIRE.

Redhead starring Alice Brady, the feature picture at the Empire, is one of the most charming films shown this season and has attracted large houses at each show. The story of the play is of a little cabaret dancer dancer, Dazie, who the son of a very wealthy New York family, has married in a moment of madness only to regret it when he recovers from his intoxicated condition. Dazie, however, is unwilling to relinquish her husband, whom she loves, and in the end makes a man out of the parasite he has been and wins his love.

The Canadian Government Scenic film, "Gold Mining in Porcupine," is an exceedingly interesting picture, which takes the audience on a trip through the mines, and through all the processes of refining the ore. A Tom Mix comedy and a Ham and Bud Comedy which also figure on the programme, afford just the right amusement for a hot night.

PETERBORO BUSH FIRES UNCHECKED

From Beaver and Sucker Lakes to Eagle Lake, in Cavendish Township, in the north end of Peterborough County, about 20 miles back from Buckhorn, and in the best deer grounds of Peterborough hunt lovers, fierce forest fires are raging, and threaten to destroy the Eagle Lake Camp, Bottle Lake, and Stoney Creek Camps.

Everything that can be done to check the spread of the fire has been done, but the dryness of the bush has made it next to impossible to contral the bush fire, and it has spread rapidly.

Its exact extent is not known, but it would be at least 25 miles long, it is stated.

No word of any fatalities have reached the city, and as the district is north of any farm, no danger is felt by them. The fire is entirely east of the Government Road running from Buckhorn to Goodrum.

Visitors at the fire say that over the entire northland a dense pall of smoke is hanging from the various fires.

Farther south on the Oregon trail, running east from Buckhorn, the 14-mile bush fire is still raging, and all efforts to extinguish it have failed.

Nothing but a heavy rain can stop the spread of these bush fires.

Constipation

It is a disease-producing malady, and if not corrected may result in serious complications. In good health the bowels should move freely at least once every day, carrying away the waste products from the Blood and Liver. If this function fails or is irregular, the work of removing the poisons falls on the Skin and Kidneys, with the result of the latter organs becoming congested and clogged. The Blood becomes poisoned, Indigestion sets in, the Kidneys become deranged, and a severe if not fatal illness is brought on. DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS correct this trouble by its action on the Liver, causing a healthy flow of Bile, and exerting a soothing and toning influence on the whole Intestinal Track.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are put up in three sizes—25c, 50c, $1.00 per Box. For sale at Warne's Drug Store, Peterborough.

CELEBRATED THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

MR. AND MRS. ANDREW FAIRBAIRN HONOURED BY FRIENDS.

A very unusual and delightful event took place on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fairbairn, 9th Concession of Smith, when about forty members of the family gathered to celebrate the fiftieth aniversary of their marriage. Mr. Andrew Fairbairn and Miss Sarah McKee, daughter of Andrew McKee, Selwyn, were married on 1st June, 1870, and for their entire happy and prosperous wedded life have lived on the farm where they still reside with their son William. The comfortable and homelike old farmhouse was tastefully decorated with gold and white, and was fragrant with the odour of huge bouquets of lilacs. After the guests had done ample justice to a bountiful and delicious wedding dinner, they repaired to the parlour and verandah, and enjoyed an hour of social fellowship and music. Rev. P. L. Jull, pastor of the Lakefield Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Fairbairn has been for nearly forty years an honoured elder, gave a brief address, extending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Fairbairn, and expressing the hope that they might yet be spared to add many years to their half-century of happy married life.

The gifts were very appropriate to the occasion: A beautiful flower basket containing a perfect bunch of gladioli, presented by Miss Marie Bickle, granddaughter of the bride and groom; a handsome black ebony clock with gold mountings, from the daughters and son, Mrs. C. L. Bickle, Mrs. Hugh Kidd, Mrs. J. Hampton, and William; a pair of gold cuff links to the groom and a brooch to the bride from the brothers and sisters of Mrs. Fairbairn; a large brass jardiniere from the sisters of Mr. Fairbairn, and a gold-edged glass fruit bowl from Miss Pearl Petrie.

The guests included Mrs. C. L. Bickle and Miss Marie, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Middleton, Mr. and Mrs. George McKee and James, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Beattie and family, and Miss Pearl Petrie, of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. T. McKee, of Little Britain; Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKee, Miss Isobel, and Lorne McKee, of Selwyn; Mrs. Wm. SILENCE IMPOSED ON KRASSIN AS CONDITION OF ENTERING BRITAIN

Embargo Must Be Lifted Off Russia and Peace Concluded, French Paper Reports—French Opposed to Soviets.

PARIS, June 2.—Lifting the embargo of Russia, and the conclusion of peace are indispensable conditions for the resumption of commercial relations between that country and the Allied nations, Gregory Krassin, Bolshevik Minister of Trade and Commerce, has notified Lloyd-George, according to the London correspondent of "Excelsior."

Minister Krassin and his colleagues maintain silence, which, it is understood was imposed as a condition of their receiving permission to enter Britain, according to the Associated Press.

Trade with Russia will not be resumed, asserts the Herald (Labour organ), without the settlement of political questions and the establishment of all conditions of peace, including raising the blockade, sweeping the mine fields, opening posts and telegraphs, and issuing passports.

The Temps accuses Lloyd-George of no other motive than to buy off the Bolsheviki from attacking British interests in the Caucasus by promising to restrain the Poles in their offensive in the west.

"And besides," goes on the Temps, "the principal purpose of Krassin is not the economic resuscitation of Russia, but the securing for Moscow of two things. It seeks to organise a world revolution, first, on the interior reconstruction of Russian railroads, and second, on an exterior bureau of propaganda with secret funds.

"Consulted by Britain, the French Government has let it be known that it refuses to take part in any political negotiations with representatives of the Soviets. It is a very wise attitude, and besides, the Supreme Council of the Allies has never taken any other decision. But the French public, in accord with a large part of British opinion, should, nevertheless, be watchful."

HEAVY RAINS PUT OUT MANY FIRES

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

QUEBEC, June 2. — Reports received to-day regarding the forest fire situation in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec, are far more optimistic, in many cases rain having fallen in sufficient quantities to extinguish the fires. Other messages, especially from New Brunswick, state that the reports of damage have been grossly exaggerated.

In Nova Scotia rain is expected, while the loss is reported at one-quarter to half a million dollars.

One hundred square miles is believed to be the outside estimates of the area of timber limits destroyed.

Heavy rains in many Quebec districts are reported with the fires being rapidly extinguished. In no province is the damage to pulpwood expected to be very great.

The funds will be used to finance the rural credit movement in the Province.

EVICTED FAMILIES FORM TENTED CITY

(Associated Press.)

NEWARK, N. J.—One hundred and ten families, evicted by landlords, are comfortably housed in Vailsburgh Park to-day under tents loaned to the city of Newark by the War Department. It is a real Tentville whose denizens, although temporarily homeless, are as happy as could be expected in a community forced to live outdoors. It is expected that, before the end of Summer, 200 more families will have joined the little colony.

Captain Thomas W. Reilly, a machine gun man with a fine overseas record laid out the place and gave each arrival a come, first served choice of their canvas habitation. One of them was a young widow with four children. She received an order to vacate her apartment after failing to defeat her landlord in a lawsuit.

The city appropriated $25,000 for the operation of the camp and Governor Edwards donated a big tent which, in the center, serves as a community kitchen. Army food from the municipal sales stations helps further to keep down th e cost of living. The new settlement is provided with many conveniences including a sewerage system, running water, a laundry tent equipped with tubs and stoves for ironing, shower baths and toilets.

The total cost of installing the improvements was less than $500, according to Captain Reilly, the largest single item being $120 for heavy insulated wire for electric lights. Soldiers and a number of city employees helped to put up the tents which are 16 x 16 feet and lay the board flooring. The tents are boarded up three feet from the ground. Most of the inhabitants of Tentville have stored their furniture in the prospect of better days and are sleeping on cots furnished by a local hospital. The "town" is laid out in eight streets with one main avenue bisecting them

THE WEATHER

The last two days the temperature has been up to 85 degrees in the shade. This is the highest of the season, and genuine summer heat. Last night the lowest was 60 degrees. This was the warmest night to date. Aside from a few sprinkles the rain still keeps off, although very badly needed. Heavy thunderstorms deluged the country to the north and also in the Ottawa district yesterday and last night, and less important showers have been general all through the west.—W.P.

BREAD WAGGON HIT BY JACKSON PARK CAR.

At 11 o'clock to-day the regular habits of a horse owned by Stock and Son's bakers got into a serious smash up. The horse and bread waggon were on the east side of Park street directly opposite Gilmour street. For a moment the driver left the waggon delivering bread to a house. He was away only a few minutes but the equine as it is accustomed to do daily turned the waggon and walked slowly across the tracks heading for Gilmour street At the same time the Jackson Park car was speeding down the grade on Park street and was nearly at Simcoe when the horse and rig were first noticed. It was too late for the motorman to stop the car and in the smash up that followed the wagon had three wheels broken while the bread box escaped. The jolt knocked the horse off its feet and under the fender in some remarkable way bending the fender. The horse escaped serious injury but received a jolt that will perhaps cause it to relinquish its meandering ways. The motorman on the car was Lawrence Gibson and the conductor Stanley Matchett.

PRESENTED WEDDING GIFT TO RUTH MANN

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mann, of Smith Township, on Friday evening, 28th May, when the B.Y.P.U. of Gilmour Memorial Church met to congratulate Miss Ruth Mann on her approaching marriage. The evening was fine and a happy time was spent in games on the lawn. During the rendering of an impromptu musical programme, consisting of piano solo by Beatrice McGregor, piano duets by Misses Archer and Graham, a song by Mrs. Young, and many speeches of a congratulatory nature, Mr. Harry Young was called upon to read an address of appreciation to Miss Mann, and the presentation of a handsome hall tree in fumed oak was made by Miss Paul. The address was as follows:

Dear Ruth,—Your friends of the Gilmour Memorial B.Y.P.U. wish to spend a happy evening with you before you leave our neighbourhood for your new home in Oshawa. We desire to express our deep regard for you and to offer our heartiest good wishes upon your approaching marriage. You have always been one of us and one with us in the different activities of our church, and we know that you will be greatly missed in all its departments.

We ask you to accept this gift as a token of our esteem, and hope that it may be a pleasant reminder of this gathering and of the goodwill and wishes that go with it. We feel that you will continue in your interest in the old home church and honour it by taking an active interest in the work of God's kingdom wherever your home may be in future. (Signed)

Harry Young,
Mabel Paul,
R. M. Fraser, Pastor.

The prospective groom is Mr. Leonard Palmer, of Oshawa, formerly of Smith, who enlisted in the 93rd Battalion, seeing active service as a signaller in France.

CANADIAN EXPORT PAPER CO. ANNOUNCES NEW PRICE SCHEDULE.

(Canadian Press.)

MONTREAL, June 1.— The Canadian Export Paper Company, Limited, this morning announced its schedule of export newsprint paper prices for the third and fourth quarters of the current year, the new prices showing very large advances over those prices presently prevailing on their export paper prices.

For the third quarter of 1920, which commences July 1 next, the new prices will be 5 1-2 cents a pound, mill, which is equivalent to $110 per ton.

For the fourth quarter of 1920, which commences October 1 next, the new prices will be 1-2 cents a pound, mill, which is equivalent to $130 a ton.

The Canadian Export Paper Company, Limited, controls approximately $25,000,000 per annum of the export paper output of five of the leading Canadian newsprint producers.

It is generally expected that the other Canadian producers of newsprint paper in Canada will advance their prices in line with those adopted by the Export Paper Company, as is usually the case, and that for the last six months of this year the highest prices yet paid for export newsprint from Canada will be netted by the companies.

FRENCH ADMINISTRATIVE FORCES ARE WITHDRAWING—CONCENTRATION OF TROOPS IN VICINITY OF ADRIANOPLE.

UNEASINESS REPORTED

(Canadian Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 2. — Three divisions of Greek troops are occupying the Dedeagatch-Adrianople report that there is much uneasiness there, where Turks and Bulgarians aparently are preparing to resist the entry of Greeks.

French administration in Turkish Thrace has been well received by all classes, including Greeks who are said to be begging the French not to leave. Turkish troops are concentrated chiefly on the railroad between Constantinople and Adrianople and westward along the railway for a distance of thirty miles.

FAMOUS AVIATOR WAS WITH RUSSIANS

RAYMOND COLLISHAW ONE OF 100 CANADIANS WITH DENEKIN.

During the war he commanded the crack All-Canadian Squadron and has a record of 60 Boche machines For the past two years Colonel Collishaw has been with General Denekine's army in Southern Russia, where he describes the operations as a series of advances and retreats He spoke particularly of one advance that the army under General Denekine made towards Moscow. "When we started," he said, "we had all the Russian in the surrounding country supporting us and very keen to down the Bolshevists When we were repulsed and obliged to retire and abandon our plans for the capture of Moscow, we retired in excellent order to find ourselves facing the enemy. The rear troops had joined the Bolshevists and turned our own machine guns on us. It was exciting for a time, but we managed to get away and counter-attacked with great success. That is the way it is out there. One never knows what the Russians are going to do and they do not know themselves what they want to do."

Col. Collishaw has a record of six Bolshevik machines during his sojourn with Denekin's army. "The 100 Canadian airmen attached to General Denekine's army will return to Canada in a few weeks. They are all out of Russia, but are visiting either in England or on the Continent." Col. Collinshaw said in conclusion that he though, after all the excitement of the past five years on active service, he would find the frontier of India, where he is next to be located, rather slow

TO-MORROW KING'S BIRTHDAY.

Holiday for Schools, Banks, and Public Buildings.

While the King's Birthday is a statutory holiday, there is little possibility of an observance of it to-morrow outside of the schools, city and Government offices and banks.

The public schools and Collegiate Institute will be closed. All the banks will close.

The civic offices, except the tax collectors', where the rush of getting out the tax papers is in progress, will be closed in the afternoon.

The Utilities Commission offices will remain open, as will the Hydro-Electric Commission offices.

The Customs House and other Government offices will not be open.

MEASLES PREVALENT; NOT ALL REPORTED

Measles are fairly prevalent still in the city and placards continue to be put up by the M.O.H. at the rate about two or three a day. While at present there are about twenty four houses quarantined, Dr. MacPherson said that he is satisfied there are about as many more not reported as the epidemic being of so very mild a form, the people don't think it necessary to call a doctor and in that way quarantine is neglected. So far Dr. McPherson has not found any serious cases and no complications and as this is the third epidemic of the disease which has visited the city most of the adults have already had it leaving it mainly amongst children.

A REVISION OF ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE

TOKIO. — The cabinet has decided to open negotiations for a renewal and revision of the Anglo-Japanese alliance which Great Britain is said to be willing to maintain with modifications, according to the Yomi-Uri-Shimbun. Though some of the covenants will be changed to harmonize with the league of nations, the newspaper says it is believed there will be no alteration of the principle with regard to safeguarding the peace of Eastern Asia and the integrity of China, and maintenance of the rights and special interests of Japan and Great Britain in the far east.

Marquis Shigenobu Okuma, former premier, has issued a statement saying that although the downfall of Russia and Germany has removed the original positive reasons for the alliance, the uncertain conditions in China and Siberia and the agitation on the part of the Mohammedans of Southern Asia make a renewal of the pact desirable as a negative instrument of peace.

EXPECT GREAT INCREASE. KINGSTON ASSESSMENT

KINGSTON, Ont.—It is expected that the assessment of Kingston will take the biggest jump this year in the city's history. From two and a half to three milion dollars will be added. This year it was necessary to raise the tax rate to thirty-five and a half mills owing to the fact that the assessment during the last two years of the war had remained almost unchanged. Next year the City Council will likely be able to reduce the rate of taxation to 30 mills, through having a larger and more equitable assessment.

FIRST PAYMENT OF SALES AND LUXURY TAXES SATISFACTORY

REVENUE OFFICIALS BUSY YESTERDAY—LAKEFIELD MERCHANT WAS FIRST TO MAKE RETURNS—PROMPTNESS WILL BE DEMANDED IN FUTURE.

The retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers of this district made their first returns under the new sales and luxury tax to the local Inland Revenue office yesterday. Under the new tax retailers are required to make returns semi-monthly on 1st and 15th, while the wholesalers and manufacturers make them only once a month, on the 1st. This makes the returns on the first of the month heavier than the 15th and although it is expected that the returns next month will be much greater than this, the rush yesterday kept the local officers on the jump from early in the morning until late at night.

The first return came in the night before from Lakefield and was opened first thing yesterday morning. It was from a merchant and Mr. W. H. Buller stated that it was perfectly made and only wished that more of the returns were as properly and neatly filled out. All day long returns poured in from local merchants accompanied by cash and cheques. "Everything ran smoothly," Mr. Buller said to-day. He stated that the returns were very satisfactory considering that the new taxes were still in their infancy. Many more returns are expected in to-day from the country and many retailers in this city have yet to send in their invoices and money.

As fast as the proper papers can be filled in and the official red tape gone through the returns and money will be sent to Ottawa and every other day Mr. Buller expects to forward money to the government.

While a certain amount of leniency in this instance has been allowed to those who have to make returns, the local officer made it quite clear to them that there was to be no delinquency or excuses in future return dates when they must be in promptly.

RUSSIA TO HAVE NO MORE MONEY

SOVIET FINANCE MINISTER OUTLINES HIS DREAM OF A COINLESS REALM.

PARIS, June 2.—The Eupropean financial situation is giving rise to many fantastic suggestions for a solution of it, not the least interesting of which is that proposed by Georgevitch Tchitcherin, Soviet Commissioner of Finance in Moscow, whose scheme consists principally in the elimination of silver and other metals as the basis of exchange.

Albert Londres, a Paris newspaper writer, returned here from Moscow a fortnight ago. He now tells in Excelsior how M. Tchitcherin, alone in a dirty room in the Metropole Hotel in the Soviet capital, with a tin of sardines and a bottle of milk at his side, described how Russia intends handling her money matters—at least in so far as her own people are concerned.

"Our main effort is to surpress silver currency," said the Soviet Commissioner. "My greatest joy is to see the rubles gradually vanishing. Perhaps you have noticed that our ruble notes are so designed that they have little more value, even artistically, than the postage stamp. Even a note of a thousand rubles seems to convey the impression that it is not worth more than fifty kopecks. That is in order that the public will get used to disdaining exterior signs of individual capital."

Purchases by Soviet Note.

M. Tchitcherin suggested that it is practicable to effect all purchases and sales through the Government. For instance, if a Russian wants a new hat, the Government would issue a note to a hat maker, ordering him to transfer to the holder of the note goods to the value of a specified amount, this note to be used by the hatmaker in obtaining the materials necessary to produce such an article as he sells for it.

"But suppose that money was suppressed and I should want to leave Russia and visit abroad?" M. Londres asked.

"If there was no particular necessity for you going abroad you would not leave Russia," Mr. Tchitcherin replied. "Under the new regime there would be no birds of travel; but if the motives back of your journey should interest the Government it always would have foreign currencies in its coffers to cover the cost of such a journey."

These were the theories of the man who is tangling Russia's finances beyond all hope of unwinding them. Among other startling revelations which he made was that the Soviet Government would not allow visitors from other countries to enter Russia with metallic wealth. He said the consent of the Government would have to be obtained before foreign moneys could be brought into Russia.

Treatment at Frontier.

M. Tchitcherin said, however, that in a few cases foreigners would be received at the Russian frontiers and lodged in communal residences, subject to the same financial restrictions as applied to Russians. Eventually they would be conducted back to the frontier and the money which they possessed on entering Russia would be handed back to them intact.

An elaborate scheme for the payment of labor is being worked out. It provides for payment of wages in boots, clothing, tools, a certain proportion of tickets for amusement, lodging, food and tobacco. When all the necessities of life are provided the balance will be considered as "devoted to the common welfare." Persons who do not smoke would under this plan get additional rations of food, regardless of whether their stomachs required it or whether they had a personal preference for a few kopecks in their pockets wherewith to buy violets or luxuries for their feminine friends.

M. Tchitcherin failed to say what will become of the millions of rubles in currency which are being poured into the state banks of deposit, but apparently these will be confined to transactions involving other countries which fail to appreciate the Russian plan of financial salvation.

ABOUT EQUAL TO BAG OF POTATOES

Commercially speaking, the human body is worth about $8 and the calculation is not difficult. The human body it is figured, including skin, bones, flesh, nerves, blood, fat, and cartilage, is reducible by analysis to iron, salt, sugar, lime, phosphorus, magnesia, albumen, fatty substances and residue that can be used. If this body weighs 150 pounds, an average weight, there would be enough by-products to make an ordinary iron nail, enough salt to fill a table salt-cellar, enough sugar to fill a small sugar-bowl, enough lime to whitewash a chicken coop enough phosphorus to make a dozen matches, enough magnesia to afford one dose, medicinally speaking. The albumen oids obtained could be used by a tricky baker to replace the whites of a hundred eggs, and there would be enough fat to fill a ten pound pot, eight dollars, then, is man's real worth to commerce, and there are many undersized and illnourished persons who would fall far short of the mark.

Faint and Dizzy Spells Weakness and Shortness of Breath

You can generally tell when the heart is affected by the faint and dizzy spells, the shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensations, weak, sinking, all-gone feeling, choking sensation, etc.

Many men and women becomes rundown and worn out when otherwise they could be strong and healthy if they would only pay some attention to the first sign of heart weakness.

No remedy will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy and normal condition as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. C. A. S. Drake, Paris, Ont., writes:—"I have used on towards the second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and find they have done me good. I had those fainting, dizzy spells, once in a while, and also weakness and shortness of breath, and would become so choked up at times I could hardly sleep without sitting up in bed. When walking too fast I would have to stop and try to catch my breath. I feel a lot better since I have used your pills and know that they have helped me wonderfully as I have improved very much."

A little kerosene will remove finger marks from white wood.

LUXURY TAXES MAY BE CHANGED SLIGHTLY

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 2.—With the formal budget debate out of the way, consideration of the budget resolutions in committee will open with the least possible delay. Here it is expected, the discussion will be protracted, covering possibly a week or so. Provisions made in regard to the income tax and business profits tax are expected to go through without amendment but luxury taxes will be subjected to some changes, it is thought, particularly with a view to making their administration more workable. Important points have been brought out in communications to Sir Henry Drayton and advantage will no doubt be taken of some of the suggestions.

CANADIAN PIANO FAME ABROAD

One in Canada is not likely to think of a piano without the thought immediately suggesting the name of Ye Olde Firme of Heintzman & Co., Limited, who have been in business for seventy years and whose pianos are found in Canadian homes from the Atlantic to the Pacific. This name is fast becoming familiar in many lands abroad. Important shipments of these pianos having gone within the past year to Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and recently in considerable numbers to the Argentine Republic and to Paris, France. The large factory of the firm of West Toronto is kept busy, whilst the beautiful ware rooms at George and Hunter streets, Peterboro are familiar to most everyone.

MAYOR ASKS MINISTER TO COMPLETE BOARD

In the following telegram to the Minister of Labour Mayor Fclntyre to-day appealed to him to appoint a representative of the C.G.E. company in order that the Board of Conciliation applied for by the City Council may proceed,

"Hon. Senator Robertson—After consultation I have decided that the best courst is for you to appoint the Canadian General Company's man to Board and constitute a complete Board of Conciliation to deal with disputes set forth in the city's application as soon as possible. Men willing to abide by result of Board."

Some of those who are striving to adjust the differences have remarked that the least Senator Nicholls could do as a member of the upper house would be to accept the instrument authorized by the Government to endeavour to restore harmony. The Mayor points out that the company has not even appointed a representative or suggested one to the Minister of Labour.

SHE DIDN'T THINK IT WAS POSSIBLE

MONTREAL WOMAN SAYS TANLAC DID MORE FOR HER THAN SHE EVER DREAMED IT COULD.

It is of the first importance after the drain of a severe illness on our physical resources that the spent capital be replaced as soon as possible. The following statement shows how Tanlac accomplished just that in the case of Mrs. Albert Gratton, residing at 607 Evelyn street, Verdun, Montreal, when seen at her home by the Tanlac representative, recently. Mrs. Gratton, said:

"After having the Spanish 'flu' I was in a very weak condition. I simply had no appetite and my digestion was so bad that I had difficulty in retaining what little I did eat. It was as much as I could do to prepare meals for my husband and the children and I just had to let everything else go. The housework suffered in consequence but I could not help it. I had to spend most of the day lying down and often I used to think that my heart would stop beating together. My feet and my hands were continually cold and my complexion was sallow and poor. Rheumatic pains kept me from sleeping at night and I got into such a nervous condition that even the children worried me.

"I was in a truly deplorable state when I began taking Tanlac. I have taken five bottles altogether and it has done more for me than I ever thought possible. I soon had a good appetite and began to eat heartily. I rapidly got stronger and now I am able to do all my work without getting tired. I no longer suffer from cold hands or feet and my complexion is clear and rosy. The rheumatic pains have left me and I enjoy perfectly restful sleep. My nerves are all right again and in fact I am better in every way. I consider Tanlac a most excellent medicine and one that should be in every household."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corner by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; and in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

MAY HAVE TABERNACLE.

House on Brock Street Bought by the Jews of the City.

Purposing turning the building into a Jewish Tabernacle, the Jews in the city have purchased the home formerly occupied by Mr. Augustus Sawers, 298 Brock Street, and will, if all Jews in the city are in accord with the idea, proceed in the near future with the alterations necessary in transforming the house into a Temple.

As there are now 20 Jews in the city, the need of such a Tabernacle is much felt.

THE PENSION QUESTION.

The special committee on Pensions, in its report to Parliament, will recommend, it is understood, that instead of making a permanent increase in the present pension scale, the allowances now paid be augmented by a bonus, high enough to bring the pensions up to a level at which they will enable the recipients to meet the high cost of living. The intention of course is that in the event of a drop in the prices of necessities, the bonus would be lowered, and eventually eliminated altogether if the cost of living warrants such a step. The advocates of the bonus system point out if the committee recommended an increase in the pension scale it would be permanent and no matter how living expenses fluctuated the allowances would remain the same. The committee, in other words, in dealing with returned soldiers, is displaying canniness and caution to a degree that hardly seems necessary in view of the fact that the pension scale, even with the addition of the suggested bonus, is none too large.

PETERBOROUGH'S GROWTH.

The manner in which Peterboorugh has grown in the past few years is evidenced by the report presented by Principal H. H. R. Kenner to the Board of Education last night, calling attention to the necessity of more accommodation for Collegiate Institute pupils. The capacity of the class rooms is already over-taxed and unless the auditorium is used for class purposes, it is prophesied that there will be serious overcrowding next autumn. When the present Collegiate Institute was built it was thought that it would take care of all the students desiring a high school education for many years to come, but the growth of the city has proved more rapid than was foreseen, with the result that the Board of Education will have to devise further accommodation as soon as possible. The Public schools are also overcrowded, and the new Prince of Wales school is being built none too soon to meet the needs of the situation. The fears expressed by some ratepayers that the school is too large are needless. With the industrial expansion that Peterborough has enjoyed this year, the opening of new industries bringing new families to the city, there will be soon need of all the accommodation that can be provided and it will not be long after the Prince of Wales' school is completed before there will be a capacity attendance.

THE VETERANS' PROTEST.

The announcement of Dominion Secretary O'Neill that the Great War Veterans' Association is firmly opposed to increased sessional indemnities for members of Parliament might have been expected. The veterans who were told when they asked for bigger gratuities that the financial conditions in Canada would not permit of any further cash bonuses and that rigid economy in public expenditure was necessary were not likely to remain silent in the face of an attempt on the part of the members of the Dominion House to boost their own allowances. The Veterans expect the government to follow the advice it laid down; economy, like charity, they say, should begin at home, and if the legislators are convinced that Canada's financial status requires the elimination of wasteful expenditure the members of Parliament can set a splendid example to the rest of the country by dropping the agitation for bigger allowances and expressing ther willngness to accept the present indemnities, which are large enough to make it difficult for some of the legislators to prove that they are worth what they are paid. The resolutions passed by the various branches of the Veterans' Associations are voicing objections that are general throughout the country.

GRANTS FOR LIBRARIES.

Municipal bodies which have been niggardly in their treatment of public libraries will have to mend their ways by reason of the new Act passed by the Ontario Legislature, which places the grants to libraries on an entirely new and satisfactory basis. Henceforth population will be the determining factor in arriving at the amount of the grant and the Act will apply to all communities in the province no matter how large or how small, the library boards being entitled to ask for support at the rate of 50c. per capita each year. City councils are given the power to increase the grant to 75c. per head of the population by a majority vote of the council if there is special need for such an increase. In Peterborough for instance, the library board has the right to ask the council for a grant of $10,500, while the city fathers, if they see fit, can vote as high as $15,750 for the support of the library. The old system placed the amount of the grant at a quarter mill of taxation, with a half mill rate for cities over 100,000 population. The fault with this method, of course, was that there were so much difference in the assessment in different communities that in many places the library grant was too small to be of any real assistance and there was no uniformity possible. Under the new Act every place is on the same footing, the grant being in direct proportion to the population. The opinion of Hon. R. H. Grant, Minister of Education, that no better Libraries Act can be found than the one just passed in this province, may be perhaps over enthusiastic, but certainly the change that has been made promises to have beneficial effects in many communities, especially in the many smaller places where the libraries have been more or less neglected. More and more are the people realizing the value of a well stocked and well kept public library, and especially as there an increase in the use of the reference volumes as citizens begin to appreciate the fact that the library is something more than a place in which popular fiction may be obtained. The library boards throughout the province will be encouraged to new efforts by the support they have received from the Legislature.

JUNE.

June's here—the month of bees, butterflies, and blooms, of the summer solstice, of roses, of relief from school, the month of weddings. And if the H. C. of L. has not proved a deterrent, there are expested to be an average of 25 per day in Toronto during the month. The record was 23 in June, 1919. Nobody seems to know why June is th favoured time for marriage ceremonies, but it was so regarded even by the anrient Romans, the junior branch of whose legislature (juniores) probably gave the month its name.

In Toronto there will be more brides of 20 to 24 than of any other age, and more grooms of 25 to 29. These things are all tabulated mathematically nowadays, and that is the way it has worked out in other years. The popular idea that modern conditions has postponed the marrying age of the fair sex until after 25 is reached is not borne out by the Ontario Government's statistics, which show for one year 1,039 Toronto brides between 20 and 24, as compared with 1,129 between 25 and 29, which means that over 70 per cent. more marry at the earlier of these age-groups. The number of women under 30 who wed in this city in a year is 3,833, as compared with 1,157 older women, the latter figure of course including many second marriages. So that when one score years and ten have slipped by, the feminine chances of matrimony appear to be about one in four, as compared with those of younger folk.

15-19	199	765	4	15
20-24	1371	1939	27½	39
25-29	1461	1129	29	22½
30-34	724	514	14½	10
35-39	574	314	11½	6
40-44	267	157	5½	2
45-49	171	91	3½	2
50-54	96	39	—	—
55-59	51	28	—	—
60-64	48	10	—	—
65-70	18	2	—	—
70-up	10	2	*4½	*2

* From 50 upwards.

Te statistics reveal many ill-assorted couples so far as age is concerned. Three grooms of fifteen to nineteen years marry women of twenty-five to twenty-nine, and one a woman of thirty-four. The two brides of 70 or over wedded grooms of 55-59 and 60-65 respectively. One groom of 70 or over took a bride in the 25-29 group.

The modern ceremony differs little from that of our forefathers, when the bride was taken "for fairer or fouler" and promised to be "buxom and bonny." The ring, symbol of that which is without end, was at one time placed on each of the left-hand fingers in turn by the groom. In Anglo-Saxon days it was part of the "wed" or pledge, from which the word wedding is derived, and was given by the groom in childhood betrothal, and thereafter worn on the right hand until marriage, when the father gave the groom one of his daughter's shoes as a token of authority over her. But 'tis said that nowadays there is little authority—that the groom does not want it and that the bride would not permit it anyway. The thing has become a real partnership a change from the days when the Welsh law allowed the husband to discipline his wife by means of "three blows with a broomstick on any part of the person except the head." This "fair allowance," as the law called it, was not to be administered with a stick longer than the husband's arm nor thicker than his middle finger." But there is none of that sort of authority in this June of 1920. And the "best man" need no longer have the qualifications which earned him that name in days when the groom had to surround his bride with a retinue of his "best" or strongest friends, lest some other suitor snatch her away. Fears of that sort of thing have vanished. But high rents and high prices have taken their place as sources of worry. —Toronto Star.

SUCCESS.

'Tis the coward who quits to misfortune,
'Tis the knave who changes each day,
'Tis the fool who wins half the battle,
Then throws all his chances away.

There is little in life but labor,
To-morrow may prove but a dream,
Success is the bride of Endeavor,
And luck—but a meteor's gleam.

The time to succeed is when others,
Discouraged, show traces of tire—
The battle is fought in the home-stretch,
And won 'twixt the flag and the wire.

MAY REPORT OF CROPS IN ONTARIO

VEGETATION TWO WEEKS BEHIND THE AVERAGE.

The following is a summary of the May Crop Bulletin prepared by the Statistics and Publications Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, based upon information furnished under date of May 22nd:

Vegetation is estimated as being from ten days to two weeks behind the average.

Most of the live stock were on the grass by the third week of May, but in many instances there was not enough pasture to satisfy, as growth has been slow on account of the rather cool Spring.

Spring sowing was being rushed as correspondents wrote, the weather then being bright and open. In some favored localities all Spring grains were in and corn and roots were being planted, but the majority were not so far on. The seed bed, generally speaking, was never in better condition. Opinions are greatly divided as to the likelihood of an increase in the acreage of Spring crops. Less Spring wheat and more oats, corn and sugar beets are reported by some. A number of correspondents state that more land will be pastured than formerly.

Fall wheat, which came through the Winter in excellent form, received somewhat of a setback by the raw, Spring weather, but is expected to have at least an average yield. The acreage is about ten per cent. greater than last year.

Clover has not done so well as winter wheat. The mid-summer drouth last year was trying to the crop, and it suffered in places from Spring heaving.

Alfalfa has done relatively better than clover.

Sweet clover is rapidly coming into favor, being in good demand both for fodder and seed.

Fruit trees where well kept are blossoming profusely as a rule. Some raspberries and grapes have been more or less cut back by frost but small fruits generally are expected to be generous in yield if the weather continues favorable.

Fodder supplies have been greatly drawn on, on account of the cold Winter and the lateness of the Spring pasture. Hay is scarce, and grain scarcer; many farmers had to buy north-western oats for feed. The good quality and large supply of corn ensilage was the main factor in saving the situation.

Many farmers have exchanged work and are using improved machinery, as help has been so hard to procure. "We do what we can ourselves and let the rest go," is a frequent expression of those reporting.

SANDRA THE JEALOUS

SANDRA REALIZES THAT SHE HAS DEVELOPED.

CHAPTER CXXXVIII.

"Have you seen the paper tonight?" Everett asked when he came in.

"No, I have been playing with Junior, and haven't looked at it. He is so cunning I forgot everything when I am with him."

"Walter Kemp was killed yesterday; rather, injured so badly he died this afternoon. An automobile accident."

"How terrible. Let me see the paper, please?"

It was only a short paragraph which told of Walter's death; the manner of it. He had a collision with another car, and while both his own chauffeur and the occupant of the other car had escaped, Walter had been terribly injured.

"Poor Rose. What an ending of her married life. She wanted to be happy — longed, for it more than anyone I know — unless it is myself," I said, really thinking out loud more than addressing Everett.

"And so you have longed for happiness, Sandra? I hope you have found it," Everett returned very gravely.

I made no reply. I WAS happy most of the time,—in a measure. I could not tell him that the thought of what he had withheld from me, and had given Leola, was a constant hindrance to my happiness. I sent a telegram to Rose at once. I was so sorry for her. It was all so pitiful. Everett remained at home that evening, and we talked of little else. I could not dismiss it from my mind.

"I am glad she went back to him, now," I remarked, "I thought her foolish when she did it. But I have a feeling she will be happier than if she had not—she is his wife, and he sort of belongs to her now, even though he is dead."

"Yes, she will probably feel that way. Then too it will save gossip, and newspaper talk, which would have been almost unavoidable had they been divorced."

"I had not thought of applying what I said to Everett until I saw him flush. Then it came to me: Leola belonged to him also, even though she was gone. No matter how she had flirted; how she had pained him when alive; no one could question his claim to her now.

Suddenly Rose, her trouble, receded. Walter was gone. But Everett, the man I loved with all my heart, could even now flush over the mention of his first wife—look conscious —and so make me unhappy.

"I wish she was buried fathoms deep in the ocean!" I thought, then wondered if he now visited her grave. If he ever had since we had been married.

Strangely enough, with all my jealous thoughts and fears, this never before had occurred to me. Perhaps he made regular pilgrimages to it even now? The cemetery where she was buried was not far; he could easily take time from his business hours to go there and I never should be the wiser.

"What are you thinking of, Sandra?" I was startled at the question breaking in upon my thoughts. "Try and put Rose, her trouble, from your mind. We will do anything we can for her; but fretting and lying awake won't help her, and it will harm you."

"No— I wasn't thinking of Rose just then,' I had only faintly heard or absorbed anything but his question.

"What then? You looked very serious."

"Did I?" I laughed a little as I pulled myself together. Suppose he knew what was in my min, what would he think of me? He would probably consider me a silly little fool. I answered the question to myself.

"Yes, and dear, perhaps Rose is happier than if Walter had lived—or will be happier after a while. He never would have been true to her — or to any one woman. I am ashamed to confess it, but there are such men, men who have no sense of sex faithfulness.; He was one of them. No one knows from what she has been saved by his being taken from her now." He still thought me serious because of Rose, and was trying to comfort me. While I was only thinking of myself, and my determination to find out if he still made pilgrimages to the spot where he had laid Leola.

UNVEIL WINDOW IN BENSFORT CHURCH

PRESENTED BY SOUTH MONAGHAN TOWNSHIP COUNCIL.

A very interesting service was held in the Bensfort Methodist Church on Sunday morning last when a memorial window was unveiled in memory of two former members of the congregation who gave their lives for King and Country. The window was formally presented by the South Monaghan Township Council by Mr. Fred. Waterman in the following address:

To Rev. M. W. Leigh and the Board of Trustees of the Bensfort Methodist Church:

On behalf of the South Monaghan Township Council and Memorial Committee, we present to you this memorial window in loving memory of Private N. Hills, 208th Canadian Irish Regiment, C.E.F., and Private Walter Dawson, 26th Battalion, C.E.F., who sacrificed their lives in the Great War that we might live and may it long remain a fitting tribute to these soldier boys and a reminder of the duty we owe them in living a life worthy of the sacrifices made by them."

M. WILLIAM, Reeve.
JOHN GREER, Chairman Mem. Committee.
F. WATERMAN, Sec. Mem. Com.

On behalf of the Church Rev. M. W. Leig accepted the window and expressed the thankfulness of the congregation for the gift. Col. E. B. Clegg, of Peterboro, after a short nicely-worded address unveiled the window and Sergt. Sharpe, of Peterboro, sounded the Last Post.

RECLAIM TOWNSHIPS.

May Be Best Land in Saskatchewan.

(Canadian Press.)

SASKATOON, Sask., June 2.—Survey work for reclamation of several townships of what the government engineers believe can be made the best lands in Saskatchewan, will commence soon in the Moose Range north of Tisdale, states G. F. Horsey, of the reclamation services, department of interior. A survey party of 15 men has left for the north to undertake the initial work in this connection.

The drainage branch of the department has a considerable programme in the west, and in the three prairie provinces has ten engineers working. Last year a complete survey was made of 13,000 acres in the Waterhill Lake district, region of Kinistino, and it is hoped to have construction gangs working there this summer.

PROUDLY CANADIAN IS BIG WAR PLAY

GROUSING AND FIGHTING, LAUGHTER AND MUSIC, PATHOS AND TRAGEDY ALL FIND THEIR PLACES IN THE P.B.I.

The cryptic title, "The P.B.I." at once gives this play away as a "war-play which will be seen at the Grand on Friday and Saturday.

A courtyard romance, the machinations of a Boche spy and the trials and education of a green subaltern form the triple waves of plot on which the action is swept forward from the billet in Bully Grenay through dugout and trench to No Man's Land and then swirled back through the Dressing Station to the now-familiar estaminet court in which occurs the denouement.

Grousing and fighting, pathos and tragedy, all find their place in the piece but for the most part the scenes are dominated by laughter and music, for the dialogue is pungent with Army humour and the action is interspersed with snatches of patriotic French chansons, sentimental-English love ditties and devil-may-care Canadian trench-parodies.

This play was written by the troops for the troops and in its outlook is proudly Canadian.

MAKES FORTUNE IN 12 YEARS IN WEST

ONTARIO TEACHER NOW A WEALTHY FARMER AT 33.

Canada's "king of farmers" has been staying in Toronto and has just left for the west. The story of his achievements in Saskatchewan sounds like a fairy tale. Twelve years ago he taught school at $12 a week in a little town 40 miles from Toronto. To-day he is lord over flocks and herds, is master of grain fields which stretch literally for miles, and his yearly income is double that of many a pompous bank president. And he started in 1908 as a humble homesteader on 160 acres with little capital or experience. To-day he is associated in business with great western magnates, and operates a farm of 22,500 acres. Some farm!

A Young Man Still.

The man who, by his own endeavors, has accomplished all this is but 33 years old. His name is Edward E. Bellamy.

Stakes All on Flax.

Advised by friends, Bellamy went straight into the Goose Lake country, about 150 miles south of Saskatoon and famous for its wheat. Planking down $10 at the land office, he settled down on a desirable quarter-section. He erected a tiny shack and stable, bought some horses and implements and set to work. Determined to make or bust, he decided to break every possible acre if tat 160 by his own efforts and to have the rest broken by contract. He also decided to get the utmost out of his first crop, and accordingly sowed flax, that prolific friend of the poor settler. Luck was with him. His bold stroke succeeded and he harvested a good crop, which not only paid off all his indebtedness, but set him on his feet. He bought more land on deposit of first payments, making his more cautious neighbirs fairly gasp at his boldness, and succeeded with it as well as he had with his first venture.

Thirty Miles of Fence.

Later he came east twice and took courses at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Farming had now become a big business enterprise with Bellamy, who with the co-operation of others, impressed by his business ability, was able to get backing, and more and more land under his control, until the farm attained its present mammoth proportions—far greater than those of some of the early large western farms which were notoriously unsuccessful.

This year Mr. Bellamy will have 7,500 acres under grain—spring wheat, oats, barley and flax—besides a large area of hay and alfalfa and field corn, as ensilage for his stock. The herd of 3,000 cattle — mostly Hereford, for a prize bull of which breed he has just paid $21,000 — range over a pasture enclosed by thirty miles of wire fence. There are 100 brood mares on the farm, but most of the work is done by gasoline tractors. A fine central dwelling and outer ranches house the army of men employed on the place, whose gastronomic needs are well looked after by Chinese cooks and waiters.

MAY OBTAIN CROSSES FROM SOLDIERS GRAVES

OTTAWA. — The Imperial War Graves Commission announces that when the temporary wooden crosses that mark the graves of officers and men abroad are replaced by permanent memorials, it will not be possible to preserve beyond a certain time those that are not required by the relatives. Next of kin who wish these wooden crosses to be sent to them are, therefore, requested to apply to the secretary, Imperial War Graves Commission, Winchester House, St. James' Squire, S. W. London, before September 1, stating the address to which the cross is to be sent and giving the usual particulars regarding the soldier on whose grave it is erected. It will be a convenience if the name of the cemetery is also given. A note will be made of these wishes and the wooden cross will be sent in due course.

This will, of course, not take place for some time, so next of kin should keep the secretary informed of any change in the address.

MEDALS FOR MOTHERS.

PARIS, June 1.—There is a big demand already for the medals offered by the Government to the mothers of large families of healthy children.

To mothers having five children, the youngest of whom is not less than 5 years of age, a bronze medal will be given. The mother of a family of eight will receive a silver medal, while one who has ten children will be awarded a gold medal.

MAY'S SCHOOL RATE REGARDED EXCESSIVE BY SOME TAXPAYERS

ACCOMODATION HAS REACHED ITS LIMIT AND A FIFTEEN MILL RATE OR HIGHER IS PREDICTED—OPINION IN FAVOUR OF ANNEXATION IS REVIVING.

THE COUNCIL'S ATTITUDE

In refusing consent to the city's application to annex a lot in North Monaghan owned by Mr. John Davidson in the west end across the boundary the township council has served notice that if Peterboro desires to acquire any more property in that direction it must take a real bite and not another nibble from the edge. The city's border on that side is becoming decidedly serrated, and Monaghan taxpayers declare that by the annexation of single lots they are being deprived of land that has comparatively high assessment value. That is one reason for the township's opposition and it is a minor one.

May's School is developing a problem many of the outlying ratepayers would be gladly rid of. The school is now overcrowded with children from the southern and south western suburbs, additional accomodation is required at once, the teachers have demanded increased salaries, and if the school is enlarged or if other provision is made for the children the cost will have to be borne by township residents.

School Rate Now 12 Mills.

Extensions would be expensive and the school rate for that section would advance considerably beyond its present high level of twelve mills.

Many of the ratepayers already regard the school tax as excessive and with ordinary facilities for new pupils a fifteen mill rate can scarcely be avoided. This is the opinion of several of the residents of the section. They have little or no hope of arranging with the city to take care of the new group of children who will be ready for school in September. There is no relief from that source for this year in any event, and this perplexing situation is reviving the conviction that the only satisfactory solution lies in the annexattion of a considerable area of the township adjoining the city.

Hence, it is stated that behind the opposition to the application of the lone lot is a determination that the next acquisition by the city must be an extensive block that would include the May's School district. Several prominent Monaghan residents assert that the failure of Ald. Turner's agitation early last year for the annexation of part of the township was due to its comprehensiveness. Had he confined the area within narrower limits Ald. Turner's scheme would have greater chances of succeeding.

Citizens Against It.

"The strongest opposition to that annexation came from the ratepayers of the city" asserts one farmer. "They saw an expenditure for sewers and sidewalks and other improvements, a considerable portion of which would have been charged against city property. Besides Ald. Turner was taking in market gardens and other areas that would have been of no use to the city and was better left in the township. If an agitation was started to annex the more settled strip next to the city it would likely be carried through. Of course some of the people would object, but there are many who would be glad to have their property incorporated within the city."

Monaghan has several school problems of which the lack of accomodation at May's is perhaps the more serious. Further west there is a movement for a consolidated school, and it is believed that if the municipality was freed of the surbaban difficulty they would be in a better position to deal with the needs of the rural sections. At any rate Monaghan Council's decision indicates a new policy of "all or none" in regard to annexations, and seems to invite a new approach from the city.

HOW TO FIGHT THE GARDEN CUTWORM

THEY HIDE BY DAY AND BY NIGHT FEED ON YOUNG PLANTS.

Watch for our insects and plant pests. They are numerous and most destructive. Once let them get a firm hold on your vegetable garden and they will do irreparable damage in a very short space of time. Study them, learn their habits and how to combat their onslaughts. They are interesting even if annoying. Be ready for them when they come, and see to it that their stay is a short one.

Cut Worms.

Early in the season the cut worm commences the work of destruction. Like a much advertised pill he works while you sleep. Evidences of his noctural visit will be found in the morning in the form of young plants, which have been cut off clean close to the roots. On stirring the soil nearby you will likely find the culprit, a greasy-looking caterpillar, curled up just below the surface.

These cut worms are among the most destructive of garden pests owing to their practise of destroying a whole plant in order to devour a small portion of the foliage.

Destroy Without Reason.

The cut worm is a miserable form of creation that seems to take a delight in the destruction of plant life. No good word can be said for this creature. Other pests merely destroy what they actually devour, or injure because they live on the juices of the plant, but the pesky cut worm, so far as his habits are known, destroys a whole plant, or perhaps more than that for the sake of satisfying a very small appetite. Cut worms destroy all sorts of juicy annual plants, and the soft young growth of woody vegetation. They are especially destructive to cabbage and tomato plants. They hide in the daytime under clods of earth, stones, or anything lying flat on the ground. When fully matured they become what is known as the owlet moth, and the pupae live in cocoons in the ground. They are most numerous in places where old sod has been turned over, or in garden plots near grassy places.

Protecting Collars, Etc.

Paper collars, made of tar paper or of stiff cardboard, and placed around the stems of the newly set plants in such manner that one end goes beneath the soil and the other rises an inch or so above, will help save the plants from attack. Tar paper discs, measuring a couple of inches each way, with a hole cut in the centre to fit about the stem of the plant, and a slit cut from one edge to this opening so that the disc may be slipped on the plant, is another form of protection. These discs lie flat on the surface of the soil, and the cut worm is not supposed to pass over their surface.

Scattering poisoned bran mash on the soil about the plants that are liable to attack is the best way to destroy these pests. The poison is prepared by adding one teaspoonful of Paris green to a quart of wheat bran. Next dissolve sugar or cheap molasses in sufficient water that when the fluid is added to the brand the whole will become a crumbly mass; sufficient sweetening must be used to make the mash attractive. One teaspoonful of molasses should suffice for the quantity of bran mentioned.

Should Be Prepared.

Before pests have made their appearance is the time to prepare to meet their attack. To wait until the insect pests have taken possession of your garden before making preparation to meet their attack is to lose the first round of the battle, at least. If the necessary insecticides and fungicides, together with a spray pump and a powder gun, with which to apply them, are secured now and held in readiness for immediate use, the first appearance of some of the insect pests will be the last.

Stale bread can be used as a basis for many meat dishes.

Celery added to cream potatoes will give them a good flavor.

Add a little ammonia to cut the grease when washing dishes.

PEAK OF PRICES REACHED, STATES U.S. SHOE TRADE

BOSTON. — The Boston News Bureau has conducted an investigation into the shoe situation in New England, particularly as affecting prices and wages, present and prospective. The following summary, with reasonable qualifications that might apply to a particular locality, can be said to represent the status of the shoe industry at the present time.

The concensus of opinion among shoe manufacturers is that the peak of shoe prices has been reached, a fact due to lessened demand and an accumulating supply in the hands of retailers as well as manufacturers. A realization has set in that shoes are "as dear as the public will stand." One large maker of shoes admits that shoes are "too dear to warrant large purchases by retailers."

There is a noticeable tendency among retailers to liquidate and to hold off as long as possible from adding to their stock in order to see how the market is going and this in turn will necessitate that curtailment of production by manufacturers. Shoe dealers have lost their optimism about prices. They are unwilling to load up with a stock of shoes as a speculation merely, though it has been profitable so to do in the past two years when the great demand and the small supply operated to produce what even the manufacturers acknowledge to be exorbitant prices.

There is a general belief among large producers of shoes that prices will show some concession in the fall though no extraordinary decline can be looked for.

The dullness that has recently prevailed in Massachusetts shoe towns has become accentuated the past few days, with further lack of orders. So far the resultant decision to make definite curtailment programs has been more pronounced on the South than on the North Shore.

Usually the shoe factories close down for a part of July for inventory and stock taking; that operation is this year being shoved ahead to the present, as being a decidedly convenient time in view of trade conditions and the attitude of labor.

DISPLAY OF SUMMER GOODS.

Cressman's Window Attracting Attention—Memorial Shield.

The central display window at Cressman's store, which already this week has been the object of much interest with its splendid display of summer accessories in the way of lawn and verandah furnishings, has an added attraction at present. Occupying the centre of the window is a very handsome memorial shield of oak inlaid with steel and lettered in gold leaf, which shield will be unveiled in the Dovercourt Citadel, Toronto, on June 8th in memory of the boys from the Citadel who served and made the supreme sacrifice during the late war. At the centre of the top, the Union Jack and Canadian Flag are crossed with the Salvation Army flag over the beaver. The splendid work is one of the many shields J. J. Turner & Sons have made for churches and institutions throughout Canada. A similar shield was shipped recently to Yorkton, Sask., Collegiate Institute.

STRAWBERRY CROP NEEDS RAIN SOON

WILL BE RUINED, MARKET GARDENERS SAY, UNLESS SHOWER COMES.

Unless a good shower of rain comes very soon the local crop of strawberries will be ruined, the green grocers say, and the whole country is suffering from the same condition, resulting in a very poor outlook for the strawberry growers. Strawberries being brought in from outside are very expensive, selling at 45 and 50 cents for an American quart.

Pineapples are down this week, the best grades selling at 35 cents each. Grape fruit are very high, selling at 2 for 45 cents for the best grades and 2 for 25 cents for the smaller ones. Oranges since Christmas are a little easier, selling at $2 a box cheaper.

New potatoes still keep out of reach of the general public, selling at $18 and $20 a bbl. Asparagus is selling at 18 cents a bunch, slightly cheaper than the same time last year.

Edison Goods Unaffected by Tax

The present selling prices of THE NEW EDISON and records will not be changed by the new tax lately imposed on Phonographs. On these lines the dealers have already been paying a war tax of 7½ per cent., also an excise tax of 10 per cent., both of which were abolished when the new tax became effective. That made only an additional tax of 2½ per cent., part of which has been assumed by the wholesaler and part by the Greene Music Company,

Leaving Edison Prices the Same as Before

This applies to both Instruments and Records, and our large circle of customers will be pleased to know that they can buy their favorite Phonographs, and Records for them, without an increase on the prices that prevailed for the past few months. We would like to demonstrate a New Edison for you, either in our comfortable special Demonstration Parlours or in your home.

We sell at an unchanged scale of prices, and give you time accommodation to pay for it if desired.

BERNARD SHAW ON COMMUNITY MUSIC

MUSIC SUSTAINS MORALS AND MUNICIPALITIES HAVE CHARGE OF COMMUNITY MORALS.

Mr. George Bernard Shaw, speaking in favour of the municipalisation of music at Wednesday's sitting of the English Music Society's National Congress in the Aeolian Hall, London, said it was extraordinarily important that there should be in every centre of population in this country a competent symphony orchestra and an opera theatre, and that no child should be brought up without abundant and free means of access to the best music.

The resistance would come from people with neither musical nor anti-musical views, but from the general terror of the ratepayer that the rates would be put up. They would require to point out therefore that artistic and musical culture was a thing that paid in the long run. Municipalities had charge of the morals of the community, and very often they had a great deal of trouble in that connection. He had taken part in those measures which the municipalities used for sustaining the morality of their districts, and he was forced to admit that these measures were practically an encouragement to immorality—they were so entirely futile.

To raise the morals of a district, said Mr. Shaw, the one thing that should be kept in mind was that the community consisted largely of young persons growing up. At a certain period in their lives, when they began to take a larger and more general interest in their human relations and before the time when they could afford to get married, it was no use pursuing a policy of puritanism—a policy of strict repression of their human impulses. The real remedy was provided by nature and by God. All they had to do was to find an outlet for all those impulses in art. If their young men had music and pictures to interest them, to satisfy many of their impulses and to live their days they would not go to the low pleasures of the streets. They would have an alternative, and they would be too fastidious to do so.

Towns at present were in such a state of barbarism and philistinism, concluded Mr. Shaw, that the profit was going to the people who exploited the vices of the streets. That was a fact too seldom mentioned in this country. Vice led to drunkeness and degradation of character ,and contributed very largely to the keeping up of the rates. If that were explained in detail he thought that even the most parsimonious payer of rates would be persuaded that it would make towards healthier and better life in their towns, and keep the rates lower if they had an abundent and generous provision for art.

IMPERATIVE NEED OF INCREASED ACCOMMODATION AT COLLEGIATE

MR. H. R. H. KENNER WARNS THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF EXTREME OVERCROWDING AFTER THE VACATIONS—USE OF ASSEMBLY HALL ONLY SOLUTION.

TWO MORE TEACHERS REQUIRED

Immediate action in the matter of providing increased school accomodation for the pupils of the Collegiate Institute was urged by Mr H. R. H. Kenner at the regular meeting of the Board of Education last evening. In his report Mr. Kenner pointed out the fact that Inspector Rogers had already reported upon the necessity of engaging two new teachers and that the fourth form will be overcrowded after the summer holidays to such an extent that the only immediate solution lay in the exclusion of non-resident pupils. Form three will be greatly over crowded. Outside of the eleven present class rooms one other room is already doing duty as library and special class room. Mr. Kenner concluded by stating that while the assembly hall might be cut into two additional rooms the only real solution is the building of a new wing. He urged haste in the matter of engaging two additional teachers. Consideration of the report was left over for the special meeting of the Board to be held presently. The appointment of another teacher for the Commercial Department will also be dealt with.

Debating Contests.

Drawing attention to the benefits to be derived from such Mr. J. H. Burnham asked the Board to consider the question of public debating contests between public school pupils and offered to provide prizes for such. Mrs. W. R. Morris thought something should be done along this line and Mr. Mowat advised procuring information on the subject from outside sources, while the general feeling amongst the members of the Board was that in the event of establishing such a course the Board should reserve the right of providing prizes.

Closing Day.

Inspector Mowat drew the Board's attention to the fact that the legal date of closing the schools for the Summer holidays is June 28th and it was decided to name the 25th as the closing for this year. The Collegiate Institute regular classes will close on June 11th when the Departmental examinations will be commenced at the Collegiate.

After service for 32 years as teacher on the Public School staff Miss Annie Peters tendered her resignation to the Board last evening due to the failing health of her parents and the Secretary was instructed to write expressing the Board's appreciation of her splendid and faithful services.

Applied for Positions.

Applications for positions on the Public School staff were received from Miss Edith Brumwell, Miss V. E. H. Fussee, Miss Gladys Hunter and Miss Mildred Sisson. These were filed.

School Attendance.

In his report of the school attendance Mr. Mowat stated that the attendance had been affected slightly by the epidemic of measles. Following are the figures for the month:

	On Roll	Average
Central	504	463
Queen Alexandra	368	331
King Edward	545	508
Queen Mary	491	448
King George	330	286
South Central	407	368

At the Collegiate Institute 342 pupils are on the roll with an average attendance of 326.

Truant Officer.

The truant officer, Mr. F. W. Miller, reported 20 investigations made during the month.

Payment Confirmed.

It was moved by E. G. Patterson, seconded by A. A. Fowler that the following accounts be confirmed:

PER CAPITA DEBT AND ASSESSMENT

COMPARISON OF CONDITIONS IN SOME CANADIAN CITIES.

Speaking before a meeting of war veterans on civic matters in Moose Jaw, Sask., recently, Commissioner Mackie, in referring to the assessment of debt per capita of Canadian municipalities, quoted the following figures, which are for 1919, and which, in some cases, would be larger for 1920:

City	Assess. per cap.	Debt per cap.
Regina, Sask.	$1,178.02	$238.39
Moose Jaw, Sask.....	1,005.00	257.90
Saskatoon, Sask.	1,140.67	330.82
Victoria, B.C.	1,499.76	348.24
Edmonton, Alta.	1,532.00	402.72
Lethbridge, Alta.	836.36	254.08
Brandon, Man.	1,105.21	183.80
Charlottetown, P.E.	458.33	63.92
Sydney, N.B.	377.60	101.36
Moncton, N.B.	770.14	114.00
Verdun, Que.	486.26	37.45
Sherbrooke, Que.	712.44	94.22
Kingston, Ont.	586.00	64.69
Peterboro, Ont.	740.70	87.33

With reference to the above figures, Mr. Mackie said: "It has been laid down recently by a prominent writer in civic economics that the assessment in towns and cities with a population of over 20,000 should not exceed $1,000 per capita, and that the per capita debt should not exceed $200."

It can be readily seen from the above table that nearly all the western cities exceed this limit. Speaking of this, Mr. Mackie went on to say: "It must be remembered that most of the cities in the west are comparatively new and the capital expenditure has been incurred, as in the case of Moose Jaw, in less than ten years. In 1910 our net debt was $1,750,000, whereas last year it was $5,092,000, an increase of 190 per cent."

Bob Long says:

BIG CROWDS DELIGHTED WITH YESTERDAY'S CIRCUS

If the first circus which visited the city this year may be taken as an example of the shows which will come to Peterboro this season, circus lovers need lose no sleep over the kind of circuses that have seen fit to place this city on their itinerary. As those who saw the Sparks Show yesterday afternoon and evening, said "It was good" From its first appearance in this city shortly after six o'clock yesterday morning after a long jump from Guelph the night before, to its embarkation for Belleville last night after the performance, the citizens were most favorably impressed with this circus apart from its performance entirely. The roughness and general freshness of the workers in some circuses, was not characteristic of this circus and the quietness and respectability of this element was remarked by more than one, while the courtesy of the staff was also commended.

Between six and seven o'clock yesterday morning, they unloaded at the C. P. R. tracks on Albert street. At 11 o'clock the parade left the exhibition grounds. George street was lined with people, eager as the children that were with them, to see the animals and the clowns. With much clamour and blaring by colored bands, the screech of the mighty steam piano, and the shouts of the clowns, the parade wended its way up the main streets.

The circus, although admittedly a small one, had a goodly array of rolling stock, and the parade was very good. Perhaps the most striking feature of it was the splendid horses, excellently groomed and cared for.

A proper resume of the programme carried out in the big top being impossible, it will suffice to say that the assemblage of trapeze artists, animal trainers, riders and clowns provided an hour and a half's entertainment that displayed skill and ability that has not been seen in Peterboro for some time. Indeed it is a question if anything approaching several of the high wire acts were ever witnessed here, and breathless the crowd watched the thrillers following each other in rapid succession being performed far above the sawdust.

The sideshows attracted a large crowd and once again did the citizens have an opportunity to view the largest snake in captivity and the human volcano, and all the rest of it. Perhaps the superlatives were rung in a little heavy in these shows but they never fail to draw the crowd and Spark's was no exception.

AIRPLANES IN WEST.

Farmers who saw War Service begin to use them.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, June 2. — Aviation as a recreation from the hardship of farm life and a means of rapid transit to the city, and its pleasures, is attracting the attention of many of the farmers' sons, who, during the war were connected with the air forces.

Applications for details from over 30 Manitoba and Saskatchewan farmers have been received by a local aeroplane company. Two small Curtiss planes were sold recently to Manitoba farmers.

BELGIAN PRAISES HIS COUNTRYMEN

BY THEIR INDUSTRY ARE RAPIDLY REGAINING FORMER PROSPERITY.

NEW YORK. — Belgian industry will be completely re-established by the end of the present year, in the opinion of Emil Francqui, President of the Societe Generale of Belgium, who is now in New York. Mr. Francqui is known in this country as the Director of the Comite National, the organization through which Herbert Hoover's Committee for relief in Belgium worked in the occupied areas.

Mr. Francqui bases his belief on the percentage of production at the end of March, 1920, as compared with the figures for 1919 and upon the fact that Belgian factories have now been rebuilt to such an extent that complete restoration of industries depends solely upon the supply of coal. For the obtaining of this supply, Mr. Francqui is more than hopeful.

'Belgium is making rapid strides in her 'recovery," said Mr. Francqui. "Already her collieries are not only up to but a little ahead of their 1913 output. Specifically they are producing 103 per cent. Before the war Belgium received annually 8,000,000 tons of coal for industrial purposes from Germany. By the terms of the treaty, Germany is required to furnish coal to Belgium, but so far Germany has not been able to do this or at least she has not, but when the coal begins to come and the remaining factories are repaired, the Belgian industrial position will again be up to normal. This should be by December, 1920.

"Conditions with us are more favorable than in those countries where there is a greatly lessened output of coal and a very slow progress in industrial rehabilitation. In Belgium we are moving rapidly. The reason for this is our laborers are not Bolsheviki, they are not anarchists, they are not radicals; they are workers.

"We can rely on them right up to the opportunity afforded them. Our Socialists are as loyally nationally as our conservatives. In this situation Belgium has an asset of incompafable value. The strength and the credit of a nation rest upon the quality of its individuals. On this basis, where in history has there been a finer exhibition of stability than that in Belgium since the armistice?

"The result of all this is the daily increase of our commercial movement. Our exports from Holland, France, Italy and Germany surpass our imports. With England the balance has been practically reached. It is only with countries such as the United States, Canada and Argentine where we are purchasing food requirements that the commercial balance is still against us.

BRISK DEMAND FOR EMPIRE MILKERS

Reports received lately from different parts of the County of Peterboro indicate a brisk and encouraging demand for the Empire Milking Machine. It is acknowledged by many practical farmers and dairymen that this milker has become one of the most important time-saving machines that can be added to the equipment of the farm where six or more cows have to be milked. Empire Milk users have found that there is even less excuse for milking by hand than for skimming by hand.

Among the number of those who have recently purchaaed complete milking outfits, are the following well known farmers:

Mr. Alex McGregor of the 4th line of Smith, who had his barn and contents destroyed by fire a short time ago, including his Empire Milker, at once arranged for another complete outfit to be set up on the same stanchions. The new outfit was delivered within a week from the time it was ordered.

Mr. Fred Fife, of Indian River, a well known enterprising farmer, has purchased a complete Empire outfit.

Mr. John Borland, another successful Indian River farmer, has installed a complete Empire outfit.

Mr. Joseph Gardiner of Norwood, who sold his farm two years ago, including an Empire milking machine, has replaced it with another new outfit.

Mr. Joseph Mann of Smith, well known as the owner of a fine breed of dairy cows, has invested in an outfit to help him out with his dairy work.

The above are only a few of the numerous important sales that have been reported within the past two months as showing the popularity of the Empire Milker in Peterboro County. Credit is due to the local sales agent, Mr. F. J. Doughty, for the energy and promptness he has shown in closing these sales and installing them. His address is 649 George street, Peterboro. AN EXCELLENT EXHIBITION OF FOOTBALL IN THE BENEFIT MATCH

THE CALEDONIANS SCORED IN FIRST FIVE MINUTES—BRILLIANT GOAL-KEEPING—HALF-TIME THE CALEY'S ONE GOAL AHEAD—AN EVEN SECOND HALF WITH THE TEAMS SHOWING A GOOD CLASS OF FOOTBALL—CALEDONIANS 1, ALL STARS 0.

The Benefit Football Game, under the Auspices of the International Association of Machinists, was played last evening at Nicholls' Oval before a fair attendance of spectators. Referee McKinley got the match started after a long delay caused by unforseen circumstances. The captains agreed to play 20 minutes either way. The following players lined up:

All-Stars—Jones (De Laval) goal, Ryan (G.W.V.A.) and McDonald (C.G.E.) backs, Jones (C.G.E.), Cridland (Machine Gun) and Edwards (G.W.V.A.) half-backs, Manders, Hotson, Gash, Turner, and Bartley (C.G.E.) forwards.

Caledonians—C. Fenner, goal; J. Willshaw and R. Wilshaw, backs; H. Frost, S. McMillian, and J. Peel, half-backs; McKinley, Matt. Shaw, Jas. Shaw, A. Duthy, and R. McDowall, forwards.

Referee—Mr. Alex. McKinley.

At 7.45 the teams lined up with Jas. Shaw setting the ball in motion and an individual effort on the part of McDowall went past. The All-Stars raided the Caley's goal and during a scrimmage Bartley accidently hit the ball with his hand. It ended with disaster for the All-Stars and Frost taking the foul kick landed the ball across the goals. McDowall lying uncovered scored the only goal of the game from close range. A break away by Manders and Hotson had the Willshaw Bros. in great difficulty. The outside right beat the Caley's left-back, run into the corner to centre, across the goal to Bartley who was too slow in catching on; Frost cleared to McMillan who punted up the field for McDonald to return it. Frost got the ball and with a well directed drive for goal, Jones stopped the ball with Jas. Shaw and McDowall in close atendance. A few minutes later Jones had to save from a cross by McKinley. Even and interesting play continued until McDonald trying to force the issue run down the field and placed a beauty in front of goal that jumped over J. Willshaw's head to Fenner who came out of his goal to clear, with Turner right upon him. At the other end Jas. Shaw was called up offside when things looked promising. The Caley forwards returned the attack and from a nice cross by McKinley, Matt. Shaw tested Jones with a hard drive. A corner kick was awarded the Caley's of Ryan. McDowall shot the ball into the near goal-post and in one of his daring saves Jones stopped a sure goal. On the left wing Bartley carried the ball right down into the corner-flag, passed back to Turner and Frost noticing the play jumped in to clear. Just afterwards Fenner stopped a hard shot from the foot of Cridland. A foul against Turner for handling relieved the pressure. Frost shot the bal up to Matt. Shaw who wasted no time to pass to McKinley but the later was played offside by McDonald. Nice combination by the All-Star right wing transferred the play to the other end, Manders put the ball directly to Gash, who shot past. Two corners for the Caledonians just before half-time brought nothing. Caledonians 1, All-Stars 0.

Half-time.

On the exchange of goals play was very even for first five minutes until Manders on nice tricky play outwitted the defence, and running at top speed sent a rocket shot into goals for Fenner to save. Quick as a flash the ball was at Jones goal with McDowall shooting high into goal. The goalkeeper jumped up and punted down the field. Nice football was witnessed the next 5 minutes with each side getting an offside decision. On an attack on the Caley's goal the All-Start centre-forward—Gash—was hit on the face with the ball but continued playing. Play was very keen, with neither team claiming any advantage. Manders on the right travelled down the wing and still on the run shot for goal that tested Fenner to full stretch and with an open goal in front Gash shot past. Turner repeated the same play a few minutes later. A raid by McKinley looked promising and crossing nicely to the left-wing, McDowall was stopped just at the crucial moment. Manders forced a corner of Willshaw, the parting shot landed at the far end of the goal for Bartley to test Fenner and McMillan clearing. Two corners for the Caley's—the first McDowall put past but the second he placed it to McMillan who let drive from 20 yards to miss the mark. The All-Stars pressed with J. Willshaw clearing. A solo effort on the part of Jas. Shaw looked like a straight run for goal and to clear his goal McDonald pushed the centre that brought the Caley's a foul. Frost drove hard for goal, Jones tipping it over the cross-bar. The corner-kick was fruitless. With nobody to beat but the goalkeeper, Wag Hotson missed an open goal. Following a corner-kick taken by Manders, the Caley's goalkeeper was bewildered with shots coming from all angles, Bartley tested Fenner, then the ball returned to the left-winger who shot hard for goal only to see the ball strike the upright and McMillian clearing. Each team put up a nice game and unfortunately darkness was setting in that made the game uninteresting. The two goalkeeprs gave an excellent account of themselves. There was no further scoring when full-time arrived.

EIGHT THOUSAND WILLS, BUT NO TESTATORS

Owing to the failure of a great number of soldiers to notify headquarters of their changes of address 8,000 soldiers' wills have been returned to the district record office, the addressees having moved. On enlistment, every soldier was required to make out a will, which is kept at the record office for reference in case of the soldier's death and on discharge they are returned to the testators. Already 8,000 of these documents have gone astray and finally returned to the office. If the testators of the wills are not located it is feared that complications might arise and it is the wish of the authorities that all soldiers who have not received their wills notify district record office, of their present addresses.

BUDGET PROTECTS PROFITEER BUT NOT PEOPLE OF CANADA

HON. MACKENZIE KING SAYS GOVERNMENT NOT REDUCING COST OF LIVING, BUT IS MAKING IT MORE DIFFICULT FOR THE PEOPLE TO LIVE.

OTTAWA, June 1.— (By Canadian Press.) — The attitude of the Liberal opposition toward the budget was voiced by its leader in the house of commons this afternoon. "The budget," declared Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, in the course of a three-hour speech, "is a budget to protect the profiteer. It is not a budget to protect the people of Canada." It revealed, he said, that the government had no policy for dealing with the high cost of living. 'Instead of reducing the cost of living, the government was making it more difficult for the people to live.

Mr. King spoke for three hours. He declared that the government should resign. It had been elected for the term of the war, and should give place to an administration competent to frame a sound peace policy. It had acquired the "war habit of mind" which resulted in autocratic rule and extravagant expenditures.

Charges by King.

The expenditure of the last fiscal year had added nearly four hundred millions to the debt of Canada or over a million dollars a day. One expenditure of $121,000,000 made by government during the war, was unaccounted for, and the auditor-general had been unable to find where the money went to.

Proposals made in the budget would encourage the manufacture of shoddy goods, said Mr. King. He argued that duties should be taken off the necessaries of life and the instruments of production, thus reducing the cost of living. The Liberals stood for free food and freer trade. There was but one Liberal plaform which was based on the tariff resolution passed at the Liberal convention last August.

Rowell Answers Critics.

Hon. N. W. Rowell answered criticisms made by the leader of the opposition and other opposition members. The government had not spent a single cent recklessly he said, and there was no increase in the ordinary expenditure of the country. Money had been expended on pensions, soldiers' re-establishments, soldiers' settlement as well as on interest on public debt and civil service bonus. Pensions had been increased. Was this one of the items that opposition members objected to? "If they had any manliness in them they would retract their statements," remarked Mr. Rowell, amid ironical laughter from the opposition.

Unaccounted Expenditure.

The president of the privy council referred to the charge that an expenditure of $121,000,000 made by the government remained unaccounted for. This amount was largely used to pay Canadian soldiers serving overseas, and the vouchers had not been received at the tim. the auditor-general's report was published. The reason for the non-receipt of the vouchers was that two vessels carrying a number of these had previously been torpedoed by submarines, and the government was afraid to trust any more on the ocean. Again Mr. Rowell said that the opposition members who had made this charge should publicly retract it.

Sunday School Convention.

Dummer Sunday school convention was held in Zion Methodist Church last Tuesday afternoon and evening, was one of the best ever held. The time passed too quickly. Rev. Vose, of the Baptist Church, gave a short talk on the different form of religion whose devotees tried to win the young men and women who left the country for towns, especially for larger centres. He showed the necessity for early training in Bible truths so that the young people could withstand their assaults. The sunday School teachers are often to blame, for they frequently do not know their Bibles very well.

Rev. Halpenny was given the subject, "Train Up a Child in His Way." He said there is a great task ahead of us in standardizing Sunday Schools. A great deal of public school training is to enable a child to get more money and these schools are standardized. A child may go from practically any one place to any other and get into his right place in school. Not so with the Sunday Schools. Children of ten go to Sunday School till 18 years of age and know little of the Bible. He advised the use of the cradle roll. Unless there were no very little children to be on it. Also Home Department unless every adult were able to attend Sunday School. 'Teen' age boys and girls should be organized, also adults, as thus they could do better work. Units cannot do so much singly as when united. There should be Teacher training and grade organization and grade instruction, missionary and temperance instruction. Workers' conferences regularly held and each denomination should teach its own requirements. The great centre of all should be "Definite Decision for Christ." He did not approve of a declaration day, when every pupil who had decided for Christ should publicly, in the Sunday School, declare his stand. He said the teacher should see the halo about his task, about the child's head and about his own head.

Supper was announced all too soon; some went home for chores. For those who could stay, the ladies of Zion prepared a bountiful supper which was much enjoyed.

Officers Elected.

During the interim the nominating committee met. Rev. Halpenny presided. The officers chosen were:

President—Mr. J. A. Crowe.
Vice-President—Mrs. David Miller.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. James Hawthorne.
Dept. Supts. Boys' Work — Mr. Henry Batten.
Girls' Work—Mrs. Geo. Taylor.
Chidren—Mrs. Wm. Wasson.
Adult—Mrs. Charles Ellis.
Home—Miss Clara Payne.
Teacher Training—Miss Ella Dewart.
Missionary—Mrs. Richard Batten.
Temperance—Mrs. Wm. Forsythe.

It was also recommended that the association accept the invitation to hold the next convention at Centre Dummer.

After the opening exercises of the evening session Rev. J. Knox gave an address on "What is Success and How It is Measured." 'Different people have different people have different ideas. Numbers at a Sunday School, a teacher's popularity, even interest do not always count for success in the matter of teaching the children to decide for Christ. The teacher is to hold up Christ and he will draw men to himself. Religion must create self-respect. Children must be impressed with the idea that they are created in the image of the Creator. Sabbath School teachers have a great work to do.

In the evening Mr. Halpenny's subject was "The Challenge of the Age to S. S. Workers." He said boys and girls should be trained to be all-round Christian men and women, and took the tests for tuxis boys, and showed that the majority of boys, even if tey stood the physical test were apt to fail in the intellectual tests and still more in the religious and social tests. A growing boy was dwarfed if he used cigarettes. It was absolutely impossible for anyone to develop fully and use cigarettes. Foundations must be laid in childhood. Foundation laying is slow and inconspicuous, but so surely as it is laid it stays. The parents do practically all foundation laying during the first 3 years—playmates, teachers and others come later. Very few decisions are made for Christ after the age of 20. Men and women are a long time reaching maturity; some creatures live and die in a short space of time, therefore the foundations of a person's life must be well laid and of good material. Mr. Halpenny's addresses were very practical and very inspiring. He has a happy way of holding interest and making his hearers understand. All Sunday Schools were represented, though some by but few.

Sunday Services.

Rev. Fraser officiated at th Presbyterian services on Sunday. Mr. Fraser is from Aberdeen, Scotland, and gave the people something practical to think about, but put the Gospel of Jesus Christ first.

There was no service in the Anglican Church.

The service in the Baptist Church in the morning was conducted by Mr. Joffe, a converted Russian Jew, who is a colporteur in the Bible Society. He preached in the Methodist Church in the evening, and gave an address in the Methodist Church on Monday evening.

Call to Rev. G. Graham.

There was a union meeting of the Warsaw and Cottesloe Presbyterians on Monday evening. Rev. Jull, of Lakefield, interim moderator, presided. It was voted to extend a unanimous call to Rev. Gerard Graham.

PATENTED SEATS AT HAGENBACK CIRCUS

BIG SHOW COMING ON JUNE 8TH CLAIMS GOOD ARRANGEMENTS.

Press critics who have seen the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, which is to appear in Peterborough for two performances on Tuesday, 8th June, have said that one very pleasing feature of it is the general arrangement, which enables the visitor to see the whole show. If this is true, and there seems no reason to doubt it, one of the chief objections to the modern circus has been overcome. It will do away with a complaint so often heard, "there was so much going on all the time that I didn't get to see it." Thus the Hagenbeck-Wallace management has not only achieved the reputation of being the best show of its kind ever produced, but has added to its greatness by placing it within the range of two ordinary eyes.

In this connection it might be well to mention other facts:

There are never any "tired hacks" at the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus. Another innovation. From time immemorial circus-goers have found themselves fatigued by the unnatural position in which they were compelled to sit during the show. This condition as been entirely eliminated by the Hagenbeck-Wallace management, by use of their patented seats, n use by ths show only.

It is good news, not only for women and children and aged people, but for everybody. For the combination of a show of the magnitude of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus and the attending comfort for patrons is something which will appeal to all.

HARRISON AND SWANSTON THE BATTERY ON SATURDAY

The opening of the local Central Ontario League season which brings the Port Hope Ontario to Riverside Park on Saturday as the guests of the Petes, is welcomed by the fans and every enthusiast in town will be in line when "Play Ball" is called. Peterboro has to win this game to keep in the running and the same is true of Port Hope who have lost two fixtures and cannot afford to drop another. The Ontarios are confident of breaking into the win column, basing their hopes on the fine pitching of McDonald against Belleville and the fact that the team has been strengthened in several weak spots. Manager Bob Chalk always seems to have the Port Hopers upon their toes and fighting every time they meet Peterboro and Saturday's game will prove no exception.

"Hap" Harrison will do the gunning for Peterboro with Max Swanston behind the bat and the Petes expect to inaugurate the local season with a victory. The squad will practice to-night at Riverside Park when the line-up for Saturday will be selected.

CAN THE WOOLENS STOP THISTLES' WINNING STREAK

The Canadian Woollens ball team who won a sensational game from the C. G. E. in the City League series on Saturday are going to endeavour to take a fall out of the league enders the Thistles in a twilight game at Riverside Park to-morrow evening at 615 o'clock. Manager Mulhall will send young Gilchrist out to stop the slugging Yeotes' crew, while the Thistles will entrust their pitching to Howard Kirn. The Thistles must be stopped soon if the race is not to be a runaway and the Woollens are confident that they have the outfit to turn the trick. here will be no disappointments over this game as there was Monday night when only six of the Veterans turned out and the C. G.E. won the game by default.

CRESSMAN'S WIN ANOTHER; DEFEAT WESTCLOX BY 8 TO 6

FIVE RUNS IN THE LAST INNINGS OVERCAME SOUTHEND FACTORY'S LEAD—GAME DREW A FAIRLY LARGE CROWD.

CHASED BY FOOTBALLERS

By bunching hits off Herb Wolfe in the 6th innings of their game with Westclox at the Oval last evening, Cressmans made it two straight wins in the Commercial League. The score was 8 to 6. Westclox looked to have the game settled in the first, when on a medley of hits and wild pegs, five runs were scored. But that was their best session. They counted again in the second, but with Bartley twirling the remainder of the contest, they were held back, while Cressmans took kindly to Wolfe's benders, the latter succeeding DeGraw who pitched three innings.

Westclox pulled something when Yelland was sent to bat for DeGraw in the second, the pitcher having sustained injury. The Southerners used DeGraw in the box in the third and he retired the side on strikes.

Then Cressmans got busy and took special care to see that DeGraw remained on the bench. Wolfe who took up the burden did well until the fatal sixth when the blow fell, and Cressmans won out.

DeGraw fanned six in three innings ad allowed three hits, one a triple, and issued a pass. The other good performance was by Bartley who fanned seven in four innings, issued but one pass and held Westclox to a solitary single.

Our old friend, Bill Field, fresh from the City League, appeared at short for Westclox. He hit for three bags in the first, sending in two runners ahead of him.

Clashed with Soccer Group.

Frills were furnished by a clash between the baseball and the football officials, and the latter were a bit high-handed in the argument. The Commercial League has the diamond at the oval for Tuesday and Friday evenings and a notice at the Oval announces the fact. But a benefit game for some of the strikers was arranged by the football executive for the oval last evening. It was argued by the baseball league officials that the football people had not decided on a definite time for starting the game, the understanding being that the benefit game should be played immediately after the conclusion of the ball game. But several officious beings were determined that the ball teams should get off the oval before the game concluded, and went so far as to plant the goal posts on the diamond. There was much tongue wrangling and finally the ball game was called at the end of the sixth.

First Innings.

De Graw put three straight strikes to F. Wolfe for the first out. He also fanned H. Long. Cobb hit to right, made second, when Lundy missed the throw and went on to third. Shannan at third failed to handle the ball.Cobb made for home but he collided with Harry Whitlow who was coaching, and the Umps called the runner out on interefference.

For Westclox, Anslie drew a pass and he stole. He made third when Field mussed a single from C. Wolfe and scored on a wild heave. Shannan flew out to Bartley. DeGraw went out at first. C. Wolfe scored on a wild throw. Prosser doubled and H. Wolfe walked. When Lundy dumped a liner along first, Prosser scored. Field tripled to left scoring Wolfe and Lundy. Field tried to steal home and was called out. It looked like intereference on the catcher's part on a pitched ball, as Prosser stepped in front of the batter to get the throw on which he tagged the runner.

Second Innings.

Bartley walked and was hit home by Hunter's triple Graham drove Hunter in, and went out stealing. Long flew to Field and Sage fanned.

Clarke retired on strikes. Ainslie walked and C. Wolfe fanned to Cobb. Shannan singled scoring Ainslie, and Yelland batting for DeGraw, was thrown out.

Third Innings.

DeGraw retired C. Wolfe, F. Wolfe and H. Long on seven strikes and two foul tips.

Bartley relieved Hunter and fanned Prousser and H. Wolfe. Lundy flew out to Hunter.

Fourth Innings.

Herb Wolfe replaced DeGraw, Cressmans having discovered that Westclox were trying to play ten men by using Yelland to bat for the pitcher. Cobb fanned. Bartley was safe on Field's boot but was caught going into second. Shannan missed Hunter's biff and aided by a wild pitch reached third. Then he stole home cleanly. Graham grounded out.

Field flew out to M. Long. Clarke fouled to the catcher. Ainslie drew his third pass, stole second and third but failed to get home as C. Wolfe fanned.

Fifth Innings.

Bartley took Long's fly; Sage singled; C. Wolfe lined out to first and F. Wolfe was out when he fouled the third strike on an attempted bunt.

Shannan was thrown out by Graham; Yelland fanned; Prosser singled but the hit was wasted as H. Wolfe flied to Long.

Sixth Innings.

H. Long walked and stole. Cobb was thrown out at first, and when Bartley hit to Lundy the fielder threw wild to the plate to get Wolfe and the run scored. Then Hunter, Graham and M. Long singled and Sage doubled,the wallops being good for four more runs. C Wolfe stoped the fun by sending a fly to Field.

Lundy, Field and Clarke took healthy pokes at the June flies and the game was over

Irene Rich, who comes to the Allen theatre to-day and to-morrow in the Goldwyn Picture, "The Strange Boarder," featuring Will Rogers, is never happier than when swimming some distance off shore in the Pacific Ocean. She is almost as much at home in the water as on the land.

"All my worries and troubles simply dissolve into thin air when I hit the water," says Miss Rich. "I feel as I suppose some men feel when they're absorbed about three drinks; not a care in the world, and I could just go on and on. I never seem to get tired."

Miss Rich has another hobby; it is shrubbery and flowers. "I simply cannot pass a place where attractive shrubbery is for sale without spending my last cent for it," she laughed. "And then I go home and debate where it will look best, and set it out, and care for it; and buy some more the first chance I get."

MONEY FOR PURE SPECULATION WILL BE DENIED BORROWERS.

WASHINGTON. — Prices will be reduced at least 25 per cent. if the Federal Reserve Board is able to carry through its program of credit deflation, officials in touch with the nation's banking system predicted to-day.

The breaking up of the freight car congestion started to-day by the interstate Commerce Commission, is also expected to result in a lowering of prices. As free distribution of commodities is resumed, a decline in prices which may reach 10 per cent. is looked for by some Government experts.

George Hodges of the American Railroad Association said: "It will enable manufacturers to vastly increase production and this will end shortages of commodities in many localities."

The Federal Reserve Board believe speculators have borrowed large sums at high interest rates to buy commodities and stocks and hold them for higher prices. The public has paid this.

The Reserve Board has determined that this sort of borrowing must stop and long standing loans must be paid. Funds for pure speculation will be denied. Borrowings for dealings in luxuries and non-essentials will be halted. Long standing loans will be called in.

Officials here differed to-day as to whether or not the Board would be able to carry through its program of deflation.

IS NOT LIFE GOOD?
(After Illness.)
Is not Life good? But best when, long a pawn,
Your sick ears dimly hear contending powers
Playing a game most perilously drawn,
Your soul long trailed by black delirious hours—
Then suddenly, as when a thick air thins,
Those playing for you make the move that wins!

Is not Life good? At best when given back?
It is as though one should be born again,
Like a transmigrant set upon the track
Of human joys forgot and ways of men.
But in that time of strange rebirth have care—
Least joys can bring the tears all unaware.

Is not Life good? Not less than miracle
When so restored? As though a rose once shed
Should bloom again — as though a magician spell
Through ashes cold a running flame should spread!
Seek you not then, as one a veil would lift:
Who gave me back this sweet, this peerless, gift?

Is not Life good? And best if, in the Spring,
It is returned to you? It is to start
Companioned by so many an eager thing
Who will not let you bear a backward heart:
But, hearing sursum corda everywhere,
Though old and tired your heart, it still must share.

CELEBRATED THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

MR. AND MRS. ANDREW FAIRBAIRN HONOURED BY FRIENDS.

A very unusual and delightful event took place on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fairbairn, 9th Concession of Smith, when about forty members of the family gathered to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. Mr. Andrew Fairbairn and Miss Sarah McKee, daughter of Andrew McKee, Selwyn, were married on 1st June, 1870, and for their entire happy and prosperous wedded life have lived on the farm where they still reside with their son William. The comfortable and homelike old farmhouse was tastefully decorated with gold and [illegible] odour of huge bouquets of lilacs. After the guests had done ample justice to a bountiful and delicious wedding dinner, they repaired to the parlour and verandah, and enjoyed an hour of social fellowship and music. Rev. P. L. Jull, pastor of the Lakefield Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Fairbairn has been for nearly forty years an honoured elder, gave a brief address, extending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Fairbairn, and expressing the hope that they might yet be spared to add many years to their half-century of happy married life.

The gifts were very appropriate to the occasion: A beautiful flower basket containing a perfect bunch of gladioli, presented by Miss Marie Bickle, granddaughter of the bride and groom; a handsome black ebony clock with gold mountings, from the daughters and son, Mrs. C. L. Bickle, Mrs. Hugh Kidd, Mrs. J. Hampton, and William; a pair of gold cuff links to the groom and a brooch to the bride from the brothers and sisters of Mrs. Fairbairn; a large brass jardiniere from the sisters of Mr. Fairbairn, and a gold-edged glass fruit bowl from Miss Pearl Petrie.

The guests included Mrs. C. L. Bickle and Miss Marie, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Middleton, Mr. and Mrs. George McKee and James, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Beattie and family, and Miss Pearl Petrie, of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. I. McKee, of Little Britain; Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKee, Miss Isobel, and Lorne McKee, of Selwyn; Mrs. Wm. SILENCE IMPOSED ON KRASSIN AS CONDITION OF ENTERING BRITAIN

Embargo Must Be Lifted Off Russia and Peace Concluded, French Paper Reports—French Opposed to Soviets.

PARIS, June 2.—Lifting the embargo of Russia, and the conclusion of peace are indispensable conditions for the resumption of commercial relations between that country and the Allied nations, Gregory Krassin, Bolshevik Minister of Trade and Commerce, has notified Lloyd-George, according to the London correspondent of "Excelsior."

Minister Krassin and his colleagues maintain silence, which, it is understood was imposed as a condition of their receiving permission to enter Britain, according to the Associated Press.

Trade with Russia will not be resumed, asserts the Herald (Labour organ), without the settlement of political questions and the establishment of all conditions of peace, including raising the blockade, sweeping the mine fields, opening posts and telegraphs, and issuing passports.

The Temps accuses Lloyd-George of no other motive than to buy off the Bolsheviki from attacking British interests in the Caucasus by promising to rest in the Poles in their offensive in the west.

"And besides," goes on the Temps, "the principal purpose of Krassin is not the economic resuscitation of Russia, but the securing for Moscow of two things. It seeks to organise a world revolution, first, on the interior reconstruction of Russian railroads, and second, on an exterior bureau of propaganda with secret funds.

"Consulted by Britain, the French Government has let it be known that it refuses to take part in any political negotiations with representatives of the Soviets. It is a very wise attitude, and besides, the Supreme Council of the Allies has never taken any other decision. But the French public, in accord with a large part of British opinion, should, nevertheless, be watchful."

HEAVY RAINS PUT OUT MANY FIRES

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

QUEBEC, June 2. Reports received to-day regarding the forest fire situation in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec, are far more optimistic, in many cases rain having fallen in sufficient quantities to extinguish the fires. One hundred square miles is believed to be the outside estimates of the area of timber [illegible] destroyed.

EVICTED FAMILIES FORM TENTED CITY

(Associated Press.)

NEWARK, N. J.—One hundred and ten families, evicted by landlords, are comfortably housed in Vailsburgh Park to-day under tents loaned to the city of Newark by the War Department. It is a real Tentville whose denizens, although temporarily homeless, are as happy as could be expected in a community forced to live outdoors. It is expected that, before the end of Summer, 200 more families will have joined the little colony.

Captain Thomas W. Reilly, a machine gun man with a fine overseas record laid out the place and gave each arrival a come, first served choice of their canvas habitation. One of them was a young widow with four children. She received [illegible] ing to defeat her landlord in a lawsuit.

The city appropriated $25,000 for the operation of the camp and Governor Edwards donated a big tent which, in the center, serves as a community kitchen. Army food from the municipal sales stations helps further to keep down the cost of living. The new settlement is provided with many conveniences including a sewerage system, running water, a laundry tent equipped with tubs and stoves for ironing, shower baths and toilets.

The total cost of installing the improvements was less than $500, according to Captain Reilly, the largest single item being $120 for heavy insulated wire for electric lights. Soldiers and a number of city employees helped to put up the tents which are 16 x 16 feet and lay the board flooring. The tents are boarded up three feet from the ground. Most of the inhabitants of Tentville have stored their furniture in the prospect of better days and are sleeping on cots furnished by a local hospital. THE WEATHER

The last two days the temperature has been up to 85 degrees in the shade. This is the highest of the season, and genuine summer heat. Last night the lowest was 60 degrees. This was the warmest night to date. Aside from a few sprinkles the rain still keeps off, although very badly needed. Heavy thunderstorms deluged the country to the north and also in the Ottawa district yesterday and last night, and less important showers have been general all through the west.—W.P.

BREAD WAGGON HIT BY JACKSON PARK CAR

At 11 o'clock to-day the regular habits of a horse owned by Stock and Son's bakers got into a serious smash up. The horse and bread waggon were on the east side of Park street directly opposite Gilmour street. For a moment the driver left the waggon delivering bread to a house. He was away only a few minutes but the equine as it is accustomed to do daily turned the waggon and walked slowly across the tracks heading for Gilmour street. At the same time the Jackson Park car was speeding down the grade on Park street and was nearly at Simcoe when the horse and rig were first noticed. It was too late for the motorman to stop the car and in the smash up that followed the waggon had three wheels broken while the bread box escaped. The jolt knocked the horse off its feet and under the fender in some remarkable way bending the fender. The horse escaped serious injury but received a jolt that will perhaps cause it to relinquish its meandering ways. The motorman on the car was Lawrence Gibson and the conductor Stanley Matchett.

FAMOUS AVIATOR WAS WITH RUSSIANS

RAYMOND COLLISHAW ONE OF 100 CANADIANS WITH DENEKIN.

During the war he commanded the crack All-Canadian Squadron and has a record of 60 Boche machines For the past two years Colonel Collishaw has been with General Denekine's army in Southern Russia, where he describes the operations as a series of advances and retreats He spoke particularly of one advance that the army under General Denekine made towards Moscow. "When we started," he said, "we had all the Russian in the surrounding country supporting us and very keen to down the Bolsheviats When we were repulsed and obliged to retire, and abandon our plans for the capture of Moscow, we retired in excellent order to find ourselves facing the enemy. The rear troops had joined the Bolshevists and turned our own machine guns on us. It was exciting for a time, but we managed to get away and counter-attacked with great success. That is the way it is out there. One never knows what the Russians are going to do and they do not know themselves what they want to do."

Col. Collishaw has a record of six Bolshevik machines during his sojourn with Denekin's army. "The 100 Canadian airmen attached to General Denekine's army will return to Canada in a few weeks. They are all out of Russia, but are visiting either in England or on the Continent." Col. Collinshaw said in conclusion that he though, after all the excitement of the past five years on active service, he would find the frontier of India, where he is next to be located, rather slow

While the King's Birthday is a statutory holiday, there is little possibility of an observance of it to-morrow outside of the schools, city and Government offices and banks.

The public schools and Collegiate Institute will be closed. All the banks will close.

The civic offices, except the tax collectors', where the rush of getting out the tax papers is in progress, will be closed in the afternoon.

The Utilities Commission offices will remain open, as will the Hydro-Electric Commission offices.

The Customs House and other Government offices will not be open.

MEASLES PREVALENT; NOT ALL REPORTED

Measles are fairly prevalent still in the city and placards continue to be put up by the M.O.H. at the rate about two or three a day. While at present there are about twenty four houses quarantined. Dr. MacPherson said that he is satisfied there are about as many more not reported as the epidemic being of so very mild a form, the people don't think it necessary to call a doctor and in that way quarantine is neglected. So far Dr. McPherson has not found any serious cases and no complications and as this is the third epidemic of the disease which has visited the city most of the adults have already had it leaving it mainly amongst children.

CELEBRATED THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

MR. AND MRS. ANDREW FAIRBAIRN HONOURED BY FRIENDS.

A very unusual and delightful event took place on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fairbairn, 9th Concession of Smith, when about forty members of the family gathered to celebrate the fiftieth aniversary of their marriage. Mr. Andrew Fairbairn and Miss Sarah McKee, daughter of Andrew McKee, Selwyn, were married on 1st June, 1870, and for their entire happy and prosperous wedded life have lived on the farm where they still reside with their son William. The comfortable and homelike old farmhouse was tastefully decorated with gold and white, ... about of huge bouquets of lilacs. After the guests had done ample justice to a bountiful and delicious wedding dinner, they repaired to the parlour and verandah, and enjoyed an hour of social fellowship and music. Rev. P. L. Jull, pastor of the Lakefield Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Fairbairn has been for nearly forty years an honoured elder, gave a brief address, extending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Fairbairn, and expressing the hope that they might yet be spared to add many years to their half-century of happy married life.

The gifts were very appropriate to the occasion: A beautiful flower basket containing a perfect bunch of gladioli, presented by Miss Marie Bickle, granddaughter of the bride and groom; a handsome black ebony clock with gold mountings, from the daughters and son, Mrs. C. L. Bickle, Mrs. Hugh Kidd, Mrs. J. Hampton, and William; a pair of gold cuff links to the groom and a brooch to the bride from the brothers and sisters of Mrs. Fairbairn; a large brass jardiniere from the sisters of Mr. Fairbairn, and a gold-edged glass fruit bowl from Miss Pearl Petrie.

The guests included Mrs. C. L. Bickle and Miss Marie, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Middleton, Mr. and Mrs. George McKee and James, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Brattie and family, and Miss Pearl Petrie, of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. J. McKee, of Little Britain; Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKee, Miss Isobel, and Lorne McKee, of Selwyn; Mrs. Wm. SILENCE IMPOSED ON KRASSIN AS CONDITION OF ENTERING BRITAIN

Embargo Must Be Lifted Off Russia and Peace Concluded, French Paper Reports—French Opposed to Soviets.

PARIS, June 2.—Lifting the embargo of Russia, and the conclusion of peace are indispensable conditions for the resumption of commercial relations between that country and the Allied nations, Gregory Krassin, Bolshevik Minister of Trade and Commerce, has notified Lloyd-George, according to the London correspondent of "Excelsior."

Minister Krassin and his colleagues maintain silence, which, it is understood was imposed as a condition of their receiving permission to enter Britain, according to the Associated Press.

Trade with Russia will not be resumed, asserts the Herald (Labour organ), without the settlement of political questions and the establishment of all conditions of peace, including raising the blockade, sweeping the mine fields, opening posts and telegraphs, and issuing passports.

The Temps accuses Lloyd-George of no other motive than to buy off the Bolsheviki from attacking British interests in the Caucasus by promising to rest in the Poles in their offensive in the west.

"And besides," goes on the Temps, "the principal purpose of Krassin is not the economic resuscitation of Russia, but the securing for Moscow of two things. It seeks to organise a world revolution, first, on the interior reconstruction of Russian railroads, and second, on an exterior bureau of propaganda with secret funds.

"Consulted by Britain, the French Government has let it be known that it refuses to take part in any political negotiations with representatives of the Soviets. It is a very wise attitude, and besides, the Supreme Council of the Allies has never taken any other decision. But the French public, in accord with a large part of British opinion, should, nevertheless, be watchful."

EVICTED FAMILIES FORM TENTED CITY

(Associated Press.)

NEWARK, N. J.—One hundred and ten families, evicted by landlords, are comfortably housed in Vailsburgh Park to-day under tents loaned to the city of Newark by the War Department. It is a real Tentville whose denizens, although temporarily homeless, are as happy as could be expected in a community forced to live outdoors. It is expected that, before the end of Summer, 200 more families will have joined the little colony.

Captain Thomas W. Reilly, a machine-gun man with a fine overseas record laid out the place and gave each arrival a come, first served choice of their canvas habitation. One of them was a young widow with four children. She received ... ing to defeat her landlord in a lawsuit.

The city appropriated $25,000 for the operation of the camp and Governor Edwards donated a big tent which, in the center, serves as a community kitchen. Army food from the municipal sales stations helps further to keep down th e cost of living. The new settlement is provided with many conveniences including a sewerage system, running water, a laundry tent equipped with tubs and stoves for ironing, shower baths and toilets.

The total cost of installing the improvements was less than $500, according to Captain Reilly, the largest single item being $120 for heavy insulated wire for electric lights. Soldiers and a number of city employees helped to put up the tents which are 16 x 16 feet and lay the board flooring. The tents are boarded up three feet from the ground. Most of the inhabitants of Tentville have stored their furniture in the prospect of better days and are sleeping on cots furnished by a local hospital. The "town" is laid out in eight streets with one main avenue bisecting them.

THE WEATHER

The last two days the temperature has been up to 85 degrees in the shade. This is the highest of the season, and genuine summer heat. Last night the lowest was 60 degrees. This was the warmest night to date. Aside from a few sprinkles the rain still keeps off, although very badly needed. Heavy thunderstorms deluged the country to the north and also in the Ottawa district yesterday and last night, and less important showers have been general all through the west.—W.P.

During the war he commanded the crack All-Canadian Squadron and has a record of 60 Boche machines For the past two years Colonel Collishaw has been with General Denekine's army in Southern Russia, where he describes the operations as a series of advances and retreats He spoke particularly of one advance that the army under General Denekine made towards Moscow. "When we started," he said, "we had all the Russian in the surrounding country supporting us and very keen to down the Bolshevists When we were repulsed and obliged to retire and abandon our plans for the capture of Moscow, we retired in excellent order to find ourselves facing the enemy. The rear troops had joined the Bolshevists and turned our own machine guns on us. It was exciting for a time, but we managed to get away and counter-attacked with great success. That is the way it is out there. One never knows what the Russians are going to do and they do not know themselves what they want to do."

Col. Collishaw has a record of six Bolshevik machines during his sojourn with Denekin's army. "The 100 Canadian airmen attached to General Denekine's army will return to Canada in a few weeks. They are all out of Russia, but are visiting either in England or on the Continent." Col. Collinshaw said in conclusion that he though, after all the excitement of the past five years on active service, he would find the frontier of India, where he is next to be located, rather slow

TO-MORROW KING'S BIRTHDAY.

Holiday for Schools, Banks, and Public Buildings.

While the King's Birthday is a statutory holiday, there is little possibility of an observance of it to-morrow outside of the schools, city and Government offices and banks.

The public schools and Collegiate Institute will be closed. All the banks will close.

The civic offices, except the tax collectors', where the rush of getting out the tax papers is in progress, will be closed in the afternoon.

The Utilities Commission offices will remain open, as will the Hydro-Electric Commission offices.

The Customs House and other Government offices will not be open.

MEASLES PREVALENT; NOT ALL REPORTED

Measles are fairly prevalent still in the city and placards continue to be put up by the M.O.H. at the rate about two or three a day. While at present there are about twenty four houses quarantined, Dr. MacPherson said that he is satisfied there are about as many more not reported as the epidemic being of so very mild a form, the people don't think it necessary to call a doctor and in that way quarantine is neglected. So far Dr. McPherson has not found any serious cases and no complications and as this is the third epidemic of the disease which has visited the city most of the adults have already had it leaving it mainly amongst children.

A REVISION OF ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE

TOKIO. — The cabinet has decided to open negotiations for a renewal and revision of the Anglo-Japanese alliance which Great Britain is said to be willing to maintain with modifications, according to the Yomi-Uri-Shimbun. Though some of the covenants will be changed to harmonize with the league of nations, the newspaper says it is believed there will be no alteration of the principle with regard to safeguarding the peace of Eastern Asia and the integrity of China, and maintenance of the rights and special interests of Japan and Great Britain in the far east.

Marquis Shigenobu Okuma, former premier, has issued a statement saying that although the downfall of Russia and Germany has removed the original positive reasons for the alliance, the uncertain conditions in China and Siberia and the agitation on the part of the Mohammedans of Southern Asia make a renewal of the pact desirable as a negative instrument of peace.

EXPECT GREAT INCREASE KINGSTON ASSESSMENT

KINGSTON, Ont.—It is expected that the assessment of Kingston will take the biggest jump this year in the city's history. From two and a half to three milion dollars will be added. This year it was necessary to raise the tax rate to thirty-five and a half mills owing to the fact that the assessment during the last two years of the war had remained almost unchanged. Next year the City Council will likely be able to reduce the rate of taxation to 30 mills, through having a larger and more equitable assessment.

FIRST PAYMENT OF SALES AND LUXURY TAXES SATISFACTORY

REVENUE OFFICIALS BUSY YESTERDAY—LAKEFIELD MERCHANT WAS FIRST TO MAKE RETURNS—PROMPTNESS WILL BE DEMANDED IN FUTURE.

The retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers of this district made their first returns under the new sales and luxury tax to the local Inland Revenue office yesterday. Under the new tax retailers are required to make returns semi-monthly on 1st and 15th, while the wholesalers and manufacturers make them only once a month, on the 1st. This makes the returns on the first of the month heavier than the 15th and although it is expected that the returns next month will be much greater than this, the rush yesterday kept the local officers on the jump from early in the morning until late at night.

The first return came in the night before from Lakefield and was opened first thing yesterday morning. It was from a merchant and Mr. W. H. Buller stated that it was perfectly made and only wished that more of the returns were as properly and neatly filled out. All day long returns poured in from local merchants accompanied by cash and cheques. "Everything ran smoothly," Mr. Buller said to-day. He stated that the returns were very satisfactory considering that the new taxes were still in their infancy. Many more returns are expected in to-day from the country and many retailers in this city have yet to send in their invoices and money.

As fast as the proper papers can be filled in and the official red tape gone through the returns and money will be sent to Ottawa and every other day Mr. Buller expects to forward money to the government.

While a certain amount of leniency in this instance has been allowed to those who have to make returns the local officer made it quite clear to them that there was to be no delinquency or excuses in future return dates when they must be in promptly.

RUSSIA TO HAVE NO MORE MONEY

SOVIET FINANCE MINISTER OUTLINES HIS DREAM OF A COINLESS REALM.

PARIS, June 2.—The Eupropean financial situation is giving rise to many fantastic suggestions for a solution of it, not the least interesting of which is that proposed by Georgevitch Tchitcherin, Soviet Commissioner of Finance in Moscow, whose scheme consists principally in the elimination of silver and other metals as the basis of exchange.

Albert Londres, a Paris newspaper writer, returned here from Moscow a fortnight ago. He now tells in Excelsior how M. Tchitcherin, alone in a dirty room in the Metropole Hotel in the Soviet capital, with a tin of sardines and a bottle of milk at his side, described how Russia intends handling her money matters—at least in so far as her own people are concerned.

"Our main effort is to surpress silver currency," said the Soviet Commissioner. "My greatest joy is to see the rubles gradually vanishing. Perhaps you have noticed that our ruble notes are so designed that they have little more value, even artistically, than the postage stamp. Even a note of a thousand rubles seems to convey the impression that it is not worth more than fifty kopecks. That is in order that the public will get used to disdaining exterior signs of individual capital."

Purchases by Soviet Note.

M. Tchitcherin suggested that it is practicable to effect all purchases and sales through the Government. For instance, if a Russian wants a new hat, the Government would issue a note to a hat maker, ordering him to transfer to the holder of the note goods to the value of a specified amount, this note to be used by the hatmaker in obtaining the materials necessary to produce such an article as he sells for it.

"But suppose that money was suppressed and I should want to leave Russia and visit abroad?" M. Londres asked.

"If there was no particular necessity for you going abroad you would not leave Russia," Mr. Tchitcherin replied. "Under the new regime there would be no birds of travel; but if the motives back of your journey should interest the Government it always would have foreign currencies in its coffers to cover the cost of such a journey."

These were the theories of the man who is tangling Russia's finances beyond all hope of unwinding them. Among other startling revelations which he made was that the Soviet Government would not allow visitors from other countries to enter Russia with metallic wealth. He said the consent of the Government would have to be obtained before foreign moneys could be brought into Russia.

Treatment at Frontier.

M. Tchitcherin said, however, that in a few cases foreigners would be received at the Russian frontiers and lodged in communal residences, subject to the same financial restrictions as applied to Russians. Eventually they would be conducted back to the frontier and the money which they possessed on entering Russia would be handed back to them intact.

An elaborate scheme for the payment of labor is being worked out. It provides for payment of wages in boots, clothing, tools, a certain proportion of tickets for amusements, lodging, food and tobacco. When all the necessities of life are provided the balance will be considered as "devoted to the common welfare." Persons who do not smoke would under this plan get additional rations of food, regardless of whether their stomachs required it or whether they had a personal preference for a few kopecks in their pockets wherewith to buy violets or luxuries for their feminine friends.

M. Tchitcherin failed to say what will become of the millions of rubles in currency which are being poured into the state banks of deposit, but apparently these will be confined to transactions involving other countries which fail to appreciate the Russian plan of financial salvation.

ABOUT EQUAL TO BAG OF POTATOES

Commercially speaking, the human body is worth about $8 and the calculation is not difficult. The human body it is figured, including skin, bones, flesh, nerves, blood, fat, and cartilage, is reducible by analysis to iron, salt, sugar, lime, phosphorus, magnesia, albumen, fatty substances and residue that can be used. If this body weighs 150 pounds, an average weight, there would be enough by-products to make an ordinary iron nail, enough salt to fill a table saltcellar, enough sugar to fill a small sugar-bowl, enough lime to whitewash a chicken coop enough phosphorus to make a dozen matches, enough magnesia to afford one dose, medicinally speaking. The albumen oids obtained could be used by a tricky baker to replace the whites of a hundred eggs, and there would be enough fat to fill a ten pound pot, eight dollars, then, is man's real worth to commerce, and there are many undersized and illnourished persons who would fall far short of the mark.

Faint and Dizzy Spells Weakness and Shortness of Breath

You can generally tell when the heart is affected by the faint and dizzy spells, the shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensations, weak, sinking, all-gone feeling, choking sensation, etc.

Many men and women becomes rundown and worn out when otherwise they could be strong and healthy if they would only pay some attention to the first sign of heart weakness.

No remedy will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy and normal condition as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. C. A. S. Drake, Paris, Ont., writes:—"I have used on towards the second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and find they have done me good. I had those fainting, dizzy spells, once in a while, and also weakness and shortness of breath, and would become so choked up at times I could hardly sleep without sitting up in bed. When walking too fast I would have to stop and try to catch my breath. I feel a lot better since I have used your pills and know that they have helped me wonderfully as I have improved very much."

LUXURY TAXES MAY BE CHANGED SLIGHTLY

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 2.—With the formal budget debate out of the way, consideration of the budget resolutions in committee will open with the least possible delay. Here it is expected, the discussion will be protracted, covering possibly a week or so. Provisions made in regard to the income tax and business profits tax are expected to go through without amendment but luxury taxes will be subjected to some changes, it is thought, particularly with a view to making their administration more workable. Important points have been brought out in communications to Sir Henry Drayton and advantage will no doubt be taken of some of the suggestions.

MAYOR ASKS MINISTER TO COMPLETE BOARD

In the following telegram to the Minister of Labour Mayor McIntyre to-day appealed to him to appoint a representative of the C.G.E. company in order that the Board of Conciliation applied for by the City Council may proceed.

"Hon. Senator Robertson—After consultation I have decided that the best courst is for you to appoint the Canadian General Company's man to Board and constitute a complete Board of Conciliation to deal with disputes set forth in the city's application as soon as possible. Men willing to abide by result of Board."

Some of those who are striving to adjust the differences have remarked that the least Senator Nicholls could do as a member of the upper house would be to accept the instrument authorized by the Government to endeavour to restore harmony. The Mayor points out that the company has not even appointed a representative, or suggested one to the Minister of Labour.

SHE DIDN'T THINK IT WAS POSSIBLE

MONTREAL WOMAN SAYS TANLAC DID MORE FOR HER THAN SHE EVER DREAMED IT COULD.

It is of the first importance after the drain of a severe illness on our physical resources that the spent capital be replaced as soon as possible. The following statement shows how Tanlac accomplished just that in the case of Mrs. Albert Gratton, residing at 607 Evelyn street, Verdun, Montreal, when seen at her home by the Tanlac representative, recently. Mrs. Gratton, said:

"After having the Spanish 'flu' I was in a very weak condition. I simply had no appetite and my digestion was so bad that I had difficulty in retaining what little I did eat. It was as much as I could do to prepare meals for my husband and the children and I just had to let everything else go. The housework suffered in consequence but I could not help it. I had to spend most of the day lying down and often I used to think that my heart would stop beating together. My feet and my hands were continually cold and my complexion was sallow and poor. Rheumatic pains kept me from sleeping at night and I got into such a nervous condition that even the children worried me.

"I was in a truly deplorable state when I began taking Tanlac. I have taken five bottles altogether and it has done more for me than I ever thought possible. I soon had a good appetite and began to eat heartily. I rapidly got stronger and now I am able to do all my work without getting tired. I no longer suffer from cold hands or feet and my complexion is clear and rosy. The rheumatic pains have left me and I enjoy perfectly restful sleep. My nerves are all right again and in fact I am better in every way. I consider Tanlac a most excellent medicine and one that should be in every household."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corner by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; and in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

As there are now 29 Jews in the city, the need of such a Tabernacle is much felt.

THE PENSION QUESTION.

The special committee on Pensions, in its report to Parliament, will recommend, it is understood, that instead of making a permanent increase in the present pension scale, the allowances now paid be augmented by a bonus, high enough to bring the pensions up to a level at which they will enable the recipients to meet the high cost of living. The intention of course is that in the event of a drop in the prices of necessities, the bonus would be lowered, and eventually eliminated altogether if the cost of living warrants such a step. The advocates of the bonus system point out if the committee recommended an increase in the pension scale it would be permanent and no matter how living expenses fluctuated the allowances would remain the same. The committee, in other words, in dealing with returned soldiers, is displaying canniness and caution to a degree that hardly seems necessary in view of the fact that the pension scale, even with the addition of the suggested bonus, is none too large.

PETERBOROUGH'S GROWTH.

The manner in which Peterboorugh has grown in the past few years is evidenced by the report presented by Principal H. H. R. Kenner to the Board of Education last night, calling attention to the necessity of more accommodation for Collegiate Institute pupils. The capacity of the class rooms is already over-taxed and unless the auditorium is used for class purposes, it is prophesied that there will be serious overcrowding next autumn. When the present Collegiate Institute was built it was thought that it would take care of all the students desiring a high school education for many years to come, but the growth of the city has proved more rapid than was foreseen, with the result that the Board of Education will have to devise further accommodation as soon as possible. The Public schools are also overcrowded, and the new Prince of Wales school is being built none too soon to meet the needs of the situation. The fears expressed by some ratepayers that the school is too large are needless. With the industrial expansion that Peterborough has enjoyed this year, the opening of new industries bringing new families to the city, there will be soon need of all the accommodation that can be provided and it will not be long after the Prince of Wales' school is completed before there will be a capacity attendance.

THE VETERANS' PROTEST.

The announcement of Dominion Secretary O'Neill that the Great War Veterans' Association is firmly opposed to increased sessional indemnities for members of Parliament might have been expected. The veterans who were told when they asked for bigger gratuities that the financial conditions in Canada would not permit of any further cash bonuses and that rigid economy in public expenditures was necessary were not likely to remain silent in the face of an attempt on the part of the members of the Dominion House to boost their own allowances. The Veterans expect the government to follow the advice it laid down; economy, like charity, they say, should begin at home, and if the legislators are convinced that Canada's financial status requires the elimination of wasteful expenditure the members of Parliament can set a splendid example to the rest of the country by dropping the agitation for bigger allowances and expressing ther willngness to accept the present indemnities, which are large enough to make it difficult for some of the legislators to prove that they are worth what they are paid. The resolutions passed by the various branches of the Veterans' Associations are voicing objections that are general throughout the country.

GRANTS FOR LIBRARIES.

Municipal bodies which have been niggardly in their treatment of public libraries will have to mend their ways by reason of the new Act passed by the Ontario Legislature, which places the grants to libraries on an entirely new and satisfactory basis. Henceforth population will be the determining factor in arriving at the amount of the grant and the Act will apply to all communities in the province no matter how large or how small, the library boards being entitled to ask for support at the rate of 50c. per capita each year. City councils are given the power to increase the grant to 75c. per head of the population by a majority vote of the council if there is special need for such an increase. In Peterborough for instance, the library board has the right to ask the council for a grant of $10,500, while the city fathers, if they see fit, can vote as high as $15,750 for the support of the library. The old system placed the amount of the grant at a quarter mill of taxation, with a half mill rate for cities over 100,000 population. The fault with this method, of course, was that there were so much difference in the assessment in different communities that in many places the library grant was too small to be of any real assistance and there was no uniformity possible. Under the new Act every place is on the same footing, the grant being in direct proportion to the population. The opinion of Hon. R. H. Grant, Minister of Education, that no better Libraries Act can be found than the one just passed in this province, may be perhaps over enthusiastic, but certainly the change that has been made promises to have beneficial effects in many communities, especially in the many smaller places where the libraries have been more or less neglected. More and more are the people realizing the value of a well stocked and well kept public library, and especially is there an increase in the use of the reference volumes as citizens begin to appreciate the fact that the library is something more than a place in which popular fiction may be obtained. The library boards throughout the province will be encouraged to new efforts by the support they have received from the Legislature.

JUNE.

June's here—the month of bees, butterflies, and blooms, of the summer solstice, of roses, of relief from school, the month of weddings. And if the H. C. of L. has not proved a deterrent, there are expested to be an average of 25 per day in Toronto during the month. The record was 73 in June, 1919. Nobody seems to know why June is th favoured time for marriage ceremonies, but it was so regarded even by the anrient Romans, the junior branch of whose legislature (juniores) probably gave the month its name.

In Toronto there will be more brides of 20 to 24 than of any other age, and more grooms of 25 to 29. These things are all tabulated mathematically nowadays, and that is the way it has worked out in other years. The popular idea that modern conditions has postponed the marrying age of the fair sex until after 25 is reached is not borne out by the Ontario Government's statistics, which show for one year 1,939 Toronto brides between 20 and 24, as compared with 1,129 between 25 and 29, which means that over 70 per cent. more marry at the earlier of these age-groups. The number of women under 30 who wed in this city in a year is 3,833, as compared with 1,157 older women, the latter figure of course including many second marriages. So that when one score years and ten have slipped by, the feminine chances of matrimony appear to be about one in four, as compared with those of younger folk.

15-19	190	765	4	15
20-24	1371	1939	27½	39
25-29	1461	1129	29	22½
30-34	724	514	14½	10
35-39	574	314	11½	6
40-44	267	157	5½	2
45-49	171	91	3½	2
50-54	96	39	—	—
55-59	51	28	—	—
60-64	48	10	—	—
65-70	18	2	—	—

* From 50 upwards.

Te statistics reveal many ill-assorted couples so far as age is concerned. Three grooms of fifteen to nineteen years marry women of twenty-five to twenty-nine, and one a woman of thirty-four. The two brides of 70 or over wedded grooms of 55-59 and 60-65 respectively. One groom of 70 or over took a bride in the 25-29 group.

The modern ceremony differs little from that of our forefathers, when the bride was taken "for fairer or fouler" and promised to be "buxom and bonny." The ring, symbol of that which is without end, was at one time placed on each of the left-hand fingers in turn by the groom. In Anglo-Saxon days it was part of the "wed" or pledge, from which the word wedding is derived, and was given by the groom in childhood betrothal, and thereafter worn on the right hand until marriage, when the father gave the groom one of his daughter's shoes as a token of authority over her. But 'tis said that nowadays there is little authority—that the groom does not want it and that the bride would not permit it anyway. The thing has become a real partnership a change from the days when the Welsh law allowed the husband to discipline his wife by means of "three blows with a broomstick on any part of the person except the head." This "fair allowance," as the law called it, was not to be administered with a stick longer than the husband's arm nor thicker than his middle finger." But there is none of that sort of authority in this June of 1920. And the "best man" need no longer have the qualifications which earned him that name in days when the groom had to surround his bride with a retinue of his "best" or strongest friends, lest some other suitor snatch her away. Fears of that sort of thing have vanished. But high rents and high prices have taken their place as sources of worry. —Toronto Star.

And luck—but a meteor's gleam.

The time to succeed is when others,
Discouraged, show traces of tire—
The battle is fought in the home-stretch,
And won 'twixt the flag and the wire.

MAY REPORT OF CROPS IN ONTARIO

VEGETATION TWO WEEKS BEHIND THE AVERAGE.

The following is a summary of the May Crop Bulletin prepared by the Statistics and Publications Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, based upon information furnished under date of May 22nd;

Most of the live stock were on the grass by the third week of May, but in many instances there was not enough pasture to satisfy, as growth has been slow on account of the rather cool Spring.

Spring sowing was being rushed as correspondents wrote, the weather then being bright and open. In some favored localities all Spring grains were in and corn and roots were being planted, but the majority were not so far on. The seed bed, generally speaking, was never in better condition. Opinions are greatly divided as to the likelihood of an increase in the acreage of Spring crops. Less Spring wheat and more oats, corn and sugar beets are reported by some. A number of correspondents state that more land will be pastured than formerly.

Fall wheat, which came through the Winter in excellent form, received somewhat of a setback by the raw, Spring weather, but is expected to have at least an average yield. The acreage is about ten per cent. greater than last year.

Clover has not done so well as winter wheat. The mid-summer drouth last year was trying to the crop, and it suffered in places from Spring heaving.

Alfalfa has done relatively better than clover.

Sweet clover is rapidly coming into favor, being in good demand both for fodder and seed.

Fruit trees where well kept are blossoming profusely as a rule. Some raspberries and grapes have been more or less cut back by frost but small fruits generally are expected to be generous in yield if the weather continues favorable.

Fodder supplies have been greatly drawn on, on account of the cold Winter and the lateness of the Spring pasture. Hay is scarce, and grain scarcer; many farmers had to buy north-western oats for feed. The good quality and large supply of corn ensilage was the main factor in saving the situation.

Many farmers have exchanged work and are using improved machinery, as help has been so hard to procure. "We do what we can ourselves and let the rest go," is a frequent expression of those reporting.

Cold roast pork make delicious chicken salad.

The vogue for shiny trimmings continues.

The silk skirt is simply made, but very colorful

Some fashion houses show tight frilled sleeves.

SANDRA THE JEALOUS

By JANE PHELPS

SANDRA REALIZES THAT SHE HAS DEVELOPED.

CHAPTER CXXXVIII.

"Have you seen the paper tonight?" Everett asked when he came in.

"No, I have been playing with Junior, and haven't looked at it. He is so cunning I forgot everything when I am with him."

"Walter Kemp was killed yesterday; rather, injured so badly he died this afternoon. An automobile accident."

"How terrible. Let me see the paper, please?"

It was only a short paragraph which told of Walter's death; the manner of it. He had a collision with another car, and while both his own chauffeur and the occupant of the other car had escaped, Walter had been terribly injured.

"Poor Rose. What an ending of her married life. She wanted to be happy — longed, for it more than anyone I know — unless it is myself," I said, really thinking out loud more than addressing Everett.

"And so you have longed for happiness, Sandra? I hope you have found it," Everett returned very gravely.

I made no reply. I WAS happy most of the time,—in a measure. I could not tell him that the thought of what he had withheld from me, and had given Leola, was a constant hindrance to my happiness. I sent a telegram to Rose at once. I was so sorry for her. It was all so pitiful. Everett remained at home, that evening, and we talked of little else. I could not dismiss it from my mind.

"I am glad she went back to him, now," I remarked, "I thought her foolish when she did it. But I have a feeling she will be happier than if she had not—she is his wife, and he sort of belongs to her now, even though he is dead."

"Yes, she will probably feel that way. Then too it will save gossip, and newspaper talk, which would have been almost unavoidable had they been divorced."

"I had not thought of applying what I said to Everett until I saw him flush. Then it came to me: Leola belonged to him also, even though she was gone. No matter how she had flirted; how she had pained him when alive; no one could question his claim to her now.

Suddenly Rose, her trouble, receded. Walter was gone. But Everett, the man I loved with all my heart, could even now flush over the mention of his first wife—look conscious —and so make me unhappy.

"I wish she was buried fathoms deep in the ocean!" I thought, then wondered if he now visited her grave. If he ever had since we had been married.

Strangely enough, wish all my jealous thoughts and fears, this never before had occurred to me. Perhaps he made regular pilgrimages to it even now? The cemetery where she was buried was not far; he could easily take time from his business hours to go there and I never should be the wiser.

"What are you thinking of, Sandra?" I was startled at the question breaking in upon my thoughts. "Try and put Rose, her trouble, from your mind. We will do anything we can for her; but fretting and lying awake won't help her, and it will harm you."

"No— I wasn't thinking of Rose just then,' I had only faintly heard or absorbed anything but his question.

"What then? You looked very serious."

"Did I?" I laughed a little as I pulled myself together. Suppose he knew what was in my min, what would he think of me? He would probably consider me a silly little fool. I answered the question to myself.

"Yes, and dear, perhaps Rose is happier than if Walter had lived—or will be happier after a while. He never would have been true to her — or to any one woman. I am ashamed to confess it, but there are such men, men who have no sense of sex faithfulness.; He was one of them. No one knows from what she has been saved by his being taken from her now." He still thought me serious because of Rose, and was trying to comfort me. While I was only thinking of myself, and my determination to find out if he still made pilgrimages to the spot where he had laid Leola.

PROUDLY CANADIAN IS BIG WAR PLAY

GROUSING AND FIGHTING, LAUGHTER AND MUSIC, PATHOS AND TRAGEDY ALL FIND THEIR PLACES IN THE P.B.I.

The cryptic title, "The P.B.I." at once gives this play away as a "war-play which will be seen at the Grand on Friday and Saturday.

A courtyard romance, the machinations of a Boche spy and the trials and education of a green subaltern form the triple waves of plot on which the action is swept forward from the billet in Bully Grenay through dugout and trench to No Man's Land and then swirled back through the Dressing Station to the now-familiar estaminet court in which occurs the denouement.

Grousing and fighting, pathos and tragedy, all find their place in the piece but for the most part the scenes are dominated by laughter and music, for the dialogue is pungent with Army humour and the action is interspersed with snatches of patriotic French chansons, sentimental English love ditties and devil-may-care Canadian trench-parodies.

This play was written by the troops for the troops and in its outlook is proudly Canadian.

UNVEIL WINDOW IN BENSFORT CHURCH

PRESENTED BY SOUTH MONAGHAN TOWNSHIP COUNCIL.

A very interesting service was held in the Bensfort Methodist Church on Sunday morning last when a memorial window was unveiled in memory of two former members of the congregation who gave their lives for King and Country. The window was formally presented by the South Monaghan Township Council by Mr. Fred. Waterman in the following address:

To Rev. M. W. Leigh and the Board of Trustees of the Bensfort Methodist Church:

On behalf of the South Monaghan Township Council and Memorial Committee, we present to you this memorial window in loving memory of Private N. Hills, 208th Canadian Irish Regiment, C.E.F., and Private Walter Dawson, 20th Battalion, C.E.F., who sacrificed their lives in the Great War that we might live and may it long remain a fitting tribute to these soldier boys and a reminder of the duty we owe them in living a life worthy of the sacrifices made by them."

M. WILLIAM, Reeve.
JOHN GREER, Chairman Mem. Committee.
F. WATERMAN, Sec. Mem. Com.

On behalf of the Church Rev. M. W. Leig accepted the window and expressed the thankfulness of the congregation for the gift. Col. E. B. Clegg, of Peterboro, after a short nicely-worded address unveiled the window and Sergt. Sharpe, of Peterboro, sounded the Last Post.

RECLAIM TOWNSHIPS.

May Be Best Land in Saskatchewan.

(Canadian Press.)

SASKATOON, Sask., June 2.—Survey work for reclamation of several townships of what the government engineers believe can be made the best lands in Saskatchewan, will commence soon in the Moose Range north of Tisdale, states G. F. Horsey, of the reclamation services, department of interior. A survey party of 15 men has left for the north to undertake the initial work in this connection.

The drainage branch of the department has a considerable programme in the west, and in the three prairie provinces has ten engineers working. Last year a complete survey was made of 13,000 acres in the Waterhill Lake district, region of Kinistino, and it is hoped to have construction gangs working there this summer.

MAKES FORTUNE IN 12 YEARS IN WEST

ONTARIO TEACHER NOW A WEALTHY FARMER AT 33.

Canada's "king of farmers" has been staying in Toronto and has just left for the west. The story of his achievements in Saskatchewan sounds like a fairy tale. Twelve years ago he taught school at $12 a week in a little town 40 miles from Toronto. To-day he is lord over flocks and herds, is master of grain fields which stretch literally for miles, and his yearly income is double that of many a pompous bank president. And he started in 1908 as a humble homesteader on 160 acres with little capital or experience. To-day he is associated in business with great western magnates, and operates a farm of 22,500 acres. Some farm!

A Young Man Still.

The man who, by his own endeavors, has accomplished all this is but 33 years old. His name is Edward E. Bellamy.

Stakes All on Flax.

Advised by friends, Bellamy went straight into the Goose Lake country, about 150 miles south of Saskatoon and famous for its wheat. Planking down $10 at the land office, he settled down on a desirable quarter-section. He erected a tiny shack and stable, bought some horses and implements and set to work. Determined to make or bust, he decided to break every possible acre if tat 160 by his own efforts and to have the rest broken by contract. He also decided to get the utmost out of his first crop, and accordingly sowed flax, that prolific friend of the poor settler. Luck was with him. His bold stroke succeeded and he harvested a good crop, which not only paid off all his indebtedness, but set him on his feet. He bought more land on deposit of first payments, making his more cautious neighbirs fairly gasp at his boldness, and succeeded with it as well as he had with his first venture.

Thirty Miles of Fence.

Later he came east twice and took courses at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Farming had now become a big business enterprise with Bellamy, who with the co-operation of others, impressed by his business ability, was able to get backing, and more and more land under his control, until the farm attained its present mammoth proportions—far greater than those of some of the early large western farms which were notoriously unsuccessful.

This year Mr. Bellamy will have [illegible] acres under grain—spring wheat, oats, barley and flax—besides a large area of hay and alfalfa and field corn, as ensilage for his stock. The herd of 3,000 cattle — mostly Herefords, for a prize bull of which breed he has just paid $21,000 — range over a pasture enclosed by thirty miles of wire fence. There are 100 brood mares on the farm, but most of the work is done by gasoline tractors. A fine central dwelling and outer ranches house the army of men employed on the place, whose gastronomic needs are well looked after by Chinese cooks and waiters.

NEW IRRIGATION DITCH.

(Canadian Press.)

CALGARY, Alta., June 1.—Water has been turned into the main ditch of the Canada Land and Irrigation company east of the Little Bow reservoir, and is flowing east to the irrigated farms in the Vauxhall district, where 5,000 acres of the company's lands, which have been taken over by settlers from the States, will be put into crop this year.

MAY OBTAIN CROSSES FROM SOLDIERS GRAVES

OTTAWA. — The Imperial War Graves Commission announces that when the temporary wooden crosses that mark the graves of officers and men abroad are replaced by permanent memorials, it will not be possible to preserve beyond a certain time those that are not required by the relatives. Next of kin who wish these wooden crosses to be sent to them are, therefore, requested to apply to the secretary, Imperial War Graves Commission, Winchester House, St. James' Squire, S. W. London, before September 1, stating the address to which the cross is to be sent and giving the usual particulars regarding the soldier on whose grave it is erected. It will be a convenience if the name of the cemetery is also given. A note will be made of these wishes and the wooden cross will be sent in due course.

This will, of course, not take place for some time, so next of kin should keep the secretary informed of any change in the address.

MAY'S SCHOOL RATE REGARDED EXCESSIVE BY SOME TAXPAYERS

ACCOMODATION HAS REACHED ITS LIMIT AND A FIFTEEN MILL RATE OR HIGHER IS PREDICTED—OPINION IN FAVOUR OF ANNEXATION IS REVIVING.

THE COUNCIL'S ATTITUDE

In refusing consent to the city's application to annex a lot in North Monaghan owned by Mr. John Davidson in the west end across the boundary the township council has served notice that if Peterboro desires to acquire any more property in that direction it must take a real bite and not another nibble from the edge. The city's border on that side is becoming decidedly serrated, and Monaghan taxpayers declare that by the annexation of single lots they are being deprived of land that has comparatively high assessment value. That is one reason for the township's onposition and it is a minor one.

May's School is developing a problem many of the outlying ratepayers would be gladly rid of. The school is now overcrowded with children from the southern and south western suburbs, additional accomodation is required at once, the teachers have demanded increased salaries, and if the school is enlarged or if other provision is made for the children the cost will have to be borne by township residents.

School Rate Now 12 Mills.

Extensions would be expensive and the school rate for that section would advance considerably beyond its present high level of twelve mills.

Many of the ratepayers already regard the school tax as excessive and with ordinary facilities for new pupils a fifteen mill rate can scarcely be avoided. This is the opinion of several of the residents of the section. They have little or no hope of arranging with the city to take care of the new group of children who will be ready for school in September. There is no relief from that source for this year in any event, and this perplexing situation is reviving the conviction that the only satisfactory solution lies in the annexattion of a considerable area of the township adjoining the city.

Hence, it is stated that behind the opposition to the application of the lone lot is a determination that the next acquisition by the city must be an extensive block that would include the May's School district. Several prominent Monaghan residents assert that the failure of Ald. Turner's agitation early last year for the annexation of part of the township was due to its comprehensiveness. Had he confined the area within narrower limits Ald. Turner's scheme would have greater chances of succeeding.

Citizens Against It.

"The strongest opposition to that annexation came from the ratepayers of the city" asserts one farmer. 'They saw an expenditure for sewers and sidewalks and other improvements, a considerable portion of which would have been charged against city property. Besides Ald. Turner was taking in market gardens and other areas that would have been of no use to the city and was better left in the township. If an agitation was started to annex the more settled strip next to the city it would likely be carried through. Of course some of the people would object, but there are many who would be glad to have their property incorporated within the city."

Monaghan has several school problems of which the lack of accomodation at May's is perhaps the more serious. Further west there is a movement for a consolidated school, and it is believed that if the municipality was freed of the surbaban difficulty they would be in a better position to deal with the needs of the rural sections. At any rate Monaghan Council's decision indicates a new policy of "all or none" in regard to annexations, and seems to invite a new approach from the city.

HOW TO FIGHT THE GARDEN CUTWORM

THEY HIDE BY DAY AND BY NIGHT FEED ON YOUNG PLANTS.

Watch for our insects and plant pests. They are numerous and most destructive. Once let them get a firm hold on your vegetable garden and they will do irreparable damage in a very short space of time. Study them, learn their habits and how to combat their onslaughts. They are interesting even if annoying. Be ready for them when they come, and see to it that their stay is a short one.

Cut Worms.

Early in the season the cut worm commences the work of destruction. Like a much advertised pill he works while you sleep. Evidences of his noctural visit will be found in the morning in the form of young plants, which have been cut off clean close to the roots. On stirring the soil nearby you will likely find the culprit, a greasy-looking caterpillar, curled up just below the surface.

These cut worms are among the most destructive of garden pests owing to their practise of destroying a whole plant in order to devour a small portion of the foliage.

Destroy Without Reason.

The cut worm is a miserable form of creation that seems to take a delight in the destruction of plant life. No good word can be said for this creature. Other pests merely destroy what they actually devour, or injure because they live on the juices of the plant, but the pesky cut worm, so far as his habits are known, destroys a whole plant, or perhaps more than that for the sake of satisfying a very small appetite. Cut worms destroy all sorts of juicy annual plants, and the soft young growth of woody vegetation. They are especially destructive to cabbage and tomato plants. They hide in the daytime under clods of earth, stones, or anything lying flat on the ground. When fully matured they become what is known as the owlet moth, and the pupae live in cocoons in the ground. They are most numerous in places where old sod has been turned over, or in garden plots near grassy places.

Protecting Collars, Etc.

Paper collars, made of tar paper or of stiff cardboard, and placed around the stems of the newly set plants in such manner that one end goes beneath the soil and the other rises an inch or so above, will help save the plants from attack. Tar paper discs, measuring a couple of inches each way, with a hole cut in the centre to fit about the stem of the plant, and a slit cut from one edge to this opening so that the disc may be slipped on the plant, is another form of protection. These discs lie flat on the surface of the soil, and the cut worm is not supposed to pass over their surface.

Scattering poisoned bran mash on the soil about the plants that are liable to attack is the best way to destroy these pests. The poison is prepared by adding one teaspoonful of Paris green to a quart of wheat bran. Next dissolve sugar or cheap molasses in sufficient water that when the fluid is added to the brand the whole will become a crumbly mass; sufficient sweetening must be used to make the mash attractive. One teaspoonful of molasses should suffice for the quantity of bran mentioned.

Should Be Prepared.

Before pests have made their appearance is the time to prepare to meet their attack. To wait until the insect pests have taken possession of your garden before making preparation to meet their attack is to lose the first round of the battle, at least. If the necessary insecticides and fungicides, together with a spray pump and a powder gun, with which to apply them, are secured now and held in readiness for immediate use, the first appearance of some of the insect pests will be the last.

Stale bread can be used as a basis for many meat dishes.

Celery added to cream potatoes will give them a good flavor.

Add a little ammonia to cut the grease when washing dishes.

BOSTON. — The Boston News Bureau has conducted an investigation into the shoe situation in New England, particularly as affecting prices and wages, present and prospective. The following summary, with reasonable qualifications that might apply to a particular locality, can be said to represent the status of the shoe industry at the present time.

The concensus of opinion among shoe manufacturers is that the peak of shoe prices has been reached, a fact due to lessened demand and an accumulating supply in the hands of retailers as well as manufacturers. A realization has set in that shoes are "as dear as the public will stand." One large maker of shoes admits that shoes are "too dear to warrant large purchases by retailers."

There is a noticeable tendency among retailers to liquidate and to hold off as long as possible from adding to their stock in order to see how the market is going and this in turn will necessitate that curtailment of production by manufacturers. Shoe dealers have lost their optimism about prices. They are unwilling to load up with a stock of shoes as a speculation merely, though it has been profitable so to do in the past two years when the great demand and the small supply operated to produce what even the manufacturers acknowledge to be exorbitant prices.

There is a general belief among large producers of shoes that prices will show some concession in the fall though no extraordinary decline can be looked for.

The dullness that has recently prevailed in Massachusetts shoe towns has become accentuated the past few days, with further lack of orders. So far the resultant decision to make definite curtailment programs has been more pronounced on the South than on the North Shore.

Usually the shoe factories close down for a part of July for inventory and stock taking; that operation is this year being shoved ahead to the present, as being a decidedly convenient time in view of trade conditions and the attitude of labor.

DISPLAY OF SUMMER GOODS.

Cressman's Window Attracting Attention—Memorial Shield.

The central display window at Cressman's store, which already this week has been the object of much interest with its splendid display of summer accessories in the way of lawn and verandah furnishings, has an added attraction at present. Occupying the centre of the window is a very handsome memorial shield of oak inlaid with steel and lettered in gold leaf, which shield will be unveiled in the Dovercourt Citadel, Toronto, on June 8th in memory of the boys from the Citadel who served and made the supreme sacrifice during the late war. At the centre of the top, the Union Jack and Canadian Flag are crossed with the Salvation Army flag over the beaver. The splendid work is one of the many shields J. J. Turner & Sons have made for churches and institutions throughout Canada. A similar shield was shipped recently to Yorkton, Sask., Collegiate Institute.

STRAWBERRY CROP NEEDS RAIN SOON

WILL BE RUINED, MARKET GARDENERS SAY, UNLESS SHOWER COMES.

Unless a good shower of rain comes very soon the local crop of strawberries will be ruined, the green grocers say, and the whole country is suffering from the same condition, resulting in a very poor outlook for the strawberry growers. Strawberries being brought in from outside are very expensive, selling at 45 and 50 cents for an American quart.

Pineapples are down this week, the best grades selling at 35 cents each. Grape fruit are very high, selling at 2 for 45 cents for the best grades and 2 for 25 cents for the smaller ones. Oranges since Christmas are a little easier, selling at $2 a box cheaper.

New potatoes still keep out of reach of the general public, selling at $18 and $20 a bbl. Asparagus is selling at 18 cents a bunch, slightly cheaper than the same time last year.

Edison Goods Unaffected by Tax

The present selling prices of THE NEW EDISON and records will not be changed by the new tax lately imposed on Phonographs. On these lines the dealers have already been paying a war tax of 7½ per cent., also an excise tax of 10 per cent., both of which were abolished when the new tax became effective. That made only an additional tax of 2½ per cent., part of which has been assumed by the wholesaler and part by the Greene Music Company,

Leaving Edison Prices the Same as Before

This applies to both Instruments and Records, and our large circle of customers will be pleased to know that they can buy their favorite Phonographs, and Records for them, without an increase on the prices that prevailed for the past few months. We would like to demonstrate a New Edison for you, either in our comfortable special Demonstration Parlours or in your home.

We sell at an unchanged scale of prices, and give you time accommodation to pay for it if desired.

BERNARD SHAW ON COMMUNITY MUSIC

MUSIC SUSTAINS MORALS AND MUNICIPALITIES HAVE CHARGE OF COMMUNITY MORALS.

Mr. George Bernard Shaw, speaking in favour of the municipalisation of music at Wednesday's sitting of the British Music Society's National Congress in the Aeolian Hall, London, said it was extraordinarily important that there should be in every centre of population in this country a competent symphony orchestra and an opera theatre, and that no child should be brought up without abundant and free means of access to the best music.

The resistance would come from people with neither musical nor anti-musical views, but from the general terror of the ratepayer that the rates would be put up. They would require to point out therefore that artistic and musical culture was a thing that paid in the long run. Municipalities had charge of the morals of the community, and very often they had a great deal of trouble in that connection. He had taken part in those measures which the municipalities used for sustaining the morality of their districts, and he was forced to admit that these measures were practically an encouragement to immorality—they were so entirely futile.

To raise the morals of a district, said Mr. Shaw, the one thing that should be kept in mind was that the community consisted largely of young persons growing up. At a certain period in their lives, when they began to take a larger and more general interest in their human relations and before the time when they could afford to get married, it was no use pursuing a policy of puritanism—a policy of strict repression of their human impulses. The real remedy was provided by nature and by God. All they had to do was to find an outlet for all those impulses in art. If their young men had music and pictures to interest them, to satisfy many of their impulses and to live their days they would not go to the low pleasures of the streets. They would have an alternative, and they would be too fastidious to do so.

Towns at present were in such a state of barbarism and philistinism, concluded Mr. Shaw, that the profit was going to the people who exploited the vices of the streets. That was a fact too seldom mentioned in this country. Vice led to drunkeness and degradation of character and contributed very largely to the keeping up of the rates. If that were explained in detail he thought that even the most parsimonious payer of rates would be persuaded that it would make towards healthier and better life in their towns, and keep the rates lower if they had an abundent and generous provision for art.

This store sells its stocks on its merits. The only thing thrown in is its service, which it endeavors to maintain and improve. It is the only policy that accords the same treatment to all.

IMPERATIVE NEED OF INCREASED ACCOMMODATION AT COLLEGIATE

MR. H. R. H. KENNER WARNS THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF EXTREME OVERCROWDING AFTER THE VACATIONS—USE OF ASSEMBLY HALL ONLY SOLUTION.

TWO MORE TEACHERS REQUIRED

Immediate action in the matter of providing increased school accomodation for the pupils of the Collegiate Institute was urged by Mr H. R. H. Kenner at the regular meeting of the Board of Education last evening. In his report Mr. Kenner pointed out the fact that Inspector Rogers had already reported upon the necessity of engaging two new teachers and that the fourth form will be overcrowded after the summer holidays to such an extent that the only immediate solution lay in the exclusion of non-resident pupils. Form three will be greatly over crowded. Outside of the eleven present class rooms one other room is already doing duty as library and special class room. Mr. Kenner concluded by stating that while the assembly hall might be cut into two additional rooms the only real solution is the building of a new wing. He urged haste in the matter of engaging two additional teachers. Consideration of the report was left over for the special meeting of the Board to be held presently. The appointment of another teacher for the Commercial Department will also be dealt with.

Debating Contests.

Drawing attention to the benefits to be derived from such Mr. J. H. Burnham asked the Board to consider the question of public debating contests between public school pupils and offered to provide prizes for such. Mrs. W. R. Morris thought something should be done along this line and Mr. Mowat advised procuring information on the subject from outside sources, while the general feeling amongst the members of the Board was that in the event or establishing such a course the Board should reserve the right of providing prizes.

Closing Day.

Inspector Mowat drew the Board's attention to the fact that the legal date of closing the schools for the Summer holidays is June 28th and it was decided to name the 25th as the closing for this year. The Collegiate Institute regular classes will close on June 11th when the Departmental examinations will be commenced at the Collegiate.

After service for 32 years as teacher on the Public School staff Miss Annie Peters tendered her resignation to the Board last evening due to the failing health of her parents and the Secretary was instructed to write expressing the Board's appreciation of her splendid and faithful services.

Applied for Positions.

Applications for positions on the Public School staff were received from Miss Edith Brumwell, Miss V. E. H. Fussee, Miss Gladys Hunter and Miss Mildred Sisson. These were filed.

School Attendance.

In his report of the school attendance Mr. Mowat stated that the attendance had been affected slightly by the epidemic of measles. Following are the figures for the month:

Queen Alexandra	368	331
King Edward	545	508
Queen Mary	491	448

South Central	407	368

At the Collegiate Institute 342 pupils are on the roll with an average attendance of 326.

PER CAPITA DEBT AND ASSESSMENT

COMPARISON OF CONDITIONS IN SOME CANADIAN CITIES.

Speaking before a meeting of war veterans on civic matters in Moose Jaw, Sask., recently, Commissioner Mackie, in referring to the assessment of debt per capita of Canadian municipalities, quoted the following figures, which are for 1910, and which, in some cases, would be larger for 1920:

City	Assess., per cap.	Debt per cap.
Regina, Sask.	$1,178.02	$238.39
Moose Jaw, Sask.	1,005.00	257.00
Saskatoon, Sask.	1,140.67	330.82
Victoria, B.C.	1,499.76	348.24
Edmonton, Alta.	1,532.00	402.72
Lethbridge, Alta.	836.36	254.98
Brandon, Man.	1,105.21	183.80
Charlottetown, P. E.	458.33	63.92
Sydney, N.B.	377.60	101.36
Moncton, N.B.	770.14	114.00
Verdun, Que.	486.26	37.45
Sherbrooke, Que.	712.44	94.22
Kingston, Ont.	586.00	64.69
Peterboro, Ont.	749.70	87.33

With reference to the above figures, Mr. Mackie said: "It has been laid down recently by a prominent writer in civic economics that the assessment in towns and cities with a population of over 20,000 should not exceed $1,000 per capita, and that the per capita debt should not exceed $200."

It can be readily seen from the above table that nearly all the western cities exceed this limit. Speaking of this, Mr. Mackie went on to say: "It must be remembered that most of the cities in the west are comparatively new and the capital expenditure has been incurred, as in the case of Moose Jaw, in less than ten years. In 1910 our net debt was $1,750,000, whereas last year it was $5,002,000, an increase of 190 per cent."

BIG CROWDS DELIGHTED WITH YESTERDAY'S CIRCUS

If the first circus which visited the city this year may be taken as an example of the shows which will come to Peterboro this season, circus lovers need lose no sleep over the kind of circuses that have seen fit to place this city on their itinerary. As those who saw the Sparks Show yesterday afternoon and evening, said "It was good" From its first appearance in this city shortly after six o'clock yesterday morning after a long jump from Guelph the night before, to its embarkation for Belleville last night after the performance, the citizens were most favorably impressed with this circus apart from its performance entirely. The roughness and general freshness of the workers in some circuses, was not characteristic of this circus and the quietness and respectability of this element was remarked by more than one, while the courtesy of the staff was also commended.

Between six and seven o'clock yesterday morning, they unloaded at the C. P. R. tracks on Albert street. At 11 o'clock the parade left the exhibition grounds. George street was lined with people, eager as the children that were with them, to see the animals and the clowns. With much clamour and blaring by colored bands, the screech of the mighty steam piano, and the shouts of the clowns, the parade wended its way up the main streets.

The circus, although admittedly a small one, had a goodly array of rolling stock, and the parade was very good. Perhaps the most striking feature of it was the splendid horses, excellently groomed and cared for.

A proper resume of the programme carried out in the big top being impossible, it will suffice to say that the assemblage of trapeze artists, animal trainers, riders and clowns provided an hour and a half's entertainment that displayed skill and ability that has not been seen in Peterboro for some time. Indeed it is a question if anything approaching several of the high wire acts were ever witnessed here, and breathless the crowd watched the thrillers following each other in rapid succession being performed far above the sawdust.

The sideshows attracted a large crowd and once again did the citizens have an opportunity to view the largest snake in captivity and the human volcano, and all the rest of it. Perhaps the superlatives were rung in a little heavy in these shows but they never fail to draw the crowd and Spark's was no exception.

BELGIAN PRAISES HIS COUNTRYMEN

BY THEIR INDUSTRY ARE RAPIDLY REGAINING FORMER PROSPERITY.

NEW YORK. — Belgian industry will be completely re-established by the end of the present year, in the opinion of Emil Francqui, President of the Societe Generale of Belgium, who is now in New York. Mr. Francqui is known in this country as the Director of the Comite National, the organization through which Herbert Hoover's Committee for relief in Belgium worked in the occupied areas.

Mr. Francqui bases his belief on the percentage of production at the end of March, 1920, as compared with the figures for 1919 and upon the fact that Belgian factories have now been rebuilt to such an extent that complete restoration of industries depends solely upon the supply of coal. For the obtaining of this supply, Mr. Francqui is more than hopeful.

"Belgium is making rapid strides in her recovery," said Mr. Francqui. "Already her collieries are not only up to but a little ahead of their 1913 output. Specifically they are producing 103 per cent. Before the war Belgium received annually 8,000,000 tons of coal for industrial purposes from Germany. By the terms of the treaty, Germany is required to furnish coal to Belgium, but so far Germany has not been able to do this or at least she has not, but when the coal begins to come and the remaining factories are repaired, the Belgian industrial position will again be up to normal. This should be by December, 1920.

"Conditions with us are more favorable than in those countries where there is a greatly lessened output of coal and a very slow progress in industrial rehabilitation. In Belgium we are moving rapidly. The reason for this is our laborers are not Bolsheviki, they are not anarchists, they are not radicals; they are workers.

"We can rely on them right up to the opportunity afforded them. Our Socialists are as loyally nationally as our conservatives. In this situation Belgium has an asset of incomparable value. The strength and the credit of a nation rest upon the quality of its individuals. On this basis, where in history has there been a finer exhibition of stability than that in Belgium since the armistice?

"The result of all this is the daily increase of our commercial movement. Our exports from Holland, France, Italy and Germany surpass our imports. With England the balance has been practically reached. It is only with countries such as the United States, Canada and Argentine where we are purchasing food requirements that the commercial balance is still against us.

BRISK DEMAND FOR EMPIRE MILKERS

Reports received lately from different parts of the County of Peterboro indicate a brisk and encouraging demand for the Empire Milking Machine. It is acknowledged by many practical farmers and dairymen that this milker has become one of the most important time-saving machines that can be added to the equipment of the farm where six or more cows have to be milked. Empire Milk users have found that there is even less excuse for milking by hand than for skimming by hand.

Among the number of those who have recently purchased complete milking outfits, are the following well known farmers:

Mr. Alex McGregor of the 4th line of Smith, who had his barn and contents destroyed by fire a short time ago, including his Empire Milker, at once arranged for another complete outfit to be set up on the same stanchions. The new outfit was delivered within a week from the time it was ordered.

Mr. Fred Fife, of Indian River, a well known enterprising farmer, has purchased a complete Empire outfit.

Mr. John Borland, another successful Indian River farmer, has installed a complete Empire outfit.

Mr. Joseph Gardiner of Norwood, who sold his farm two years ago, including an Empire milking machine, has replaced it with another new outfit.

Mr. Joseph Mann of Smith, well known as the owner of a fine breed of dairy cows, has invested in an outfit to help him out with his dairy work.

The above are only a few of the numerous important sales that have been reported within the past two months as showing the popularity of the Empire Milker in Peterboro County. Credit is due to the local sales agent, Mr. F. J. Doughty, for the energy and promptness he has shown in closing these sales and installing them. His address is 649 George street, Peterboro. AN EXCELLENT EXHIBITION OF FOOTBALL IN THE BENEFIT MATCH

THE CALEDONIANS SCORED IN FIRST FIVE MINUTES—BRILLIANT GOAL-KEEPING—HALF-TIME THE CALEY'S ONE GOAL AHEAD—AN EVEN SECOND HALF WITH THE TEAMS SHOWING A GOOD CLASS OF FOOTBALL—CALEDONIANS 1, ALL STARS 0.

The Benefit Football Game, under the Auspices of the International Association of Machinists, was played last evening at Nicholls' Oval before a fair attendance of spectators. Referee McKinley got the match started after a long delay caused by unforseen circumstances. The captains agreed to play 20 minutes either way. The following players lined up:

All-Stars—Jones (De Laval) goal, Ryan (G.W.V.A.) and Mc Donald (C.G.E.) backs, Jones (C.G.E.), Cridland (Machine Gun) and Edwards (G.W.V.A.) half-backs, Manders, Hotson, Gash, Turner, and Bartley (C.G.E.) forwards.

Caledonians—C. Fenner, goal; J. Willshaw and R. Wilshaw, backs; H. Frost, S. McMillian, and J. Peel, half-backs; McKinley, Matt. Shaw, Jas. Shaw, A. Duthy, and R. McDowall, forwards.

Referee—Mr. Alex. McKinley.

At 7.45 the teams lined up with Jas. Shaw setting the ball in motion and an individual effort on the part of McDowall went past. The All-Stars raided the Caley's goal and during a scrimmage Bartley accidently hit the ball with his hand. It ended with disaster for the All-Stars and Frost taking the foul kick landed the ball across the goals. McDowall lying uncovered scored the only goal of the game from close range. A break away by Manders and Hotson had the Willshaw Bros. in great difficulty. The outside right beat the Caley's left-back, run into the corner to centre, across the goal to Bartley who was too slow in catching on; Frost cleared to McMillan who punted us the field for McDonald to return it. Frost got the ball and, with a well directed drive for goal, Jones stopped the ball with Jas. Shaw and McDowall in close atendance. A few minutes later Jones had to save from a cross by McKinley. Even and interesting play continued until McDonald trying to force the issue run down the field and placed a beauty in front of goal that jumped over J. Willshaw's head to Fenner who came out of his goal to clear, with Turner right upon him. At the other end Jas. Shaw was called up offside when things looked promising. The Caley forwards returned the attack and from a nice cross by McKinley, Matt. Shaw tested Jones with a hard drive. A corner kick was awarded the Caley's of Ryan, McDowall shot the ball into the near goal-post and in one of his daring saves Jones stopped a sure goal. On the left wing Bartley carried the ball right down into the corner-flag, passed back to Turner and Frost noticing the play jumped in to clear. Just afterwards Fenner stopped a hard shot from the foot of Cridland. A foul against Turner for handling relieved the pressure. Frost shot the bal up to Matt Shaw who wasted no time to pass to McKinley but the later was played offside by McDonald. Nice combination by the All-Star right wing transferred the play to the other end, Manders put the ball directly to Gash, who shot past. Two corners for the Caledonians just before half-time brought nothing. Caledonians 1, All-Stars 0.

Half-time.

On the exchange of goals play was very even for first five minutes until Manders on nice tricky play outwitted the defence, and running at top speed sent a rocket shot into goals for Fenner to save. Quick as a flash the ball was at Jones goal with McDowall shooting high into goal. The goalkeeper jumped up and punted down the field. Nice football was witnessed the next 5 minutes with each side getting an offside decision. On an attack on the Caley's goal the All-Start centre-forward—Gash—was hit on the face with the ball but continued playing. Play was very keen, with neither team claiming any advantage. Manders on the right travelled down the wing and still on the run shot for goal that tested Fenner to full stretch and with an open goal in front Gash shot past. Turner repeated the same play a few minutes later. A raid by McKinley looked promising and crossing nicely to the left-wing, McDowall was stopped just at the crucial moment. Manders forced a corner of Willshaw, the parting shot landed at the far end of the goal for Bartley to test Fenner and McMillan clearing. Two corners for the Caley's—the first McDowall put past but the second he placed it to McMillan who let drive from 20 yards to miss the mark. The All-Stars pressed with J. Willshaw clearing. A solo effort on the part of Jas. Shaw looked like a straight run for goal and to clear his goal McDonald pushed the centre that brought the Caley's a foul. Frost drove hard for goal, Jones tipping it over the cross-bar. The corner-kick was fruitless. With nobody to heat but the goalkeeper, Wag Hotson missed an open goal. Following a corner-kick taken by Manders, the Caley's goalkeeper was bewildered with shots coming from all angles. Bartley tested Fenner, then the ball returned to the left-winger who shot hard for goal only to see the ball strike the upright and McMillian clearing. Each team put up a nice game and unfortunately darkness was setting in that made the game uninteresting. The two goalkeeprs gave an excellent account of themselves. There was no further scoring when full-time arrived.

EIGHT THOUSAND WILLS, BUT NO TESTATORS

Owing to the failure of a great number of soldiers to notify headquarters of their changes of address 8,000 soldiers' wills have been returned to the district record office, the addressees having moved. On enlistment, every soldier was required to make out a will, which is kept at the record office for reference in case of the soldier's death and on discharge they are returned to the testators. Already 8,000 of these documents have gone astray and finally returned to the office. If the testators of the wills are not located it is feared that complications might arise and it is the wish of the authorities that all soldiers who have not received their wills notify district record office, of their present addresses.

BUDGET PROTECTS PROFITEER BUT NOT PEOPLE OF CANADA

HON. MACKENZIE KING SAYS GOVERNMENT NOT REDUCING COST OF LIVING, BUT IS MAKING IT MORE DIFFICULT FOR THE PEOPLE TO LIVE.

OTTAWA, June 1.— (By Canadian Press.) — The attitude of the Liberal opposition toward the budget was voiced by its leader in the house of commons this afternoon. "The budget," declared Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, in the course of a three-hour speech, "is a budget to protect the profiteer. It is not a budget to protect the people of Canada." It revealed, he said, that the government had no policy for dealing with the high cost of living. Instead of reducing the cost of living, the government was making it more difficult for the people to live.

Mr. King spoke for three hours. He declared that the government should resign. It had been elected for the term of the war, and should give place to an administration competent to frame a sound peace policy. It had acquired the "war habit of mind" which resulted in autocratic rule and extravagant expenditures.

Charges by King.

The expenditure of the last fiscal year had added nearly four hundred millions to the debt of Canada or over a million dollars a day. One expenditure of $121,000,000 made by government during the war, was unaccounted for, and the auditor-general had been unable to find where the money went to.

Proposals made in the budget would encourage the manufacture of shoddy goods, said Mr. King. He argued that duties should be taken off the necessaries of life and the instruments of production, thus reducing the cost of living. The Liberals stood for free food and freer trade. There was but one Liberal platform which was based on the tariff resolution passed at the Liberal convention last August.

Rowell Answers Critics.

Hon. N. W. Rowell answered criticisms made by the leader of the opposition and other opposition members. The government had not spent a single cent recklessly he said, and there was no increase in the ordinary expenditure of the country. Money had been expended on pensions, soldiers' re-establishments, soldiers' settlement as well as on interest on public debt and civil service bonus. Pensions had been increased. Was this one of the items that opposition members objected to? "If they had any manliness in them they would retract their statements," remarked Mr. Rowell, amid ironical laughter from the opposition.

Unaccounted Expenditure.

The president of the privy council referred to the charge that an expenditure of $121,000,000 made by the government remained unaccounted for. This amount was largely used to pay Canadian soldiers serving overseas, and the vouchers had not been received at the time the auditor-general's report was published. The reason for the non-receipt of the vouchers was that two vessels carrying a number of these had previously been torpedoed by submarines, and the government was afraid to trust any more on the ocean. Again Mr. Rowell said that the opposition members who had made this charge should publicly retract it.

Sunday School Convention.

Dummer Sunday school convention was held in Zion Methodist Church last Tuesday afternoon and evening, was one of the best ever held. The time passed too quickly. Rev. Vose, of the Baptist Church, gave a short talk on the different form of religion whose devotees tried to win the young men and women who left the country for towns, especially for larger centres. He showed the necessity for early training in Bible truths so that the young people could withstand their assaults. The sunday School teachers are often to blame, for they frequently do not know their Bibles very well.

Rev. Halpenny was given the subject, "Train Up a Child in His Way." He said there is a great task ahead of us in standardizing Sunday Schools. A great deal of public school training is to enable a child to get more money and these schools are stand ardized. A child may go from practically any one place to any other and get into his right place in school. Not so with the Sunday Schools. Children of ten go to Sunday School till 18 years of age and know little of the Bible. He advised the use of the cradle roll. Unless there were no very little children to be on it. Also Home Department unless every adult were able to attend Sunday School. "Teen" age boys and girls should be organized, also adults, as thus they could do better work. Units cannot do so much singly as when united. There should be Teacher training and grade organization and grade instruction, missionary and temperance instruction. Workers' conferences regularly held and each denomination should teach its own requirements. The great centre of all should be "Definite Decision for Christ." He did not approve of a declaration day, when every pupil who had decided for Christ should publicly, in the Sunday School, declare his stand. He said the teacher should see the halo about his task, about the child's head and about his own head.

Supper was announced all too soon; some went home for chores. For those who could stay, the ladies of Zion prepared a bountiful supper which was much enjoyed.

Officers Elected.

During the interim the nominating committee met. Rev. Halpenny presided. The officers chosen were:

President—Mr. J. A. Crowe.
Vice-President—Mrs. David Miller.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. James Hawthorne.
Dept. Supts. Boys' Work — Mr. Henry Batten.
Girls' Work—Mrs. Geo. Taylor.
Children—Mrs .Wm. Wasson.
Adult—Mrs. Charles Ellis.
Home—Miss Clara Payne.
Teacher Training—Miss Ella Dewart.
Missionary—Mrs. Richard Batten.
Temperance—Mrs. Wm. Forsythe.

It was also recommended that the association accept the invitation to hold the next convention at Centre Dummer.

After the opening exercises of the evening session Rev. J. Knox gave an address on "What is Success and How It is Measured." Different people have different people have different ideas. Numbers at a Sunday School, a teacher's popularity, even interest do not always count for success in the matter of teaching the children to decide for Christ. The teacher is to hold up Christ and he will draw men to himself. Religion must create self-respect. Children must be impressed with the idea that they are created in the image of the Creator. Sabbath School teachers have a great work to do.

In the evening Mr. Halpenny's subject was "The Challenge of the Age to S. S. Workers." He said boys and girls should be trained to be all-round Christian men and women, and took the tests for tuxis boys, and showed that the majority of boys, even if tey stood the physical test were apt to fail in the intellectual tests and still more in the religious and social tests. A growing boy was dwarfed if he used cigarettes. It was absolutely impossible for anyone to develon fully and use cigarettes. Foundations must be laid in childhood. Foundation laying is slow and inconspicuous, but so surely as it is laid it stays. The parents do practically all foundation laying during the first 3 years—playmates, teachers and others come later. Very few decisions are made for Christ after the age of 20. Men and women are a long time reaching maturity; some creatures live and die in a short space of time, therefore the foundations of a person's life must be well laid and of good material. Mr. Halpenny's addresses were very practical and very inspiring. He has a happy way of holding interest and making his hearers understand. All Sunday Schools were represented, though some by but few.

Sunday Services.

Rev. Fraser officiated at th Presbyterian services on Sunday, Mr. Fraser is from Aberdeen, Scotland, and gave the people something practical to think about, but put the Gospel of Jesus Christ first.

There was no service in the Anglican Church.

The service in the Baptist Church in the morning was conducted by Mr. Joffe, a converted Russian Jew, who is a colporteur in the Bible Society. He preached in the Methodist Church in the evening, and gave an address in the Methodist Church on Monday evening.

Call to Rev. G. Graham.

There was a union meeting of the Warsaw and Cottesloe Presbyterians on Monday evening. Rev. Jull, of Lakefield, interim moderator, presided. It was voted to extend a unanimous call to Rev. Gerard Graham.

PATENTED SEATS AT HAGENBACK CIRCUS

Press critics who have seen the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, which is to appear in Peterborough for two performances on Tuesday, 8th June, have said that one very pleasing feature of it is the general arrangement, which enables the visitor to see the whole show. If this is true, and there seems no reason to doubt it, one of the chief objections to the modern circus has been overcome. It will do away with a complaint so often heard, "there was so much going on all the time that I didn't get to see it." Thus the Hagenbeck-Wallace management has not only achieved the reputation of being the best show of its kind ever produced, but has added to its greatness by placing it within the range of two ordinary eyes.

In this connection it might be well to mention other facts:

There are never any "tired backs" at the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus. Another innovation. From time immemorial circus-goers have found themselves fatigued by the unnatural position in which they were compelled to sit during the show. This condition as been entirely eliminated by the Hagenbeck-Wallace management, by use of their patented seats, n use by ths show only.

It is good news, not only for women and children and aged people, but for everybody. For the combination of a show of the magnitude of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus and the attending comfort for patrons is something which will appeal to all.

HARRISON AND SWANSTON THE BATTERY ON SATURDAY

The opening of the local Central Ontario League season which brings the Port Hope Ontario to Riverside Park on Saturday as the guests of the Petes is welcomed by the fans and every enthusiast in town will be in line when "Play Ball" is called. Peterboro has to win this game to keep in the running and the same is true of Port Hope who have lost two fixtures and cannot afford to drop another The Ontarios are confident of breaking into the win column, basing their hopes on the fine pitching of McDonald against Belleville and the fact that the team has been strengthened in several weak spots. Manager Bob Chalk always seems to have the Port Hopers upon their toes and fighting every time they meet Peterboro and Saturday's game will prove no exception.

"Hap" Harrison will do the gunning for Peterboro with Max Swanston behind the bat and the Petes expect to inaugurate the local season with a victory. The squad will practice to-night at Riverside Park when the line-up for Saturday will be selected.

CAN THE WOOLENS STOP THISTLES' WINNING STREAK

The Canadian Woollens ball team who won a sensational game from the C. G. E. in the City League series on Saturday are going to endeavour to take a fall out of the league enders the Thistles in a twilight game at Riverside Park to-morrow evening at 6.15 o'clock. Manager Mulhall will send young Gilchrist out to stop the slugging Yeotes' crew while the Thistles will entrust their pitching to Howard Kirn. The Thistles must be stopped soon if the race is not to be a runaway and the Woollens are confident that they have the outfit to turn the trick. here will be no disappointments over this game as there was Monday night when only six of the Veterans turned out and the C. G.E. won the game by default.

CRESSMAN'S WIN ANOTHER; DEFEAT WESTCLOX BY 8 TO 6

CHASED BY FOOTBALLERS

By bunching hits off Herb Wolfe in the 6th innings of their game with Westclox at the Oval last evening, Cressmans made it two straight wins in the Commercial League. The score was 8 to 6. Westclox looked to have the game settled in the first, when on a medley of hits and wild pegs, five runs were scored. But that was their best session. They counted again in the second, but with Bartley twirling the remainder of the contest, they were held back, while Cressmans took kindly to Wolfe's benders, the latter succeeding DeGraw who pitched three innings.

Westclox pulled something when Yelland was sent to bat for DeGraw in the second, the pitcher having sustained injury. The Southerners used De Graw in the box in the third and he retired the side on strikes.

Then Cressmans got busy and took special care to see that DeGraw remained on the bench. Wolfe who took up the burden did well until the fatal sixth when the blow fell, and Cressmans won out.

DeGraw fanned six in three innings ad allowed three hits, one a triple, and issued a pass. The other good performance was by Bartley who fanned seven in four innings, issued but one pass and held Westclox to a solitary single.

Our old friend, Bill Field, fresh from the City League, appeared at short for Westclox. He hit for three bags in the first, sending in two runners ahead of him.

Clashed with Soccer Group.

Frills were furnished by a clash between the baseball and the football officials, and the latter were a bit high-handed in the argument. The Commercial League has the diamond at the oval for Tuesday and Friday evenings and a notice at the Oval announces the fact. But a benefit game for some of the strikers was arranged by the football executive for the oval last evening. It was argued by baseball league officials that the football people had not decided on a definite time for starting the game, the understanding being that the benefit game should be played immediately after the conclusion of the ball game. But several officious beings were determined that the ball teams should get off the oval before the game concluded, and went so far as to plant the goal posts on the diamond. There was much tongue wrangling and finally the ball game was called at the end of the sixth.

First Innings.

De Graw put three straight strikes to F. Wolfe for the first out. He also fanned H. Long. Cobb hit to right, made second, when Lundy missed the throw and went on to third. Shannan at third failed to handle the ball. Cobb made for home but he collided with Harry Whitlow who was coaching, and the Umps called the runner out on interefference.

For Westclox, Anslie drew a pass and he stole. He made third when Field mussed a bingle from C. Wolfe and scored on a wild heave. Shannan flew out to Bartley. DeGraw went out at first. C. Wolfe scored on a wild throw. Prosser doubled and H. Wolfe walked. When Lundy dumped a liner along first, Prosser scored. Field tripled to left scoring Wolfe and Lundy. Field tried to steal home and was called out. It looked like intereference on the catcher's part on a pitched ball, as Prosser stepped in front of the batter to get the throw on which he tagged the runner.

Second Innings.

Bartley walked and was hit home by Hunter's triple. Graham drove Hunter in, and went out stealing. Long flew to Field and Sage fanned.

Clarke retired on strikes. Ainslie walked and C. Wolfe fanned to Cobb. Shannan singled scoring Ainslie, and Yelland batting for DeGraw, was thrown out.

Third Innings.

DeGraw retired C. Wolfe, F. Wolfe and H. Long on seven strikes and two foul tips.

Bartley relieved Hunter and fanned Prousser and H. Wolfe. Lundy flew out to Hunter.

Fourth Innings.

Herb Wolfe replaced DeGraw, Cressmans having discovered that Westclox were trying to play ten men by using Yelland to bat for the pitcher. Cobb fanned. Bartley was safe on Field's boot but was caught going into second. Shannan missed Hunter's biff and aided by a wild pitch reached third. Then he stole home cleanly. Graham grounded out.

Field flew out to M. Long. Clarke fouled to the catcher. Ainslie drew his third pass, stole second and third but failed to get home as C. Wolfe fanned.

Fifth Innings.

Bartley took Long's fly; Sage singled; C. Wolfe lined out to first and F. Wolfe was out when he fouled the third strike on an attempted bunt.

Shannan was thrown out by Graham; Yelland fanned; Prosser singled but the hit was wasted as H. Wolfe flied to Long.

Sixth Innings.

H. Long walked and stole. Cobb was thrown out at first, and when Bartley hit to Lundy the fielder threw wild to the plate to get Wolfe and the run scored. Then Hunter, Graham and M. Long singled and Sage doubled, the wallops being good for four more runs. C Wolfe stoped the fun by sending a fly to Field.

ATTENTION—MEN

Irene Rich, who comes to the Allen theatre to-day and to-morrow in the Goldwyn Picture, "The Strange Boarder," featuring Will Rogers, is never happier than when swimming some distance off shore in the Pacific Ocean. She is almost as much at home in the water as on the land.

"All my worries and troubles simply dissolve into thin air when I hit the water," says Miss Rich. "I feel as I suppose some men feel when they're absorbed about three drinks; not a care in the world, and I could just go on and on. I never seem to get tired."

Miss Rich has another hobby; it is shrubbery and flowers. "I simply cannot pass a place where attractive shrubbery is for sale without spending my last cent for it," she laughed. "And then I go home and debate where it will look best, and set it out, and care for it; and buy some more the first chance I get."

MONEY FOR PURE SPECULATION WILL BE DENIED BORROWERS.

WASHINGTON. — Prices will be reduced at least 25 per cent. if the Federal Reserve Board is able to carry through its program of credit deflation, officials in touch with the nation's banking system predicted to-day.

The breaking up of the freight car congestion started to-day by the interstate Commerce Commission, is also expected to result in a lowering of prices. As free distribution of commodities is resumed, a decline in prices which may reach 10 per cent. is looked for by some Government experts.

George Hodges of the American Railroad Association said: "It will enable manufacturers to vastly increase production and this will end shortages of commodities in many localities."

The Federal Reserve Board believe speculators have borrowed large sums at high interest rates to buy commodities and stocks and hold them for higher prices. The public has paid this.

The Reserve Board has determined that this sort of borrowing must stop and long standing loans must be paid. Funds for pure speculation will be denied. Borrowings for dealings in luxuries and non-essentials will be halted. Long standing loans will be called in.

Officials here differed to-day as to whether or not the Board would be able to carry through its program of deflation.

IS NOT LIFE GOOD?

(After Illness.)

Is not Life good? But best when, long a pawn,
Your sick ears dimly hear contending powers
Playing a game most perilously drawn,
Your soul long trailed by black delirious hours—
Then suddenly, as when a thick air thins,
Those playing for you make the move that wins!

Is not Life good? At best when given back?
It is as though one should be born again,
Like a transmigrant set upon the track
Of human joys forgot and ways of men.
But in that time of strange rebirth have care—
Least joys can bring the tears all unaware.

Is not Life good? Not less than miracle
When so restored? As though a rose once shed
Should bloom again — as though a magician spell
Through ashes cold a running flame should spread!
Seek you not then, as one a veil would lift:
Who gave me back this sweet, this peerless, gift?

Is not Life good? And best if, in the Spring,
It is returned to you? It is to start
Companioned by so many an eager thing
Who will not let you bear a backward heart:
But, hearing sursum corda everywhere,
Though old and tired your heart, it still must share.
—Edith M. Thomas in N. Y. Times.

LONDON, June 3.—Russian Bolshevik forces are advancing on each end of the Polish front, but are being held along the Beresina river, according to an announcement issued yesterday at Moscow and received by wireless. The statement says:

"In the direction of Molodechno we are conducting an advance near the railway. South-east of Mozier, near the mouth of the Beresina river, fighting is proceeding with success. In Bielia, Tharkoff region, after fierce fighting, seven miles from Bielia, we are driving the enemy back toward the towns."

SAY FRANCE TO AID.

LONDON, June 3.—France is planning to send one hundred thousand troops of her Colonial forces to help Poland against Russia, the Daily Graphic's Berlin correspondent has learned in diplomatic circles. No official confirmation of the report could be obtained here to-day.

The Paris Matin to-day published reports from Warsaw that the Polish Diet has decided to sever diplomatic relations with Czecho-Slovakia.

Dr. Benes, the Czech foreign minister, who is in London, has presented a formal protest to the League of Nations against the Polish attitude toward Teschen. He has asked that the League make an independent official investigation.

Both Czecho-Slovakia and Poland accuse the other of terrorism and anarchy in Teschen. Dr. Benes declares disorders were increasing; that the Czechs do not want war with Poland, but that they intend to defend their rights.

OFFICIAL INQUIRY INTO FLAG BURNING

U. S. STATE DEPARTMENE ASKS FOR STATEMENT OF FACT.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 3. — The United States' State Department today asked the District of Columbia Commissioners for a statement of fact as to the burning of the British flag yesterday in front of the treasury by women sympathizers with Irish freedom.

The Department acted on its own iniative, officials said, no protest against the action of women having been made by the British Embassy. State Department officials would not indicate what action would be taken after the report as to facts had been received.

Another Tea Party.

WASHINGTON, June 2. — Irish sympathizers to-day burned a British flag in front of the United States' Treasury Building. Led by Miss Mary Keana, of New York, they soaked the Union Jack in oil and set a match to it. To the crowd that gathered Miss Keana proclaimed:

"This is only another Boston tea party to remind the assassins not to go too far."

Whether the incident will take on an international significance will depend on the attitude of the White House and State Department.

THOMAS MUND SUSPECTED

(Canadian Press.)

EDMONTON, June 3.—Search for Thomas Mund, who is alleged to have brutally murdered a boy and girl aged ten and fifteen years, children of Otis MacDonald, has so far proved fruitless. A party of one hundred police and farmers are scouring the district, but so far Mund has not been captured. He is believed to have succeeded in crossing the Pembina river.

Mund is alleged to have taken the children to a cemetery on a pretext of planting a tree on his father's grave. Their bodies were found with their heads battered out of recognition.

The social afternoon of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G. W.V.A., which was held on Wednesday afternoon, was very pleasant in spite of the fact that the rain kept a good many from being present. Those who braved the elements (which were very threatening at the tea hour) had a delightful time.

New Concrete Walk.

A new stone foundation for the walk on Colborne Street, between Concession Street and Chippewa Avenue, is being put in, and it is expected that a cement top will be put in later. The board walk which had done duty there had reached its limit of usefulness, and the new walk will be much appreciated.

PERU'S ASIATIC PROBLEM.

Workers Protest Against Japanese Element.

(Canadian Press)

BUENOS AIRES, June 3.—Peru, like the United States and Canada, has its "Asiatic problem." Advices from Lima tell of the distribution of circulars among the workers of that city protesting against "the monopolization by the Asiatic and Japanese element of our small industries" and holding of a protest meeting. The advices state that the police "very discreetly dissuaded" the protestants from holding a street demonstration.

There has been a large increase reported in the Japanese immigration to Peru recently.

The insignia was taken from his body by soldiers of the Austrian Guard and has been in the Military Museum here.

U.F.O. EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN BY FRESH CORPS OF SPELLBINDERS

Have Already Arranged for Fifty Summer Meetings, in Which the New Propaganda Will Be Disseminated.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, June 3.—The United Farmers of Ontario have planned one of the greatest educational campaigns ever staged in Ontario for the coming year. A partial list of meetings arranged for the summer months already has passed the fifty mark and an equal or greater number is scheduled in the U. F. O. co-operative stock-selling drive.

J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U. F.O., stated to-day that the organization is better equipped than ever before to carry on its educational propaganda, as a great number of speakers have been received for various lengths. It is not the intention to throw the full load of the work upon members of the Legislature, said Mr. Morrison.

M'DONALD LUMBER CO. LOGS BURNED IN GALWAY TOWNSHIP

YESTERDAY'S RAINS WERE HEAVY NORTH OF THE CITY AND DAMPENED SOME OF THE BUSH FIRES---CAREW COMPANY ALSO REPORT LOSS OF TIMBER.

While the showers that visited Peterboro yesterday were not very heavy out in Douro and Ennismore there were copious rains.

The farmers in Ennismore say that they came just in time to save the crops, and if they continue everything wil be well.

Across the lake in Smith the showers were light. In the eastern part of Otonabee the rains were heavy, and Havelock and back in Belmont there were also heavy downpours.

In the district where the forest fires have swept the bush there was rain on Tuesday night and to-day ti is stated the fires are pretty well smothered out.

Logs were Burned.

The most of the fire-swept area is government land. The McDonald Company suffered serious loss in Galway township, where considerable quantities of logs ready for the drive were destroyed. A visitor to the fire stated that the bush seemed to be on fire all the way from Buckhorn to Crow's dam, and in the east nothing but smoke could be seen. The fire seemed to be north and east of Ketchecum and extending to Gooderham.

The Peterboro Lumber Co's limits lie around Ketchecum, Gold and Beaver Lakes, but it was learned at the office to-day that they did not suffer any through the fire which kept east and north. Their fire rangers were on the limits all the time and up till now none of their land had been swept.

The Peterboro Lumber Company's drive of mixed logs which were cut last winter on Gold and Beaver Lakes is on the Massassagua River now, and about 40 lumbermen are on the drive which is expected to arrive in Buckhorn in a couple of weeks. It is a joint drive with the John Carew Lumber Company of Lindsay, and in the northern village the logs will be separated.

It was intimated that the local company's logs would likely be cut in Buckhorn to save the long drive down to Peterboro, and save probably a month in cutting the lumber.

The Carew Company suffered considerably from the fire. They hold seven or eight hundred acres and it is stated that their loss will be considerable.

The McDonald Company are awaiting the report of their fire ranger, who will be in the city on Saturday, and until then their exact damage cannot be estimated.

CARS FROM AUBURN TO BYERSVILLE END

TWO OF THE GEORGE STREET CARS SWITCHED WHILE ROAD IS BEING REBUILT.

The laying of new rails on the George street line of the street railway south of the C. P. R. over the section of the highway the city has announced its intention of paving has necessitated a new routing from the end of the C.G.E. line to Auburn. Two George street cars have been transferred to the west line and with the two C.G.E. cars are making the entire run. When two cars are at the switch above Wolfe street the other two are at the north end switch between Smith and Antrim. Going up town from the south end the cars pregede those from Charlotte street and Monaghan road from Park street west and continue up George street. Thus the car from the north, instead of continuing down George street, passes the C.G.E. car at the Charlotte street corner and turns west to Brownton. Traffic on George street south of Charlotte, is served by two cars, one of which is sequestered below the strip of road where the rails are being torn up. Passengers are required to transfer until the new roadbed is completed.

A MODERN HEN HOUSE FOR WHITE WYAYDOTTES

Specializing in White Wyandottes, of which he expects to have a flock of one thousand this summer, Mr. Hugh Bertram, who lives west of Jackson Park, has built a modern hen house, which is believed to be one of the largest and most complete and convenient in this district. It is 75 feet long and 20 feet wide. The incubator room is lighted by electricity and is fully equipped for its special purpose.

Of the first setting of 176 eggs, 174 chickens are well advanced and make a promising flock. There is a large runway outside, the large compartments into which the house is divided are well lighted and ventilated. Special attention was given to protection against severe winter weather. The facilities for cleaning the roosts are simple and efficient.

The contract for the construction of the building was let to Mr. George Sloan whose men recently finished it.

Mr. Bertram's son, Mr. Jack Bertram, will have charge of this enterprise, which will be extensively developed.

DENOUNCES THE GREEK ROYALISTS

VENIZELOS SAYS MARTIAL LAW WILL CONTINUE UNTIL TREATY IS SIGNED.

(Canadian Press.)

ATHENS, June 3.— Martial law in Greece will continue as long as the country is at war with Turkey and the peace treaty is unsigned, Premier Venizelos asserted in a speech in the Chamber of Deputies. Opposition parties, instead of "rejoicing" over the triumph of their country in the peace conference have taken advantage of the abolition of martial law to start propaganda for the return of King Constantine," he said.

MAY IMPORTS SHOW A GREAT INCREASE

The imports for May, 1920, show an increase of more than two hundred millon over the corresponding month last year. Exports show an increase of more than twelve millions for 1920 over 1919, but there is a large decrease when compared with May, of 1918.

Did Not Dictate

UNITED FARMERS INSIST, HOWEVER, THAT THEY HAVE THE RIGHT TO ADVISE MEMBERS.

DEMAND AN ELECTION

TORONTO, June 2.—That public opinion throughout the country demands a Dominion election was the concensus of opinion expressed by the members of the U.F.O. executive at their meeting in Toronto yesterday but though there was a general discussion of the matter and some vigorous criticism of the Union Government, the executive did not put their conviction into the form of a resolution.

Repudiate Charge.

"This board of directors of the U. F.O., assembled in Toronto, declare that while they repudiate the charge that there has been any attempt on he part of their executive to dictate to the government, they at the same time believe it their duty and insist on their right at all times, to act in an advisory capacity."

The above resolution passed unanimously.

The meeting also went on record as adhering to the view that a U.F.O. member of the house of commons or legislature who disagreed with his riding executive should resign as a matter of duty.

The meeting endorsed the action of Secretary J. J. Morrison, with regard to the circulating of U. F. O. clubs and members of the legislature to impose increased sessional indemnities and the civil service superannuation bill. Incidentally Mr. Morrison was also given an increase in salary.

"Action Wisely Taken."

The first of a series of resolutions passed says:

"That whereas the secretary, by direction of the executive committee has sent out communications to the branches thruout the province with a view to obtaining their opinion upon certain legislation proposed by the government and members of the legislature of Ontario, and

"Whereas there appears in some quarters to be exception taken to this course as inimical o the freedom and prejudicial to the legislative authority of the government.

"Be it resolved that in the opinion of this board of directors the action was wisely taken, since it was thoroly democratic and quite in keeping with the U.F.O. policy to establish the individual responsibility of the elector, and we hereby repeat our unreserved approval of the action taken."

No Attempt at Dictation.

A second resolution passed denying any attempt at dictation to the government and insisting on their right to act in an advisory capacity.

HON. WALTER ROLLO THE CITY'S GUEST

ENTERTAINED AT DINNER IN THE EMPRESS—HERE ON FIRST VISIT.

Hon. Walter Rollo, Minister of Labour in the Provincial Legislature, arrived in the city to-day on the noon train from Toronto for a short visit in Peterborough to become acquainted with the city and to look into the labor situation and to also do all in his power to bring a conclusion to the C.G.E. strike.

At the station he was met by Mr. Thomas Tooms, M.L.A. and Alderman G. N. Gordon, who took the place of Ald. Joseph Crowe, chairman of the Reception committee, who is ill. City Clerk Armstrong, other aldermen and representatives of labor. After a motor trip around the city, in which the cabinet minister was very favorably impressed with the city in general, particularly the excellent roads, well kept lawns and gardens and the high standard of dwelling houses which was noticed in the workers' residential section.

At one o'clock luncheon was tendered to the Hon. Rollo at the Empress Hotel. Those present were: Mayor McIntyre, Mr. Thomas Tooms, M.L.A., Ald. G. N. Gordon, Ald. H. Gainey, Ald. F. Whitehouse, City Clerk Armstrong, Mr. Peter McArthur, president of the Independent Labor Party, and Mr. H. Harper, business representative of the International Machinists' Association.

The Hon. Minister spoke very briefly, thanking them for the reception they had tendered him, and said that he was pleased to be in such a beautiful city. This afternoon at 2.15 he addressed a meeting at Labor Hall and this evening will speak at the Lyceum to a special meeting of labor men.

The longer you cook a cried fruit the sweeter it will be.

FIVE COAST GUARD STATIONS ATTACKED

By Sinn Feiners Last Night—Troops Land at Bantry Bay.

(Canadian Press.)

CORK, June 3.—It is reported that Sinn Feiners during the night attacked one naval station at Queenston and five coast guard stations, being successful in all instances but one. No details of the attacks are available. The arrival of troops especially equipped for military operations, continues at many ports along the coast. One hundred soldiers landed at Bantry Bay, County Cork, this morning from troopships.

SCARCITY OF BEES MAY EFFECT CROP

PROFITEERS WILL NEED THEIR HONEY AND LABOUR, IF NOT THEIR STINGS.

Several forces are militating against the bumper crop of fruit expected this year, and unless something unforseen happens the farmers are sceptical of making the big clean up they expected. Bees, for some unaccountable reason, which are absolutely essential for a good fruit season, are very scarce, and all along the lake shore the fruit growers are viewing this shortage with apprehension. Closer home the strawberries are being practically ruined by the want of rain, and unless it comes in a few days the crop, which is due in ten or twelve days, will be an absolute failure. The dry season is also having a serious effect upon such root crops as carrots and beets, which in ordinary seasons would be coming along fairly well by this time. Imported fruit is fairly scarce, due to the difficulty in securing freight cars, and to the fact that the strikes prevent getting them moved once they are stocked. That is keeping up the price of bananas and oranges, the former being sold to the wholesale men by the pound now instead of by the bunch as formerly.

Potatoes show no change, while Texas onions are down from 25 to 30 per cent.

BRING CHINA AND FRANCE TOGETHER

PAUL PAINLEVE ON A DIPLOMATIC MISSION.

(Canadian Press.)

VANCOUVER, June 3. — Former Premier Paul Painleve, of France, arrived here yesterday morning en route to China. "The object of my mission," he said, "is to bring China and France closer together. We will act as technical and intellectual guards for the Chinese and in turn we will take back some of China's culture." He is accompanied by prominent French educational and technical representatives.

MAY PROTECT ALLIGATORS

Demands for His Hide Tends to Extermination.

NEW ORLEANS, June 3. — Because everyone seems to want to make a suitcase of him, the alligator, is becoming comparatively scarce in Louisiana and protective measures are being framed by the conservation commission.

Statistics compiled by port authorities here show that practically all of the alligator skins exported from the United States go through this port. One concern alone is exporting an average of ten thousand hides each month throughout the year.

Prepare to Trade

WANT ASSURANCES FIRST

LONDON, June 3.—Trade negotiations between the Allies and Gregory Krassin, Russian Soviet Minister of Trade and Commerce, have not yet begun according to statement by Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons to-day. Replying to a flood of insistent querries, the Premier said there were certain questions Great Britain wanted cleared out of the way before it would undertake negotiations at all. The Russian guarantee that there will be no attacks on British interests in east or at home while negotiations are proceeding, Lloyd George declared, and must guarantee to release all British prisoners whether civil or military. Great Britain must clear these questions out of the way herself, Premier added, after which Allied negotiations could proceed. Representatives of French and Italian governments are in London.

OFFSET FRENCH PROTEST.

LONDON, June 2.—The hurried official announcement to-day that Great Britain will not trade against Bolshevik gold, but solely against raw materials, is intended to offset the sharp French protest against any scheme appropriating Russian gold on which the French claim its Russian bondholders have a prior right.

It seems that the French Ambassador, M. Paul Cambon, was the only allied ambassador to be invited to attend the Downing Street conference with Gregory Krassin, Soviet Minister of Trade, but M. Cambon refused on instructions from the Quai d'Orsay, and it is explained the Italian ambassador was not invited only because he was absent from London. It is also explained that the trading will be open to all the allies, and the inter-allied commissions have proposed that they will not have to come of British ports to control it. But if the allies don't come in, Great Britain is committed to the scheme anyway, and will go ahead with it.

It is learned from an indisputable source to-day that Premier Lloyd George had not, as was reported, arranged with Krassin for a conference before having received the answer of Premier Millerand regarding the proposed negotiations.

Direct trading with America is not anticipated under the new scheme, but probably United States goods will be bought by Scandinavian countries, who can deal with Russia.

FORMER PETERBORO RESIDENT

MRS. R. F. M'WILLIAMS HAS A STIRRING CAREER IN WESTERN METROPOLIS.

One had somewhat thought that the study of political science must have been largely sponsor for the singular freedom with which Mrs. McWilliams moves among the economic and social problems of the time, both in mental perception of their intricacies and in lucid expounding of their salient points. Wherefore it was a thought dismaying to the feminine lay mind of the scribe when the lady quite simply waived Political Science on its way as "interesting and easy." But the scribe maintains that Varsity and Political Science must have been at least a finger-post along the way of eager, hurrying mind of the girl, Margaret Stovel.

For Mrs. McWilliams is of the East, a Torontonian, in spite of the dear lady who gave us occasion for hilarity, when, after the not quite unanimous last meeting of the National Council of Women in Regina, she characterized Mrs. McWilliams, in her stand against a barnacled constitution, as "the embodiment of the materialism of the West."

After her graduation, Margaret Stovel went to live with her uncle and guardian at Minneapolis, where she rounded out her academic training by journalistic experience on the Minneapolis "Journal," later extending this experience on the staff of the Detroit "Journal." This experience naturally quickened and pointed her interest in current events and its further fruition is to be found to-day in the Current Events class, which Mrs. McWilliams has conducted bi-weekly in Winnipeg since the first year of the war, and where are discussed in a temperate, balanced way, events of the day in their interrelation and their alignment with past and future.

The first years of Mrs. McWilliams' married life were spent in Peterboro, Ontario. In nineteen hundred and ten, when her husband transferred his law practise to Winnipeg, Mrs. McWilliams found work to her deft hand and a setting for her eager spirit in the jostling growth and adjustment of an active city forming itself socially and spiritually as well as expanding physically and industrially.

Her first work was accomplished as Secretary to the Babies' Milk Depot, which was the fore-runner of all the splendid Child Welfare work done now in the city of Winnipeg. It was a voluntary experiment then and "great fun," Mrs. McWilliams said. For two years she was Secretary of Winnipeg Women's Canadian Club, during which time the Club membership increased from five hundred to fifteen hundred. These Mrs. McWilliams calls her two best pieces of work, for here she touched individuals as she did not in the more remote directive positions of later years.

Under Mrs. McWilliams' Presidency, from 1913 to 1915, the University Women's Club of Winnipeg adopted the policy of bringing prominent men and women as speakers to the city. It was at these meetings that Winnipeg audiences began to savour something of the quality of Mrs. McWilliams intellect and personality.

Somewhere along here, she became Corresponding Secretary of the Local Council of Women, and after two years, President, to which office she was re-elected for four successive terms. The function of these councils is to make and focus public opinion, mainly on matters concerning women and children and good citizenship. There are sixty-four women's organizations represented on the Winnipeg Council. Among the reforms brought about by the action or influence of this Council are the appointment of a Juvenille Court Judge and, women probation officers, the voting of a substantial grant for the care of the feeble-minded in Manitoba and the securing of legislation, whereby the wives of Winnipeg voters become voters themselves. They are now planning a Women's Hostel. In 1917, Mrs. McWilliams was made convener of the committee to revise the constitution of the National Council of women, but, after two years the friction around the constitution (especially as concerned power by proxy) had become so coagulated that the Winnipeg Countil withdrew from the National Council until such time as the constitution is re-modelled to suit present-day conditions.

During the war years Mrs. McWilliams was a member all the way through, of the Women's Auxiliary of the Red Cross, finishing as Secretary, and is still a member of the Provincial Executive. She also worked on the Food Commission.

The destiny that somewhere along the course draws the spokes of a life's activities to a central steady motive, seems to be more and more indicating Mrs. McWilliams as an educational force. When the Federation of University Women's Clubs of Canada was consumated last August, she was elected President, and a recent trip East was partly for the object of visiting the clubs forming the Federation. There are now ten clubs in the Federation with a membership of some nine hundred women. Mrs. McWilliams feels that the trained minds of University women should be placed more at the service of the community, for instance in such ways as Current Event classes, directing public opinion and giving opportunity of discussing public affairs. She is on the executive of the National Council of Character Education in relation to Canadian Citizenship and attended the recent meeting of the Council in Ottawa.

These are only the high lights of Mrs. McWilliams' activities. Although her physical strength does not always mate with her nervous energy and cerebral restlessness, she is still of an industry appalling to the more slothful. But any further list of the lesser remedial, palliative or constructive things that have engaged or are engaging her days would make the said sluggard vertiginous and would (as per threat) finish the practical usefulness of this scribe upon earth. When asked why she contributes so much to the community, she blamed Puritan ancestors. With no children claiming her time she feels that her debt to society lies in a maximum of service.

With all this serious work on hand, Mrs. McWilliams is no whit solemn. She is fond of a good talk and of hammering out her ideas on the anvil of argument, a serious reader, an advanced thinker, with a vigour of view and yet with a judicial quality of mind that sees both sides of a question. Her qualities are clear-cut like her features, of a cool, classic charm, and the clarity of her mind is mirrored in the blue serenity of her steady eyes.

With the opening of political life to women, it has been hoped that Mrs. McWiliams might be induced to stand for election to the Manitoba Legislature, but, although of a valiant modern quality, the woman of her shrinks from the rough and tumble of politics and she is not yet opening that kind of account with the public. During her ten years of service in Winnipeg, she has made for herself a place among women that she may hesitate to leave, and a right to ask, on their behalf, much from powers with whom she may prefer not to establish political bonds. Although possessed of no strong party passion and preferring the middle of the road, she yet would be looked on as inevitably biased if she went from a legislature to mould her plastic material and her plastic material would as inevitably stiffen and resist. A large following of women believe in her, look to her for direction. This may seem a bigger work to her hand than a seat in legislative halls. She has earned the right two work in her own way. "If you would be influential, you must sacrifice and serve!" the House to the light in the window. All that was done last year. Rumor has it that half a dozen Western Unionists may slip if the Government doesnt make a declaration of downward tariff revision in the near future. From where I sit I cannot see that extra half dozen recanters, the Union Government majority looks to have reached a safe minimum which nothing but dissolution can dislodge.

Mr. Fielding's speech indicates that there is considerable gap between the Liberals and the Farmers yet to be bridged. Mr. Ballantyne's speech in which he nailed the protectionist flag to the Unionist mast goes to show that the quarrel is merely one of name, and that the Conservative party will carry the old flag at the next general election.

The budget, though it imposes some new taxes, contains no new ideas. The sales tax and the luxury tax are Washington fashions two years old. Indeed we get most of our fiscal styles from the United States.

Voice Of The People

The cause of most strikes is the appalling difference between what a mans earns, and what it costs to live. Therefore the question of wages or salary becomes one of life itself. The war has upset values to such an extent that the man whose income does not leave him a margin is never sure of the morrow.

Government statistics show living has gone up three hundred per cent. so in spite of the general cry that wages have gone up, how many people are making three times as much as before the war. The majority may have had their earnings increased 75 per cent.; others perhaps seen them doubled. But what is a 100 per cent. increase of salary compared to the 300 per cent. rise in the cost of living. Any class of motive power does not move unless supplied with requisite fuel. The human machine unfortunately is not constructed so that insufficient or inferior food will cause a sudden breakdown. For a considerable time an underfed man continues his usual work. But his vitality is slowly sapped and the standard of the race is lowered to a dangerous degree. When a working man therefore demands higher pay, it should not be objected that he is asking for two or three times as much as he used to get but the employer should ask him how much it costs him to live to-day. Every man has the right not only to live, but to live so that his vitality is not impaired. In the interests of society every wage earner should make enough to ensure a stronger, not a weaker race.

With the present regime of fixed salaries, the working man is obliged to demand continually higher and higher wages This creates resentment. The fault is that of the system. The man who sells his work is not situated as the man who sells his merchandize. If a storekeeper does not make enough profit, he does not ask permission to raise his prices. But the man who sells his work must ask the consumer, that is, his employer's authority, to increase his price. The employee is expected to show in detail why he cannot live on his old salary and is often obliged to strike in order to convince his employer.

The cause is often the failure of the corporations or firms to realize the gap between wages and their power to purchase the necessities of life.

Instead of employers pitting themselves against strikes, economists should use their superior knowledge (perhaps) of affairs to work out a scheme for determning a sliding scale of wages that would adjust itself automatically to the rise in the cost of living. The labor problem with strikes would practically be solved. No person wishes to destroy the present regime merely for the fun of it On the contrary ts s the obvious duty of the greatest brains in the business world to take it up.

The universe is suffering from labor troubles. The social order is threatened unless our employing class feel their responsibility and make it possible biologically for the worker to live.

The labor question should not be left to agitators.

VERBAL BROADSIDE AT THE PROFITEERS

(Canadian Press)

WASHINGTON, June 3. — The profiteer has come in for a great deal of attention from speechmakers here during the past few days. Hardly a day passes but at least one Senator or Congressman cuts loose with a fierce volley of heavy oratory aimed at the men whom have booted the cost of living in the United States. If talk can eliminate profiteering on this side of the line Washington observers profess to see a speedy slump in prices throughout the country. Here are a few of the hot shots from recent verbal broadsides:

"Compared to the men occupying high positions in churches and communities who pray with their mouths and profiteer with their hands, the hold-up man is entitled to a high seat in the synagogue."

"Jail is too good for the profiteer who is robbing his fellow men, but even jail sentences are novelties."

"Greed is the curse of the American people. Everyone seems to be trying to get while the getting is good."

"The things that the average every day people have to buy, clothing, shoes, food, and other necessities—things that enter into their everyday existence—everything has been the vehicle through which the robber profiteers have been adding to their already swollen incomes."

"If there is not a hell, there ought to be one for the coal profiteers."

"To-day the profiteer is the real manace of the nation, the greatest national curse."

The work is being done entirely by men, most of whom are ex-soldiers; the processes usually carried on by men are being done by disabled men.

ROOSEVELT DIDN'T MINCE HIS EPITHETS

NEW YORK, June 3.—President Roosevelt's love for books and art and his scholarly appreciation of the work of authors and painters, to whom he sent many of the 150,000 letters which he wrote during his public career, is shown in the ninth instalment by his biographer, Joseph Bucklin Bishop, in the June issue of Scribner's Magazine.

A critic of Roosevelt had written to Mr. Wister protesting against the Colonel's characterization of Thomas Paine as "a dirty little atheist," declaring it was an unpardonable vilification of "one of the greatest men of his time." Wister forwarded the letter to Mr. Roosevelt, to which the latter responded:

(Personal)
September 25, 1901.

"Dear Dan:

"This is delightful. I ought not to have used the exact word 'atheist.' He admitted the existence of an unknown God, but denied there was a God of the Christians. As to whether he was dirty or not, it is a mere matter of private judgment. I was recording in the sentence the fact that he had stayed several weeks in bed without getting out for any purpose, and that as a consequence a swine in a stv was physically clean by comparison."

Faithfully yours.

NEW AUSTRIAN ARMY OF 30,000 RECRUITED

VIENNA.—Recruiting for the new army that is to replace the Volkswehr under the terms of the Treaty of St. Germain has ceased, the allowed 30,000 men having been enlisted. It is said that 70 per cent. of the force are Social Democrats in spite of the attempt made by the opposition to prevent it. This is due to the failure of the peasants to enter service in the provinces, where the conservatives looked for heavy enrollment to offset the industrial centres. Many of the provinces failing to raise their quota, natives of the defaulting provinces residing in the cities were enlisted and sent to their home states.

THE LITTLE OLD ROAD.

There's a breath of May in the breeze
On the little old road;
May in hedges and trees,
May, the red and the white,
May to left and to right
Of the little old road

There's a ribbon of grass either side
Of the little old road;
It's a strip just so wide,
A strip nobody owns,
Where a man's weary hours
When he feels getting old
May lie crushing the gold
Of the silverweed flower,
For a long lazy hour
By the little old road.

There's no need to guide the old mare
On the little old road.
She knows that just there
Is the big gravel pit
(How we played in it
As mites of boys
in our old corduroys),
And that here is the pond
with the poplars beyond
And more May—always May,
Away and Away
Down the little old road.

There's a lot to make a man glad
On the little old road;
(It's the home-going road)
And a lot to make him sad,
Ah, he'd like to forget,
But he can't, not just yet,
With chaps still out there
She's stopping, the steady old mare.
Is it here the road bends?
So the long journey ends
At the end of the old oad,
The little old road.

There's someone, you say, at the gate
Of the little old house by the road?
Is it Mother? Or Kate?
And they're ot going to mind
That since Wypers I'm blind
And the road is a long dark road.

THURSDAY, JUNE 3RD, 1920.

THE BUDGET RESULT.

The Union government has weathered the budget debate and although the majority of 26 secured by the Administration represents a marked shrinking from the 70 majority on the government side of the House in 1918, the margin is enough to get through on. Evidently the fear of precipitating an election overcame the cupidity of the government members who have been pressing for an increased indemnity, for they lined up with the leaders and voted meekly with the government. There had been rumours that some of the big indemnity advocates intended to force the hands of the cabinet by absenting themselves from the Budget division, but they evidently weakened when they realized that such action would defeat the government and bring on an appeal to the country, in which case the majority of those who have been clamouring for larger allowances would be likely to find themselves without any indemnities at all, for nothing seems surer than that an election would cause many casualties in the ranks of the present membership.

THE BATHING HOUSES.

The warm weather of the past few days has caused the bathing season to open with a rush, and as usual the first hot wave has found the public bathing places not ready for the opening. Neither the dressing rooms at Inverlea Park, which are under the charge of the Nicholls Park Board, nor the civic bathing house at the foot of Lake street are open, and so far as is known, no caretaker has been appointed for either place, while the city's bathing house requires some improvements before it will be of a great deal of service. These details should be looked after immediately, for the swimming season at best is not long, and bathers like to take advantage of every opportunity. There have been scores in the water during the last few days at Inverlea and they have been forced to undress and dress in the open air, utilizing what shelter they can find. Such conditions are not pleasant for the swimmers themselves or for the people who visit the park, and there seems no reason why the opening of the bathing houses at Inverlea and at Lake street should be delayed.

THE GOVERNMMENT WHARF.

The Trent Canal authorities, it is understood, have decided to make it clear to the public that the government wharves are not to be used for permanent dockage places by motor boat owners. The action of the Department will be appreciated by the great majority of motor boat devotees, for it will mean that they will have less difficulty in making landings and finding temporary wharfage. It has been the practice of some thoughtless launch owners to htilize the wharves as a permanent tieing up place for their boats and especially has this been the case at the Street Railway wharf, with the result that other motor boat parties had difficulty in making a landing at the wharf. The pier was put there for the benefit of the general public and it was never intended that the space should be monopolized by two or more launches, blocking the way for all the others which ply on the Otonabee. The canal authorities should make the warning strong enough to stop the practice of the unthinking ones who have offended in the past.

THE PRICE OF PAPER.

The new scale of export newsprint prices for the third and fourth quarters of the current year, quoted by the Canadian Export Paper Company Limited, which controls the entire export output of five leading producers, gives the public an excellent reason why the price of newspapers has been advanced. The price of newsprint—the white paper upon which newspapers are printed—which is now $80 a ton and averaged around $35 a ton beofre the war, will on July 1st advance to $110 per ton and on October 1st another jump to $130 per ton will be made. The sky rocketing of the price of newsprint is a most serious affair for Canadian newspapers. Already many of them have been driven out of business because of the high prices of material, and the newsprint situation is such as to make the position of many of those still in the field precarious to say the least. It is only recently that the newspapers reluctantly increased their prices. Although their [illegible] steadily mounting since the beginning of the war, they continued as long as possible at the old rates and when at last they were forced by the situation to charge more for their papers they could truthfully say that the price of newspapers was among the very last to advance. The newspapers are costing the public more now than before the war is not to be wondered at; the hope of the publishers now is that the situation will adjust itself so that no further increases will be necessary. But the outlook is not hopeful, and many of the Canadian journals are viewing the future with a good deal of apprehension.

And while the newspapers of the Dominion are anxiously waiting developments, Canadian paper is being sold to William Randolph Hearst, who uses the newsprint that Canadians cannot get to attack everything that is British.

CHILDREN AND ACCIDENTS.

It is to be hoped that the school children of the province will take a keen interest in the competition of the Ontario Motor League who, through the Safety League, are offering cash prizes amounting to $100 for the best essays on "How Children May Help to Avoid Motor Accidents." Particulars of the rules governing the contest are published today, and the teachers of the city would do well to bring the matter to the attention of their pupils and impress upon them the importance of the subject. Many motor accidents are the fault of pedestrians rather than of the drivers. Children, especially if they are not repeatedly warned, have a habit of suddenly running across a roadway, without taking the precaution to see if the way is clear, and in the larger cities especially, the practice has been the cause of a number of serious accidents. The children should be taught that the rapid development of motor transport has made the streets of the city danger spots, in which care has to be exercised. Even the most careful driver, who respects the speed limit and has a watchful eye always on the road, has difficulty in avoiding accidents caused by careless people who unexpectedly cut across a thoroughfare in the middle of the block. And there are, unfortunately, scores of motorists who cannot be classed as careful, who make the crossing of a street under such circumstances a perilous passage. The interesting of the children in this matter by means of the essay competition announced by the Motor League should be productive of very beneficial results, if it will teach the youngsters that it is safer to cross only at the street intersections, or at least to make sure that the roadway is clear before attempting to cross over.

RESOLUTIONS.

Canada has a large number of semi-public organisations with innumerable branches throughout the country, and it is safe to say that there is seldom a meeting of these held, no matter how small it may be, at which, at least, one resolution is not passed; usually there are three or four. Occasionally these resolutions indicate much thought and care on the part of the mover; more frequently, they are merely perfunctory expressions of opinion which come into being as a result of a passing wave of sentiment. The secretary religiously sends them out to the persons affected—who include, usually, a member of the Government—and in most cases that is all that is heard of them. But the fact that resolutions seldom bring forth any results doesn't hinder them from being passed and sent on by the thousand. It is probable that in his time Hon. Arthur Meighen has been the recipient of as large a quota of resolutions as any other public man, and his opinion as to their value may prove interesting. In a recent debate in the House of Commons on the Soldiers' Settlement Act, Mr. Power had occasion to cite a resolution passed by the Dominion Convention of the G.W.V.A. In this connection Mr. Meighen said: "We must have respect particularly for resolutions passed by returned men, but resolutions are, after all, only resolutions. What counts is facts. I do not see where one can spend any time usefully in meditating upon the terms of a resolution calling for organisation and for dispensing with the services of the board. It is only weariness to the flesh to meditate on these things. A resolution of consequence which would appeal to a minister would be one designating cases or phases in respect to which the board have failed . . . . . It is not opinions that count; it is work that counts; it is deeds."

At another point, when asked whether he imagined that men pass resolutions merely for the pleasure of doing it, Mr. Meighen answered, "It looks suspicious." Mr. Meighen is doubtless right up to a certain point. Sometimes it certainly looks as if meetings pass resolutions simply for the pleasure of doing so and with but little regard for the matter in hand. Probably, also it might sometimes be well to appease Mr. Meighen's hunger for facts by citing all the particulars which lead up to the conclusion expressed in a resolution, though if this method were adhered to in all cases Mr. Meighen would find himself confronted with some very formidable documents indeed. Though one may have a considerable amount of sympathy for the minister's views, they are, after all, one-sided and misleading. It must surely be of value to a minister of the Crown to know what the people affected think of the conduct of his department. It is hardly conceivable even though it is "only a weariness to the flesh to meditate over these things," that Mr. Meighen would discard without consideration an expression of opinion on the administration of the Soldiers' Settlement Act by a body so representative of the returned men as the National Convention of the G.W.V.A. He would have little difficulty in finding the evidence on which the opinion was based and he must have known exactly where to apply for it. One of these days, even the Union Government will have to appeal to the country, and when that time arrives, Mr. Meighen, as one of its chief pillars, will doubtless find the opinion of the electorate, whether supported by evidence or not, counts for a great deal.—Turner's Weekly.

By JANE PHELPS

AN UNLOOKED-FOR ENCOUNTER

CHAPTER CXXXIX

Jealousy again gripped me so I could not sleep. I was angry with myself that, in the years we had been married, this thought had not before come to me—to find out if he visited Leola's grave. Not until my own speech about Walter now belonging entirely to Rose, had I ever thought of it. Perhaps because of that utterance I would find the reason why Everett never had bestowed upon me the same kind of love he had given Leola.

The very next day I visited the cemetery. It was a beautiful place. "God's acres" came ifito my mind, and for just a moment I forgot my errand. But only for a moment.

I hunted the caretaker, and asked him if he knew where Mrs. Everett Graham was buried.

"Oh, yes ma'am! Right this way. You're a stranger here, I take it?"

"Yes, I never had been here before."

"There it is, ma'am—that tall shaft over there on the left."

"You care for the plot?" I asked, scarcely knowing how to question the grey-haired man.

"Yes, ma'am. There's money to keep it in order. Then too there's a party brings flowers."

So I was right! Everett still kept flowers on Leola's grave after all these years, and even tho he had married again. I felt that the tears were near, so with a gesture I dismissed the old caretaker and went alone the remainder of the way to the shaft he had pointed out to me.

The plot was beautifully kept. Fresh flowers were in an urn and more in a vase at the base of the shaft. He must have been there no later than yesterday, I thought, as I noticed that the flowers had not yet commenced to droop.

"Leola, beloved wife of Everett Graham, Age 26." I read aloud, then repeated, "Beloved wife of Everett Graham."

I stood for several minutes struggling to hold back the tears — to quiet the emotion which these words, added to the sight of the flowers, had created.

"She was his beloved wife—is yet," I murmured.

Someway I feel that, all of my story, this jealousy of a woman who, years before I met my husband had passed over the great divide, will be least understood—perhaps not comprehended in the least by women and men who have never known what it is to be "the second" in a person's affections. But I am sure there are many second wives who—were they honest — would own that, always lurking in the back of their minds, ready to spring full-fledged into disturbing thoughts, is a jealousy of the woman who was first in the affection of the man they love, first in his life—the woman who, as Rose had expressed it, was "Number One."

It was with the thought of helping other women in my position, that I began my story. It is the longing to save them from making my mistakes, that has made me go on with it. If I succeed in either endeavor, it is reward enough—excuse enough for having bared my own heart, telling of my mistakes.

So, as I stood there, jealous thoughts surged over me. I was so deeply absorbed I had heard no sound until some one said:

"Good morning, Mrs. Graham. "I turned in to see Mrs. Currie. In her arms were some rose bushes, small ones for planting, and a little way off the caretaker with his shovel.

"Why—what—" I stammered.

"What am I doing here? I will tell you. When HE died," (I knew she meant Mr. Currie), he left a letter asking that flowers be put here, for him. He also told, in that letter, how innocent and pure had been his relations with HER. I only received that letter after I made my last visit to you. His lawyer sent it to me from England. I had always thought him faithless. He was not! Now I can think of him happily. Love goes where it is sent, you know; and he couldn't help loving her. So I am having rose trees planted. I am going abroad to live, and this is the only way I can be sure his wishes will be carried out. He said she loved roses."

"Yes, she loved roses," I replied, scarcely knowing what I was saying. In my mind was the letter I had read—the letter in which she said he had held the roses Everett sent her until they wilted.

"And as no one else ever comes here now, no one will be offended," she said. "Please keep my visits secret, Mrs. Graham."

"You say no one else comes here? How do you know?" I asked.

"There ain't no one been here in five years till this lady come. There ain't no need. I take god care of everything" the caretaker broke in.

I went home with a light heart; yet humbled, ashamed. Mrs. Currie had shamed me. She could forgive everything. I nothing.

Not often can so many widely separated members of the family come together at once, and the day of reunion with its happy homes spent in conversation and song passed all too quickly.

Our Dearest Mother,— We, your children, calling to mind that this day marks the eightieth milestone of your useful life ,feel that we cannot let the occasion pass unnoticed. Our thoughts go back to Rawdon ,to Kansas, to Puslinch, and to Eramosa, and with each place there is a chain of dear remembrances, of which you, our loves mother, are the centre.

We do not forget the unnumbered sacrifices you have made in the care and nurture of our young lives. We ask you on this, your birthday, to accept this gift from us as a slight token of the love we bear you constantly, each in our several abodes and stations in life.

HEAVY THEATRE TAX IN GERMANY CITIES

(Canadian Press)

BERLIN.—Taxation amounting to something like 55 per cent. of gross revenue and heavy running expenses are responsible for the recent closing down of 60 first-class theatres in Germany. Many theatrical and operatic companies are said to be in sore financial straits. Few persons can afford to pay for the higher priced seats at the present increased rates, and the moving picture houses, with their popular prices, are reaping the benefit.

The manager of the Reinhardt concern which controls the three most important Berlin theatres states that the latest "luxury" tax alone takes more than 20 per cent. of the box office receipts. Boxes and stalls are rarely booked. The Kapp revolution week, he said, caused the concern a loss of 750,000 marks.

Director Baronwsky of the Lessing Theatre, the home of the drama in Berlin, told a Tageblatt representative that the German stage is passing through a most critical period. Theatrical budgets, he said, can no longer be balanced. The great menace, he said, was "Americanism" by which, he explained, he meant "art for amusement's sake, not for art's sake."

CRUSHED BOY THEN WENT TO BANQUET

TORONTO MANUFACTURER GUILTY OF CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE— LET SON DRIVE CAR.

TORONTO, June 3.—A verdict of gross criminal negligence against Harry Miller, president and general manager of the Miller Manufacturing Company, for allowing his son, Benjamin Miller, aged 14 years, to drive the motor car which struck down and killed eight-year-old Edward Kettlewell on Yonge street near Belmont on May 20th, was returned at the concluding session of the inquest into the Kettlewell boy's death, at the Morgue last night The jury held that the necessary precautions were not taken by the Millers.

According to evidence submitted by the police and other witnesses, Harry Miller and his son had waited at the scene of the accident until the unfortunate boy was taken away to the hospital. The automobile was left standing beside the curb and Benjamin Miller went home with instructions from his father to "say nothing about the accident to anyone for a while." Harry Miller then reported to the police that the machine had been stolen and proceeded to the King Edward Hotel, where he was presiding over a Zionist banquet when arrested. In subsequent statements made to the police both Harry Miller and his son admitted that they had been in the motor car when the Kettlewell boy was struck.

In his summing up to the jury Chief Coroner Dr. Arthur Jukes Johnston, who presided, referred to the section of the Motor Vehicles Act which definitely stipulates that no person under the age of 16 years shall drive a motor vehicle and he pointed out that "Benjamin Miller, therefor, should not have been driving this car." "I want you to understand also," he continued, "that people have a right to cross the streets in the city of Toronto, and that nobody has a right to run them down."

GREAT SPECTACLE; MILLION AT DERBY

KING AND QUEEN, HAIG, ASQUITH AND MANY OTHERS PRESENT.

LONDON, June 2.—The attendance of King George and Queen Mary and numerous titled persons gave to-day's racing event the name "The Silk Hat Derby." It was declared to have been the most splendid scene on the historic race course in the memory of those present to-day.

Field Marshal Haig, former Premier Asquith and Lords Derby, Chaplin, Durham and Lonsdale were among the many notables present. Lord Lonsdale walked for three miles with the crowds on their way to the course when his automobile broke down.

Camp on Course All Night.

Thousands of persons camped all night on the course, and at daybreak still thousands of others trooped along the various roads or came to the Downs in automobiles, taxicabs, dogcarts and jaunting cars. Notswithstanding the great popularity of the automobile as a means of conveyance, numerous coaches and fours were to be seen along the roadways carying their gaily dressed racing enthusiasts to the course.

COTTON CROP REPORTED THE "WORST EVER KNOWN"

WASHINGTON, June 2. — Reporting the condition of the cotton crop on May 25th at 62.4 per cent. of normal, the Department of Agriculture announced that this was the lowest mark in its record of 50 years and that the recurring statement "worst ever known," was confirmed.

Revised figures of the area planted last year weer announced as 35,133,000 acres, the area picked, 33,566,000 acres, and the yield per acre 161.5 pounds. The May 25th condition last year was 75.6 per cent of a normal and the ten-year average, 78.7.

WHAT THE MEN ARE WEARING

By JOHN BRAYTON

NEW YORK, June 3.—Soft Collars are to be more than ever in demand this summer. Soft shirts with attached collars are favored by many men, but these are generally preferred in all white, whereas smart striped effects in madras and other shirtings are made up to be accompanied by soft collars of pique and other materials.

In the line-up of new shirtings, many crepe weaves are shown, advertised under innumerable catchy trade names. One of the advantages urged for these crepe cloth shirts is that it is not necessary to iron them.

About Ties and Cravats.

A discussion of collars and shirts turns the mind naturally to that of ties and cravats. One of the newest types of neckwear shown is that in which the pattern consists of two high colors in diagonal stripes. These stripes run from a quarter of an inch to more than an inch. The effect is decidedly striking. The popular tie of the moment is the rather wide four-in-hand, although square-ended bows are displayed in rather generous numbers. Poplin ties still continue to be good and the handsome and expensive grenadine tie is by no means losing favor.

Price of silks show no prospect of weakening in raw silks at present could not affect the price of ties already made up for the summer of 1920, so it seems safe to predict a big demand for washable ties.

Hats, Caps, and Straws.

Brown is one of the leading colors in hats, and the lighter shades seem to be preferred. In shape, rolled brims and rather tapering crowns prevail. Caps are said to be having an unusually big sale, the demand coming principally from motorists and other travellers, and from boys. In straws, crowns are rather low. Prices, however, are not in keeping.

Many Fancy Handkerchiefs.

Fancy handkerchiefs are much in evidence in up-to-date shops carrying apparel for men. Handkerchiefs that come under the "fancy" classification promise now to be exceptionally popular during the coming summer season. To advise on this subject is difficult. The fact stands that manufacturers have brought out many types of fancy handkerchiefs and that they are reported as having a big sale.

Latest in Smart Togs.

Motoring and riding togs have been given prominence in window and interior displays in men's apparel shops during the last few weeks. The smartest riding coat is a two-button model, the top button only being used usually. It has diagonally set in slashed pockets, broad shoulders and a rather full sleeve effect. A double-breasted plaid waistcoat with four buttons is comfortable and smart, although a waistcoat that is also good-looking and very warm and comfortable for cool mornings is made of goat or chamois. This waistcoat is single-breasted, with four of five buttons, and usually four pockets. With either waistcoat a white Ascot stock or a bow stock may be worn.

What Motorists Are Wearing.

For motoring, leather coats are in great demand this season and innumerable smart sweaters are shown in such fine, soft wools that they may be worn comfortably underneath the suit coat without adding much bulk or weight.

Dusters for motoring are also making their appearance. The better ones are of silk.

Prices of men's apparel continue to soar, but the demand in all departments appears to be greater than ever and it does not look as if the overall fad will have any great effect in reducing the number of suits sold.

CRAP SHOOTERS TO FACE MAGISTRATE

Several cases were on the docket in this morning's Police Court but there was no magistrate to try them. Alhough the magistrate's ways are as regular as clockwork a hitch occurred somewhere to-day and the cases will be heard to-morrow. Several local young men are charged with gambling on the Sabbath contrary to the Lord's Day Act. Last Sunday morning they were caugh in an auto livery shooting crap. Mr. J E. Strickland appears for the alleged crap addicts and it is understood that they will plead guilty to he charge.

An auto mechanic took a motorcycle out of the place where he is employed and it is alleged tore around the streets at 30 and 40 miles an hour on Sunday afternoon last. He wasn t travelling too fast though, for the police to get his number and he will face the Magistrate to-morrow.

SCIENCE PROVES THE DANGER OF BLEEDING GUMS

Medical science proves that unhealthy gums cause serious ailments. People suffering from Pyorrhea (a disease of the gums) often suffer from other ills, such as rheumatism, anaemia, nervous disorders, or weakened vital organs. These ills have been traced in many cases to the Pyorrhea germs which breed in pockets about the teeth.

Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea. It begins with tender and bleeding gums. Then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the infecting Pyorrhea germs.

Guard your health and your teeth. Keep Pyorrhea away. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and make daily use of Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time, and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's will keep the gums firm and healthy, the teeth white and clean.

REPAIR DAMAGE AFTER 100 YEARS

FARM WRECKED IN WAR OF 1812 TO BE REMEDIED—INTERESTING CASE.

ST. CATHERINES, Ont.—An interesting find has been made by Welland County Lawyer reminiscent of the last war between the United States and Canada over a hundred years ago. During the war, in December, 1813, the United States army captured Niagara-on-the-Lake, then the Capital of Canada, it will be remembered, and burned the town. That has something to do with the story.

A lawyer was in the Welland registry office looking up the records of a certain farm in Stamford. This farm was given to its first owners by the British Crown over a century ago. The owner then twenty years later sold it to another party, and the deed of the transfer disappeared, and there has been a cloud on the title of the property for a century.

The lawyer, by means of his search, has been able to clear up the missing link in connection with the deed by producing the duplicate deed made April 9, 1804 and registered two days later at the Niagara Court House with the signature of John Powell, Registrar, who was registrar at that time.

After the war of 1812-14 was over the Canadian Government, wishing to repair what damage the Americans had done, advertised that all parties who had registered deeds of property in this district should bring them in and have new copies made for registration, the original copies having been burned with the court house and Government buildings at Niagara. Evidently the owner of the Stanford Farm had never seen the advertisement for there is no record of his deed in any registry office and now, after a hundred years, damage done in this one instance will be remedied and a clear title be given the present owner of the farm.

PADEREWSKI A PATRIOT.

There is at all events one true patriot in the world, and he is Paderewski. He has received magnificent offers from America to go on concert tours, but has declined them because he wishes to serve his country. He has refused one offer of $1,000,000. What an example! He does not plead the increased cost of living in order to ask his country for an increased indemnity.—Kingston Standard.

PASS BONUS BILL.

U. S. Measure Calls for Huge Grant to Ex-Service Men.

WASHINGTON.—By a vote of 289 to 92, the House on Saturday passed the bill to provide bonuses for ex-service men, and in doing so broke legislative precedents by suspending the rules and passing, after forty minutes' debate, a measure which calls for an expenditure of $1,600,000,000. Under the gag rule plan devised to compel voting directly upon the bill it was necessary to obtain a two-thirds vote instead of a majority. This was accomplished with 35 more than required.

DO YOU EXPECT TO LIVE LONG?

The facts are against you. In one Life Insurance Company during three months, Sixteen died of OLD AGE, 2,736 died at PREMATURE AGES, and each one was sound when the Insurance was issued.

Each one had just as good a right to expect to live to old age as you have.

Another Insurance Company shows that out of Claims paid last year, 6.8 per cent. died the FIRST YEAR, and 72.5 per cent. died INSIDE OF TWENTY YEARS.

Note well that the Men and Women who died the first year left approximately fifty times as much to their heirs as if they had "saved" the premium.

A GLIMPSE AT THE PROFITEERING GAME

THREE SPECULATORS ALL TAKE PROFITS EVEN BEFORE WHOLESALER GETS SUGAR.

OTTAWA, June 3.—When the firm of Provost & Allard told the Board of Commerce this morning of the purchase of two cars of sugar from a speculator named Robert Anderson, of Montreal, at 23½ cents a pound, after it had been "handled" three times at a profit, and admitted that his firm sold some to local grocers at 27 cents a pound, Commissioner James Murdock remarked: "You started out to get $1,640 more on the purchase than normal profit. In the meantime three speculators had handled this sugar at a profit. I regard it as highway robbery, if not worse."

The hearing brought out the fact that Provost & Allard, wholesale grocers in Ottawa, bought this sugar because they could not get a better deal. They knew that refiners were selling at $19.98 per hundred weight. Joseph Ward, Montreal, Vaughan Bros., Magog, Que., and Anderson, were the three middle men. They all had a share of the 3½ cents a pound profit.

Provost & Allard stated that they sold a few bags at 27 cents a pound to grocers because they knew that the refiners' price would cause them a loss unless they could get that price. The wholesalers' normal profit was five per cent. above cost. Mr. Allard agreed with Commissioner O'Connor that this was higher than ever before. Wholesalers formerly made 25 cents a hunderdweight.

Mr. O'Connor stated that the inquiry would be widened in scope. While the refiner was selling at $19.98, this wholesaler was selling at 27 cents, and one grocery firm sold to one consumer at 36 cents, though this firm afterward refunded six cents a pound, having meant to charge only 30 cents. The Board of Commerce would probe the cause of these unreasonable prices. Mr. O'Connor said that the grocery firm referred to, Cosselin & Durocher, of Ottawa, would be charged formally to-morrow, but he did not say what the charge would be.

TORONTO, June 2.— Word was received here to-day from Bert Corbeau, the Canadian hockey player, that Con Corbeau, formerly well known in hockey circles, died last night at his home in Penetang, Ont., of leakage of the heart.

Con Corbeau was born in Penetang and learned to play hockey in that town and Victoria Harbor. In the season of 1904 he was a member of the Victoria Harbor team, which won the intermediate championship of the O.H.A., beating Berlin (now Kitchener) in the finals by a total score of 9 to 6 in two games. Afterwards Corbeau turned professional and played for a number of years in the paid ranks. For some years he had been loacted at Port Arthur, and was coach of the champions of Thundrer Bay, who came to Toronto three years ago to play for the Allan Cup.

FARMERS SHIPPING CALVES FROM HERE

LIVE STOCK IS GAINING FLESH ON THE GRASS—REPORT FROM DEPARTMENT.

The following is a summary of representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

Good growth has been made in field and orchard during the week, although rain was greatly desired as reports came in, so as to give the newer seeding a start.

Some Fall wheat is being plowed up or drilled in with other Spring grain, but a s a rule the fields are well up to the average for promise.

Clover is not in good condition, generally speaking as is desirable, as the late Spring greatly checked its growth. Pastures also have been eaten rather closer than usual for the time of year, as many live stock had to be turned on the grass before it was ready, owing to the scarcity of fodders.

Orchards have been generous in bloom, and the prospects for yields are on the whole better than ordinary although some growers are anxious as to the set of fruit as bees are scarce this year, owing to winter losses.

Essex says that there is a good showing of sugar beets, which are now being thinned, and also states that about 90 per cent. of the corn crop is already planted, with prospects of a big yield.

Sweet clover is still attracting considerable attention. Grey states that some farmers have a larger acreage in this year than of any other crop.

Live stock are now gaining in flesh on the grass, and milk production is increasing. Good dairy cattle are selling at from $150 to $200 in Peterboro.

Elgin states that a larger number of veal calves than usual have been sold, and Peterbor' reports that about 800 calves for veal have been shipped recently from three stations, and probably as many more from other points in that county.

Hogs are selling at from $19 to $20.50 a cwt. Brood sows are said to have decreased considerably in numbers. About 100 little pigs from four to six weeks old were offered on the Napanee market last Friday at from $14 to $16 a pair, while Frontenac quotes sales as high as $20 a pair.

Draft horses are reported to be selling in Carleton at prices ranging from $135 to $300 each.

Renfrew states that increased quantities of wool are being marketed cooperatively this year. Victoria reports local sales of wool at from 20c to 25c a lb. for coarse, 30c to 35c for medium, and 45c for fine, and adds that a good many sheep remain to be clipped.

Hay is scarce and in much demand at from $25 to $30 a ton. Grey voices the general sentiment in stating that nearly all the grain on hand will be required for feeding until the new crops are harvested.

TURK ACCUSED OF EASTERN MURDERS

RESPONSIBLE FOR DEATHS OF 7,000, SWISS PAPER SAYS, DEMANDING HIS EXPULSION.

(Canadian Press)

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 3.—In one of the most luxurious hotels in Lausanne is now living the Turkish multi-millionaire named General Ahmed Djemal Pasha, former Turkish minister under the Young Turk regime at Constantinople and former commander of the fourth Turkish army in Syria.

He is the first upon the black list of the Arabian Government for extradition and punishment, being accused, says the Tribune de Geneve, of the deaths of 7,000 Arabian, Syrian and Armenian families whom he is alleged to have ordered to be massacred or deported into the desert where they died of hunger and thirst in the war. He has been sentenced to death after a hearing in Turkey.

Djemal Pasha who called himself the "Hero of Hislam" admits, according to the newspaper, that he was the "only directly responsible for about 200 deaths of heretics." By tyranny, it is charged, he obtained his vast wealth in Turkish gold always refusing bank notes. Once a week his wife or one of the members of his family travelled to Constantinople from Djemal's headquarters in Syria under military escort with small boxes of gold which were forwarded subsequently to Switzerland and Holland.

It was Djemal and Djavid Pasha who were at Paris in July, 1914, and, foreseeing the war, bought the German warships, Goeben and Breslau, for their Government by orders from Constantinople.

Djemal who has only a temporary permission to, sojourn in Switzerland was recently requested by the Swiss government to leave this country, but he managed to procure a medical certificate proving that travelling would be prejudicial to his health and remains at Lausanne.

The Tribune demands his expulsion from Switzerland with several of his satellites. Djemal, however, cannot return to Turkey, as the death sentence awaits him there.

ART EXHIBITION AT THE COLLEGIATE SHOWED PROMISE

(Comments by W. H. Pretty.)

The art exhibition held in the rooms of the Women's Art Association at the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, was well worthy of a visit on the part of those interested in the advancement of artisic education in our midst.

The collection of works by the students generally, although small in numbers, on the whole, indicated considerable merit and patient sympathy between teacher and pupils, which should, in the course of time, bear good fruit. There was evident indication that a little more time devoted to the subject would have been beneficial to both teachers and students; but there were a few exquisite specimens of artistic work by one of the senior students, whose works carried the name of Miss Ila Blanchard, and which included pencil sketches from still life— decoration work in pencil and ink ,and colored design—another sketch by the same young artist, executed in color and representing common objects in pottery, shows promise of better work in this class with more practice. We should hear more of this student in the future. The coloring by another student whose exhibits carry the name of Miss Thelma Sanderson, is commendable, but more attention should be given to line and form in this instance. Some of the other senior students are too ambitious and would be well advised to devote their skill to more simple subjects in the future, which having mastered, they should use the skill thus acquired in building up more pretentious work. There was an all round showing that decoration work generally appeals to the students, as much of this is really well done and commendable.

The juniors must not be overlooked and there was ample evidence of carful, preliminary training in line, form and color. The fundamentals which, once carefully mastered, become a sound basis for future work, and on the whole reflects credit upon the teacher and teachers responsible for the work done during the session.

FIGHT AMONG SAILORS.

Woman Behind Riot Among Whites and Blacks.

(Canadian Press.

NEWPORT, June 3.—White and negro sailors clashed in street fighting early this morning. Large crowds assembled in the thoroughfares, windows were smashed and a number of houses badly damaged. Several revolver shots were fired, but no casualties occurred. Encounter, which was caused by a quarrel over a woman, recalled similar rioting last year.

RUTH'S THREE HOMERS.

Brilliant Cluster by Yankee Swatter Yesterday.

NEW YORK, June 2. — George Ruth, the Baltimore Bambino, to-day continued the most remarkable exhibition of individual skill and strength ever seen on a ball lot. He made three home runs in two games with Washington, at the Polo Grounds. The Yankees won the first game 8 to 1, and lost the second 7 to 6. A crowd that tested the capacity of the stands got more of the high pressure thrills that have continually marked the five game series with Washington that began on Memorial Day morning.

Ruth got two homers in the first game. He slugged one of Zachary's offerings to the right field stand, with Peckinpaugh on. The two runs started the Yankees and they walked away with the game. He hit a homer into the right field bleachers in the eighth that is agreed to have been the longest hit ever made on the Polo Grounds. Nobody has yet put the ball into the centre-field bleachers, but Ruth has ambitions.

The second game was different. It was a see-saw. Ruth got his third homer in the eighth with nobody on, making the score 7 to 6 in favor of Washington. The ninth inning was a thriller. With two men on bases for the Yankees, Ruth was purposely passed by Snyder, filling the bases. Pratt was up, and the great crowd beseeched him for a hit. He hit a long fly, but Milan gathered it in.

The Yankees won four of the five games. Ruth won the afternoon game on Memorial Day with a home-run.

To-day's home-run brought Ruth's total for the young season to fifteen. His record last year was 29. Milan, Meusel, Shanks, Ruel and Roth also made home-runs. Score:

OSHAWA WINNERS OF CENTRAL LEAGUE OPENING

McElroy pitched a good game for the locals but was given very ragged support, errors losing the game. Oshawa got 5 runs in the third and four in the ninth after two were out. Carew's hitting for Lindsay, was a feature.

BASEBALL NOTES

Report has it that Christy Mathewson will resign as coach of the Giants and devote his time to newspaper work.

All of the National League teams, with the exception of Boston, Brooklyn, and Cincinnati, have new players at first base this season.

Pitcher Virgil Barnes, brother of Jess Barnes, the Giants' twirler, is making good with the Rochester team of the International League.

Bull Press, of the Greensboro team, is the Nick Altrock of the Piedmont League. His comedy coaching has made a bit hit on that circuit.

Pete Kilduff fits nicely in the Brooklyn infield. He has been playing great ball since getting back into the regular line-up of the Dodgers.

"Lefty" Williams, the White Sox pitcher, who started the season like a world-beater, received several bad beatings during the Sox invasion of the East.

Another Miller has come into the big show, Connie Mack having taken on Outfielder Ed. Miller, who played with the Reading Internationals for a while last year.

The J's are tearing the cover off the ball in the American League, Johnston, of Cleveland; Jacobson, of St. Louis; and Judge, of Washington, are hitting all kinds of pitching.

The Cleveland Indians have a high school pitcher under cover, who is said to be a strike-out wizard. He comes from Hudson, Wis., and in a recent school game he struck out 22 batsmen.

The director of the St. Louis National League Club, having decided to issue $100,000 more stock, the final payment of $75,000 will be paid to Mrs. Britton-Bigby, formerly owner of the Cardinals.

Bob Beacher, Terry Turner, Sherwood Magee, Grover Hartley, George McQuillan, and Cy. Barger, all former well-known big leaguers, are playing with Joe Tinker's Columbus team of the American Association.

Pitcher Joe Oeschger, of the Braves, must hold the record for pitching extra-inning games against the same team. Joe has twirled a 26-inning, a 15-inning, and an 11-inning game against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

AT THE ALLEN

"The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" is Jack Pickford's first Goldwyn picture. It is the story of a poor but ambitious boy, Chad (Jack Pickford), who runs away from his Cumberland home, and after a long journey arrives in a valley known as "The Valley of Kingdom Come." In this place the Shepherd boy's future is moulded. He leaves this divinely-named place to become the protege of a wealthy army major.

Major Buford discovers that the poor shepherd boy is distantly related to him, and becomes very devoted to Chad and makes it possible for him to obtain an education far better than the ambitious Chad ever hoped for.

When Chad leaves the Valley for Lexington, Kentucky, he leaves behind him a devoted admirer, Melissa. She learns that her idol has fallen in love with a girl of social position and wealth; and working on her suspicions she gets information about his parents that gives Chad every right to aspire to the hand of the girl he loves. Melissa returns to the mountains sad at heart, but contented that Chad is happy.

The plot of this story by John Fox, Jr., also involves some of the incidents of the Civil War, and the scenes dealing with this part of the picture are very realistic and of absorbing interest.

"The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" will be shown at the Allen Theatre, beginning to-morrow.

SHAMROCK IV. DOES WELL IN TRIAL SPIN IN LIGHT BREEZE

LIPTON'S CLALLENGER CONVINCED CRITICS THAT SHE WILL BE GOOD IN FLUKY AIRS, ALTHOUGH HAMPERED BY NEW RIGGING AND SAILS.—

NEW YORK, June 2—James S. Mitchel, of the Sun and New York Herald, in describing the first trial sail of Shamrock IV., says:

"Shamrock IV. Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's Cup, made her bow to the American yacht experts yesterday on Long Island Sound in the shape of a sail of about fifteen miles in a varying breeze of about five knots, and considering the handicap of new sails, new rigging and a soft wooden mast, she gave the most conclusive evidence that she can go well in light weather. Heretofore it has been claimed for the big green boat that she was absolutely a heavy weather vessel, and that on account of her wide beam she could not be considered as having a chance against any of the slim-bodied American defenders in fluky airs.

"This theory was knocked silly yesterday when the Lipton yacht showed that she is constructed on lines to gather headway even in zephyrs, that she is as quick as a catboat in stays, and that despite her great length and weight and weight of keel she answers to her helm with extreme tenderness. Going by the wind, Shamrock IV showed wonderful sailing power, while at pointing high she excels any boat of her class ever seen afloat. A most peculiar feature of the boat when under way is the small amount of fuss she kicks up to leeward, as only a slight ripple shows about her amidships, and her wake is cut as clean as if cut with a knife.

"When heeled over the Shamrock throws up a small whitecap on her windward quarter, but that is nothing when compared to her great driving power and immense sail speed. Only once yesterday did Shamrock list to bring the ice rail on the level with the water and that is undoubtedly her best point of sailing, as her flat floor and full body carried her along as smoothly as a greased plank sliding on edge. Shamrock II was a close fit for the cup, but this one has all the earmarks to go one better.

"On board the Shamrock with Captain Burton was Mrs. Burton, who helped her husband at the wheel. Designer Charles E. Nicholson, Colonel Duncan, F. D. Neill, and George Ratsey were also on board. When the party came ashore, Mr. Nicholoson said, We moved a little, but wait till our rigging and sails are properly stretched, and then we will promise you some speed.'

"Sir Thomas Lipton is expected here on June 10 as he sails from Merrie England to-day. Colonel Neill said that both Shamrocks will not be ready for the test racing before June 14."

KEENE DEFEATED NORWOOD IN EAST PETERBORO LEAGUE

OTONABEE BOYS EASILY WIN OPENING FIXTURE IN JAKE SOLOMON'S CIRCUIT—SCORE 16-0.

Jake Soloman's East Peterboro League, got off to a good start yesterday at Norwood when Keene easily defeated the home team by 16-0. The brand of baseball was surprisingly good for a beginning, and with a little more practice many interesting games will be seen this summer in this tidy little circuit

Keene presented a lively aggregation of hitters who stepped into the offerings of Norwood's pitchers and slammed them to all comers of Agricultural Park. Sixteen hits, including 5 doubles and a triple were the result of their efforts and most of them were solid drives far over outfielders' heads. They also fielded and threw in good style and altogether gave a very creditable performance.

In "Chief" Paudash they showed a pitcher with lots of speed and good control and the Norwood boys could not hit him safely, two hits being all they collected from his speedy offerings. "Farmer" O'Dette displayed lots of pep behind the bat and also had two doubles to his credit. Fletcher hit like Babe Ruth and Hall tore off two nice catches on the outfield.

Norwood showed lack of practice and fielded poorly and also looked weak at the bat. Andrews was hit hard but Robertson who replaced him in the fifth fooled the Otonabee boys with a slow curve until the rain came and he lost control of the ball. Patterson fielded nicely at second and pulled off a neat play when he grabbed a hot liner from Paudash and stepped on second doubling Nelson.

This team has some promising material and is bound to improve and will be heard from later before the silverware is distributed in this league —Jake Soloman made a satisfactory umpire. Following is the box score:

PETES ALL SET FOR THE GAME WITH PORT HOPE

The Peterborough Central League team had a lively work-out at Riverside Park last night in preparation for the League fixture with Port Hope here on Saturday, and the squad is in good shape for the battle, which is the opening game of the Central League season here.

The game is called for 3 o'clock sharp, and judging by the interest the fans are taking in the fixture, there will be a real old-time crowd in the park across the river when Hap Harrison starts the first strike over on Saturday.

From President Sandy Lockington's town comes the report that the Ontarios will have their strongest lineup of the season, and that they expect to comm e their string of victories with a win over the Peterborough crew. They may turn the trick at that, but local fans will tell the world that they will have a large sized battle on their hands.

There will be a few opening ceremonies, and the lid will be pried off with proper eclat.

The batteries will be McDonald and Bob Chalk for Port Hope, and Harrison and Swanston for Peterborough.

GOOD CITY LEAGUE GAME THIS EVENING

THISTLES AND CANADIAN WOOLENS WILL COME TOGETHER.

The City League fixture at Riverside Park to-night, which brings together the Thistles and the Canadian Woollens, promises to attract a goodly crowd of fans, for the victory won by the Woollens over the C.G.E. on Saturday has got the enthusiasts pulling for them, and they will be out to-night rooting for the Mulhall crew to repeat the feat at the expense of the Thistles.

The latter are taking no chances, for they will use Kirn on the rubber, and have signed Mike Sheehy for second base.

LACROSSE.

The lacrosse team will practice this evening at seven o'clock sharp. All the members are requested to be on hand.

WALTER HAGEN IN BIG GOLF TOURNEY

AMERICAN TITLE HOLDER LEADS THE AMERICAN TEAM FOR ENGLAND.

(The Associated Press)

NEW YORK.—Walter C. Hagen, of Rochester, N.Y., the national open title holder, who has gone to England to take part in the British open championship competition which will The Kentish course is laid out over begin at Deal, England, on June 28, the sand dunes bordering on the North Sea and the pick of the best British professional talent and half a score of first-class amateurs will make up the field of contestants against whom the small team of American professionals, headed by Hagen, will have to compete.

In Hagen the United States has a real home-bred professional golfer, who has learned everything he knows about the game on this side of the Atlantic Ocean. Born at Rochester, N.Y., 28 years ago, Hagen was first attracted to the ancient game when as a schoolboy he spent his evenings on the local club's course working as a caddie. Although from his earliest efforts to master the intricacies of the links game Hagen gave promise of unusual proficiency it was not until the Fall of 1913 that he jumped into public notice. That was the year in which Francis Ouimet tied with and subsequently defeated the British experts, Vardon and Ray, in the national open championship tournament at the Country Club, Brookline, Mass. This famous trio had scores of 304 each while there was a quadruple tie for fourth place between Hagen, Jim Barnes, MacDonald and Louis Tallier, the French professional, with scores of 307 each.

In August of the following year, 1914, Hagen won the open title from a great field of players at the Midlothian Country Club, Blue Island, Ill., with a score of 290, just one stroke under the famous amateur Charles ("Chick") Evans, of Chicago, who took second honors while Ouimet finished in a triple tie with the professionals M. J. Brady and James A. Donaldson, for fifth place with scores of 298 each.

After finishing in seventeenth and seventh places for the open championship in 1915 and 1916, Hagen won the title again last year after a tie with M. J. Brady at Boston. Each had a score of 301 and in the 18th hole play off Hagen won with 77 to Brady's 78.

A short time ago at New Orleans Hagen gave a very fine exhibition of his prowess, when he defeated Jim Barnes in a sensational match over the Country Club's links there. He is possessed of wonderful nerve and gameness and when in a close race he can be depended upon to do the right thing at the rigt time always having enough in reserve for a supreme effort.

After his arrival in England Hagen will have about three weeks in which to get into shape for the big event. On June 21 and 22 the entrants for the open will have a test over the St. George's Hill course near Weymouth, Surrey, when it is to be hoped Hagen will be one of the 72 professional players who will qualify for the championship in this two days' play.

LOCAL FOOTBALL GOSSIP

MACHINE-GUNNERS AND G.W.V.A. PLAY TO-NIGHT—OTHER ITEMS OFINTEREST.

A very interesting and important League fixture in the football game will be played to-night at Nicholl's Oval. Kick off at 6:30 prompt. The game will be between the Machine Gunners and the Great War Veterans who meet for the first time. Mr. A. Day is the appointed referee.

Two successful wins against the fast-going C.G.E. and the Canadian Woollens places the Machine Gunners in a good position in the league, and they intend giving a good account of themselves to-night against the Veterans. The probable team: — W. Flowers, goal: A. Dodds and R. H. Perry, backs; N. Metcalfe, R. G. McLeish and Hilliard Darling, halfbacks; Wm. Darling, R. Payne, L. Frazer, E. Bell and Harold Darling, forwards.

The C. G. E. will practice to-night at the Exhibition grounds at 6.30 prompt.It is likely R.Leach will have a trial at inside left as they contemplate signing him up.

After giving the Caledonians a whacking last Saturday the War Veterans trot out the following team in full confidence they will carry away the points: C. Griffin, goal; H. Gamble and A. Bishop, backs; A. Burrows, P. D. Ryan and J. Peel, half backs; S. Curtiss, F. Monks, H. Norman, A. Edwards and J. Sharman, for wards.

In the exhibition game against the Comrades' football team, a very promising inside right playng for the Canadian Woollens ,in the person of Harold Jones, lately of Stratford, in Western Football Association, signed up with the team.

The Canadian Woollens played an exhibition game at the oval last evening but to their great surprise they found a baseball game being played between the C. G. E. and the Bankers. It is understood that football has the claim for Wednesday evening. To play the game the teams had to make goal posts of wearing-apparel and play across the pitch. Not content with occupying the football legitimate nights ,the goal posts have been broken in two by some kind sports.

On Tuesday evening a benefit game was played between the All-Stars and the Caledonians, that did not get started until 7:45 p.m. The arrangement that the football executive of the benefit match made were that the baseball teams agreed to play five innings inside of an hour but to the great surprise of the football enthusiastsiasts they took one hour and thirty minutes to play a legitimate game of five innings and to make matters inconvenient they played six innings. The executive were not high handed in any way but there is two sides to a story. Yes, the notice at the oval is nailed to a tree—is it not a criminal offence to destroy trees in a public park? The understanding between the two teams was 5 innings, to go no longer than 1½ hours, but the Westclox team turned up late—that is the reason. When did the ball team expect to finish the game because they were two hours playng 6 innings; now to be true sportsmen, when did they expect the football team to play? The football teams only played 20 minutes either way and then they were playing in the dark the last ten minutes. In the opinion of some of the spectators, they had only two speeds — slow and dead slow—as was fully demonstrated at the end of each innings. To give the commercial baseball fans some enlightment on the matter of Nicholls oval in regard to Soorts Rugby, Association Football and cricket games were played there before baseball was known in Peterboro —therefore football holds priority

HARVARD WON'T DEFEND GRAND CHALLENGE CUP

BOSTON. — Harvard University will not defend its possession of the Grand Challenge Cup, won at the English Henley regatta of 1914, but a Harvard crew rowing under the colors of the Union Boat Club of this city is training for an attempt to keep the trophy in this country. All indications now are that this crew will be America's only representatives at the classic English aquatic meeting to be held July 1-3 except for possible entries in individual and doubles events. Financing of the trip is assured, it is understood, and only an upset in form at the last moment would prevent the participation of the Americans.

To comply with the Henly conditions requiring that no professional coaching for candidate crews be employed for three months prior to the race, the direction of the crews preparation has been placed in the hands of Robert F. Herrick, chairman of the Harvard graduate rowing committee. Mr. Herrick was the coach of the Harvard crew which won at Henley in 1914.

WELL KNOWN TYPES ARE SEEN IN "P.B.I.", WHICH COMES TO GRAND TO-DAY

What veteran does not know him—that priceless character, the green sub.? Taken from the business world and from the Universities, unaccustomed to command, rushed through an intensive course at the P. S. I., lacking that perspective which comes only with experience, possessing an almost Prussian idea of the status of an officer, he joins his unit in France and discovers that although "soldiers may be trained in England, they are made in France." Here a war-tempered platoon completes his education. He soon learns decoration-hunters are neither popular nor useful. He learns to forget self, and wins the respect and love of his men and the good opinion of his superiors. The cast includes those types so well known in the army—the peppery old General, the gilded Staff Officer, the First Contingent sucker who has risen to Company Commander, the mighty and important Adjutant, the carefree out-since-Mons Engineer Officer and the callous M.O.

The Tommy's viewpoint has guided the playwright's pen, and the picture of the traditional platoon characters has suffered not a whit, for who, after all, knew Tommy as he knew himself. And what officer ever hid any fault or failing from his platoon? The omniscient batman, the Cockney grouse, the gay cavalier winning the hearts and smiles by his badges and rings, the cynical gentleman ranker, the "Crown and Anchor" shark, the beery cadger, the typical Canadian Tommy who makes good, and one of the vertabrae of the Army—the Platoon Sergeant.

Madame at the estaminet never rests or sleeps, and she always has her hand extended in thrifty fashion; her surly husband works but little. The daughter is Madelon come to life. A fair refugee from Mons, whose life has been touched by the tragedy of the war, typifies Belgium.

The cast are all veterans, carefully chosen from the great talents that are in the army, and soldiers playing soldiers' parts cannot be improved upon. The Canadian Corps never has had to apologize for its amateur origin.

The play is produced by the P.B.I. Productions, Limited, a Private Company, the stock of which is held by members of the cast. An honest effort of the returned man to help himself. "P.B.I." will be seen at the Grand to-morrow, Friday night and on Saturday afternoon and evening.

WESTCLOX HAVE PROTESTED GAME

In reference to the Westclox-Cressman game the other night the Westclox team have sent the following statement to the Examiner: —

If the Cressman ball team will kindly read this statement it will undoubtedly put a damper on their supposedly victorious enthusiasm, for a formal protest has been entered by the Westclox and accepted by the President and other members of the Commercial League. As no game under seven innings is official in this league unless called by the umpire on account of rain or darkness this last game cannot be classed as official and must be played over again. This has already been ruled by officials of the league

The disc has to pass through twenty-seven processes before it is ready for forwarding to the War Office for issue.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE COMMUNITY DANCE.

It is the duty of every citizen to esteem very highly all civic authority, and it is equally due to every citizen that his rights be respected by such civic rulers.

The Community Dance is an offence to certain worthy citizens for more reasons than one, and that which offends part of the community cannot be justly sanctioned by civic authority without referring the question to the whole community. This has not been done so far as we know. We may not understand all, but we question the right of any power to open one of our streets for a dance, which, while a pleasure to some, may be an offence and a disgust to others.

Now, the roping off of any thoroughfare for such a purpose, gives public sanction to the same and is an affront to a large section of the Church of God, which is opposed to such a practice.

We deeply regret that, for the above reasons, sanction was given by our esteemed city council, and we feel deeply ashamed that such men as the Mayor and Aldermen of our city should have received an invitation to a community dance. We are pleased to look upon them as our City Fathers, who live and toil with heart and brain for the common good.

Gentlemen, who hold the reins of civic power—we know you will not step down from your lofty seat to join this affair on the street to-night, for hundreds of law-loving and law-abiding citizens are ashamed of the whole unseemly episode. Citizen.

THE SHORT SKIRT SURVIVES

"We have already announced the survival of the short skirt," writes Helen Koues in an article in May Good Housekeeping, "and now the couturiers of Paris have decreed that this skirt shall be pleated. Box-plaits, accordion plaits, side-plaits, "pin" plaits—no matter what, so long as the skirt is plaited. Jenny plaits a tailored skirt all around at the waistline—three-quarter-inch plaits — and makes no attempt to disguise the resulting fullness. Other Jenny skirts show plaited panels, and one, in finely plaited blue serge, is finished on the edges with a narrow, confining band to insure the straight silhouette. The movement of this skirt in walking is very pretty.

"Jenny shows very finely plaited black satin flounces below a hip-length box coat of checked serge trimmed with galon cire. Plaited panels in otherwise plain skirts and much plaited or fluted serge, satin, and organdy in the form of ruffs and ruches as trimming.

"Lanvin shows straight skirts plaited in front and back, with the plain panel edges overlapping on the sides. Premet shows box-plaited tailored skirts—the plaits not less than an inch wide—below jackets which are rather close-fitting to the waistline and slightly flaring below. Doeuillet makes much of plaited panels and flounces."

M.P.'S INDEMNITY SEEMS BIG ISSUE

INSISTENCE SO VIGOROUS GOVT. MAY HAVE TO "COME ACROSS".

OTTAWA.—The move for an increase in the sessional indemnity of senators and members of Parliament, from twenty-five hundred to four thousand dollars a session, appears to attract, in political circles in Ottawa, far more attention than what is going on in the House. The movement started vigorously some months ago, but sustained a severe jolt when the Ontario Government turned down a similar proposal. Latterly, the drive has been resumed with greater force than ever, and while the Government so far has bravely resisted, there are indications that it may have to capitulate and "come across."

While the demand for more money is very persistent, it is a fact that no session has seen the attendance in the Chamber so slim and irregular as this one, especially on the ministerial side. It is the custom to turn out fairly strong at the start of proceedings, but once the routine is over and the orders of the day are proceeded with, there is a wholesale exit; night after night a quorum has to be gathered from the highways and byways, the whips, in the scriptural phrase, compelling them to come in.

Time and again during this session if the Opposition had wished to delay business they could have "counted out" the House by reason of the absentees. There are three Ontario members whose attendance in the House during the session could be counted on the fingers of one hand. The delinquents come mainly from that Province. Members from the West, from Quebec and the Lower Provinces, are rather more regular in their attendance.

Economy Chief Argument of Cabinet

The Government is endeavoring to resist the onslaught to increase indemnities to four or five thousand dollars a session, takes the ground that when the soldiers have been refused any cash gratuity and when urgent public works are held up because of financial conditions, it would be peculiarly out of place should Parliament proceed to raise their own allowances. It is further pointed out that it is an indemnity and not a salary which is paid, the assumption being that every member of Parliament has some other means of support.

These arguments, however, are not serving as any deterrent against the drive, and some of the members are not only demanding more money, but also that it be exempted from the process of income taxation on the ground that it is an indemnity rather than a salary.

The latest announcement is that only those who served overseas will receive the British War Medal and the Victory medal.

MANY HUNGARIAN SUICIDES

Attributed to Grief Over Government's Decision to Sign the Treaty.

BUDAPEST.—The publication of the decision of the Hungarian Government to sign the treaty of peace presented by the Allies did not lead to disorders, but the situation resulting from the news appears to be grave.

Gloom prevaded the city the first day after the news was printed in newspapers here, and streets that are usually filled with gay and brilliant Guards had been posted everywhere by the Government. It is reported that bodies of many supposed suicides have been found in the Danube, and the newspapers attribute these to the Government's action.

Conditions in West Hungary seem to be very serious, reports stating that Hungarian soldiers plan to disobey orders from this city to evacuate territory under the treaty.

FROM A CHILD WAS CONSTIPATED

According to the best medical authorities, fully three fourths of the people of the civilized world suffer in some form from costiveness or irregular action of the bowels. There is no doubt that many distressing diseases are caused by constipation. It gives rise to sick and bilious headaches, jaundice, heartburn, floating specks before the eyes, catarrh of the stomach, biliousness and the painful, troublesome piles. Therefore it is of supreme importance to health that the bowels be kept regular. Simple food, fruit, etc., should be used and rich food and stimulants of all kinds avoided. This with the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills to regulate and establish healthy action of the bowels cannot fail to give permanent relief in the most obstinate cases.

Mrs. Letitia Wainman, Orillia, Ont., writes: "From a child I was always very badly constipated and I can well remember when quite young my mother giving me senna tea nearly every morning and I got to dread it. After taking Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a while I am not troubled with constipation any more."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., June 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Boutellier, who have lived happily on a farm near here for forty-five years, during which time they reared a family and became grandparents, were married last week using a marriage license issued to them in 1875. The license had been hanging in a gilt frame in their parlor during the entire period. At the time it was issued the couple believed it was all that was necessary for a wedding and did not discover their mistake until a caller the other day happened to ask why they used it for a wall decoration.

COMMUNITY DANCE.

Big Success of the Machinist Open-Air Event.

A very large number of persons attended the community dance given last evening by the machinists on the block between the Munro House and the Hunter Street bridge and the occasion was one of the big successes of the year. Every one entered into the fun with the right spirit and the dancing continued from 8.30 when the National Anthem was played until a late hour. Splenddi music was supplied by the G.W.V.A. band. Mayor McIntyre opened the dance by presenting the Machinists with the freedom of the street.

A number of the aldermen and the civic officials were present at the dance.

SALTS IF BACKACHY AND KIDNEYS HURT

Stop eating meat for a while if your Bladder is troubling you.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Edison Goods Unaffected by Tax

The present selling prices of THE NEW EDISON and records will not be changed by the new tax lately imposed on Phonographs. On these lines the dealers have already been paying a war tax of 7½ per cent., also an excise tax of 10 per cent., both of which were abolished when the new tax became effective. That made only an additional tax of 2½ per cent., part of which has been assumed by the wholesaler and part by the Greene Music Company.

Leaving Edison Prices the Same as Before

This applies to both Instruments and Records, and our large circle of customers will be pleased to know that they can buy their favorite Phonographs, and Records for them, without an increase on the prices that prevailed for the past few months. We would like to demonstrate a New Edison for you, either in our comfortable special Demonstration Parlours or in your home.

We sell at an unchanged scale of prices, and give you time accommodation to pay for it if desired.

PRINTING Done Here

COMPARED WITH ELSEWHERE

You'd startle your tailor if, when you wanted a suit of clothes, you asked him to submit a bid in competition with a dozen other tailors

"Why," he would say, "this is ridiculous. This man knows what kind of a suit of clothes I give him. He knows he can depend on the quality of the material, the make, the fit. He knows me, and has proved my work. Some fellow around the corner may underbid me—but what will he deliver?"

You don't buy tailoring that way. No man does. You know your tailor you rely on him, you trust him, you give him your work just as long as he turns out good work at prices that are fair.

Do you buy your printing as intelligently? Do you make it your business TO FIND A GOOD PRINTER as you do a good tailor, and then rely on his experience, his ability and his judgment?

Men who do, get good printing. Men who buy printing here and there, wherever the price is shaved closest, are the ones who have printing worries

MR. THOMAS H. LANE IS NEW PRESIDENT OF LABOUR COUNCIL

SUCCEEDS MR. A. J. BOLWELL, WHO IS LEAVING THE CITY AND WHOSE SERVICES WERE RECOGNIZED BY A VOTE OF THANKS—METAL TRADES COUNCIL PROPOSED.

Vice-Pres. Thomas H. Lane was unanimously elected President of the Trades and Labor Council last night. President A. J. Bolwell handed in his resignation, and on the motion of Mr. Darrah, the Vice-President was promoted to the chair. Mr. P. McArthur was elected to succeed Mr. Lane.

A motion of thanks to the late president expressing appreciation of his services and regret at his departure from the city carried with commendation expressed from all present.

A letter was read from Thomas Moore, President of the Trades Congress of Canada

He said he would be here at the Carpenpents' Convention and would be able to address the Trades and Labour Council on the 2th of June.

The president suggested that the council endeavour to secure the St. Alphonsus Lyceum, where the carpenters are holding their convention, for the meeting on June 25th; and it was moved and carried that the carpenters be approached by a committee to see if the hall could be secured. The secretary of each local will be advised of the meeting. All union men will be urged to attend.

That 7 o'clock is too early for the garbage collectors in this city to begin to collect the garbage, and that they should not start to collect till 8 o'clock, was the opinion of a delegate, who said the city council should be asked to change the time of starting the collection. If you put your garbage out the night before, the dogs spilled it over ,and it was never picked up. If you don't put it out till later you miss the collection, he said.

Another delegate stated that the garbage should be collected at night, as in many of the larger cities.

A motion requesting the council to change the hour for commencing collection was adopted.

A Metal Trades Council.

Peterboro may soon have a Metal Trades Council. A delegate believed that it would be most beneficial to all the metal trades to be united, giving as an explanation the C.C.F. strike, where one demand could have been made by the council to the company covering the machinists and the electrical workers. It was stated that the manufacturers have their metal and building trades associatons and that a metal trades council would be established in the near future wth power to act for the affliated trades.

A resolution calling for the retirement of Police Magistrate Dumble, was passed after a discussion of a case before Magistrate Dumble on circus day of a man in charge of a boiler room, whose qualitfications do not meet with the requirements of the Stationery Engineers' Act. It was stated that Crown Attorney Hatton advised the imposition of the minimum fine, which was satisfactory to the Provincial Engineers' Examining board. Magistrate Dumble, however, decided to reserve disposal of the case for two weeks.

CHECK LAZINESS UNION PROPOSES

WOULD STANDARDIZE WORK AND RATES OF PAY IN CLOTHING TRADE.

(Canadian Press)

BOSTON. — Standardization of quantity and quality of work in the clothing industry with a view to checking laziness as well as undue speed of of production is one of the aims of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and the co-operation of the manufacturers is hoped for by the union according to the general secretary of the clothing workers, Joseph Schlossberg. The plan which is in the hands of the general executive board of the organization is regarded as a new departure in the management of labor.

The general executive board will make a study of the market conditions in each large city and then invite a conference with the clothing manufacturers for the purpose of agreeing upon a scale of work. It is planned to establish a standard of quantity and quality that must be performed for the maximum pay, and there is to be a lower standard of quantity and quality with a corresponding rate of pay for the worker who cannot reach the first standard.

In the past the workers have claimed that they have been speeded up too much by the manufacturers and have met that issue by fixing an arbitrary limit upon production in certain fields, while some manufacturers have been contending that the men and women in the trade have not been doing an honest amount of work for the pay. Piece work tended to drive the workers too fast, according to their own view of it, and was everywhere discouraged by the unions; pay by the week regardless of the amount of work performed, has not been satisfactory to the manufacturers.

RBSSIAN EGGS MAY CAUSE PRICE DROP

BUT POLISH-SOVIET WAR WILL PREVENT EXPORT

A disconcerting factor in the future of the export market for storage eggs has been the possibility of competition on the British market from Russian and Polish eggs. It is not so much the fact that Canadian eggs would come into direct competition with Russian eggs but any unusual supplies of the latter would have a tendency to cause a general lowering in prices.

This prospect loomed rather large a few weeks ago when the Soviet government issued an order requiring that a certain proportion of the taxes be paid in eggs. During the last two or three weeks however with the increasing likelihood of a serious war between Poland and Russia, the prospects of supplies from these countries is greatly diminished. Exporters are therefore viewing the outlook with more equanimity than was the case heretofore. It is scarcely to be expected, however that the British market will reach the high level of egg prices attained last year.

WEDDING BELLS

GILLAM—GILLESPIE.

The marriage was solemnised at high noon to-day in St. Mark's Church, Barrie field, by the rector, Rev. Alfred Cooke, of Ada Victoria, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gillespie, Riverview, Barrie field, and Harper Caulfield (late Lieutenant of the 93rd aBttalion, C.E.F.), son of Mr. and Mrs. Gillam, of Aurora, Ont. The bride wore her travelling dress of sand jersey cloth, a hat of black maline with French flowers, and carried a bouquet of sunset roses tnd sweet peas. The beautiful old church was lovely with the flowers of June, the loving work of the Altar Guild, and immediately after the bride and the groom left for Montreal, and later will make their home in Ottawa.

This pretty wedding was the culmination of war romance, both bride and groom having served under the Colours in France. The bride as Nursing Sister Gillespie in No. 7 General Hospital, Etaples, nursed the young Canadian officer, whom she had known and nursed in Kingston before the War, and the friendship has since continued.

Very many good wishes follow these young people who have so well served King and Country.—Kingston Standard.

AMERICAN RING METHODS AS SEEN BY JIMMY WILDE

NEW YORK. —Punishment in the ring does not consist entirely of "beat 'em up." All the blows that hurt don't come from the fists of the other man. Crowds at the ringside give some verbal jolts that have more kick in them than an opponent's wallop.

Choice bits of ring wisdom from Jimmy Wilde, the 'wee Welshman and flyweight champion of the world, who has been showing America that he's just about the finest piece of fighting machinery seen in the ring in a long time.

"When you speak of taking punishment," the bit of a Briton said, "one naturally thinks of a hard right or a stinging left. But that's not the only way of getting hurt in the ring. "Razzing as you Americans call it, has twice the dig on me as a blow. You don't know how it feels to walk out in the ring and be greeted with 'Back to England, you limmie 'Knock his bloomin' block off', 'Crown that little boob.' Shots like that hurt me more than any wallop I take and I know they get the hide of other boys because I've heard them talk.

"When I first came to the United States I didn't understand American crowds. Lots of people think that a fighter is deaf in the ring or that he is so engrossed in his work that he is oblivious to what goes on outside the ring that is not so. Things said at the ringside, remarks from the crowd often take a psycho logical turn that decide a fight. The taunts hurled at me hurt me until I learned that there was nothing malicious about it— that it was just what the Americans call 'rooting.'

"I saw the Kilbane-Valger fight and the way the crowd razzed Kilbane got me away from believing that the fans were after me personally. I felt better after that and now I can take it with good nature American fans have been very good to me and I appreciate it."

Wilde has been here since last fall and outside of his first fight with Jack Sharkey, in which he was outpointed, he has beaten the best of America's little fellows. He is to return to England some time early in June, but plans to return in the fall and may decide to make his home in the United States.

"The Walker boxing bill is a fine act and should put boxing on the same plane here that it is in England," Wilde said. "Fifteen rounds is the ideal distance, I believe. In England we have 20 rounds, but I believe there is just as much action and interest in 15 rounds. The provision for two judges to give decisions may work out, but I am rather dubious about it. The referee is the only man who should give a decision. He is in the ring with the fighters and sees everything at a better range than a man outside the ring. Two judges seated on different sides of the ring may have different ideas about giving points and they neverwill get the same view of a blow. It may work out fine, however.

"Smoking is one of the most objectionable features of fights in America. It is hard on the spectators and, on the fighters. Over the 15-round route the tobacco fumes will have a very detrimental effect on the fighters. Decision fights will help to correct another little fault of the American fight game. When the referee is allowed to name a winner, it does not seem probable that the serials between Benny Leonard and Johnny Dundee and Willie Jackson and Johnny Dundee will be allowed to continue."

Wilde denies that he has collected data from which to write an indictment of the American fight game when he returns to England.

"That story was started by persons who do not wish me well," he said.

"My definition of a real fighter "

"A real fighter is a boy who can 'it and tyke a 'it and 'andle 'is 'and."

Raybestos to Buy the Hope Factory

PROPOSE TO ESTABLISH ANOTHER INDUSTRY HERE IF ASSESSMENT IS FIXED FOR TEN YEARS AT $40,000—PEOPLE WILL DECIDE.

USE BOTH PLANTS

The ratepayers of Peterboro will soon have the opportunity to vote on another bylaw to bring a new industry to Peterboro, taking over the plant of a company which has been in this city for 8 1-2 years, and which during that period has made a name for itself in the industrial field — the Henry Hope Co., Limited.

At the Manufacturers' Committee meeting last night a rough form of the agreement between the city and the Raybestos Company, the company which desires to secure the Henry Hope Company's factory, was submitted by Ald. Gordon, chairman of the committee. Whether they propose to use it as an addition and part of their other plant here or as a separate factory, is not known.

The agreement reads:

The company to purchase the Henry Hope and Son's property and to employ in it 50 employees within 18 months from the date of the passing of the bylaw, or in case they are not able to do so owing to circumstances beyond their control, they to have an extensoin of time of six months; and to keep employed from that time an average of 50 employees for ten months of each year until ten years after the passing of the bylaw.

The city to permit present exemption given to Henry Hope and Sons to continue until it expires and give a fixed assessment of $40,000 from that date until 10 years from the passing of the bylaw.

Those present were Ald. Gordon, (chairman), Mayor McIntyre, Ald. Copping, Ald. Turner, Ald. Phelan and Ald. Whitehouse.

The chairman said that the Henry Hope Co. had been unable to continue business on account of the steel shortage, although the company had a year's order booked and the plant would be turned over to the Raybestos Co. on certain conditions. The Henry Hope company have found that the situation does not warrant them to continue as they had been doing.

'Apparently the Raybestos Co. will use both plants. What they will use the new plant for we do not know," said the chairman.

The Henry Hope Co. intend to keep an office in Peterborough as a branch office to their English plant, it was stated, and to look after the Canadaian trade. It was entirely through the unsettled steel market that they were shutting down here.

The Henry Hope agreement has still 1 1-2 years to run, for the 1 1-2 years they would pay local improvement rates and school tax for the next 8 1-2 years they would pay on $40,000. The agreement when compared to the Henry Hope Co showed that employment of 50 men was guaranteed in each case, but that the employees of the Raybestos Co. would be more skilled.

The new plant would be assessed at $50,000 or $60,000," he chairman said.

City Clerk Armstrong pointed out that the tranfer would have to be voted on by the ratepayers, for the city practically owns the property.

The Raybestos Co.'s strong position, both in financial and in industrial circles was emphasized by the chairman and other aldermen spoke favorably of the new company and the addition the second factory of the Raybestos Co. would be to the city in many ways.

Ald. Turner felt that 18 months was too long to allow them to get started. The chairman said that this was given to give them time to allow for any delay by unforseen circumstances.

Twelve months, Ald. Turner said, was enough. The Mayor and other aldermen were of the opinion that 18 months was not too long and Ald. Turner conceded the point.

Ald. Whitehouse moved that the committee recommend that a by-law be submitted to the electors to carry out this agreement for the transfer of this property to the Canadian Raybestos Co. Ltd. The motion was adopted.

DEVOTE ATTENTION TO COUNTY ROADS

CANADIAN GOOD ROADS ASSOCIATION PROPOSED A NATIONAL HIGHWAY.

(Canadian Press).

WINNIPEG, June 4.—At the annual meeting of the Canadian Good Roads Association last night, the question of a Canadian highway came up in the form of a recommendation of the Resolutions Committee that the association urge upon the Dominion and Provincial Governments co-operative action to bring about an early planning of the scheme. After discussion the matter was referred to the Executive Committee, the view of many at the meeting being that attention should be mainly directed for years to come to the building of necessary roads in various provinces for the development of rural districts. Advocates of the proposal urged that the making of the plan would not entail any great expenditure, and that it would give the provinces some outline to work upon.

NEED BRANCH REVENUE OFFICE IN LINDSAY

W. H. BULLER WILL RECOMMEND IT TO FACILITATE TAX COLLECTION.

Mr. W. H. Buller, the local Inland Revenue officer, said to-day that he expected to have a branch office in Lindsay in the near future. He was recommending to the Department that this be done to eliminate the difficulty of getting proper returns from the northern town and district. Returns are still coming in, he said, and as fast as the details have been gone through, the drafts are forwarded on to the Government. Although he did not wish to say the exact amount they had sent on, he stated that it was no inconsiderable sum.

HORSES, BARNS AND CONTENTS BURNED

EARLY MORNING FIRE OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN CAUSED CONSIDERABLE LOSS TO M. J. KIRN AND THOMAS HICKEY—BLAZING WHEN DISCOVERED.

SOME INSURANCE

A large barn owned by M. J. Kirn, 728 Stewart Street, and adjoining his home, all the contents, including a lawn mower, two bicycles, a cider press, and a number of garden tools, a shed containing a quantity of lumber, also owned by Mr. Kirn, a barn owned by Thos. Hickey, 767 Bethune Street, containing two valuable horses owned by P. R. Castle, 765 Bethune Street and W. H. Baker, 137 Dublin Street, and feed and harnress belonging to the latter, and about 1,000 feet of Lumber, belonging to Mr. Hickey, were destroyed by fire early this morning, which started from some unknown source.

The Kirn household had retired early in the night, leaving everything apparently safe in the shed, when at about 3 o'clock Mrs. Kirn was awakened by the roar of the flames and the smell of smoke. She immediately summoned the household and awakened Mr. Hickey, the owner of the adjoining barn, and notified him of the fire, which by this time had gained such headway.

It was practically useless to attempt to save either building or contents, and the onlookers were unable to make any attempt to lead out the horses. Absolutely no cause can be found for the fire, as there was no gasoline or similar material in any of the buildings, and no trace can be found as to where the flames started, as when the fire was discovered all buildings were burning. Only the fact that Mr. Kirn's house is finished with a newly built fire-proof roof prevented it from sharing the fate of the barns. A hen house owned by Mrs. Hickey near the barn was also destroyed.

An alarm was run in to the Fire Hall by Walter Peters, but the buildings were doomed even then.

POLICE GARRISON DROVE OFF RAIDERS

(Canadian Press.)

CAPPAG-WHITE, Munster, June 4.— A large number of men armed with bombs and rifles, attacked the police barracks here this morning. The police garrison, consisting of two sergeants and eight constables, replied with similar weapons from the roof. The court house adjoining was set on fire and a fierce battle fixed. The raiders finally withdrew. The bomb's explosives were heard in Tipperary, seven miles south of here, from which place the police were hurried. Reinforecements encountered some of the raiders on the way. The latter were pursued and several were arrested.

WHY CANADIANS SHOULD EAT FISH

Two good economical reasons why you should eat more fish:

It is cheap and nutritious, and provides a thrifty meal.

One of Canada's greatest sources of wealth is her fisheries, and you help develop the industry by eating fish, and also help to put Canada in a better financial position.

Probably you are not aware how little fish Canadian people use.

Great Britain is one of the greatest fish consuming countries in the world. During 1918 she had a per capita consumption of 58 pounds, and in 1919, it is believed, this was increased to 60 pounds. This means that each individual consumed at the rate of more than one pound per week.

In the United States last year it is estimated by officials at Washington the per capita consumption was 19 pounds. Although little reliance can be placed on this estimate, there is no doubt but that the local consumption in the United States has increased greatly in recent years.

A few years ago the per capita consumption in Canada per annum was a matter of ounces. Through the combined efforts of the Canada Food Board and the Fisheries Branch it is estimated that the local consumption at one time reached a point equal to 4½ pounds per capita. During 1919 it is estimated the per capita consumption was somewhere between 23 and 25 pounds per annum.

Canada is one of the greatest, if not the greatest, fish producing countries of the world. Why have our people so little faith in fish?

POISONED NEEDLES USED IN BUDAPEST

Unrest Stimulated by Stealthy Attacks on Officers.

(Canadian Press.)

BUDAPEST, June 4. — With twelve army officers in hospitals in consequence of having been pricked by poisoned needles, and a number dead, it is believed that the Bolsheviki are attempting to create new disorders during the period of uneasiness attendant upon the signing of the peace treaty. The city is thrilled with terror at these outrages, which are committed at night when the officers are going about on duty, and particularly when they are in crowds. Order is being kept by mounted police and squads of soldiers armed with hand grenades, pistols and rifles with bayonets fixed.

PREPARE PROGRAM FOR DOMINION DAY

EXHIBITION BOARD ARRANGING FOR HOLIDAY ATTRACTIONS.

That a celebration will be held at the Fair Grounds on July 1, Dominion Day, with good horse races and a fine list of attractions and amusements, was the decision reached at a meeting of the Fair Directors held in the Board of Trade Rooms last night. President R. Denne was in the chair, with a good representation of directors present. Attractive purses are to be offered in the races and this high-class attractions secured. The question of arranging the programme was left to the Racing Committee, which will meet in the President's office on Saturday night.

The business in connection with the 24th of May celebration was completed. In spite of the inclement weather, the returns would show a fair balance, the Secretary said.

Field Crop Competition.

The field crop competition of the Board closes in two days, and all farmers who intend to enter in it are urged to do so at once.

FOOTBALL GAME SATURDAY EVENING

The sporting element of the city will be glad to hear that the Football League Game between the C. G. E. and Machine Gunners has been postponed to 6 o'clock in the evening instead of 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The C.G.E. Executive informed Capt. Frazer of the Gunners that owing to the majority of the players working Saturday Afternoon they were willing to concede the two points, but in a true sportsman's manner, he agreed to play at 6 o'clock. This will be an excellent game, in view of the fact, that it is vital to the C.G.E.'s standing in the League.

C.G.E. team—Naples, goal; McDonald and R. Leach, backs; Parkins, Cowie and Young, half-backs; Bills, Hotson, Gash, Turner, and Bartley, forwards. Reserves, Sanders and Ridley.

THE WEATHER

There was every appearance early last evening that there would be some frost last night. The gentle breeze, however, continued, and this combined with increasing cloudiness, prevented what might have been serious. More showers have fallen north and east of Peterboro, and even in the immediate neighborhood, but the town itself has not been favored. More showers are coming this way, and perhaps we may be more fortunate on this occasion.—W.P.

SINN FEINERS WIN 2 ULSTER COUNTIES

TYRONE AND FERMANAGH GIVE MAJORITIES IN COUNTY AND DISTRICT ELECTIONS—BOTH EXCLUDED BY HOME RULE BILL.

DOMINATE NATIONALISTS

BELFAST, June 4. — As a result of the county and district council elections, the Sinn Fein-Nationalist Alliance has secured control in County Tyrone for the first time. In addition it has maintained its hold upon County Fermanagh by a majority of 589. The keenest interest was taken in these elections because both counties are included within the Ulster area outlined in the Irish Bill now before the Irish Parliament.

A feature of the elections generally in northern Ireland, was the ascendancy gained by the Sinn-Feiners over the followers of Redmod.

GIVE SUFFICIENT POWER.

LONDON, June 4. — The younger colationists boldly challenged the policy of the Government on certain points in the Home Rule Bill in committee. Captain Coote, in an earnest speech, urged the government to take the risk of trusting the new parliament to the full. "The only way to make the Irish people believe this bill will work is to delegate to the two Parliaments sufficient power to enable them to build up a true sovereign body. Irish unity may be achieved through the agency of Irishmen themselves," he said.

Captain Coote was supported by Captain Elliott of Lanark, who went to even greater lengths in a fervid appeal to the committee to make a new departure in order to cut the ulcer in the body politic which Ireland represented. "We are not going to crush the Sinn Fein by armed force," he urged.

"Why not?" asked several members.

"Because we fought and conquered war and smashed the German menance that we might have peace on the shores of the Atlantic," he warmly retorted "We are discussing nothing less than the conditions of the continuance of the British Empire. The problem that beat Napoleon is at least deserving of the consideration of Parliament. We must take great risks, and there is a proportion in tnis House of young men who are prepared to take these risks."

In this strenuous vein Captain Elliott urged the handing over of the military in Ireland to the control of the local Parliaments. He received some applause, but the committee was not prepared for such a volte face in policy.

The chief effect of the proposal was to draw from Sir Edward Carson one of his gloomy vaticinations concerning the separatist tendency of the proposals of the bill.

KLINE'S FIRE SALE

WONDERFULLY LOW PRICES PREVAIL ON THE FIRST DAY OF THIS SALE.

Mr. H. Kline, proprietor of the dry goods and ladies' ready-to-wear store, at 430 George street, opened his store to the public this morning for the first time since the fire, which occurred in the premises about two weeks previous.

Mr. Kline's store has been known by the ladies as a store with a conscience, where shoppers were attracted by its consistent and straightforward methods as well as by the safe and reliable character of its goods. There appears to have been no trouble setting the losses with the fire inspectors, because everything was straight and easily explained. After the settlement Mr. Kline got busy putting his partly damaged stock in order, and re-marking the goods to "fire sale prices." To-day was the first day of his fire sale, and the response of the public has been so very encouraging that Mr. Kline is grateful to the public for his appeal for their patronage, and he anticipates fast selling. Much of the goods were found free of damage of any kind, because of their being well boxed and protected. But in every case, the sales were characterized by attractive values, which speaks well for the speedy and successful clearing of the stock.

TURNED THE HOSE ON THE AUDIENCE.

German Socialists' Novel Plan to Break Up Election Meeting.

BERLIN, June 3.—The election campaign in the provinces continues with much violence. There is frequent fighting at the meetings of the various candidates. At Darmstadt yesterday a people's party meeting had just commenced when Independent Socialist supporters dropped hairs from the gallery on the people below and turned the hose on those in the hall, bringing the meeting to an abrupt end.

Declined to Alter the Elders' Terms

REV. DR. ROBERT CAMPBELL OF MONTREAL TOLD PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY IT WOULD BE A SLUR ON ELDERS TO SUGGEST A LIMIT-CO-ORDINATION SCHEME.

EVENTS OF ASSEMBLY

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 4.—Decision to adhere to the present policy of appointing elders of church for life and lengthy consideration of the report of the committee on co-ordination, were the chief events at this morning's session of the Presbyterian General Assembly. Rev. Dr. Robert Campbell, Montreal, presented a report on the question of limiting the term of elders and it was agreed to allow the present method of appointing them to remain. Dr. Campbell said it was a slur on elders to suggest limiting their terms and declared elders had as much right to limit terms of the clergy.

Proposals of the committee on co-ordination when adopted will have far-reaching effects on present church administration. It proposes to do away with the present board of finance and to establish instead a general board of forty-eight members drawn from existing boards, with chairman, chief executive officer, secretary and treasurer.

Report on Forward Movement.

Five million, one hundred and thirty-three thousands, nine hundred and forty-six dollars have been given by the Presbyterian Church in Canada towards the forward movement, as announced by Rev. Principal Gandier, Toronto.

He regretted to say that with a few worthy exceptions the rich men of the church did not give as generously as might have been expected. But the rank and file had responded nobly.

According to the report the allocations $425000, subscribed, $627,89 Montreal and Ottawa, $775,000, subscribed $934,944; Toronto and Kingston, $1,000,000, subscribed $1,457,077; Hamilton and London, $775,000, subscribed $1,067,660; Manitoba, $400,000, subscribed $338,869; Saskatchewan, $300,000 subscribed $300,851; Alberta, $175,000, subscribed $82,675; British Columbia, $15,000, subscribed $192,971.

Following the tabling of the report, Dr. Gandier gave a most powerful address relating to the forward movemen.

"One of the best things the forward movement has done," he said, "is that it has come to us a new message of faith and hope to go forward in the name of God," but since the war had ceased they had found many things. They had found that there were many who were heroes on the field, but were not moral heroes at home. They found profiteers, big and little, enriching themselves through the discomfort, starvation and even death of others.

Situation in Europe.

Speaking of the situation in Europe Principal Gandier said they found the old diplomacy and the old game of "grab" revived. He believed the forward movement had brought to them a great message and that to them said was: "Have faith in God."

The response to the financial appeal proved:

(1) That the church was not a dying institution; (2) That the world was looking to the church; (3) That the people were willing to give up their wealth if the church would do the work; and (4) That thousands of laymen are largely interested and ready to serve the church.

FRENCH ARMISTICE WITH TURK FORCES

WILL RE-GROUP WIDELY SCATTERED ARMIES IN SYRIA.

(Canadian Press).

PARIS, June 4.—The armistice convention with Mustapha Kemal Pasha, chief of the Turkish Nationalist forces in Asia Minor, has been signed at Beyrout by Baron Robert De Caix, secretary-general of the French High Commission there, says Pertinax of the "Echo de Paris." This step, which was taken five days ago, is said to have been necessary, because the French are compelled to re-group too widely scattered forces in Syria.

PORT BLOCKADED SINCE WAR BEGAN

Moroccan Tribesmen Accept French Terms of Peace.

PARIS June 4. — Rebellious tribesmen in French Morocco have yielded to the military authorities there and have accepted the conditions of peace presented by the French. Cannon and machine guns captured from French detachments in 1914 have been surrendered and the port of Kanigra, which has been blockaded since 1914, has been opened.

ALLIANCE WITH U.S. SOUGHT BY JAPAN

WASHINGTON. — Japanese diplomats here openly expressed the hope that the United States will become a party to the British-Japanese defensive alliance.

While Great Britain's views on this subject are not known definitely, it is understood that she also would like to have this country become a party to the pact.

The date for notification of the termination of the alliance is July 13 next. If on this date neither Great Britain nor Japan notifies the other nation of its desire to terminate the alliance, the pact will continue indefinitely until denounced by either party.

Negotiations have not yet been opened between Britain and Japan for formal renewal of the alliance on the strength of the provision for indefinite continuation, and the Mikado's Government has assumed a policy of "watchful waiting." Japan, it is understood, would be satisfied to have the alliance continue in effect indefinitely without re-opening of formal negotiations.

Put It To Dominions.

Great Britain, on the other hand, is said to have been ready not to renew the pact had the United States entered the League of Nations.

Even without this country in the League, Great Britain is said to be non-committal to the alliance.

Because of the growing importance of her dominions, Great Britain will submit the question of renewal of the pact to Australia, New Zealand and Canada, probably at a conference of the Dominions in London.

Diplomats, who have been watching the fate of the alliance with interest, see two possibilities in the situation which now surrounds it:

1.—An invitation by Great Britain and Japan to the United States to become a third party to the alliance.

2.—Supplanting of the concert of Powers in the League of Nations by a series of defensive alliances among the principal nations of the world as a result of renewal of the Anglo-Japanese pact.

The Japanese say that the world is still in a dangerous state, and that civiliation must be safeguarded by strong alliances among the principal nations of the world.

ONE GREAT ESSENTIAL TO A WOMAN'S HEALTH IS HER NERVES

Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy as the day is long, instead of being sick and wretched. But how can any woman be healthy and happy when the whole nervous system is unstrung. The trouble is they pay more attention to their social and household duties than they do to their health. Is it any wonder then that they become irritable and nervous, have hot flushes, faint and dizzy spells, smothering and sinking spells, become weak and nervous, and everything in life becomes dark and gloomy.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the very remedy that nervous, tired-out, weary women need to restore them to the blessings of good health.

Mrs. P. H. Ryan, Sand Point, N.S., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles. I was so weak and nervous I could not sleep at night and my appetite was very poor. I could not walk across the floor without trembling. I had hot flushes and fainting spells. When I was on second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I began to feel better and kept on until I had used six boxes when I felt like a different person. I am never without them in the house and recommend them to all who suffer with their nerves."

FROST THREATENED NIAGARA FRUIT BUDS

Canadian Press.

ST. CATHARINES, June 4.—Grave concern was felt this morning by the fruit dealers in the Niagara district, for their fruit buds and vegetables had a very narrow escape from frost. Increasing cloudiness after 2 a.m., alone prevented thousands of dollars worth of damage, according to the leading growers.

Indications to-day all over the district are for the greatest fruit crop in four years, with the possible exception of strawberries, which require generous rains this week to save them from ruin.

Eggs should always be cooked gently.

Use raisins for sweetening in rice pudding.

Milk should never be kept in an open vessel.

Never cut up salad; tear the leaves apart.

A quart of soup will serve four or five people.

200,000 SERBIAN WAR ORPHANS

STATISTICS THAT TELL NOTHING OF THE MISERY OF THAT COUNTRY'S CHILDREN MUST SUGGEST THE NEED FOR THE PRESENT RELIEF CAMPAIGN.

The heartrending conditions of vast numbers of destitute and orphan children in Serbia was brought home to the leaders of the Brotherhood movement in Great Britain very keenly during the war. In the autumn of 1917 a number of English Brotherhood engaged in relief work in Serbia, wrote stating that they were picking up destitute children by the roadside in the devastated districts in vast numbers. The relief workers were absolutely unable to cope with such alarming distress. He asked if the British Brotherhood could see their way to take charge of some of these children if they were sent over to Britain. The committee's funds were wholly exhausted owing to the urgent demands on them from Serbia and various parts of France and Belgium; but this agonising cry from Serbia made them feel that it was not only a call from man, but from God, and that being so the funds necessary to carry on the work would be provided. One hundred children were sent over, and since September, 1918, have had a home provided for them at Faversham in Kent, through the kindly cooperation of the National Children's Home; and the cost of their maintenance during their three years' stay in Britain has been provided by the Brotherhood.

Shortly after the signing of the Armistice, the Serbian Government requested a Brotherhood delegation to go to Serbia to examine the conditions of things on the spot. What the deputation saw with regard to the destitute children of this war-stricken country simply baffles description. These few facts, vouched for by the Government authorities, give some faint idea as to the state of affairs:

	War Orphans
Serbia and Macedonia	200,000
Bosnia and Herzegovina....	100,000
Montenegro	20,000
Cretia, Slavonia, Dalmatia, and the Banat	180,009
Total	500,000

After making a thorough investigation, it was decided that the money would go further if future operations were confined to the care of children in Serbia itself, and in the various ways—by th support of orphanages, children's hospitals, creches, and the like—large numbers of destitute boys and girls have been receiving care and attention.

COMMUNITY DANCE YIELDED $100 TO I.O.D.E.

Over $100 was realized by the Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E. through the community dance given by the Chapter last evening on Simcoe street, and the affair proved a big success in every way, and even bigger financial results would doubtless have been realized had the crowd not rendered ticket collecting a bigger job than the committee could manage.

From eight-fifteen the crowd of onlookers commenced to collect along both sides of the street, but the would-be dancers were a bit shy about commencing and the first number played by the G.W.V.A. band was enjoyed only as a musical number. The waltz following this, however, proved irresistible and from then on the crowd commenced to warm up and catch the spirit of the affair till the block was fairly well filled.

Generous Donations.

Admitting that he did not dance, the Hon. Walter Rollo, Minister of Labor, presented the Chapter with $5 as a token of his good will to the organization and paused for a few minutes to watch the dancers. Other generous donations were received from citizens assuring the success financially practically before the affair opened.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

It is a peculiar thing how some people are affected by the doings of others. Many of such class are ready at all times to take advantage whenever possible—stand on their dignity, roll up their sleeves, and with high explosive ink, rail off their opinions of such happenings that may occur from time to time, then attack and insinuate through the press—NOT FORGETTING to use the white feather, viz: non-de-plume—in all its glory.

Most gleefully clap their hands, trusting that everyone will agree with their confounded ignorance of human nature. Considerations and circumstances are not studied and always left out. Peterboro is no exemption; such people do reside and exist amongst us, and it would be better for the community that they go to Timbuctoo.

MOTHER OF FIRST AMERICAN SOLDIER KILLED IN FRANCE

Mrs. Alice Gresham Dodd, First War Mother of the Nation Gives Entire Credit For Recovery of Her Health to the Well Known Medicine, Tanlac.

MRS. ALICE GRESHAM DODD, of Gavin Park, Evansville, Ind.

The following remarkable endorsement of Tanlac was given recently by Mrs. Alice Gresham Dodd, at the Gresham Memorial Home, Gavin Park, Evansville, Ind., which home was presented to her by patriotic people of Indiana, as evidence of their appreciation of the services rendered to his country by her son, Corporal James B. Gresham, the first American soldier killed in France. Expressions of sympathy were received by Mrs. Dodd from all parts of the United States, and the newspapers of the country carried the story of the first 'war mother.'

The shock of her son's death resulted in a serious breakdown of Mrs. Dodd's health, but everyone will learn with interest and pleasure that she is now in splendid health again. When seen at her home recently she made the following statement, giving the entire credit for her recovery to the well-known medicine, Tanlac.

"After my dear boy's death, I had a general breakdown in health," said Mrs. Dodd. "At first it was just indigestion. My food used to upset me and I had to diet myself very carefully, which wasn't much hardship as I lost all desire to eat. Then I had an attack of rheumatism, with severe pains in my shoulders, back and arms. Sometimes I used to suffer a great deal, and my joints would get all swollen, up and stiff. I was able to do very little about the house, and at times couldn't even cook a meal. I got very nervous and restless, and at night would lay awake for hours, and lost many a night's sleep as a consequence.

"A friend of mine had received a great deal of help from Tanlac, and it was she who advised me to try it. I am so glad I did for it proved the best medicine I have even taken. It soon gave me a good appetite and seemed to settle my stomach so that I was no longer troubled with indigestion. I don't know what it is to have rheumatic pains now, the swelling and stiffness has all gone out of my joints and I am able to do the work of the house with the greatest ease. My nerves are now steady and strong, I sleep fine at night and I feel better in health than ever before in my life. I shall always be grateful for what Tanlac has done for me, and shall recommend it every chance I get."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corner by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

WILL INVITE MUNICIPALITIES TO A RADIAL CONFERENCE IN PETERBORO

RAILWAY COMMITTEE WILL ENDEAVOUR TO MAP OUT THE MOST DESIRABLE ROUT BETWEEN THIS CITY AND LAKE SHORE LINE.

From the Hydro-Electric Association (an association made up of municipalities concerned in hydro development) a letter was read to the Railway Committee which met last night, asking that the annual fee of this municipality be paid as soon as possible.

It was explained by the city clerk to the aldermen who desired to be enlightened, that this was an association formed to consider legislation and promote interest in the hydro work, and aid the municipalities in every way possible along this line. City Clerk Armstrong told the board that he believed it to be of great benefit to the municipality to belong. The fee is $3 per thousand, making this city's share $60.

Ald. Gordon's motion that the committee recommend that the fee be paid, was adopted.

Ald. Gainey was in the chair at the meeting. Mayor McIntyre Aldermen Gordon, Whitehouse, Copping, Turner and Phelan were present.

The route of the Toronto Eastern Railway from the lakeshore was discussed at this meeing.

The City Clerk stated that he wanted to know what municipalities to communicate with as to a conference to discuss the electric line, and he put in the hands of the chairman the following list, the selection of some of which lies with the chairman: Whitby (town), Whitby East, Darlington, Manvers? (Clarke?) Cavan? (Hope?) Millbrook? North North Monaghan.

"The difficulty over the new electric line is the eastern terminus and the route to be followed to Peterboro. There is only one route as far as I can see. From Bowmanville to Newcastle, Welcome and Port Hope and up the Gravel Road to Peterboro. It would supply Port Hope as well as Peterboro," he emphasized.

Ald. Gordon — "There are three routes. That won't do. It would duplicate the G. T. R."

Mayor McIntyre felt that it would be best to jump from Whitby across to Millbrook and open up a new territory.

The City Clerk said there were two routes to Millbrook, either going to the north through Manvers and Cavan townships, or to the south through Hope and Clarke Townships.

Ald. Gordon contended that Oshawa as a prospective city and a real live town should be the jumping off place.

"Why not ask the delegates to come here?" queried Ald. Gordon.

"If you ask them to come here you are asking them to come to the extreme end of the line," replied the City Clerk.

"I know, but Peterboro is some town," Ald. Gordon answered, and he moved that repesentatives of the enumerated municipalities be invited to attend a conference in this city.

Y.W.C.A. NOTES

An event of unusual interest occurred last night at the Young Women's Christian Association, when nine pupils of Miss Muriel Payne, the swimming instructor, passed their examination for the bronze medallion of the Royal Life Saving Society. This is the first class in Peterborough, either boys or girls, to receive these awards, and everyone should feel proud that the girls have put Peterborough on the Royal Life Saving Society map. The following tried and passed the examination: Dorothy Fenwick, Marguerite Hanna, Mrs. F. C. Weber, Helen Metheral, Leta Brownscombe, Vera Hiland, Grace Sharp Verda Graham and Shirley Magee. Miss Margaret Picard, of Toronto, the official representative, was the examiner.

In the swimming pool campaign, which closed Wednesday night, Miss Dorothy Fenwick's team led with a total of 27 and Miss Florence Johnson's came second with a total of 24. The members of the winning team and the new swimmers are to be the guests of the other three teams on Monday evening at 7.45.

FRIDAY, JUNE 4TH, 1920.

THE RECALL SYSTEM.

The principle laid down by the United Farmers' directors at their meeting in Toronto that when a Farmer member does not act in accordance with the views of the executive of the Farmers' Clubs in his own riding he should be called upon to resign his seat, is one that the U.F.O. would be well advised to drop. Such a policy makes the member of parliament merely a voting machine, with no brains or initiative or judgment of his own. The fact that he is brought more closely in touch with public affairs than the people of his riding evidently does not matter to the U.F.O. He is expected to trust not his own judgment, but that of the rulers of the U.F.O. at home who are not any more infallible than the member himself and often are not in nearly as good a position to make a decision as he is. If the recall system is insisted upon by the U.F.O. there is every reason to expect that farmer members of Parliament will be handicapped and unable to devote themselves in the proper spirit to public affairs.

AN UNIQUE ALDERMAN.

Peterborough could do very well with a number of landlords of the calibre of Ald. Glaves, a member of the Woodstock City Council, who proposes to erect twenty-five new houses. The dwellings themselves would be very welcome in Peterborough, but the conditions under which they are rented would make them especially desirable, for Ald. Glaves requires prospective tenants to have a family of at least six children. If they have more all the better for the alderman has adopted a policy of the bigger the family the lower the rent, and no family that does not number six children need apply. In these days when landlords are inclined to refuse to rent their houses to families in which there are a number of children, the Woodstock alderman is a refreshing novelty and it is a safe prediction that he will have little difficulty in finding tenants. There will be a warm greeting for him in Peterborough if he ever decides to extend his larger family campaign to this city.

THE RAYBESTOS COMPANY.

When the ratepayers recently endorsed the Canadian Raybestos Company by-law and secured that promising new industry for Peterborough, they builded better than they knew. The bringing of the Raybestos company to this city was in itself a splendid stroke of business, but developments since have proved that in an unexpected way the company means much to Peterborough, for it proposes to take over the building and plant of the Henry Hope Company and operate it, provided the ratepayers agree to a fixed assessment on the plant for ten years after the present agreement with the Henry Hope Company expires. The offer is a most welcome one, for the Henry Hope Company, unable to get the material they require, had decided to suspend operations and close down the plant—a proceeding that would have been an industrial and business loss to the city. The Raybestos Company, however, have stepped into the breach and will keep the plant in commission, whether as an adjunct of their own factory or as a separate industry is not yet known. At all events they agree to give employment to fifty workers within eighteen months after the passing of the necessary by-law and the probabilities are that the number actually employed will be well in advance of that figure. There is little doubt that when the by-law is submitted it will be enthusiastically carried, for there is a general impression that the Canadian Raybestos Company is a most desirable addition to Peterborough's industrial group.

PROFITEERING.

A Montreal ex-alderman declares that he has been reliably informed that speculators have half a million bags of sugar stored away in Montreal and he promises to inform the Board of Commerce as to the hiding place of the hoard. If the information is true the public will hope that some means can be found of punishing the guilty parties. In the United States profiteers are being given a severe jolt by the authorities and heavy fines are being administered whenever a conviction is registered, but in Canada there always seems a way out for the speculator and the hoarder.

The recent transaction in sugar uncovered by the Board of Commerce in which it was discovered that this particular consignment of sugar had passed through five hands before it finally reached the consumer, with the result that the public buying the sugar over the counter had to pay 30 cents a pound has attracted widespread attention and the description of the transaction as "highway robbery" and of the participants as "parasites" by a member of the Board of Commerce, will be generally acclaimed. But the public is growing impatient over such discoveries and is clamouring for punishment for the offenders as well as for a system of business that will eliminate some of the greedy hands that are at present extended between producer and consumer. A mere scolding from the Board of Commerce is hardly "making the punishment fit the crime."

THE COMMUNITY DANCE.

The objections raised in some quarters to the action of the Council in allowing a portion of a street to be used for the purpose of holding a community dance seem to be a little farfetched. It is true that dancing is objectionable to some people but so are many other things that are allowed to go on without protest. There are those who do not like motor cars, but that is is no reason for barring them from the streets. To others baseball may seem a silly and un-profitable pastime, but there has never been any objection to the mayor and aldermen participating in the ceremonies attendant upon the official opening of a ball game. Then why complain because they accept an invitation to attend a harmless dance, held in the open air, with none of the extremes of dress that are sometimes objected to at more formal functions? None of the hundreds of young people who participated in the dances of the last two evenings are, we fancy, any the worse for their experience, nor is there likely to be any moral depreciation among the hundreds of other citizens who gathered to watch the dance and enjoy the music.

The only logical objection that might be raised to Wednesday's and Thursday's functions is that in terming them community dances and then charging a fee for dancing, the promoters were getting away from the real meaning of "community dance," which always implies an affair in which there is no admission charge and in which the community generally is invited to participate.

A QUESTION OF ARITHMETIC.

According to the parliamentary secretary of the Board of Trade, the wage cost per ton of coal raised in Great Britain in 1913 was 6 shillings 4.01 pence. In 1919 it was 18 shillings 7.68 pence. In the same period the number of miners employed showed the relatively small increase of 4.7 per cent. It might at least be supposed that, with the promised efficiency from better wages and conditions, there would be some increase in the per capita production of coal. So far from this being the case, the amount of coal produced for each miner in Great Britain was in 1913, 259 tons, and in 1919, 197 1-2 tons.

This is a decrease of production per capita of 23.7 per cent. But when the increase in wage cost of 193 per cent. and the small increase in the number of miners are considered, it is clear that the loss in efficiency is much greater. It is an interesting sum in Algebra which is commended to those of our mathematical readers who like to tackle such equations. What is more important at this time, as concerns ourselves, is the relation of high wages to efficiency.

Wages adjusted to the high cost of living and better working conditions have been taken by our economists, and particularly by our politicians, as being something absolute which must be conceded to the worker unconditionally. The moral implication has been shockingly ignored. If giving the miner better wages and better housing conditions does not make him a better man, and therefore a better miner, can it be said, by any stretch of imagination, that he comes into court with clean hands? On this showing, which could be duplicated in scores of our own industries, apparently after a certain point, the better his wages the poorer his work.

A legalized minimum wage, as the world has proved for itself from the time of the edicts of Diocletian in 301 to the present day, is unworkable because it tends to become a maximum wage in practice. But there is a moral minimum wage which employers of the more enlightened kind increasingly recognize. This gives the worker not merely a bare living but a margin for comfort and thrift. But the wage which gives him more is prejudicial to the public interest. There will never come a time when the natural basis of wages will not be the value of the service rendered.

Arguing from his class point of view, Mr. Gompers demands reduction in the high cost of living, but completely fails to see that the first and greatest step is in the hands of the workers he leads, and must begin by reduced wages. If it begins, as indeed it usually does, by half or part time at the full union scale, the cut in wages is still there. It is disappointing, in a labor leader who is something of a statesman, and he utterly ignores the destructive underproduction of the worker. — Wall Street Journal.

ELIMINATE BARMAIDS

SALOONS

Taking advantage of the authority granted at last session of the legislature, the Vancouver City Council has adopted very stringent regulations in regard to "near-beer" bars. There has been considerable agitation for closer supervision of these places, most of which remained open until after 1 o'clock in the morning and ran cabaret shows as an attraction. The following are among the regulations adopted:

To license all near-beer saloons and all bartenders.

To eliminate barmaids altogether.

To close near-beer saloons at midnight and cabarets at 1 a.m.

To prohibit dancing or music in any form in saloons other than cabarets.

To prohibit youths and girls under 21 years of age from visiting cabarets or near-beer saloons.

To impose a license fee on bartenders of $5 a year; on saloon proprietors of $500; an additional $500 on cabaret proprietors, and a transfer fee of $100.

A SONG AT SUNSET.

By EDWIN MARKHAM.

A lone thrush sings as the night begins,
A rich wild song as the darkness falls;
And a mystic peace creeps over the world,
Over the starry halls.

So may I sing on the edge of death,
When the dark descends and the hours depart;
So may the mystic peace creep down
Over my weary heart.

PURITY - QUALITY - ECONOMY

With the increased cost of labor and materials due to war conditions, it is not reasonable to suppose that a really first class baking powder can be made and sold at the old prices. Rather than sacrifice the quality of we found it necessary to make slight increases in price during the war period. Even though Magic Baking Powder may cost a few cents more than the ordinary kinds it is still by far the most economical baking powder on the market to-day when purity, strength and leavening qualities are taken into consideration.

SANDRA THE JEALOUS

By JANE PHELPS

NOTHING IS LEFT TO REMIND SANDRA OF LECIA.

As always when I had proven my suspicions unjust or unfounded I was very meek, very humble for days and take her to dinner and the theater. He had kissed her, and called her 'a good little scout.' Those were his last words to her. They had seemed to comfort Rose."

Of course they did! it WAS nice to feel that he had appreciated her efforts to please him. I recalled her letter written after she returned to him, in which she had said she was going to do her very best no matter what Walter did; that she was never going to find fault, nor nag him about anything. She evidently had been able to do as she had planned His calling her "a good little scout' was proof she had tried to please him regardless of herself.

I wished, in a careless sort of way that I had some of her grit. "I wish I could dismiss my jealousy, make up my mind never to be jealous again—even of Leola, "I said as I stood in the window waiting for Everett to come home "But I can't! I can't help being jealous —I love him so."

If, instead of excusing myself I had determined to love and trust, I should have been much happier. I loved, but I did not trust—a condition which makes only for unhappiness.

After my visit to the cemetery I had torn up the note I had found pinned to Leola's dress, and which I had put carefully away. It was a little sign of my repentance for having such jealous thoughts, as compared to Mrs. Currie's unselfishness. It was the very last of Leola's personal belongings of which I had cognizance. Everything of hers in the attic had long ago been given away My home had all been done over so that nothing downstairs reminded me of her.

People too had ceased to say anything about "the first Mrs. Graham" or to comment upon my likeness to her—the similarity of our coloring, or the becomingness of sapphire blue. All but Mr. Leveridge; he sometimes still joked about my likeness to Leola. But cared little for anything he could say. There was really nothing now in my life to cause me to think of the "first Mrs. Graham," yet never for long was she absent from my thoughts. Explain it if you can. I cannot. A word often just a look on Everett's face would lead me to imagine he was thinking of her, perhaps loving her in his thoughts; and I would be miserable.

I know these spells of depression worried Everett. More and more, as time went on, did he try to get me to explain WHY I felt so "blue"—as I expressed it—at times.

"I try to make you happy, Sandra Is there anything you want? Anything I can do to prevent these fits of depression?"

"No—it's nothing!" I would assure him, ashamed.

To-morrow—A distressful Scene.

I had been so astonished that Mrs. Currie could calmly carry out her husband's instructions, and at the same time appear happier than at either time I had seen her.

"I am sure I couldn't have done it," I said to myself. Then came the thought: "This woman who knew her husband loved another and yet who did her duty by him, was made happy because she found out that in spite of his love for the other woman, he had ben faithful, always—faithful to her. And really that is what counts, after all. As she had said, people couldn't help loving, but they could help being faithless!"

I compared this woman's husband with Walter Kemp—the careless pleasure-seeking man who trampled on women's hearts with no thought of consequences to them, so long as he was happy. Then I thought of Everett, of how I had misjudged him so many times.

"She isn't as jealous a disposition as I am, "I said of Mrs. Currie, trying to condone my action with the old excuse, not realizing that I made no effort to combat my jealous nature, but gave way to it, thus making it more intensely alive.

I could not dismiss the incident for days. That and Walter Kemp's accident. I had a letter from mother saying that Rose would not return and live with her parents; that she had taken Walter's loss bravely, altho she was inexpressibly grieved.

"Her mother told me, "the letter said" that Rose and Walter had parted amicably that morning. That he had promised to come home early

A VARNISH PUZZLE

The Lost Secret of the Old Time Makers of Violins.

IT MAY NEVER BE DISCLOSED.

This Amazing Mystery, That Defies the Modern Experts, Is the One Thing That Keeps Them From Surpassing the Work of the Ancient Masters.

There must be thousands who wonder why modern manufacturers cannot reproduce the valuable old violins we read so much about, says the Musical Courier. When Ysaye recently inspected the wonderful collection of violins owned by Rudolph Wurlitzer and played on a Ruggiero, a Stradivarius, a Guarnerius, an Amati, and so on, some of our readers may have asked why American makers do not copy those old masters. We reply that every detail of the great Italian makers has been studied for more than 100 years.

We have discovered every secret of the old masters except the recipe for their varnish. That is the mystery. "Surely," claim some of our readers, "this is a secondary consideration. If you have good wood well put together you must have a good violin, no matter what the varnish is!" We shall see. Hills of London, the well known violin experts and makers, in the book "Antonio Stradivari—His Life and Works," say:

"Though the wood and also construction and dimensions be perfect, the result will be astonishingly bad if the instrument be badly varnished. Hence we are disposed to classify the relative importance of material, dimensions and constructions and varnish as follows: First, varnish; second, construction and dimensions; third, material."

So here we have an acknowledged authority stating that the most important factor in the tone of a good violin is the varnish. And does the quality of the lost varnish mean that the old makers were men of genius? Not a bit of it. Apparently they were just good workmen whose product could be equaled today in any civilized country if the varnish could be discovered.

That this secret should be lost is one of the amazing facts of history. It is inconceivable to us that 200 years hence no one will be able to supply the shellac varnish that can be found in any painters' supply shop today. And yet this is what has happened to the varnish used by the Cremona makers. it has simply been forgotten; that is all. It was no secret a few hundred years ago. We find chairs, tables, cabinets and bedsteads of the period covered with the golden, lustrous varnish of Amati and Stradivari.

The old violin makers used it because it was cheap and easy to procure. It began to go out of general use in the sixteenth century because it was found to be too soft for the wear and tear of furniture. It was still used by the violin makers, however, none of whom seems to have left the recipe. Perhaps they did not know it. The average cabinetmaker today need not know how to make the varnish he buys by the gallon. Thus the varnish which was used by the whole Italian nation for two centuries is now an unknown mixture of mysteries.

Whence came the gums and oils of the old Italian varnish? We have reason for believing that they were not indigeneous to the Italian soil. We know that much of the maple used by the violin makers of the day came from Turkey. Stradavari often used the straight grained maple of the Italian Alps for his cheaper instruments. For his wealthy patrons he used a beautiful curly maple that came from Turkey. Why from Turkey? The reason is obvious. Venice and Genoa held command of the eastern trade of Italy. It was cheaper to import maple to Venice by sea than to carry it overland from northern Italy. But when the Venetian oar makers came across a piece of maple too curly to be strong enough they sold it to the violin makers. The beautiful backs of the best Stradivarius violins, therefore, are made from wood that the oar makers rejected.

Now, if the gums and oils of the old varnish came from the orient it would become more and more difficult to procure them in proportion as the Venetian trade diminished. History confirms this theory. The Turks waged a war against the opulent and powerful republic of Venice from 1645 to 1669. For the first thirteen years of the eighteenth century Venice had a certain amount of peace. But in 1718 Venice, by the peace of Passarowitz, abdicated her rank in Europe, became a nonentity in politics and saw her trade begin to dwindle. Venice, the former mighty queen of the Adriatic, lost her great oriental trade.

Is it any wonder that the oriental gums should disappear from her imports when the cabinetmakers no longer used them? The little that the violin makers needed was too small to keep the trade alive. Then in 1750 a patent was given by the king of France to Simon Martin for a period of twenty-five years for the newly discovered process of making the much more durable and glossy copal varnish. That was the finish of the old Italian varnish, wrongly called "Cremona" varnish.

If the secret or lost process of the old varnish makers could be discovered we believe that Guarnerius and Stradivarius and all the rest of them would lose the title of geniuses they have so long enjoyed and be considered merely good workmen. It is as difficult today to make a chair and cover it with the mysterious varnish as it is to reproduce the famous old violins.

The richest women on earth is Mrs. Youe Cuzuki, and it is estimated that she made over thirty million pounds during the war. Possessing a fleet of sixty vessels this middle-aged Japanese woman trades with all the markets of the world and has offices and agents in every capital. She began her business career twenty years ago, when her husband died and left her a sugar refinery, which she sold for 650,000 pounds. With this money she interested herself in shipping and manufacture, steadily building up a fleet and acquiring factories until she became interested in practically every industry in the East. To-day she is the richest woman in the Orient and probably in the world.

The royal command that in future the Royal Welsh Fusiliers will be officially known as the Royal Welsh Fusiliers ends a pretty little quarrel between the War Office and the famous regiment with the "flash". For many years the "c" in its name has been adopted by the regiment, and appears on their badge, but the spelling has never been recognized at Whitehall, and "Welsh" has been the authorized word in the Army list. The only justification for "Welsh" is to be found in an early document relating to the regiment, drawn up in the days when spelling was an affair for whim rather than an exact science.

J. J. MORRISON IS FARMERS' JOSHUA

(By Fred. Griffin, in Star Weekly).

Old Man Ontario is usually pictured as a bewiskered, benevolent sort of rustic individual in overalls and shirt sleeves and holding a hoe. As a matter of fact O.M.O. wears a lounge suit and a mustache exactly modelled on that of Bruce Bairnsfather's Ol' Bill and occupies an office on King street east in the shadow of St. James' Cathedral, where he plays the role of the farmers' fairy godfather.

His real name is J. J. Morrison. Nobody seems to knowk what the initials "J. J." stands for. They have become a kind of mystic combination, an "open sesame" for the farmers to juggle with. For Mr. Morrison is Old Man Ontario.

If "J. J." had lived in the middle ages he would have worn a suit of mail and gone crusading—that is if he had got his mind sufficiently steeped in the necessity for smiting the Saracens.

Just before the U.F.O. convention in December last, while he was engaged in greeting his friends from all over the Province, one of the stenographers in his office stepped up to him and said, "There's some figures I have just found. You'd better put them in your report." Mr. Morrison took the stenographer's advice. He may be the Warwick of the Farmers, the "power behind the throne," the puller of puppet strings, and what not, but he is approachable to the humblest as an image of Buddha, and without the need of a genuflexion.

For in his way, manner and method he is as the bumblest, except that in the equalizing quality of his humility there is an obvious touch of the fighting arrogance that comes from power. It is almost a case of the iron hand in the woollen mitten.

All this reads like a jumble—but why attempt to describe Mr. Morrison by the direct method?

If one did the affair would be simple enough, and something like this: Mr. Morrison was born on a farm, bred on a farm, and has lived on a farm until he has become obsessed with the viewpoint of the farm. He finds himself on a pinnacle of the mountain and instead of raising his eyes to the stars he keeps them fixed on the valleys below. This is really getting our description more mixed up than ever, but it may explain some recent events which have caused Mr. Morrison to loom large in the public eye, for example, his opposition to granting pensions to civil servants, and his lining up of the U.F.O. clubs to vote against increased indemnities for members of the Legislature.

J. J. Morrison was born in July, 1861, in the Township of Peel, Wellington County, the son of an Ulster immigrant, who come to Canada in 1845, and cut his farm out of the bush. The Crown deed of that farm will soon pass out of the hands of the Morrison family, for the farm is now up for sale. "J. J." was the only one out of seven children to stay on the farm. eH had nine children himself, and the last of them is now desirous of leaving the farm. Hence the desire to sell.

In his youth Mr. Morrison tried out life in Toronto for a while, but he soon returned to the farm. He became interested in the old Patrons movement, and the Grange, and always a heart was the idea that the farmers should be organized. Finally it was decided that the time was ripe for launching the move, and a litlte group of men, of whom Morrison was one, aided by a grant of $500 from the Western Grain Grows, set it going in the winter of 1913-14. Morrison had already shown capacity for organization and leadership. So it was decided that he should stump the Province that winter, visit farmers' clubs and preach the doctrine of united action. As a result, in March, 1014, about 200 farmers met in the Labour Temple, Toronto, and the United Farmers of Ontario was formed. A little more than five years later they were running the Government of the Province.

It is an open secret that after the election victory of last fall Mr. Morrison might have been Premier of Ontario. Two reasons are given as to why he did not accept the post that was in a sense logically his, both to his credit. One is that if he had stepped up he could have been accused of building a temple for his own glorification. The other, and according to his friends the real reason, is that the U.F.O. was still in the formative stage at the time, immature, incompletely developed with the strings in his hands. If he had let go, the young giant might have toddled over the precipice of disunion and chaos.

Morrison's Hold.

He has often declared that the biggest job of the lot is to be secretary of the U.F.O., and he does not want anything bigger.

Where does J. J. Morrison's hold on the farmers lie? He is strong on logic. He will take figures and put them in a shape that his audiences will understand. Listen to him in action some time at a U.F.O. convention, and you will agree that he is convincing. Farmers do not always conduct their meetings like Parliamentarians or business men. It is probably because they are a little lacking in the rules of the game. Men here and there in the audience are inclined to fly off at a tangent or go chasing rainbows. But Morrison can always lead them back to the point and keep them there with his logic like a shepherd controlling wayward sheep.

He is intensely sincere. He has a hatred of vested interests and the privileged classes. He is for the under dog, and the under dog to him is the farmer. No missionary fired with zeal for his cause ever went out with more enthusiasm. As a result he is perhaps narrow in his views hat is at once his strength and his weakness.

The farmers' Joshua, he has led them to the Promised Land. But even from that delightful paradise he cannot refrain from a desire to whack the Amalekites hip and thigh And, perhaps again, the Philistines are those of us who are not farmers.

His Grip on Farmers.

But his real grip on the farmers is in his everday homeliness. "You know me," he shouted out once to a Massey Hall audience of his fellows on whom he was impressing the fact that the U.F.O. had grown so big that he could no longer call them all by their first names. "My face is so ugly that you can't forget it." A gale of laughter swept the hall. He had scored a direct hit, and he knew it.

"You're like a man who has a plateful of soup and is about to spill it," he warned them when there was a sign of dissension over some matter. They got the point at once His speech sparkles with illustrations from the farm. His wit (and this is said without offence) is that of the sable and the barn. He gets it across aptly, convincingly and with punch. Goodness take care of the city man who tried to heckle him before a body of farmers. When J. J. was through the city gent would be hiking to bury his head beyond the farthest concession lines.

He is in a sense a student. He is fond of classical allusion, but always in a fireside way. "A fellow called Cicero once said 'Produce more,' but that didn't prevent the Romans from falling into dry rot," he told his friends once when speaking of the campaign with regard to greater production being boosted in the cities. The point is very evident. Drummond's "Natural Life in the Spiritual World" is one of his favorite books. He has fought his way through the fog of economics that beclouded most people and reduced them to terms of farmer-lore easily appreciated. Add to all this his remarkable faculty for remembering names and faces, and you have a glimmering of his hold over the farmers.

Mrs. Morrison's

In a meeting he will play on their frailties. He will take more time explaining—and he will rouse more enthusiasm—how he managed to arrange with the railway companies for a cut in their transportation than he will over a dissertation on the budget. He will tell them elaborately every dollar and cent it costs to run the annual convention. Always he has the farmers' knowledge that it succeed one must needs look after the cents, for the dollars will look after themselves

Once, away back, J. J. Morrison and his father drove in a rig to a polling booth. The father voted Conservative and the son Liberal It was probably the first time the son had shown that he was not going to take his politics ready made

Mr. Morrison is giving the farmers all that is in him, and for little in the way of personal reward except possibly in the sense of duty done and of power. For a year or so in the early days of the movement all he got was the wages of the hired man who took his place on the farm Later he was given $1,000. Now he has a salary of $2,500. He needs a letter of introduction to his family. For a year or more he has practically never had a meal with them. The office claims him early and late.

Mrs. Morrison has bravely borne her share of the struggles of the U.F.O. She never gets on the platform or in the spotlight, but her self-sacrifice is one of her husband's assets. The U.F.O. recognizing this sent her down with her husband last year to the Maritimie Provinces for a holiday.

WANT CONTINUATION OF WHEAT CONTROL

WINNIPEG, June 2. — Asserting that the Canadian Wheat Board cannot exercise control over 1920 crop unless its authority is renewed at the present session of Parliament, the executive committee of the Canadian council of Agriculture to-night telegraphed the Dominion Government urging that the neecssary steps be taken to have Government control over the wheat crop continued for at least another year.

The resolution asserts that "there is no indication of the lifting of governmental control of buying on the part of countries importing Canadian wheat so as to effect the marketing of the net crop."

MONKEY IN COURT PROVED AN UNRELIABLE WITNESS.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Minnie, a bare-legged, red-jacketed, green-capped monkey, subpoenaed as star witness for the prosecution in a gambling case to-day, successfully wrecked the dignity of Magistrate Frothingham's Court.

Minnie was supposed to show she aided her owner in conducting lottery games of chance by pulling out of a box numbered balls upon which participants had placed bets.

Instead, this was what Minnie did do. She leaped on to the Magistrate's desk, causing him to duck, drained a bottle of ink, hurled at an attendant a glass of water he handed her as a chaser, tore the coat of a detective ordered to arrest her, and finally departed from the Court screeching.

Long coat suits are usually trimmed with braid.

Edison Goods Unaffected by Tax

The present selling prices of THE NEW EDISON and records will not be changed by the new tax lately imposed on Phonographs. On these lines the dealers have already been paying a war tax of 7½ per cent., also an excise tax of 10 per cent., both of which were abolished when the new tax became effective. That made only an additional tax of 2½ per cent., part of which has been assumed by the wholesaler and part by the Greene Music Company,

Leaving Edison Prices the Same as Before

This applies to both Instruments and Records, and our large circle of customers will be pleased to know that they can buy their favorite Phonographs, and Records for them, without an increase on the prices that prevailed for the past few months. We would like to demonstrate a New Edison for you, either in our comfortable special Demonstration Parlours or in your home.

We sell at an unchanged scale of prices, and give you time accommodation to pay for it if desired.

$10,000 LOAN FROM CITY FOR NEW INDUSTRY HERE

OTONABEE MILLS LIMITED ARE STARTING OPERATIONS IN EAST CITY.

Mr. J. L. Hopwood and W. G. Worth waited on the Manufacturers' committee last night asking for a loan of $10,000 from the city to build a worsted spinning and yarn manufactury in East City to be known as the Otonabee Mills Ltd. This company, which has been recently organized, has an authorized capital of $100,000. The Peterborough Machine and Lubricator Co. building, which has been used to start, has been found to be too small, and it is contemplated to build a one story tile structure 100 feet by 60, which will employ 20 hands within two months and 30 within 6 months. Mr. Hopwood explained that they had $15,000 worth of machinery in transit and the property and building was valued at $6,000. The concern once it got on its feet was bound to be a going thing and a continued expansion was looked for. The $10,000 would be repaid in 10 annual instalments of $1,000 with interest at 6 p.c. The first instalment to be due Jan. 1, 1922.

After considering the application fully a fixed assessment of $8,000 for 10 years was granted, the amount at first being set at $10,000.

It was moved by Ald. Turner, seconded by Ald. Phelan, that the resolution be prepared recommending that a loan to the company and that the proper conveyances be drawn up and a by-law submitted to the ratepayers.

Voice Of The People

June 3rd, 1920.

Editor, Examiner:

I have just returned from spending a very pleasant hour at the community dance on Simcoe street, and I wish to give my testimony on the opposite side to "Citizen." I am not a dancer, but thank goodness I can take pleasure in the pleasure of other people. More power to the elbow of those that started these dances, and may we have lots more of them, notwithstanding the sniffles of the Pharisees and kill joys.

Yours truly,

COMMUNITY DANCE.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—In reply to the letter written by "Citizen" in last night's Examiner re Community Dancing, it seems remarkable to me how ready and willing some people are to condemn the innocent pleasures of others. If the writer can find anything objectionable to dancing or the dance held on Wednesday night, which I am given to understand, was rendered on behalf of a worthy cause, would it be out of place to state what his objections are? It is these kind of people who would rob the world of every pleasure it held if it did not happen to appeal to their fancy. Councillors, treat this matter with the contempt it deserves.—Yours truly,

Another Citizen.

NEUTRALIZE ACIDS IN YOUR STOMACH

GET RID OF INDIGESTION

Few people realize the importance of keeping the stomach free from excessive hydrochloric acid. Yet acid stomach is the cause of nine-tenths of all stomach troubles. The food sours and ferments bringing on Gas, Heartburn, Bloating, Indigestion and the stomach pains that every sufferer knows so well. Pepsin and artificial digestents are not needed. They give only temporary relief and often do great harm.

Neutralize or sweeten the stomach acids after eating with a glass of warm or hot Magnesia water. A teaspoonful or four tablets of pure Bisurated Magnesia to a glass of water is all that is required. Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist and try this for a few weeks. Eat what you want and enjoy your meals.

UNLOADING OF CIRCUS TRAINS A GREAT TASK

HAGENBECK-WALLACE WORKMEN HAVE EXACT DUTIES.

Most interesting of all incidents on circus day, and which is free to all who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity, is the arrival and unloading of three special trains bearing the paraphernalia and animals for the majestic Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, which is to exhibit here on Tuesday, 8th June.

One must witness the unloading of these special trains to realise all the paraphernalia necessary for this show to carry in order to present its mammoth exhibition. And in the witnessing of this work one is declared scarcely capable of realising the skill necessary in the loading and packing of the cars.

Every animal cage, every waggon, every trunk, every tent, and every piece of material must be placed in an exact location. To have any article vary an inch necessitates the reloading of a car, it is said.

Much time and work is reported devoted in the winter months in arranging the details. As the complete programme is arranged, work is commenced in laying out the cars. As the opening date draws near, the workers are drilled in the loading of the paraphernalia. Every workman has his exact duty to perform, and it must be done like clockwork. Every article must be placed at a definite moment.

It is assumed that in no industry is as much material placed on three special trains as is carried on the cars bearing the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus.

A downtown ticket office will be opened during its stay here at Hooper's, 414 George Street, where the price will be the same as on the Exhibition Grounds.

KICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

THE BUSY BUDGETEERS

By H. F. GADSBY

Five Finance Ministers—five, count 'em, five——Drayton, Foster, White, Fielding and Maclean, looked on while a budget, brave but belated, made its way through the House.

Not once did Sir Henry refer to it as "my budget" as certain other Finance Ministers have been in the habit of doing. Nor did he say "our budget" which he might have done as reflecting the great wisdom of the Cabinet, or back of that the common sense of the people. Sir Henry was a modest spokesman.

The outstanding fact is that the budget ceases to borrow and begins to tax. The light has come late to Union Government, but it has come at last. The light had a hard job penetrating the thick skull of Union Government, and would no doubt still be excluded if public opinion had not used an axe and made a cleavage. It is an open secret that six months ago the Government was sweet on another domestic loan, but the clamor against it was so great that they changed their minds and did as much of the right thing as it was possible for an outfit of compromisers to do. The policy of borrowing from Peter to pay Paul has received, let us hope, a final check. The Government has been acting just a little like a drunken sailor. The inebriate mariner squanders his own money, but the Government has been squandering ours. But now the fat times of easy money are all over and we are down to brass tacks again.

Hobson's Choice.

The Government was confronted by three alternatives—borrow more money and injure our credit, repudiate the interest on the War bonds and ruin thousands of investors, or tax. they taxed everybody—because everybody means a lot of money and the millionaires are comparatively few. When a Government wants a great deal of money it gets it from the poor who are a multitude, not from the rich who are only a small group. They taxed everybody, I repeat, but certain purple Tories will not have it that way. They complain that everybody was taxed except the farmer, whose arable land should be tolled, say fifty cents an acre. They have no patience with the argument that it would keep people off the land because, as they say, it would be simple enough to exempt the new settler for five years until he got on his feet, after which he could share the white man's burden in the usual way.

Tariff Wall High.

The greatest taxing instrument of all—the tariff—is not changed save for the repeal of the war customs duty of seven and a half per cent. ad valorem. Considering the exchange, which is ten points against us in the United States—our biggest customer—the protection is still about forty-five per cent., which seems enough in all conscience. Tariff investigation is promised—one step on the way to tariff revision—but the investigation is likely to be a leisurely matter. The tariff advisory board, which has much to recommend it, is still some distance in the future.

The business profits war tax is continued at reduced rates. Criticism on this point varies between abolishing the tax altogether and shifting it to income and giving the tax a more intelligent treatment, as for examole, removing it on goods for export. The latter course, it is claimed, would have the effect of building up our export trade, correcting the exchange between Canada and the United States, and attracting American manufacturers to this side of the line to take advantage of our favorable export trade conditions. The suggestion was made to the Government but for some obscure reason it was turned down.

The luxury tax aroused most comment—the possible evasions, the inquisitorial methods, the difficulty of collection—but the deliberate opinion seems to be that it is a wise tax and will have the effect of bringing down high prices. This tax comes right round to the retailer who has been in clover for five years and, who—so his critics say—should not object to being put on stubble now. The chances are that the retailer, finding that his customers will not buy high priced articles with the tax atop, will scale his goods down so that they will be comfortably inside the tax limit.

May Reduce the H. C. of L.

The luxury tax is avowedly part of the plan to bring down the high cost of living which has reached the top of the toboggan slide and is due for a swift descent. The factors in this highly desirable reform are (1) the workingman who has come to the end of his paper money jag and can no longer afford to buy eighteen dollar shirts, (2) the employer who will soon be able to pull down the sign "Men wanted," (3) the average citizen who has ceased buying sooner than submit to further extortions, (4) the banks who are tightening up on the credits. These are four rays of hope and if the Government would do a little more by weeding out the Civil Service, firing the spongers in the various war bureaux—many of which are scandalously over-staffed—and retrenching generally, we should be well on our way back to normal conditions.

Sir George Foster has the principle at heart although he falls down as to practise. In one of these sunset glow speeches with which he warms our hearts ever and anon, the Elder Brother told the members of Parliament to preach economy to their constituents—admonish them to work more and spend less, and above all not to pester the Government for expenditures on public works. From time to time Sir Thomas White has said the same thing and the wonder is that advice so good has not had its effect at Ottawa. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander, and the Government should set the example. Was it Plato who made the remark, or somebody nearer home—"Do as I say, not as I do." I am always reminded of it when I hear these counsels of thrift from a Government that can't make ends meet on four hundred million dollars a year.

The budget debate developed no surprises. Everybody said what was expected of him. There were no conversions, no crossing the floor f beyond their control.

Ready fer th' Summer and the blazin'

Ready fer th' singin' of th' orioles an'

Natur', buddin' bravely, holds her

There with force etarnal t' supply th'

But seems as folks ain't tryin' t' give

They ain't a bit devoted to a shovel

Snakin' in th' dollars jes' t' git a dollar

Diggin' fer' th' pennies in a palace or

Every stop t' think about th 'tenderness an' care
Little seeds require fer t' get them

DISGUSTED WITH THE GOVERNMENT

IMPERIAL VETERANS' SECRETARY SAYS MEN WILL FORCE AN ELECTION.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 4.—H. B. Willing, Dominion secretary-treasurer of the Imperial Veterans in Canada, leaves this morning for the west after having been here for the purpose of testifying before the House special committee on pensions and re-establishment.

"I am going home," said Mr. Willing in an interview, "disgusted with the government. I came down here in the spirit and belief that the government was willing to do what returned veterans wanted them to do. I am leaving with the idea that the committee in question did not want to discuss broad issues. When things were said they did not like, they tried to bring the discussion to matters of minor detail and so obscure the issue. The whole thing was in the line of petty quibbling.

"The returned men are now determined to force the government to go to the country. Our Association does not believe as a rule in taking political action, but there are times when such is demanded by circumstances, and this is one of the times."

WILL PROTECT LAND RIGHTS OF INDIANS

ENFRANCHISEMENT WILL BE COMPULSORY, BUT NOT ARBITRARY.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 3.—Recommendations which will settle the status of Indians in Canada, so far as enfranchisement and compulsory education are concerned, are understood to be planned in the report of the special committee, which has been sitting here for several weeks on amendments to the Indian Act, and which will hold its final meeting some time next week before reporting to the Commons.

Among the important items likely to be recommended is the establishment of a standing committee on Indian affairs. This was asked by several delgates who appeared before the committee as a means of giving the Indians a chance to express themselves to Parliament on any question affecting their welfare. Hitherto the only course they have had has been to apply through the Indian Department. From now on they will have direct access to Parliament.

Another important item which is understood to be in the report is the compulsory education clause.

The principle of compulsory enfranchisement is to be adopted, but there will be no arbitrary proceedings. When before the committee several representatives of tribes were under the impression that the agent-general was to have almost Czar-like power in dictating who should be made a citizen. The committee has left no room for doubt, however, that it has no desire to break up any reserve or prejudice the land rights of members of any tribes. To this end a Board of Three, composed of a Government representative, a member of the band to which the man affected belongs, and another to be chosen by the Indian Department, shall decide the man's status. The man is then to be allowed two years in which to appeal.

ASPHALT SURFACE ON MACADAM AND GRAVAL ROADS RECOMMENDED

THIS PRACTICE NOT A NEW ONE—MANY CITIES HAVE ADOPTED AND PROVED ITS SUCCESS—THE ROAD NEEDS LITTLE PREPARATION FOR ASPHALT SURFACE.

During the present year many municipalities, county councils, and suburban area commissions are contemplating, and in many instances will improve with new surfaces, roads and streets under their jurisdiction. Many types of paving will come up for consideration, all of which have advanced considerably in price during the last few years, due to increased costs of materials and labour.

Before deciding on any type of paving, the officials responsible should not overlook the fact that many of the roads which they propose to rebuild, are of macadam or gravel, on which for a number of years new stone or gravel has been spread, and which has become well consolidated, and though unsuitable for further use as surfaces, will make an excellent foundation for a modern road surface.

Asphalt Surface.

Old macadam and gravel roads which have a sufficient thickness of the old metal (about ten inches of gravel or six or eight inches of macadam) and on which the drainage has been properly taken care of, can be used for foundations for aspalt macadam, asphaltic concrete, or sheet asphalt surfaces. The practice of using old macadam and gravel roads and streets as foundations for high-class surfaces, is not new. In 1890, the City of New York re-surfaced a number of streets with sheet asphalt, which gave excellent service for over twenty years. In 1912 the Borough of 'Queen's; New York City, commenced a programme of re-surfacing old macadam, and to date have over eighty miles of macadam re-surfaced with sheet asphalt and asphaltic concrete. The City of Detroit has, since 1913, re-surfaced over 300,000 square yards of old macadam with sheet asphalt. The greater portion of the Columbia River Highway (Oregon) is surfaced with Warrenite bitulithic over old macadam roads. In Canada, many pavements and roads have also been constructed in this manner. University Avenue, Queen's Park, and the Eaton Highway are constructed of asphaltic concrete over old macadam. Ten miles of the St. Augustine Highway is also of alphaltic concrete over old macadam. Contracts have been awarded this year for the construction of two miles of this type of paving on the Kingston Road, out of Toronto; three miles onthe Weston Road, out of Toronto; and for two miles on the Richmond Road leading out of Ottawa.

It would appear that modern road-builders are satisfied with the results obtained by the pioneers in this type of road construction, in that they are adopting this method wherever possible.

How to Prepare Road.

In preparing old macadam or gravel surfaces, it is advisable to disturb the surface as little as possible; should the centre of the road, or the crown, be too high, it should be scarified lightly, and the loosed stone used in building up the sides. Holes and depressions are cleaned out, filled with stone, and well rolled. The asphaltic surface is then laid.

At the present day cost of new foundations, it would appear that engineers and others in charge of road building should thoroughly investigate the excellent results obtained by re-surfacing existing roads, before tearing up the old macadam or gravel, to put down new and costly foundations, thereby losing an investment of from ten to seventeen thousand dollars per mile.

GIVE IRELAND CONTROL OF POLICE THREE YEARS AFTER BILL IS LAW

LONDON, June 3.—The greater part of the evening was devoted by the Commons to the discussion of the status of the Irish Police under the Home Rule Bill, and the fact that neither the Labourites, The Nationalists, nor the supporters of Herbert H. Asquith are effectually participating in the debates did not prevent occasional warm and acrimonious passages. The absence of criticism from the Opposition benches, however, is speeding the progress of the Bill.

The Government finally accepted an amendment providing that the transfer of the constabulary should not be earlier than three years from the Bill's coming into operation, and Walter Hume Long, as spokesman for the Government, promised favourable consideration for Sir Edward Carson's suggestion that, instead of being transferred to the Irish Parliaments, the constabulary should be disbanded and compensated, and the two Parliaments allowed their own police forces when by identical act they called for the change.

During the ourse o the disussion Mr. Long declared that if an attempt were made to use the Bill to establish an Irish Republic, the Bill would be suspended and the Imperial Parliament would take the steps necessary to restore law and order. He also warmly repudiated a member's suggestion that the Irish Police were not allowed to shoot in self-defence. There was not a shadow of foundation for such suspicion, he asserted. On the contrary, the Police had shot with good effect, and he hoped would shoot again if occasion requered.

Minister to Control Police.

A heated discussion then arose over control of the police during the transition period. The Bill proposes that control be invested in a committee of five. Eir Edward Carson moved to omit this provision, and wanted to know what would occur if the southern Parliament declined to appoint officials for the purpose.

Mr. Long explained that in the event of such refusal the King would appoint one official and the Secretary of State two others to control the Police.

The Government proposal was assailed by a stream of hostile criticism, and a vain attempt was made to adjourn the debate.

Lord Hugh Cecil denounced the Government proposal as the worst that wit of man could devise. Finally the storm was allayed by Mr. Long consenting favourably to consider the suggestion that during transition control of the Police should be vested in a single Minister instead of a committee.

Sir Edward Carson thereupon agreed to withdraw his motion, and in welcoming the Government's concession protested scathingly against the absence from the debate of "the politicians, because they disapprove the Bill, and particularly of the great statesmen who were accountable for the Act of 1914."

In the subsequent discussion of Clause Ten, Premier Lloyd-George said the Government would certainly introduce the promised Irish Land Purchase Bill before the Home Rule Bill left the House of Commons.

MOTHER!

"California Syrup of Figs" Child's Best Laxative

Accept "California" Syrup of Figs only—look for the name California on the package, then you are sure your child is having the best and most harmless physic for the little stomach, liver and bowels. Children love its fruity taste. Full directions on each bottle. You must say "California."

Constipation

It is a disease-producing malady, and if not corrected may result in serious complications. In good health the bowels should move freely at least once every day, carrying away the waste products from the Blood and Liver. If this function fails or is irregular, the work of removing the poisons falls on the Skin and Kidneys, with the result of the latter organs becoming congested and clogged. The Blood becomes poisoned. Indigestion sets in, the Kidneys become deranged, and a severe if not fatal illness is brought on. DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS correct this trouble by its action on the Liver, causing a healthy flow of Bile, and exerting a soothing and toning influence on the whole Intestinal Track.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are put up in three sizes—25c, 50c, $1.00 per Box. For sale at Warne's Drug Store, Peterborough.

MARRIED LIFE IS AN ART, MANY SAY

MR. AND MRS. FAIRBANKS MEET REPORTERS IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, June 4.—"Our happiness is so much bigger than the troubles following in its wake that there is no room for the slightest regret.

"Was it worth taking the chance to win? Real love is always worth the chance. It is the one thing in life worth while."

Mary, of the movies, gazed into the depths of the lemonade glass, gingerly captured the maraschino in the bottom, and remarked that although she wasn't a good cook, she could boil water, and that while she couldn't sew worth a button, she didn't have to, "'cause I can make more money in the pictures."

And husband Douglas Fairbanks, with a picture of what the newly organized United Artists Inc., is going to offer in the form of dividends, grinned and said he thought that was about right.

Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks arrived today at the Ritz, after a jaunt across country from Hollywood, Cal. The screen couple invited reporters to the Ritz to sip lemonade and hear all about what's been happening to Mary and Doug. these last few months.

The tearful, wistful, little lady of the silent drama, wasn't a bit tearful or a bit wistful. She was, you might say, decidedly chipper. After some pictures on the roof, she said: "How do I regard married life? Well, married life is an art. It is something that must be carefully attended to. Nope, I am not going to write a book, or anything else. Everybody seems to be writing something these days.

"Politics and religion are two things," remarked Mrs. Fairbanks, "that are strictly non-interviewable."

"Mother," who was there also, said Mary, "is the business brains. I just second the motion she offers," and she went on to tell how much money it takes to bring out a movie. She said there are times when a big staff of extras are camping round Hollywood, when the Pickford-Fairbanks payroll leaving Mary's stipend out of it, runs to $10,000 a week. And, again, there are times when Mary's time is worth $100 a minute.

Then Doug. himself comes into the picture. He has a bunch of California tan, grey cheeks and grin. He talked like he acts—fast and full of ambition. Get him on married life:

"Well," he lighted a cigarette like Bill Hart does, "Mack Sennett's just named a picture—Married Life: Not a war picture,' Good, isn't it? I agree with Sennett."

There was a lot of conversation like that; but, after all, the main thing is that Doug. and Mary have come east for awhile to elect a new president of the United Artists—formed to handle the output of Fairbanks, Pickford, Chaplin, et al.

WAR ON SHOE PRICES

WALK-EASY SHOE CO. MAKE SENSATIONAL CUT IN FOOTWEAR.

Without any apologies to Mr. High Cost of Living ,the Walk-Easy Shoe Co., 330 George Street, have started a pitched battle against advancing costs in footwear. It looks as if this might likely be the most aggressive attack on prices of shoes in Peterborough since the war. It will be "a fight to the finish." This greatest of footwear sales starts to-morrow, when thousands of dollars worth of summer shoes for men, women, youths, and children will be offered at almost unbelievable prices for the sake of the ready cash.

Walk-Easy's ofotwear prices, as many know, have always been below the standard prices, but the full brunt of this June attack all along the line will smash all previous low price records. Every pair of shoes in the two stores will be slashed for this sensational event . Take a few examples: Men's shoes in newest shapes, with Goodyear welted soles, that were $10.00 and $15.00 models, will be sold at from $8.00 to $10.50.

Ladies' walking Oxfords, with Goodyear welt soles, in the straight tip lasts and medium heels, that were $10.00 to $12.00 models, will be sold at from $5.50 to $8.50.

Ladies' and Misses' canvas sport Oxfords, made of fine quality reinskin, with long recede round toes; also pumps and Oxfords, with medium or French heels, will be sold for from $2.50 to $3.50.

There is about $20,000.0 owroth of high-grade footwear to be shot out at similar sacrifices to the above. Look for fuller particulars to-morrow in a large page advertisement, but don't neglect the opening day's offerings to-morrow.

SHIPMENT OF CHOCOLATE BARS BACK TO CANADA

Sold on this Side at a Sacrifice.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 3. — Candies have been temporarily reduced in price despite the tax imposed on them by the budget.

The cause of the reduction is that a huge shipment of chocolate bars was made to Britain, later returned to Canada and sold at a sacrifice because the bank was pressing the manufacturer for repayment of a $200,000 loan. ut the candy manufacturers, it is said, are already scheming to beat the cut in price and the next batch of chocolate bars is to be smaller. The retail price has recently been six cents a bar.

HOW TO GROW SPINACH THROUGHOUT SUMMER.

Spinach is one of the oldest of garden vegetables. Few persons, however, know its merits. Doctors everywhere advise eating spinach in spring rather than taking drugs. Spinach is perhaps the best vegetable carrier of iron that we have.

Spinach requires rich soil. It is the one crop above all that I like to feed with nitrate of soda, although plenty of good, well-rotted stable manure does fairly well. It is best to soak the seed at least half a day before sowing. I sow thinly, broadcast or in drills.

Spinach may be sown any time from early spring till late fall, provided that the proper variety is used for the particular season concerned. Victoria and Long Standing are best for spring and fall sowing. Fall sown spinach must, of course, be protected with a mulch of leaves or straw, and is not practicable in the coldest districts.

The best spinach for summer sowing is not a true spinach, but a type of vegetable that closely resembles it and known as New Zealand spinach. This type stands the hot weather better than the regular varieties and is well worth a trial in any garden. All leading seedsmen offer this type through their catalogues.—A. B. C.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Mixed Sulphur With it to Restore Color, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

SADNESS SHADOWS THE LOUTH ELECTION.

Recent Disaster to Little Town Stopped Further Electioneering.

LONDON, June 3.—Probably polling in a by-election has never taken place under sadder surroundings than at Louth to-day. The recent disaster to the little Lincolnshire town, due to the rising of the River Lud, caused both candidates to abandon further electioneering.

The contest in any case has been the quietest. The fight is a straight one between the Coalitionists and Independent Liberals.

Louth is a huge agricultural constituency, which has often yielded poll surprises. The late member, Captain Brackenbury, secured a majority of fifteen hundred in the general election.

The Colonial Office list of honours, which was published to-day, contains no Canadian names, but a number of knighthoods, etc., go to other dominions.

FOURTH STRAIGHT WIN FOR THE LEAGUE WINNERS

THISTLES HAVE LITTLE TROUBLE IN TAKING SCALPS OF CANADIAN WOOLENS IN CITY LEAGUE FIXTURE—SCORE WAS 16 TO 2, THE WINNERS GETTING TEN RUNS IN THE FIFTH INNINGS.

Somebody will have to stop Louis Yeotes' hard-hitting Thistles or they will be so far out in front of the City League race that the rest of the teams won't be able to get a glimpse of their heels. They won last night's fixture with the Canadian Woollens, the first twilight game this season, in hollow fashion, by 16 runs to 2, the game being called on account of darkness at the end of the sixth.

It wasn't a bad ball game up to the fifth, when the Thistles broke loose and scored ten runs. The score was 5 to 2 in their favour when the big innings came along and took any possible chance for excitement out of the game. The Yeotes' gang scored nearly twice as many counters in that one session as have been registered against them in four games.

Gilchrist, the youngster who beat the C.G.E. outfit on Saturday, was sent out to stop the Thistles. His support was livid and the Thistles bunched timely hits with the errors of their opponents, while Gilchrist slipped in half a dozen wild pitches where they would do the most harm. At that Gilchrist had a lot of stuff on the ball and fanned seven men in the first three innings, retiring the side on strikes in the third.

Kirn pitched the first four innings for the Thistles, allowing only two hits and two runs, while Hap Harrison blanked the Woollen men in the last two innings, although they filled the bases with only one out in the sixth.

How the runs were scored would be too long a story. The box score supplies most of the details. Notable features, however, were the batting of Sheehy and Kirn for the winners, a fast double play engineered by Holyman, Sheehy and Harrison and a nice catch of a hard smash from Swanston's bat by Kennedy. Kirn had the unusual feat of making two doubles in one innings, both of the two base clouts driving in a pair of counters. The first time up in the fifth he drove a double to deep left, and coming up again in the same inningse he smashed one over Heenan's head in centre field. Hap Harrison also had two doubles to his credit. Mike Sheehy, playing his first game of the season for the Thistles, hit safely the first four times up and did some nice fielding as well.

The score was as follows:

Thistles.	AB	R	H	PO	A	E

THISTLES VS. C.G.E. ON MONDAY NIGHT

GAME HAS BEEN SWITCHED FROM TUESDAY ON ACCOUNT OF THE CIRCUS.

On account of the circus next Tuesday, the City League game between Thistles and Canadian General teams scheduled for Tuesday night, has been switched to Monday night, and the teams will meet at 6.15. A win for the Thistles will put them so far ahead that the race will be a hopeless one, and the Canadian General, realizing that fact will be out with their strongest line-up in an effort to stop the flying leaders. The Thistles won the last clash with the Electrcians by 9 to 2, but the C.G.E. expect a different result on Monday night.

WAR VETERANS DEFEATED THE MACHINE GUNNERS LAST EVENING

VETS START WITH EIGHT MEN—GUNNERS COULD NOT SCORE—HALF-TIME NO SCORING—CURTISS AND MONK'S EFFECTIVE PLAY—FLOWERS BRILLIANT—M'LEISH MISSED A PENALTY—VETS WON FOUR GOALS TO NOTHING.

A very interesting Football League Fixture was played last evening at Nicholls' Oval between the Machine Gunners and the Great War Veterans This game was very important to the two teams because winning it would place them in a very good position in the league. The Veterans started the game with only nine men owing to non-appearance of players and the Gunners at full strength.

The Teams.

G.W.V.A.—C Griffine goal; H. Gamble and P. D. Ryan backs; A. Burrows, A. Piggott and J. Peel, half backs. S. Curtiss., F Monks, H. Norman, N. Jones and J. Sharman forwards.

Machine Gunners;—W. Flowers, goal; J. Crowe and R. H. Perry backs N. Metcalfe, R. G. McLeish and Hilliard Darling half-backs; Wm. Darling R. Payne, L. Frazer, E. Bell and Harold Darling forwards.

The Game.

The Gunners won the toss and decided to play with the wind and Norman set the play agoing with a raid on Flowers goal for Perry to clear to midfield where a foul was awarded to the Vets. Ryan pointed the ball wide past the mark. On a breakway on the Gunners left, Gamble played Harold Darling offside. The Vets back placed across to Sharman who beat Metcalfe on the run but he was stopped nicely by Crowe, who in return gave an opportunity to Wm. Darling to go to the other end but it travelled over touch. From the throw-in Ryan cleared. With the Vets only eight men, the Gunners pressed the defence and during the attacks Metcalfe had two good tries for goal.

A Heading Feature.

Just a few minutes afterwards, in front of the Vets goal the players indulged in nice play by heading backwards and forwards until Harry Gamble jumped into clear with a punt up the field. Two corners in succession by Metcalfe for the Gunners were fruitless. A foul against Sharman was taken by McLeish, who let drive for goal that was cleared by the Vets defence. At this point of play Monks went on the field. The right wing was strengthened now and was not long in letting Perry know when the Vets raided the Gunners defence. Perry cleared to McLeish who lost the ball to Ryan who passed to Sharman only to be relieved of it by Crowe. Then following an offside decision, Crowe lashed to Bell across to Harold Darling with Harry Gamble stopping a nice play and beating two men landed to ball to Norman's foot and McLeish clearing. The same play was repeated the next time down with the difference that the Vets right back staggered Harold Darling with a shoulder touch to let the ball go past. Burrows now forced the issue and with a long drive tested Flowers for the first time.

Gamble Played a Great Game.

An individual run by Harold Darling left Gamble in a bad position that gave left winger a fine chance to lash the ball across to Frazer who was slow in accepting it. Griffin saved a nice one from H. Darling a few minutes later.

Half-time — Machine Gunners, 0, Veterans 0.

Half-Time.

The Vets now were playing with the wind and changed around Piggott to centre-half and Norman to his usual position. Twice Flowers had to save in quick succession from Curtiss and Monks. Perry cleared to W. Darling who travelled along the line until Peel put to touch. From the throw-in the ball went to mid-field and in his endeavour ot clear Piggott handled— the resulting kick was out past. Quick as a flash Curtiss sprinted down the wing along with Monks who placed the ball to the outside right on the run and let drive with a rocket shot for Flowers to handle nicely for Metcalfe to swing across to the left-winger to put over touch.

Sharman Scored.

Following a throw-in, Curtiss got a corner-kick from Perry and placing a beauty in front of goal to Norman who headed to Sharman to get a drop kick for the opening goal. A little while later a foul against Norman looked dangerous for the Vets with Griffine coming out of his goal to clear.

McLeish Missed a Penalty

On a raid on the Vets goal the Gunners were awarded a penalty-kick With Griffine standing ready, McLeish lashed the ball over the crossbar. Nice combination on the right wing forced a corner and Curtiss sent across a rocket shot for Norman to put the Vets two ahead A raid by the Gunners was stopped by Gamble and in a melee Metcalfe handled the ball: Burrows shot across the goal for Jones to add number three.

The Gunners Pressed.

Frazer accepting a nice pass from McLeish, he broke through the defence but was to dilatory in parting shot. Ryan cleared to Sharman who in turn was checked by the Gunners defence. Play was transferred to the Vets end again with E. Bell missing the upright with a low ground shot. From a throw-in Curtiss outwitted the defence and made Flowers filng himself at the ball to clear. Exchanges were even until five minutes to go Norman made the Vets total four—G.W.V.A. 4 goals; Machine Gunners 0.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

The Vets started the game with only eight men—Jones and Monks appeared on the field after 10 minutes play and Piggot before half-time.

Bishop and Edwards reported themselves unfit that necessitated last minute changes.

The brilliant goal-keeping of Walter Flowers was a feature of the game. Just imagine, the Gunners goal keeper dropping the ball after saving it is an unusual thing for him.

During the game Monks was stunned with a face in the second half and he did not remember anything until the finish.

The outstanding player on the field was Curtiss of the Vets who was well supported by Monks—they are a good wing

Gamble was the best full-back on the field with Perry not far behind.

The Machine Gunners were not the team of the last two games. They could do nothing right and combination was lackinug.

LOCAL FOOTBALL GOSSIP

TWO GOOD GAMES FOR SATURDAY—OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST.

The De Laval will be the guests of the Caledonians on Saturday, kick-off at 3 o'clock, at the Exhibition Grounds.

The C.G.E. team will not be picked until just before the game, owing to a number of the players working on Saturday evening, they find great difficulty in getting new players

In all probability the Machine Gun team will be the same as did duty on Thursday evening against the Vets They intend getting the two points.

A number of injuries compel the Caledonians to play the following team to-morrow: G. Fenner, goal, J. Willshaw, and R. Willshaw backs; J. Frost S. McMillan and J Shaw half backs; F McKinley Matt Shaw, Jas. Shaw, A. Duthy and R. McDowall forwards. Reserve Neil Hurry.

Harold Jones signed yesterday for the Canadian Woollens and Frank McKinley was transferred from G. W.V.A. to the Caledonians.

The De Laval are out to get two more points with the following team: W. Jones, goal; F. Hartshorn and J. Godfrey backs; B. Lindsay, I. McDonald and A. Styles half backs: G. Hartshorn, J. Long. R. Ramm. J. Lindsay and Abrahams forwards. Reserves—J. Cutmore and W. Brown.

Mr. Alex. McKinley will referee the C.G.E. and Machine Gun game and the Referee for the Caledonians and De Laval is left to the Secretary to appoint.

Myrtle becomes ill and on her deathbed gives Helen a letter which she says is to an old friend of her father's in the East. She tells Helen to go there, as she will be treated kindly. When Myrtle dies Helen comes East.

She arrives at the home of Charles Taylor, the man to whom the letter is addressed. Love soon enters their lives and they become engaged. Taylor discovers that Helen has been misrepresentiig herself and tells her he no longer loves her. 45 RUNS IN LAKEEIELD GAME THAT CLATTERED WITH HITS

AND WITH ALL THE CLOUTING LAKEFIELD JUST MANAGED TO TAKE OPENING GAME BY ONE RUN YESTERDAY—SCORE WAS 23 TO 22.

Thanks to a brilliant getaway when they scored twelve runs in the first and second innings, and a brace of lusty singles in the last half of the seventh, Lakefield won their opening game in the East Peterboro Baseball League yesterday afternoon, by defeating the Douro nine by 23 22. Forty-five runs look like a tough one on the spectators, but the two hundred fans who witnessed the struggle liked it immensely, and promised to come back for more.

It was lucky for Lakefield that they started early, for in the sixth innings, Douro let loose with an assortment of singles, doubles and a triple for good measure, that made the runways look like a merry-go-round. Remember Dave Hilliard who played with Peterboro in the Canadian League, and had a habit of slamming the ball to the scoreboard. Well Douro has a whole team of Hilliards. In that awful sixth, they scored fifteen runs on as many hits. The entire team batted twice and three of them faced he Lakefield heaver three times. Some pitcher. Yes and then some, for it was he who retired the side and got them all on strike-outs. Iron men of the big shows have nothing on Dave Charlton who stood out there for what seemed an endless age and watched his good shoots knocked high wide and handsome Of course Dave had to swallow some bitter pills, for there were numerous wide heaves to help the opposition along on their way.

Seven Douro Doubles

Here are some of the statistics; Lakefield hit for twenty-four bases, Fitzgerald and Hull getting two baggers. Douro biffed their way to thirty five bases, twenty of them coming in the sixth. They helped themselves to seven doubles, Sullivan and Condon having two apiece, and Walsh a triple. J. O'Brien captured the only fly ball caught in the outfield. It was a nice play, and a Lakefield rally then underway was brought to a standstill The Lakefield battery had twelve put outs and six assists. The Douro pair put out eleven men and assisted in stopping two others. Lakefield had the only double play of the game

The batters had an advantage over the fielders because the strong wind blowing throughout the game, made fly balls most difficult to judge, and the long grass in the outfield did not help matters.

Opening Ceremonies.

In the opening ceremonies, Reeve Strickland pitched the first ball and Mr. James Ridpath was backstop. Mr Ed. Galvin the hitter, stood at the bat like a veteran and slammed the ball to right field, the hit being good for two bases. Reeve Strickland wished the League all success, and the game was on.

The contest introduced two sterling pitchers in Cranley for Douro, and Charlton for Lakefield. True they were hit hard in spots, but playing conditions were largely to blame for the hits going astray. Cranley gave but two passes, and Charlton issued one. Nelson who pitched the last innings for Lakefield, was greeted with a stinging double from Sullivan's bat but he fanned the next two, and a double play sandwiched in, stopped the Douro lads.

Douro presented the neatest all round player in Leo Sullivan at second base. He guarded the keystone pillow to perfection, picked out the choicest offerings of the Lakefield twirlers and slammed out two on doubles and three singles. Martin Coughlin, president of the League, was behind the bat for Douro and caught a splendid game.

BASEBALL NOTES

OTONABEE LOST.

The Otonabee Amateurs were defeated by a picked Peterborough team yesterday evening, the score being 17 to 8 in favour of the visitors, who played a tight game. Fredenburg pitched a good game for the city crew and the Otonabee boys had thouble in finding the pill. In D. Rice the Amateurs have a pitcher with a burst of speed, and with more practice should prove a dangerous team. The Crowley brothers were conspicuous, Hector batting the only home run of the evening. The line-up was as follows:

Amateurs—C. Coughlin, cf; J. Shaughnessy, ss; H. Crowley, c; E. Connors, 1b, p; D. Rice, p; C. Conors, 2b; E. Clancy, rf; B. Crowley, 3b; J. Jackson, 1b.

The interior is lofty, spacious and admirably ventilated, and the view of the screen is clear and unobstructed, no matter where one sits, upstairs or down.

The walls and ceiling are in white rough finish, and illumination is furnished by the indirect lighting method, reflected from handsome hammered copper domes. In this connection it is worthy of notice that at no time is the theatre in absolute darkness, for while the pictures are showing a dim light is maintained, sufficient to allow one's vision to take in any part of the house. The air is cooled by ten electric fans, and two fire escapes are conveniently situated upstairs, while down stairs four exits are available in case of need.

Comfortable Seating.

The seats in the New Regent are the 22" type affording a maximum of comfort. The aisle downstairs is 5 ft. 6 inches in width, considerably in excess of government requirements, and those upstairs are unusually wide also. The building seats 500 downstairs and 175 in the gallery—675 in all.

The white screen stands out from a dark green background, the whole framed within an arresting heavy gilt border.

Lobby a Feature.

The outstanding feautre of the new Regent theatre is its inviting, spacious and lofty entrance lobby, 54 x 13 feet, the walls finished in yellow kalsomine, relieved with blue stencil work of a character which while adorning is refined in design. This entrance is in keeping with the construction of all modern up-to-the-hour theatres, and affords a degree of inviting comfort and convenience which will meet with general approval. A cherry finish panel basing runs all around this lobby, and the doors are of cherry finish also.

The theatre is steam heated, and carries complete fire-fighting apparatus on each flat. In fact, in the matter of fire protection, the Regent has been passed by its inspectors as one of the best appointed theatres in the whole of Canada

The operating machines are of the latest approved types, their operator highly skilled, and the house, generally speaking, the last word in comfort, service and efficiency.

WOMEN NOW RULE ROBBERS' RESORT

CHEYENNE, Wyo, June 3. — A woman Mayor, Mrs. Grace Miller, now rules in Jackson, the population centre of the Jackson's Hole country, which long was famous in fact and fiction as the resort of outlaws, cattle rustlers, horse thiefs and other bad men of the west that once was. For what was said to be the first time in history, there is not a man in the city hall of an American nationality; for a city administration composed entirely of women, has been sworn into office as a result of the election in May. There is not a man in Jackson's city hall

Jackson is a diminutive city—with a population of not quite 300. Perhaps no other section of the United States is so far isolated from the railroads and from all year traffic. The nearest railway station is 75 miles away and from November until May the highway to that station is virtually impassable. Surrounded by the high mountains in the range south of Yellowstone National Park, the residents of Jackson make little or no attempt to travel during the winter months.

It was in Jackson's Hole that the bad men made their last stand against the advancing wave of civilization 30 or 40 years ago. There they flocked after stealing cattle or horses or other robberies or hold-ups and banded themselves together for mutual protection.

To-day Jackson itself has surrendered to the feminist movement, and made a clean sweep of every male officeholder.

The only explanation thus far given for the overturn comes from the editor of the Courier, the city's sole newspaper, who says in his paper "It is thought the novelty of being the first city on record to be governed entirely by women helped them to secure such a complete victory."

The editor, who was himself a candidate, accepts the result without repining but says that the women surprised even themselves by the result.

There was no unusual campaigning, no special issue at stake, nor was there an unsually heavy vote. Mrs. Miller defeated Fred Lovejoy for mayor by a majority of 56 to 28. Four women were elected members of the city council over four men candidates by about the same relative vote.

MAY BE FATALLY INJURED BY FALL FROM HYDRO POLE

Owen McQuillan of Campbellford, an experienced electric lineman, who joined the hydro workmen on the new service to Lakefield, lies at the point of death in the Nicholls Hospital suffering from a fractured skull and probably internal injuries, received this morning at 10.30 o'clock when the pole at the top of which he was working, snapped under the strain and hurled him 25 feet to the ground.

A horse harnessed to a long cable was used to tighten four wires at a time and it was McQuillan's duty to lift the wires over each pole. In some way the cable caught on the last pole he ascended, opposite the city water works dam. Some one yelled to the man in charge of the horse about one hundred and fifty yards away, but apparently he did not hear the warning. The horse moved forward, tghtening the cable, the strain of which snapped it at the centre. The pole broke off at what is believed to have a weak spot and McQuillan was thrown from the arm at the top with out a chance to save himself.

He was rushed to the Nicholls Hospital, where he was attended by Dr. Yelland.

LABOUR MAY PLAY INTERMEDIARY ROLE

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, June 4.—The executive body of the Natoinal Railway Union has decided to ask the calling of a special congress of Irish and British Trade Unions, "to try and bridge the gulf between the Irish people and the government," it was announced to-day by J. H. Thomas, M.P., secretary of National Railway organization.

WHY THE HEAVY HITTING?

Better Construction of Baseball—Heydler and Johnson Cannot Agree on Chairman of National Commission.

NEW YORK, June 3.—John A. Heydler, president of the National and B. B Johnson, president of the American League, failed at a conference here to-day to agree on a choice for chairman of the National Commission. It was said, unofficially, that selection of a successor to Garry Herrmann may not be made for several months.

Considerable time was devoted to a discussion of the playing rules and the heavy hitting which has developed this season in both major leagues.

It was stated that the heavy hitting could be attributed o a combination of circumstances, not the least of which is the better construction of baseball. A better grade of material and winding in the spheres is said to have followed the cessation of war and the releasing of wool, rubber and other material used in the balls used by both leagues.

WON'T ENACT ARMY LAW.

Germany Considers Compulsory Service Automatically Abolished.

BERLIN.—It is semi-officially announced that no law will be enacted abolishing compulsory military service which is demanded by the peace treaty because the National Assembly's acceptance of the treaty automatically rescinds(the former compulsory regulations. This explanation has been issued in view of the allegations that Germany is not carrying out the provisions of the peace treaty.

It is also announced that the Ministry of Defence will issue a decree forbidding discharged soldiers to carry service arms and hand grenades This order is somewhat belated as according to reports ,thousands of discharged men all over the country in agricultural occupations are in possession of their full army outfits. Only yesterday the police seized near Hanover, 194 hidden rifles 190 swords, and 10,000 cartridges.

FAMOUS WARSHIP IS SOLD TO CHILE

Destroyer Broke in Classic Battle of Small Craft.

LONDON, June 3.— It is announced that the Chilean Government has purchased the British torpedo-boat destroyer Broke

The destroyer Broke and the destroyer Swift made themselves famous in 1917 when they defeated six German torpedo-boats destroyers in a battle in the English Channel off Dover. The Broke torpedoed two of the enemy's vessels and rammed another.

While locked with the vessel rammed, the men on board the Broke and the German destroyer fought furiously in a hand-to-hand encounter.

Although disabled in the combat the Broke steered toward a disabled German the crew of which was appealing for help. The German opened fire on the Broke, which first used its guns against the destroyer and then torpedoed it amidships.

Both the Broke and the Swift were badly damaged in the fight, but returned to port.

CLIMBING THE CANADIAN ALPS

The Yoho Glacier near Field, B.C., is a Beautiful Sight for the Climber.

* Sections of the Alpine Club of Canada in all parts of the Dominion have received the anniversary message of the director, Arthur O. Wheeler, interprovincial boundary survey commissioner for B.C. There is much in this document of special interest to members of the club, but there is also a great deal which affects the general public, since it looks forward to a greatly increased tide of summer travel into the fastnesses of the great hills.

The director's message opens with comments on the prosperous standing of the club and the success of the camp at Yoho lake last summer. Thanks are also tendered to many who helped to make the camp successful. Mention is made of renewed photographic activities in the mountains and of the fact that the challenge cup for competition by amateur mountain photographers was won last summer by Dr. H. E. Bulyea of Edmonton.

With reference to the erection of a suitable memorial to the soldier members of the Alpine club, the director says: "It is decided to do this on two separate lines, first, to place a record of all our members on military service, and particularly those who have joined the supreme honor roll, on the club house grounds at Banff, and second, the erection of a but above timber line at some serviceable place in the Canadian Rockies for the use of our members and possibly the public who are interested in making mountain climbs."

With reference to independent mountaineering during the past year mention is made of the first ascents of Mt. King George, and several other peaks of the Royal Group, lying in a hitherto unexplored district fifty miles southwest of Banff. Mt. Sir Douglas and Mt. Joffre were also climbed for the first time last summer.

After some comment on the Banff winter carnival, in which the Alpine club takes an active interest, having been donors of a challenge cup for hockey, the director takes up the matter of the forthcoming "Welcome Home" camp to be held at Mt. Assiniboine from July 20th to 31st, 1920. At this camp more than 300 people will be placed under canvas and the special feature will be the fact that all returned members will attend as guests of the club. The camp will be situated three days' journey from the railroad and transportation of baggage will be by a specially organized pack train known as the "Alpine club pack train." Of special interest to the general public is the fact that this pack train will be in operation throughout the summer and anyone wishing to make a really interesting trip into the heart of the mountains can do so at a minimum expense. The camp at Mt. Assiniboine and the "Overnight Camps" on the way thither from Banff will be open to the public from the first of July until the end of September, except during the two weeks when they will be occupied by members of the Alpine club. At any time during the summer walking tours may be taken to Mount Assiniboine and these camps will be open to furnish good meals and a bed to the tramper at the end of his day's journey. There is only one way to really see the mountain and that is on foot, but so far this pleasure has been confined to the very few, on account of the difficulty of carrying food and bedding These difficulties are now to be removed and it is planned in coming years to arrange many such walking and riding tours for the benefit of the public

Oh wind that comes out of the West,
the land of the sunset skies,
Where far o'er yon mountain's crest
those glorious colors rise,
You bring me the fragrance of pine,
the coolness of mountain snow,
The music of falling streams by the hills where the lilies grow.

Oh wind that comes out of the West,
you sigh on your way to the plain.
The mountain land is the best. Will you not come back again?
Glow skies with your golden light,
Blow softly wind from the hill
For my heart has a longing tonight, that only the mountains can fill.

THE SIN-HOUNDS.

My sins, like stag-hounds, do my soul pursue,
With eager haste they hunt from scent to view,
And though I cross and double as I go,
And soil in Lethe's conscience dead-ning flow,
I cannot baffle them by devious flight,
Remorse, the Huntsman, always casts them right.
I cannot tell, I do not know alack,
How many hounds there may be in the pack;
I know that some are big and black as night;
And some, like whippets, slim and buff and white;
The bigger hounds are mute as on they fly,
The little sin-dogs make the loudest cry.

Oakland, Cal.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave me such relief during Change of Life, I wish every woman could know about it. I surely praise this great remedy for women's ills."—Mrs. MARY S. ASHLEY, 5708 Dover Street.

ECHO OF MILITARY SERVICE APPEAL IN DIVISION COURT

In he division court this morning, before His Honor Judge Huycke, Fred J. A. Hall vs. James and Joseph Hanrahan, was rather an interesting case, during which James Hanarhan denied, what was ruled by the judge, to be his own signature to an affidavit on exhibit.

James Hanrahan is a farmer living living near Lakefield, whom Mr. Hall, for the cerditors of James Guise-Bagleg, sued to recover $50 legal fees for services rendered by Mr. Bagley in an effort to secure, first exemption, and latterly leave of absence from military service, of Hanrahan's son Joseph.

Joseph Hanrahan was also sued for a bill of $60 incurred in like manner, and with consent of his honor the two actions were merged, with Mr. Joseph Wearing for the defendants.

J. Guise-Bagley, sworn, declared that he had been engaged by both defendants, and produced documents in support thereof. He also exhibited an affidavit signed by the father, James Hanrahan, claiming that his son Joseph was indispensable at home on the farm, and on that ground seeking leave of absence. This was in the spring of 1918 and at Kingston, whither Mr. Bagley said he had gone to plead Joseph Hanrahan's case before the leave of absence tribunal then sitting.

James Hanarhan, the father, swore that he had never seen the affidavit in vuestion, and denied its signature as being his. He also repudiated Mr. Bagley's bill for services in every particular.

Compared Signature.

At his honor's request, defendant, James Hanrahan, here wrote four samples of his signature, which the court declared identical with the signature, "James Hanrahan," on the affidavit in exhibit. The son Joseph admitted certain liabilities, but denied engaging Mr. Bagley's services at Kingston. Whatever action the latter took there, he did so on his own responsibility declared this defendant.

James Hanrahan swore that while at Kingston at this time he was not there on business with Guise-Bagley in connection with his son's application for leave of absence from military duties.

It transpired in evidence that Joseph Hanrahan never went overseas, and was discharged in October, 1918.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, for the defendants, submitted that there was no evidence to make the former liable with his son, who was Bagley's original cient. As to James Hanrahan denying having signed the affidavit in question, Mr. Wearing contended that Hanrahan, senior, was an old man, near eighty years of age, and naturally liable to a lapse of memory in that connection.

For Joseph Hanrahan, the son, Mr. Wearing submitted that evidence showed Guise-Bagley had gone to Kingston on his own initiative, and practically forced his services on the young man. Mr. Wearing here enlarged on what he insinuated to be moral illegality of Guise-Bagley's action in undertaking work which the public generally disapproved of—that of attempting to secure exemption or leave of absence from military service of young men like the defendant, Joseph Hanrahan. He claimed that in awarding judgment for the amounts claimed, together with costs, His Honor would be condoning a line of work not creditable to the Canadian bar.

Must Pay For Service.

Judge Huycke, however, could not see it in that light. Appeals by counsel weer allowed by military tribunals and such service must be paid for. He referred to Guise-Bagley having had a son or two at the war, and while he did not personally approve of the methods adopted by some in seekin gto escape military service, still he held that the charges were for legitimate service rendered.

His Honor ruled that James Hanrahan did sign an affidavit at Kingston prepared by J. Guise-Bagley, whose services both father and son engaged. He gave judgment for $60 against Joseph Hanrahan and $50 against his father, James, together with joint costs.

Mr. B. D. Hall appeared for the claimants.

MEXICO CITY CUT OFF DURING REVOLT ALMOST NINE DAYS

MEXICO CITY, May 21. — (By Mail).—The revolution which overthrew President Carranza and culminated in his death was attended by many interesting or exciting episodes which could not be reported to the outside while the coup was in progress. Some of the discoveries which have followed the installation of new authority in the capital city, too, have been entertaining.

Notable was that revealed by an interim officials of the Treasury Department who announced they had found evidence of a fraud which had netted somebody an amount estimated at about 1,000,000 pesos. The papers here say that, when th einfalcificables (paper money with which the country was flooded during the revolution (were burned, about one-quarter of the amount officially reported to have been destroyed had been previously extracted and sold at the current rate of 10 centavos on the peso. The Carranza government had been taking the old paper money in as a sort of supertax on import duties and other taxes. Later it was supposed ot be burned

Profiteers' Advantage.

While no disorders occurred in the capital during the evacuation by the Carranza government and the occupation by the liberal revolutionary forces, nor did public services cease functioning for an instant, the inhabitants of the capital were victims both of inconveniences and profiteers. Food prices increased and change, which has ben the bugbear of everybody since silver began its sensationalrise months ago, sold at a 15 percent premium

The Indians who sell produce in the markets demanled metal currency and got it. Many foreigners, fearing a protracted struggle and a food shortage, laid in ample supplies. One American housewife bought 30 chickens which she put to roost in the bathroom of her apartment. She was too excited to heed the advice of the Indian woman who sold the fowls that she should buy ducks.

Cut Off From the World.

The spectacle of a city of 1,000,000 inhabitants absolutely cut off from communication with the world for almost nine days was not the least interesting phase of the evacuation by Carranza. Both cable and telegraphic communication ceased about 9 p.m. on May 6. Until May 15 the cable lines were usleess An unreliable line was set up by the government to the American border in the afternoon of May 8, but it was devited exclusively to military and outgoing business.

Nothing was received from the outside world until the cable lines were restored.

Because of numerous relays and other wire troubles, those sending messages from the capital could not learn if their messages reached their destination. The same conditions obtained more or less throughout those parts of the republic distant from the border and the coasts.

Foreign press correspondents filed stories on the national lines, trusting to luck that part of them might see print. As safeguards they left summaries with the military authorities for possible transmission by government wireless, filed other summaries with the cable company and still others with travelers leaving in attempts to reach the border.

WARM EULOGIES FOR THE LOCAL MEMBER BY HON. MR. ROLLO

The work that the Provincial Legislature accomplished in its first session, was set forth by Hon. Walter Rollo, Minister of Labor and Health, at a largely attended meeting in St. Alphonsus Lyceum last night.

The different bills that had been passed were explained by the speaker and the appreciative audience found the three-quarters' hour address of Hon Mr. Rollo both interesting and enlightening.

Mr Harry Harper, the business representative of the International Machinists' Association, presided at the meeting.

On the platform were the Hon. Walter Rollo, Mr. Thomas Tooms, M. L. A. Mayor McIntyre, Ald. F. Whitehouse, Ald H. Gainey, Mr. P. McArthur, president of the Independent Labour Party.

Mr. Tooms in itroducing Hon. Mr. Rollo said they owed a debt of gratitude to him for fathering the four important labor bills through the house. Mr. Tooms eulogized the Hon. Minister and said that they were very pleased to have him present.

Speaking of the Premier and the Cabinet, he said that it was a pleasure to work with the Premier, and the keeness, tact and ability of Premier Drury were emphasized.

Mr Rollo paid a warm tribute to Mr Tooms, who he said, was highly esteemed in the House, where he had done much good work. The Minister expressed the hope that Mr. Tooms would be returned unopposed at the next election, a sentiment that was later expressed by Ald. Whitehouse, who regarded Mr. Tooms as an excellent member.

The government has passed 238 bills, Hon. Mr. Rollo continued. In referring to some of the more important of them he particularly mentioned the Act providing pensions for widows and orphans. Other speakers for Mayor McIntyre, Ald. Gainey, Ald. Whitehouse, Peter McArthur, Harry Harper and John Noble.

HYDRO LINEMAN DIED OF INJURIES FROM ACCIDENT

OWEN M'QUILLAN DID NOT REGAIN CONSCIOUSNESS AFTER FALL, WHEN POST BROKE ON NEW ELECTRIC LINE TO LAKEFIELD.

INQUEST ORDERED

Owen McQuillan, a Hydro electric lineman, died at the Nicholls Hospital, shortly after four o'clock yesterday afternoon, of the injuries he received in the fatal accident that happened at out ten o'clock in the morning, on the east side of the river, opposite the Waterworks dam, when the tall pole on which he was working with the linemen constructing the new Hydro-electric service to Lakefield, snapped in the middle and hurled him 25 feet to the ground. Dr. Yelland who attended him stated that he did not regain consciousness. Death was due to a fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

The new line to Lakefield is being built to supply that town with power as its own power house was destroyed by fire some time ago. For several weeks the gang of Hydro men from various parts of Ontario have been employed on the work. Thursday night McQuillan arrived in the city from Havelock where he had been employed with the Commission, to join his foreman, Mr. John Mitchell, and had been at work only a few hours on this job. The stringing of the wires was not begun till about 9.30 a.m. The men were working south from a point about where the G.T.R. track crosses the Lakefield road.

The poles were up and ready for the four wires. These are connected to a wooden running board to which is hooked a steel cable. This cable is run over the tops of the poles pulling with it the board and four wires. Generally three or four poles are strung with the cable, and then with a team the cable is drawn over the poles and with it the running board and the four single strands. At each post a lineman works at the top and passes the running board over the arm.

Board Caught at Top.

Owen McQuillan was assigned to this duty on a pole not very far north of the waterworks. He was supported by a belt around the top of the pole. On the posts at each side a lineman was stationed. Four posts away, a distance of 520 feet, the teamster, who it is said, was a new man, moved off with the team, and the running board swung towards McQuillan. He caught the board properly but in some way in passing it over the top of the beam at the top it caught on the pin, and became wedged against it. The cable tightened and hardly before the men were aware of the fatality that was taking place before their eyes, the pole snapped in the centre, and fell over at an angle, carrying McQuillan, who was held by the strap, a distance of 25 feet.

He was unconscious when picked up by the men, and from the Waterworks a doctor was summoned. Dr. Yelland came in answer to the call, and in a hurried examination determined that the injuries were serious. Comstock's ambulance was called and McQuillan was rushed to the Nicholls Hospital, but no hope for his recovery was held from the first. He died at 4.05 p.m.

Leaves Widow and Child.

The unfortunate man, whose home is in Campbellford, was 28 years of age and leaves a widow and one little child. His wife is in Coe Hill, where her home is, and was notified at once of the accident.

The foreman, Mr. Mitchell, stated that McQuillan was a good lineman. He had been working for him for a year and besides being a fine workman he was a quiet likeable fellow, and a favorite with the other men, amongst whom his untimely death has caused much sadness and regret.

Inquest Ordered.

When the scene of the accident was visited in the afternoon by High County Constable Moore, who was instructed by the coroner, Dr. Greer to report on the case, the broken off post remained just as it had fallen, and nothing had been touched. On examination the officer drew the conclusion that the pole was weak in the centre by the appearance of the wood. An inspection was made of the ground, while the story of the fatality was told to him by Mr. O. Bright, a Hydro employee, who witnessed it.

County Constable Moore felt that the method of string the wires might be improved on and recommended to the Coroner that an inquest be held over the body if for no other reason than to endeavour to get a system that would safeguard the employees to a greater extent than that now in use.

When the full particulars were explained to him Coroner Dr. Greer coincided with Mr. Moore's view and ordered an inquest to be held.

Jury Summoned.

The inquest over the body of Owen McQuillan was held at Belleghem's Undertaking Parlours last night at 8 o'clock by Coroner Greer.

The following jurors were empannelled: George Giroux, foreman, Howard Shurter, Thomas Sprote, W. Dayman, W S. Sharpe, Robert Jones, George Stinson, Joseph Metheral, Robert Reid Perry Alexander, P. D. McLeod, F. S. Ivey.

The body of the man was viewed by the jury after which the inquest adjourned for two weeks, till the 18th.

Mr. Archie Moore is taking the jurors up to the scene of the accident to-day.

The body will be forwarded on the noon C.P.R. train to Coe Hill for interment. The unfortunate man leaves a widow and two little children.

DULLEST STOCK MARKET OF YEAR

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION CAUSING UNCERTAINTY OF OPERATIONS.

(Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, June 5.—Influenced mainly by further limitations imposed upon unessential credits, the stock market this week established a low record for dullness thus far this year. This did not apply to bonds, liberty issues showing moderate activity at the expense of quoted values.

The political situation was among deterrent factors, commission houses attributing much of curtailment of operations, especially by public to uncertainty regarding out come of next weeks developments at Chicago.

To call money conditions were unchanged except for further reduction of brokers loans Branch institutions north east and west followed lead of New York Federal Reserve bank in advancing rediscounts and general money market was firmer at almost every important centre.

Chief of encouraging events in securities market was firm to strong tone of railroads shares. Especial interest attached to the re-purchase by an international banking house of large block of St. Louis and San Francisco railway bonds from French Government. Freight congestion at leading railroad terminals made additional progress towards improvement but much remain to be dong in that quarter especially at the principal points of steel and iron industry The price cutting campaign seemed to lose some of its recent breadth. Reports from interior banks identified with important lines of manufacture suggested, however, that downward revision of inventories has become more general.

Explain Motives

G.W.V.A. ALLEGE THAT PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE RIDICULES THEIR GRIEVANCES.

CLASH YESTERDAY

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, June 5.—In view of the statements which have been made and are likely to be made regarding the actions and motives of the G.W.V.A. in bringing to public notice, the grievances of returned men, the Dominion headquarters of the Association has issued a statement regarding its stand on matter.

It charges the parliamentary committee with persistently endeavouring to misinterpret and ridicule any endeavour on the part of the G.W.V.A. to present the views of ex-service men. Its publication was the result of a clash yesterday afternoon before the parliamentary committee on re-establishment between Mr. Tweedie M. P. and C. G. MacNeil Dominion Secretary. The former took issue with Mr. MacNeil for publishing evidence and complaints against the soldier settlement board before he brought such evidence before the committee. The statement issued replies to charges of Mr. Tweedies and ends by saying that if the matter is left in its unfinished state grievances will only be aggravated.

"It is difficult to understand why certain members of the parliamentary committee persistently endeavor to misinterpret and ridicule any endeavour on part of G.W.V.A. to present the views or grievances of returned men. Any fatuous juggling with re-establishment questions will only serve to infalme unrtst and turbulence which this association has always endeavoured to neutralize" reads statement.

ART EXHIBIT AT THE SOUTH CENTRAL

DISPLAY OF CHILDREN'S WORK PLEASED PARENTS.

The Art Exhibit at the South Central School, was a decided success.

The Kindergarten room wheer the specimens were arranged made an interesting display.

Mrs. Allen, president of the Home and School Association ,together with Mrs. Wightman, convenor of the Entertainment Committee, welcomed the many visitors, who filled the room to capacity. After an opportunity had been given for a survey of the pupils work in art and sewing, Principal Wightman called the meeting to order and after a very interesting talk on the school and its work presided while the following enjoyable programme was presented:

Solo: Mr. Steers.
Speech: Mrs. Allen.
Solo: Miss Herbison.
Speech: Mr. Cameron.
Reading: Miss Perry.
Song: Rev. Mr. McKenzie.

The parents appreciated very much the information regarding the new school which Mr. G. O. Cameron, a member of the Board of Education, spoke about in the course of his address.

After the singing of the National Anthem, dainty refreshments were served by the Social Committee, Mrs. M. Comstock and her assistants.

During the evening a large number was added to the membership of the Home and School Association.

WILL APPROVE THE CLAIMS OF IRELAND

SAYS VICE-PRESIDENT OF LABOUR FEDERATION.

(Canadian Press.)

MONTREAL, June 5.—In reply to a question put to him by a newspaper interviewer here this morning Matthew Wall, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, stated that at its convention, which opens here on Monday, it will go on record as unanimously supporting Ireland's fight for Home Rule.

Mr. Wall said the Federation would approve the demands of the Irish to govern themselves according to their own ideas, aspirations or natural requirements, and that a resolution to that effect will be brought up in accordance with the basic principles of organized labor and the true spirit of democracy.

Mr. Wall further stated that there is a possibility of the consideration of a further resolution demanding that British troops be withdrawn from Ireland.

OMEMEE TANNING COMPANY WILL BUILD TEN HOUSES FOR EMPLOYEES

Enlarging Tannery Now and Will Manufacture Sole Leather—Capacity of 400 Sides a Day—Will Be Ready By Fall.

Omemee has established a local precedent in the provision by the Omemee Tanning Company of homes for the workmen to be employed in the factory instead of depending upon the Council to do so, and has already bought land on which to construct some ten houses at an expenditure of $3,000.00 each, which will be finished before the fall, when the added number of hands will take up their homes in the town.

WILL OPEN IN THE FALL.

The new management of the tannery, C. Parsons & Son, who bought out the Lamb family, who owned the business since its founding in 1852 by the late George Lamb, who was succeeded by Mr. J. J. Lamb, and in 1916 by Mr. Harry Lamb, have undertaken extensive alterations, and are at present erecting several large additions which will cost some hundred thousand dollars.

They have discontinued the manufacture of harness leather to engage only in the sole leather industry. The change in manufacture is due to the fact that the demand for harness leather has been curtailed by the supplanting of horse-drawn vehicles by the automobile, while sole leather is in constant demand. The last harness leather was turned out in January.

The capacity of the factory will be four hundred sides a day, and already orders to keep the men busy for several months have been received from Canada and the United States.

THE BUILDING.

The buildings when completed will cover a large area, the main building being 215 by 64 feet, and three storeys high, while the additions are a one-storey beam house, 150 by 50 feet, and the rolling room and store house, 150 by 45 feet, also one-storey high. The latter buildings will be constructed of cement.

The machinery will be run by Hydro-Electric power, and with the opening of the factory the cost of electricity for private use will be much lessened.

LABOUR PLENTIFUL.

So far the factory has had no difficulty in securing labour, as the tannery is the chief industry of the town, and the thirty men working on construction will be employed as factory hands when the business opens up in the fall, with twenty extra hands who will be engaged.

Mr. E. C. Mitchell, sole leather expert of Burke's Falls, has already come to reside in Omemee, and Mr. M. J. Parsons has also taken up residence in the town.

$67,000 WORTH OF CITY DEBENTURES CONTRACTED FOR BY LOCAL INDUSTRIES

MONEY SUBSCRIBED TO BE APPLIED TO ERECTION OF WORKINGMEN'S HOUSES—BLANKET BOND FOR CITY EMPLOYEES.

Local manufacturers have entered into a contract to purchase 76,000 worth of the city's housing debentures in consideration of $200,000 worth being issued by the corporation.

This was revealed last night, when Messrs. G. A. Gillespie, G. H.Duncan and Secretary Leonard Frazer of the Board of Trade who compose the special housing committee, reported progress to the Finance Committee of the Council.

Mr. Gillespie submitted the following list of manufacturing companies who have guaranteed to purchase the city's housing bonds at 6 per cent.

C. G T. Co.	$20,000
Canadian Woollens	20,000
De Laval Co.	15,000
Peter Hamilton Co.	5,000
Peterborough Cereal Co.	5,000
Peterborough Canoe Co.	3,000
Vermont Marble Co	3,000
J. J. Turner & Sons	5,000

There are two industries yet to hear from—the Quaker Oats Co., and the Peterborough Lock Co.,—and there is every hope that $100,000 worth of the debentures will be taken up by local manufacturers to assure a start in building homes under the city's housing plan at an early date.

Vote of Thanks.

On motion of the Mayor and Aldermen Phelan, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered this committee for the interest they have taken to assure a ready disposal of at least one half of the $200,000 debenture issue for housing purposes decided on by the city.

Other Debentures.

Mr. A. B. Fairclough, representing Wood, Gundy & Co., bond dealers of Toronto, addressed the committee with a view to his firm taking a block of the city's debentures for disposal on a thirty days' option basis and these debentures in question are $200,000 for the new Hunter street bridge and $240,000 for schools is a total of $500,000 now being carried by the Bank of Montreal pending bond issue on a favorable date. Mr. Fairclough contended that his company could dispose of these debentures to better advantage to the city than were tenders invited.

Committee decided that the public would be better satisfied were these debentures advertised for sale as here tofore.

Aldermen Hamilton and Morrison moved that tenders be invited for the sale of $200,000 worth of bridge debentures and debentures to the amount of $240,000 for schools. This carried.

To Bond All Employees

Committee decided to adopt the schedule bond system covering all municipal clerical employees.

On motion of Aldermen Hamilton and Phelan, chairman Alderman Turner was authorized to at once procure rates for a schedule bond covering all employees in the city Treasurer's office, including Treasurer Adams; to purchase such a bond decide from what company or companies; and the amounts necessary to be placed.

Printing to Cost More.

Messrs. D D. C. Dawe and A. H. Stratton for the Examiner and Review Printing Companies, respectively, addressed the committee in support of increased prices for the city's printing.

Mr. Dawe explained, that the increase amounts to from 25 to 50 per cent. according to the job. This jump in prices since the last schedule for city printing was prepared is due to a 50 per cent increase in wages a four hour shorter work week, together with the ever climbing cost of paper and printing material generally. Should prices tumble, of which there is little present hope, Mr. Dawe said printing charges would correspondingly decrease from the new schedule submitted to the city.

On motion of Alderman Phelan and Hamilton, committee decided to accept the new price list for printing and will recommend that all work needed be divided between the Examiner and Review Printing Companies.

STEAMER'S FUEL OIL BURNING AT SEA

Explosion on Vessel 150 Miles Out of New York.

(Canadan Press.)

NEW YORK, June 5. — The Norwegian steamer Bergensfjord, bound out from New York, is on fire 150 miles east of Fire Island, according to a radio S.O.S. message picked up by the Department of Naval Communications early to-day. The message, asking immediate assistance, said the Bergensfjord's fuel oil was on fire and that an explosion had occurred.

The message received said the flames had been controlled. One boiler was out of commission, but it had not been determined whether it would be necessary to return to New York.

A pipe exploded in the engine room, causing confusion among the passengers for a time, it is said. No one was injured, and after further danger from the flames had been averted, Captain Bull decided to proceed on his way. The vessel is found for Bergen and carried twelve hundred passengers.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE TOLD OF ADVANTAGES OF OLD ONTARIO

EAST VICTORIA WOMEN HELD MEETING AT OMEMEE YESTERDAY—MRS. M. E. WIDDESS ELECTED PRESIDENT.

In all the several years of its existence no speaker has made such an impression upon the East Victoria Woman's Institute as Mrs. B. O. Allen, of Fort William, who addressed the Institute at the anual general meeting held yesterday at th residence of Mrs. John Reynolds, Omemee.

In introducing the speaker, Mrs. M. E. Widdis, president of the Institute, briefly outlined the aims and objects of the organization, and spoke of the activities they had been engaged in, including a very large amount of Red Cross work, and of the splendid feeling of good fellowship which existed amongst the members, who, she hoped, would endeavour to turn out in ever greater numbers at future meetings to discuss the important issues in which the Institute is interested.

The Speaker.

Mr. Allen, in opening her address, spoke of the importont part the Woman's Institute plays in New Ontario, where she has spent several years, the members there having even undertaken the new roads system. If, she said, in such a wild country and with so few advantages the Institute may be so efficient, it should do much more in Old Ontario. She gave a very interesting word picture of the country in New Ontario, stating that everything is still very primitive, the settlers living in tiny shanties for the most part. Nurses and doctors are very scarce, and in the part from which she came, it takes a doctor three days to respond to a call, so difficult is travel. This scarcity of medical aid the Woman's Institute is endeavouring to overcome through the Government.

Continuing, she told of how the residents of New Ontario look to the Woman's Institute for practically everything, it being the chief organisation, and there being no municipal council.

Consolidated Schools.

Mrs. Allen urged the establishment of consolidated schools, which, she said, arebound to come sooner or later. After going into the matter very fully she reminded the members of the Institute that Ontario is backward in moving forward in this matter.

She impressed the ladies with the necessity of each member of the Institute being active and coming out to the meetings. Speaking of class distinction, which she claimed is a curse to the nation, and which, fortunately, the War had practically killed, she cautioned the members of the Institute against letting it creep into the society. It is, of course, more prevalent in the cities, but enters into the villages, with very harmful results.

Those Present.

During the afternoon dainty refreshments were served on the beautiful lawns surrounding the Reynolds homestead. The members present at the meeting included Mrs. R. J. Cornwall, Mrs. (Dr.) Earle, Mrs. Charles Ivory, Mrs. T. C. Ivory, Mrs. George McQuade, Mrs. Charles Mills, Miss Cornwall, Mrs. Southworth, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Isaac Fee, Mrs. Thos. Wilson, Mrs. Albert Ford, Mrs. Francis Fee, Mrs. Falkiner, Mrs. Graham, Miss Irene Clement, Mrs. T. H. McQuade, Mrs. Robert McConnell, Mrs. Wlliam Rehill.

The Officers.

The officers of the organisation who were recently elected are:

President—Mrs. M. E. Widdess.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. (Dr.) Earle.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Miss Lila Parsons.
Secy.-Treas.—Mrs. Cornwall.
Programme Committee—Mrs. H. McGee, Mrs. Markham, and Mrs. P. Parsons.
Flower Committee — Mrs. Ernie McPherson, Mrs. Lorne Mahood, Miss Clement, and Mrs. Isaac Fee.

Next Issue.

The next issue the Institute expects to enter into is medical inspection of the schools, and special speakers will probably be invited to address ensuing meetings.

NO DAISY CHAIN THIS YEAR FOR STUDENTS AT VASSAR

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., June 3.—Continued dry weather has so far retarded the growth of daisies in Duchess county that it now seems almost certain that the time-honored daisy chain, one of the leading features of the annual class day exercises at Vassar, will have to be eliminated this year. Scouts from the student body have scoured the fields in search of blooms, with but little success. The chain should include one foot for each of the 254 members of the graduating class.

GROOM FORGETS LICENSE AND MONEY, BRIDE WAITS

HAMILTON, Jne 3.—All was ready for the wedding of a young couple at Christ's Church Cathedral on Tuesday, when the groom, upon being asked to produce the license, discovered that he had forgotten to bring it. He also discovered that he had only five cents in his pocket. The ceremony was halted until a friend obtained the license and money with which to fee the officiating minister.

COBOURG GOES BACK TO STANDARD TIME.

COBOURG, June 3. — After having a daylight saving bylaw in operation for a fortnight, Cobourg goes back on Monday next to standard time.

The daylight saving bylaw was passed by the town council in compliance with a request signed by a large number of the business men. It was thought then that other towns would adopt the change of time and possibly the railways and boats out of Cobourg. This did not follow, and now in accordance with a petition signed by 632 persons and backed up by a big deputation, another bylaw was passed authorizing the change back to standard time.

J. B. McColl, Colonel Odell and others addressed the council. It was stated that no other town between Toronto and Kingston had adopted daylight saving. Also that the farmers in the locality did not like it, and that the cooperation of urban and rural citizens was highly desirable.

ONE-MAN CARS WILL MEAN ST. JOHN STRIKE

ST. JOHN, N. B June. —Following a suggestion made by the manage ment of the New Brunswick Power Company that one-man street cars might be used in future, the motormen and conductors decided to-day to call a general walk-out of all workers in the street car service, electric power house and the gas house if the on-man cars were put in operation here. About 120 motormen and conductors and 110 other workers would be affected by this walkout, which would tie up nearly all the power, fuel and lighting services of the city.

Beauty and Economy

A roof of real beauty is one covered with a soft harmonious shade of reddish brown or dark green slate. These are the two artistic colors in which is made—the colors being unfadeable, because they are the natural shades of the crushed slate used for the surface of this handsome roofing material.

Brantford Crystal Roofing

Brantford Crystal Roofing is also a very economical roof. It is moderate in cost, can be very rapidly laid, and is a permanent material that is completely non-absorbent and therefore proof against the weather.

Note the extra heavy weight—80 to 85 lbs. per square; that means extra long life.

Suitable for homes, stores, factories, garages, churches, schools — all buildings on which an artistic yet economical roof is desired.

That Last Question Answered

A little boy had been asking his mother the usual string of endless questions, when finally her patience gave way: "Not another question, son—curiosity killed the cat." "Just one more question, Mother," he pleaded, "What was it the cat wanted to know?" There is just one way in which you can answer that last question. Put THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE into the child's hands, and let him find out for himself the things which he wants to know. It will satisfy his eager curiosity about all things he sees in the world around him, and stimulate his mind to observe and think for itself. You will be surprised with the rapid growth and with the quickening of the mental activity which comes with the use of this remarkable work in the every day life of the home. Do not keep your child waiting for "the children's greatest helper" and best friend. Every day without it means a real loss.

The Child's Great Friend

The child who owns a little garden plot begins to understand Mother Nature. The child who owns a pet animal begins to develop the sense of love and protection. The child who owns a good book has a good friend who will never forsake him. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the BEST FRIEND of any child's youthful days. There the highways of knowledge are opened to his eager feet and he learns by means of thousands of fascinating educational pictures and brief and intensely interesting talks the profound truths and great facts of Nature, Science, History, Art, Literature, Poetry, Astronomy, Physiology, Biography, and Manual Training. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the most valuable achievement of the children's age.

THE COAL SITUATION.

The City Council might be well advised to appoint a Fuel Committee as soon as possible with a view to securing all the information available about the fuel situation in order that some preparation may be made for meeting what promises to be a most serious crisis next winter. The outlook for anything like an adequate supply of coal from the United States is very gloomy. The American mines are not producing anything like a normal supply, and the outlaw strike on the railways ' s tied up transportation, with the result that Canada is facing a shortage that will be most serious when the cold weather comes again.

If there are any steps that can be taken by the City Council to minimise as far as Peterborough is concerned the effects of the falling off in the supply of American coal, there is no time to be lost. Waiting until the first snowflakes herald the coming of King Winter and then making an eleventh hour effort to deal with the situation will leave the people of Peterborough in poor shape to face the rigours of a Canadian winter. The time to act is now.

MR. TURLEY'S CHARGES.

Mr. W. E. Turley, Provincial Secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association, declares that the Dominion Government has outlived its usefulness, and that it is lukewarm in its attitude towards the needs of the veterans. The Provincial Secretary points out that the Association, of which he is a nofficial, has had to fight strenuously for adequate pensions for the widows and orphans of the soldiers who gave their lives for Canada, while any increases granted to disabled men have been most grudgingly given, and in many cases offset by a reduction in classification. The statement that the present Government has failed in its duty towards the returned soldier is significant in view of the source from which it comes.

Mr. Turley is temperate and sane in his views, and the Association, of which he is a member, has been moderate in its criticisms and reasonable in its demands. General statements from men of the Harry Flynn type do not carry much conviction, but when the Provincial Secretary of the G. W. V. A. takes the platform at a public meeting and declares that the Government has failed to measure up to its responsibilities and should be called upon to resign, the powers that be at Ottawa should not overlook the nature of the charges that have been made.

THE SERBIAN CAMPAIGN.

The Peterborough drive on behalf of the Serbian Relief Fund is now in its second week, and although many splendid donations have been received, the total is not so far advanced as it should be at this stage of the campaign. The drive is under the auspices of the Serbian Relief Committee of the Canadian Brotherhood Federation, who have undertaken the task of raising half a million dollars in Canada for the benefit of the hundreds of thousands of unhappy Serbians, who are destitute and starving. The Federation have been convinced that every dollar of th amount asked for is absolutely needed, and realising that fact they have thrown themselves into the campaign with a will.

The local drive ends on 16th June, and subscriptions will be accepted by any of the banks or by The Examiner, and acknowledged through the columns of this paper.

There are half a million Serbian orphans who are facing death from starvation. Canada is asked merely to contribute $1.00 for each one of these little unfortunates, and Peterborough share has been placed at $5,000.00. The amount is not large, and before the end of the campaign The Examiner hopes to be able to announce that Peterborough, as in every other drive of the same kind, has triumphantly reached its objective.

A SPLENDID SHOWING.

The Young Women's Christian Association is to be congratulated upon being the first institution in Peterborough that has succeeded in training and qualifying a class of candidates for the Royal Life-saving Society's medal for proficiency in swimming and for knowledge of the recognised methods of saving people from drowning and of resuscitating victims of near-drowning accidents. Nine girls were successful on Thursday night in passing the severe tests prescribed by the society, and have been awarded the certificate, badge and medal that are the award for qualifying.

Other classes in life-saving are being conducted by the Y.W.C.A., and in a short time there will be a large number of girls who will not only be experts swimmers, but will have the knowledge necessary to use their talent to the best advantage. Many of the fair sex have learned how to swim at the Y.W.C.A., and the result of th recent membership campaign will augment their number considerably, which is a matter for congratulation.

It would be a splendid thing if there could be courses for men swimmers along the lines that have been followed by the Y.W.C.A. The majority of men can swim, some of them expertly, but even among the ranks of the latter class it is doubtful if nine men could be found in Peterborough who could, without preliminary training, meet half the tests that the girl swimmers of the Y.W.C.A. passed so successfully the other night. How many know the scientific methods of breaking the grasp of a drowning person and how to bring the victim to shore? It is safe to say that the number is small indeed.

The Y.M.C.A. might do well to consider the advisability of including a life-saving course among its other activities.

SOLDIERS' GRAVES.

The work of the Imperial War Graves Commission, thou h not nearly completed, is apparently being advanced with all possible despatch. A controversy has been in progress in connection with their work which has attracted very little attention in Canada, points out Turner's Weekly, and yet the question is one of intimate concern to all who had a relative or friend killed in the war. It appears that a considerable section of the British public sought to be granted permission to erect special monuments over the graves of their fallen relatives. This is a natural desire which it is difficult to condemn altogether, but yet it is pleasing to note that th demand for unformty and simplicity in the headstones in the cemeteries in France and Belgium is likely to prevail. It would not be possible to yield to the natural desire of those who could afford to erect costly memorials over their dead without wounding the feelings of others who could not afford to honour their dead in a similar fashion. For every stately monument that would be erected a hundred humble graves would be slighted in greater or less degree. The men who gave their lives in the struggle for the greater freedom of humanity all yielded equal sacrifice, and it is fitting that their last resting place should be marked all in a similar fashion. All parties cannot be satisfied, but there is no doubt that the least pain will be caused by keeping to the rule of comrade-like uniformity.

AN OUTWORN SYSTEM.

A story exactly typical of the supreme stupidity of our distribution system was disclosed before the Board of Commerce at Ottawa yesterday. A firm bought two cars of sugar from a speculator at the rate of twenty-three and one-half cents a pound and sold some to local grocers at twenty-seven cents. But before this firm sold a pound of that sugar the whole consignment had been bought and sold three times over by various middlemen, each of whom had made his "bit." Every one of these profits, including that of the final vendor, was added on before the unfortunate consumer was allowed to buy a pound of this essential product.

If we are seriously concerned in the reduction of the cost of living, here is one place where a great deal can be done. There is no earthly reason why three profits should be added on to sugar, after the producer has made his, the transportation companies have had their claims settled, and the retailer has got a fair return. Not a single one of these three preliminary speculators had done a thing to improve the quality of the sugar or to help it on its way to the man who needed it. All they did was to stop it, levy a toll on it, and allow it to pass on to the next man who was waiting to do the same thing.

In the olden days a favourite method of raising revenue among a certain class was to build a castle overlooking a main highway, hold up every convoy or caravan of merchandise that came along, squeeze blackmail out of the owners, and then let it pass. As we grew more "civilised" that sort of thing was stopped. We pulled down the castles, or chased the owners out of them. When the latter were obdurate the methods peculiar to the age—but which still had something to commend them—were applied with definite results. Commerce along the highways was made safe, physically at least.

But we apparently stopped there. Have we made such remarkable progress since those days, after all? World commerce has grown to dimensions unimagined by the caravan proprietors of old. We have improved our methods in most ways; we are fond of telling each other that we are "up-to-date" in every respect. And yet we are doing business with at least one department of it—distribution—almost as outworn and inefficient as in the days when merchandise was freighted from State to State on mule-back and men in cast-iron suits held it up whenever they saw fit.

It is a favourite complaint with town dwellers that the farmer is the greatest profiteer in the country. He isn't. Neither is the sugar refiner, nor any of the scores of various producers to whom we insist the "Government must do something." We are limping along with a fool system that allows a whole load of unproductive middlemen to glue on to our essential commdoities and make the ultimate consumer shoulder the whole load.

We would not bring prices back to the pre-war level if we did get rid of all these little profits which, added up, make such a difference. But we would go a very long way toward putting them where the producer could still make a fair profit and that universal "goat," the ultimate consumer, would not be wrung dry.—Montreal Star.

SANDRA THE JEALOUS

By JANE PHELPS

CHAPER CXLI

Is it not wonderful that, having carried the jealousies, the intolerance of childhood into my home, into my relations with my husband, I had not ruined our lives? Had it not been for Everett's extreme courtesy, which invariably made me ashamed to voice all of my suspicions we would surely have landed on the rocks of domestic infelicity.

My love for Everett had been a constantly growing love. My pride in him was enormous, and had increased as time went on. I had learned something of the quiet depth of his mind; I recognized his dignity as being appropriate to a man in his position—instead of thinking of it as belonging to an old man (a word I now never used in connection with him—not even in my thoughts).

Yet in all the years of my marriage, I had never known any unalloyed happiness for many days together; my jealousy effectually prevented this. However, in our married life there was none of the mutial recrimmination usually caused when either, or both, let the green-eyed monster sway their passions. This was due entirely to Everett's command of himself and a certain pride he had taught me to feel about giving way to my feeling before him. Indeed I could more easily have done so before the merest acquaintance. The few times I had given vent to my jealousy, were long past. Later I had pretended, as I had when jealous of Miss Pierce, nothing ailed me; that I did not feel well, had an headache, or some other equally evasive reason.

I still occasionally felt nervous because of Miss Pierce—"Katey" as I now always call her. I knew Everett both liked and trusted her. He had shown his admiration for her openly many times. But whenever I thought of letting her go, her care of Junior, her devotion to him, made me hesitate. Then too I should have been obliged to combat Everett. He would not allow me to dismiss her without some good reason—something he would consider such.

I wonder why it is that if one is looking for trouble he always finds it? I was insistently watchful of Miss Pierce, of Everett, when she was around. My espionage brought results.

One day I had been out driving with Alice Sloane. I was a bit late in getting home, and Everett was in before me. His hat and coat lay on the hall rack.

I had let myself in with my key so no one knew I was home. Voices in the library arrested my attention. I walked quietly in that direction, with no intention of spying. But the the door was not tightly closed, and I heard Everett say:

"There, my dear, don't cry any more. It will make you ill."

I halted. Who was he talking to? In another moment I would have made my presence known, and so never have heard his remark.

Cautiously I pushed the door a trifle open. It yielded noiselessly to my touch. I could see into the room.

"There! please do not give way so." Everett again spoke.

Miss Pierce was seated before his desk, her folded arms upon it, and her head pillowed upon her arms. She was sobbing heart-brokenly. Everett's hand—I noticed with a sharp stab—was resting on her shoulder as he bent over her. To my jealous eyes it looked as if he had been embracing her.

"I'll try not to," she raised a tear-stained face. "I should be ashamed to worry you when you have been so good to me. But I am so unhappy so afraid she never will understand and consent to let me stay."

"We'll hope for the best. Come, go bathe your eyes, and leave it to me," he said, gently assisting her to rise, and holding her steady just a moment, his arm about her.

I nearly screamed aloud. Then I quietly slipped into the dinning room just across the hall, nearly upsetting Thomas with a tray full of silver.

"Is Mr. —Graham—in?" I panted. "I am late."

"Yes, Mrs. Graham, he came in some time ago."

"I'll be down in a few moments," I told him as I went into the hall, purposely making a noise.

To-morrow—"There's is no Possible Explanation."

WOMEN ARE MAKING GOOD IN PHARMACY

FIFTY PER CENT. OF HOSPITALS IN NEW YORK EMPLOY THEM IN LABORATORIES.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Fifty per cent. of the hospitals in New York have women pharmacists in their laboratories. It is a good position, with comfortable hours, excellent pay, and sometimes with a room in the hospital. That is what the say at the New York College of Pharmacy, where they wonder why there are not more than twenty-six girls in their graduating class this year when they have some 300 young men.

The answer seems to be that the women do not know so much about pharmacy as a profession for them. Many of those who do come as students have fathers or brothers or uncles who are in the business, and with whom they may perhaps get positions. There are not many of the desirable hospital positions vacant, for the reason that when a woman is placed in one she remains. If there is a vacancy the call comes:

"Please send us a woman, though, of course, if you haven't one a man will do."

Other girls take places and become valuable aids in the laboratories of different kinds of industrial plants, where they make good salaries and become fixtures in their places.

The average New Yorker would say that there was not such a thing as a woman pharmacist. One might spend a lifetime here and visit many drug stores and never meet one.

'It is not strange," said one of the girl students of the college, "when you think of the number of pharmacies in the city and how easy it would be to lose the twenty-six girls who are in this graduating class, or even the thirty juniors this year who will be graduated next."

What Writer Says.

Mrs. Dorothy Canfield Fisher, the writer, who visited the College of Pharmacy the other day, having been invited to meet the girl students, told them of what she had seen of women in the profession in France.

"They do a great deal of very good work here," she said, "and are much respected and have the confidence of the people, who go to them for simple remedies instead of going to the doctor. If there had not been women pharmacists in France during the war conditions would have been much worse in many ways than they were.

"One woman whom I met had a pharmacy in the front room in her house. I always like occupations that women can do in connection with their homes. You would see her putting up prescriptions and between times stepping to the door into the adjoining room to tell the little maid something to do about getting dinner, and then go back to her work again. She could only stop for a day or two when her baby came. Before she was able to get up they would bring the prescriptions and bottles to her bedside and she prepared the medicines. She was the only pharmacist in the village."

"It would be a very good profession for women who live in country places where there is a great need of something of the kind."

In the long list of druggists in the New York classified telephone directory only two women's names are to be found, unless they are masquerading under initials which do not specify the sex. There is a woman on Long Island who has a large drug store of her own, and a Brooklyn woman who went into a pharmacy to assist and eventually bought out the owner and is now conducting the business.

CHIEF DENIES MOB COMPELLED RELEASE

Says he ordered it Thinking McLean Needed Medical Care.

WINDSOR, June 3. — Denying that the mob that surrounded Windsor City Hall and police station on Saturday night had compelled him to release Frederick McLean, arrested as an alleged disorderly person, Chief of Police Wills said to-day he ordered McLean's release because he believed McLean needed medical.

"Returned soldiers," the Chief said, "took very little part in the riot, so far as I could see. Beyond shouting out what they did for their country during the war they displayed no rowdyism. Civilians, whose names I have, incited the mob to violence."

The police commissioners will meet early next week in special session to probe the riot. Patrolman Murray, who is said to have clubbed McLean, to-day turned in his uniform and his equipment. The commission, however, will not accept his resignation until after the investigation has been held."

THE PALACE AND THE COTTAGE

High on a mountain's haughty steep
Lord Hubert's palace stood;
Before it rolled a river deep,
Behind it waved a wood.
Low in an unfrequented vale
A peasant had his cell;
Sweet flowers perfumed the cooling gale
And graced his garden well.
But proud Lord Hubert's house and lands,
Of which he'd fain be rid,
Long linger on the agent's hands—
He cannot get a bid.
On sauces rich and viands fine
Lord Hubert's father fed;
Lord Hubert, when he wants to dine
Eats margarine and bread.
How different ohnest William's lot—
He's cheerful and content;
He always lets his humble cot
At thrice its yearly rent.
His dapple cow and garden grounds
Produce him ample spoil;
His lodgers pay him pounds and pounds,
He has not need to toil.
Lord Hubert sits in thrall and gloom
And super-taxes grim
Pursue him to his marble tomb,
And no one grieves for him.
But, when within his narorw bed
Old William comes to lie,
They'll find (I mean when Williams' dead)
A tidy bit put by.—Punch.

Codfish Croquettes

The EASIFIRST way

A DAINTY, satisfying and economical dish—when properly cooked! Use the recipe given here—just a wee bit of skill—and EASIFIRST. Your Codfish Croquettes will be light and delicious indeed.

Why? Because in deep frying EASIFIRST may be brought to an intense heat without burning. This means that foods fried in it have a quickly-formed, protecting crust which prevents the fat from soaking in. The interior cooking is done by heat alone, as it should be.

The EASIFIRST left over may be used again. It will not carry any flavor.

Here is a Good Recipe —Try It!

1 cup boiled codfish
2 cups mashed potatoes
1 cup thick white sauce
½ teaspoon pepper
Salt to taste
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Shred the codfish, add potatoes, pepper and parsley, then add the cream sauce. Shape, roll in crumbs and egg, then again in crumbs, and fry in a deep kettle of EASIFIRST.

For Cream Sauce, 1 level tablespoon EASIFIRST, 1 level tablespoons flour, 1 cup hot milk, ½ teaspoon salt.

Every package of EASIFIRST bears the Government's stamp of approval. Your grocer will supply you. Sold in cartons and tins.

They end corns
now in this scientific way

People who know—millions of them—now end all corns in this way.

They apply Blue-jay, either in liquid or in plaster form. It means but a touch and takes but a jiffy.

The corn pain stops. Then the Blue-jay gently undermines the corn so it loosens and comes out.

The modern way

It is made by a laboratory of world-wide repute.

Old-time treatments were harsh and inefficient. Blue-jay is gentle, quick and sure.

Now all corns are needless. All these pains can be avoided. To let corns remain while you pare and pad them is folly.

You can stop a corn ache the moment it appears. You can end a corn completely before it can develop.

Blue-jay has proved these facts to millions. It will prove them to you—and tonight—if you let it.

Quit the old methods of dealing with corns and see what this new way means. Your druggist sells Blue-jay.

ONTARIO'S MINIMUM WAGE LAW

RECENTLY PASSED BY THE LEGISLATURE PROVIDES FOR BOARD OF FIVE PERSONS, TWO OF THEM WOMEN, WHO HAVE POWER TO HOLD INVESTIGATIONS AND FIX MINIMUM WAGES FOR WOMEN—A DIGEST OF THE CLAUSES.

Of the legislative material considered by the Ontario Legislature, in its taken as strictly "Labour" in character. They are all supported by the bodies of organised labour, and are Mothers' Pensions, amendments to the Compensation Act, and the Minimum Wage Bill. The last of these has passed through the House, and becomes effective on the 1st of July.

In a number of respects it differs from the other acts of a similar nature now existing in Canada. It is not a flat rate law, like that of Alberta. It provides for an independent commission, and therein differs from British Columbia, where the chairman of the Board is the Deputy-Minister of Labour. It is more like the laws of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, the chief difference, perhaps, being that it is limited to wages, whereas the Prairie Provinces have included hours and working conditions as well. It differs most sharply from the Quebec law in respect of the industries covered by it, for in Quebec only factories are brought within its scope, while the Ontario law reaches to all women in any trade or occupation in the Province.

A Board of Five.

The new law will establish a Board of five persons, two of whom shall be women. The employers and employees will have each two representatives, and there will be a disinterested chairman. The chairman holds office during the pleasure of the Government. The other members of the Board sit for five years.

The Board is given authority to conduct investigations into any industry which employs women, and to fix a minimum wage for women and girls employed in it. They may do this without resorting to the device of a conference or trades-board, but, upon request, may appoint such a conference. It would appear that the Board is not bound by the decision of the conference in any way. The prevailing usage, as in the United States, British, and Australian laws, is for the Board or corresponding body to have simply a revising power over the recommendations of the conferences. The Ontario law gives the Board the same authority which is given to the Board in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and makes them virtually independent of the conferences.

This will correct a trouble which has constantly arisen where the Board has had to wait upon the findings of the conferences. These conferences have been frequently slow in reaching any decision, and moreover, the bargaining power of the employers' representatives. The Board itself, which will rapidly accumulate knowledge and gather authority in regard to women's work, is better able to hold the balance between the arbitrating parties than any one of lesser experience and influence.

Chairman Has No Vote.

A curious variation from the trades-boards of the United States is written into the law. The chairman of a conference has no vote. Thus there can be no arbitration by a third party. The interested parties must do their own arbitrating. The chairman can only conciliate and persuade. This change follows the practice of the Whitley Councils in Britain, and is of great significance. It makes majority and minority reports impossible, except where the line of division cuts across the boundaries of the two groups concerned.

The regulations under which the Board will prosecute its work are to be made by the Lieutenant-Governor-Council. This means, of course, that the Board must gain the approval of the Government in respect to its rules of order, its relation to the Bureau of Labour, its questionnaires to employers, and its presenting of public reports. Only thus far is the independence of the Board qualified. Its fixation of wages becomes law of its own act, upon publication in the Ontario Gazette.

Doesn't Touch Hours.

The law has nothing to say as to hours of work, or the conditions under which work is carried on. These matters are dealt with in the Factory Act, and committed to the care of the Bureau of Labour. Thus it follows the usual practice in other lands, but a great part of the work of the Boards in Manitoba and Saskatchewan was done in regard to hours of labour and the conditions of work. Doubtless, given cordial co-operation between the Board and the Bureau of Labour, the result will be quite happy. The laws of Ontario however, allow sixty hours a week and ten hours a day of work, and permit children to be employed in shops at twelve years of age and in factories at fourteen.

The administration of the law is given to the Bureau of Labour. Here again the issue hangs on the relations between the Board and the Bureau. The bigger half of labour legislation lies in the enforcement of the laws. In case there arise any cases where permits of temporary exemption might be desirable, as very well may happen, no provision has been made in the law.

Lacks Protection Clause.

One clause, uniformly found in Minimum Wage laws, is omitted from the Ontario Act. It is the clause which protects employees from dismissal or other injury at the hands of employers on account of evidence given to the Board. It is true that such a clause can be evaded without extreme difficulty. Yet some of the States have found it useful, and applied it effectively. Its chief value is of the moral sort, in setting forth a challenge to vindictive employers. It sometimes achieves the continuance in her job of an employee who has been active in the investigation who otherwise might have been dismissed. Most employers do not want to incur the suspicion of having been vindictive.

The movement in Ontario for such legislation received much assistance from the publication by the Government of the prevailing wages in a number of industries throughout the Province in 1918-1919. The wage-rates were published as part of a vocational directory to young people about to enter the industrial world. Typical establishments in all parts of the Provinces were visited and the several industries described in such a way is to provide information for the public or high school graduate about to look for a job. An essential part of such information, necessarily, was the rate of pay in each industry. From this investigation it appeared that quite low wages were being paid, particularly in those industries which employed a large number of girls. In one industry two-thirds of the females employed earned less than $10.00 per week. In another three-quarters were paid as little. In another seven-eighths were as low. Other industries paid much more.

There was revealed the same conditions in women's employments which has been found wherever investigations have been made, great variations between trades and astonishingly low wages in certain trades. The report of the Government does not go so far as to distinguish establishments in the several trades. If it had done so it would certainly have shown that the same variation exists within each industry as exists between the industries. The fact is that the women's trades, except in the rare cases where they have been organised, are without standards of wages.

Employers Should Welcome It.

This is the opportunity of the sweater employer and all his ilk. The better class of employers have reason to welcome the passing of the minimum wage laws. They are thus saved from the operation of this Gresham's law of industry, that the poorer plants tend to drive out the better. They are freed from this unfair element in competition. It is true, as careful studies have shown, that the sweater employer is not the most successful manufacturer. He is rarely a good merchant, buying and selling to advantage. His one means of economising and increasing production is by preying upon the vital assets of his business, which is his working force. Thus the higher type of manufacturer has been able to withstand his competition. But it is nevertheless unfair competition, and should be abolished.

Hope for Harmony.

It is to be hoped, and even expected, that the same harmony which has generally characterised minimum wage legislation will attend the operations of the new Ontario Board. The simple and convincing principle, which, by the way, is not explicitly set forth in the Ontario law, that the worker who gives her time and effort shall receive at least enough for her decent maintenance, is the foundation upon which employer and employee find it possible to agree. After that it is a matter of cost-of-living budgets. Here, too, unanimity has generally been found possible. In spite of differences upon single articles—for one will insist that silk stockings are a necessity and another will call an umbrella a luxury—it is commonly possible for a group of men and women possessing common sense and goodwill to agree upon the sum which a woman needs in order to support herself properly. And that is the end of the matter for the Board. It does not fix wages, but draws limiting lines. The minimum has never yet become the maximum, in thirty years of experimentation in all parts of the world.

The enforcement of this law will mean fairer wages for many women in Ontario. It ought also to mean better relations between the employing and the employed class.—By J. W. McMillan, in the Journal of Commerce.

BABY COLEMAN.

161, Cambridge Road,
Seven Kings, Essex.

Dear Sirs,

My baby seemed to be quite healthy at birth, but being unable to feed him I tried different foods at various times. At first he appeared to be making progress, but after a few months it became evident he was wasting, and I was advised to try Virol. He soon began to pull round, and in a short time made considerable weight and was altogether brighter and happier. This satisfactory progress has continued, thanks to Virol, which has built up his strength, making him a splendidly sturdy little fellow. In view of the gratifying results obtained, I do not hesitate to recommend Virol whenever the question arises of the best alternative food for baby.—Yours truly, G. C. COLEMAN.

Virol increases the power of resistance to the germs of disease and replaces wasted tissue, it is therefore a valuable food in Measles, Whooping-cough, Infantile Diarrhœa, Influenza, etc.

OLD FACTOR ON ARCTIC COAST HAS RETIRED

DAWSON, Y.T., — Word comes from Fort McPherson, on the Arctic coast, of the retirement of John Firth, famous factor of the old Hudson Bay company post at that point, said to be the most northerly station operated by the company.

Probably every trader, trapper and whaler along the Arctic coast knows Firth. His son-in-law, Jack Parsons, has succeeded him as factor. The old factor will spend his remaining years in a home built for him at the fort.

BRIDGE LOOKS LIKE A DISCARDED TOY

ONLY TWO MISERABLE LIGHTS ON WHOLE STRUCTURE—IMPROVEMENT PROMISED AT ONCE.

Ald. Whitehouse, at a meeting of Council's Finance committee last night, once more drew attention to the need for improvement in the lighting of Smith street bridge. Conditions at present are a disgrace, he declared, and this beautiful structure looks like a child's discarded toy. On one side of the bridge there are no lights at all, on the other but two, and poor specimens at that. He, with Ald. Morrison, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee, had inspected conditions and found that new wiring was needed.

Ald. Morrison said that at first Mr. H. O. Fisk, manager of the Peterborough Utilities, disputed that the maintenance of electric wiring on this bridge was a matter for his department. But on being shown invoices including charges against the city for this work in the past, Mr. Fisk readily acknowledged his mistake, and agreed to at once have the lighting of Smith street bridge given whatever attention is necessary to afford adequate service.

Ald. Whitehouse here remarked that he had spoken quite insistently on this subject several times before, but no attention had been paid to his complaints. He now hoped for whatever action is needed to assure the proper lighting of this much-travelled bridge highway.

What Causes Wrinkles? What's the Remedy?

Stop to consider what produces wrinkles and sagginess of skin. Pernature aging, mal-nutrition, etc., cause the flesh to shrink, lose its youthful plumpness and firmness. The skin then is too large for the flesh underneath; doesn't fit tightly and snugly as it used to—it wrinkles or sags.

It must be plain that to tighten the skin, make it fit the face perfectly in every place, will effectually remove the hateful wrinkles and bagginess. This is easily and harmlessly accomplished by dissolving an ounce of pure powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel and using the solution as a face wash. The ingredients you can get at any drug store, of course. The results are surprising. The skin immediately tightens up, becoming firm and fresh as in youth. Every wrinkle and sag are affected at once.

One Million Dollar Fund Proposed by New York Financiers.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—All the golden details of New York financiers' plans for launching the Presidential candidacy of Major-General Leonard Wood in a sea of money were laid bare by the Senate political expenditures' investigation today. Charles H. Duell, New York, attorney, who was 'in on the deal," confessed all.

"Gen. Wood himself was in the home of Ambrose Monell at New York City the night the plans for the underwriting of his candidacy to the extent of $1,000,000 was discussed and he acquiesced," was the statement of Mr. Duell, who has since severed all Wood connections. Monell is connected with the International Nickel, Midvale Steel and American Bank Note Companies.

HASTINGS TO VOTE ON POWER BY-LAW

ASSIST FOWLDS PLANT INSTEAD OF BUYING FROM HYDRO.

Instead of tieing itself up to the Hydro-Electric system for a supply of power, Hastings proposes to loan $8,000 to the Fowlds generating system located in the village. It has been serving the community with electricity for light and power purposes. A close estimate of the cost of Hydro power would have been $27,400 last fall, and at present prices $32,000. As security for the $8,000 loan which Fowlds agree to pay back in eight instalments they give a mortgage on their property. The average production will be 200 h.p. with a reserve capacity of 50 h.p. Fowlds has the local power rights from which a maximum of 1400 h.p. can be developed. Hastings' action is in marked contrast with Lakefield, Peterborough and other communities in this power district.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Will you kindly permit me to call attention once more to the community dance? While controversy has no charm for me, and I will not enter the lists, yet as a citizen I must stand for something. Now, let me call attention to an article in Thursday's issue of your paper, bearing on the community dance, and written by "Citizen." This article is kind, courteous, and dignified, and simply expresses the views of a citizen of the community. The article breathes the very essence of loyalty to civic authority, and yet this writer is met in Friday's issue of the same paper with a regular tirade of opposition.

Now, sir, "Citizen" claims that civic authority must protect the citizen from that which is a nuisance and an offence. The community dance is such to hundreds of good, law-abiding people, therefore the rights of these citizens have not been respected. The relation and attitude of men and women, engaged in the modern round dance, is such that we do not wish our children and young people to witness, and I may say that this is the feeling of every evangelical church worthy of the name in the city. Let the churches speak out, if this is not the case. A common expression to-day is this, "The city is dancing mad." Who will deny this?

One word more: No man placed in a civic position by the will of the people can afford to hold in contempt the opinions of a citizen. I am absolutely in accord with "Citizen" in regard to the views he holds on the community dance. Citizen.

THE HAGENBACK CIRCUS DREW BIG TORONTO CROWDS

Two immense crowds, one yesterday afternoon and another last night, packed the huge tent of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus at Dufferin track park. For noisy expression of approval it is doubtful if anything to equal it has been heard in Toronto in a long while says the Toronto World.

Of the 200 acts on the program it would be difficult to say which were in chief favor. The animal acts, of course, came in for a liberal share of applause, but no more so than did most of the "stunts" by the human performers. Some of the aerial acts were of a sort calculated to take the beholder's breath, while others were chiefly meritorious by reason of their grace.

The big Bengal tiger rode the largest elephant in the herd, and from time to time jumped through blazing hoops. A Nubian lion rode the back of a beautiful white horse. The bear acts, performances by the trained pumas, and the work of the boxing kangaroos were far above the ordinary. A young lady balanced on a revolving ball worked her way to the top of a dizzy incline and to the ground again—a feat which appeared to be impossible. One of the most remarkable horizontal bar performances imaginable is a feature of the show.

But for beauty, and as a startling climax to a number of other clever turns, the "highest jumping horse in the world" and his rider, a young girl, can perhaps lay claim to the greatest credit of all. This horse, a beautiful, nervous animal, carried her over the 9-foot hurdles as easily as a swallow could skim over the roof of a barn. How he did it is a mystery, for scarcely an instant before leaving the ground he paused in a quick charge, appeared to remain stationary—then in a flash rose almost straight into the air and was over the barrier before people in the audience had been given time to gasp.

There were a great many clowns and their work was good. Humor of a clean sort bubbled forth all the time. The old circus patrol wagon scene, of course, was on the hills, and several other old favorites were to be seen, but there was a good many original clown capers.

A good business was done by the side shows, where the knife throwers, snake charmers, dancers, minstrels, jugglers, the Igorrotes, or head hunters from the Island of Luzon, held forth. They were kept late at their work by the overflow from the big tent.

MRS. J. C. WILSON PASSES AWAY

Injuries Sustained in Caledon Wreck Thirteen Years Ago Prove Fatal.

TORONTO, June 4.—As the result of injuries received nearly thirteen years ago in the Caledon train wreck Mrs. Annie L. Wilson, wife of Rev. J. C. Wilson, died yesterday morning at her home, 251 Havelock street. Mrs. Wilson was well on Tuesday, but after a fall early in the afternoon she lapsed into unconsciousness, and died at 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

Mrs. Wilson was born in England, but came to this country when eleven years of age, and, until her marriage, lived with her parents in Peterboro'. Following the train wreck Mr. Wilson was superannuated, and has since lived in the city. Three years ago the couple celebrated their golden wedding.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Wilson is survived by one daughter, Miss Annie, at home, and one son, Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, pastor of Cobourg Methodist Church. Another son, Dr. Wilson, was drowned a number of years ago when his canoe upset in the Lake of the Woods.

"Then I used Cuticura, and when I had used four cakes of Soap and four boxes of Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. George Hisler, R. F. D. 2, Box 44, Coopers Mills, Me., May 6, 1919.

Stomach and Liver Trouble

Once the liver fails to filter the poisonous bile from the blood, there is a clogging up and poisoning of the whole system which causes many troubles to arise. Therefore, upon the liver, more than any other organ of the body, depends the general health.

Carelessness and neglect, and oftentimes wilful disregard of nature's laws will put the system out of sorts. The bowels become constipated, the liver inactive and the stomach upset. To bring the system back to its normal you should take Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. They liven up the liver, get the bowels back to their proper condition and tone up the stomach.

Mrs. C. L. Cachets, Pechant, Alta., writes:—"I have used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and have found them good for both stomach and liver troubles. I have told others about your valuable medicine and they have used them with good results.

"They are also good for headache."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ENTERTAINMENT BY THE HOME DEPARTMENT

AT MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH LAST NIGHT.

An interesting programme was given last night in the Murray Street Baptist Church, under the auspices of the Home Department. From beginning to end the large audience was kept in excellent humour. All the parts were well received. Suggestive of the approach of summer were the selections by the little Sunday School girls with their umbrellas and arms full of spring blossoms. A novel and pleasing feature was the duet and chorus given by the visitors and the officers, the duet being taken by Mrs. Barrie and Mrs. Zavitz. As voiced in a hearty vote of thanks tendered by Messrs. Radden and Hardell, much credit is due the superintendent and officers of the Home Department for the success of this their first entertainment. Rev. J. R. Webb was the chairman. The programme included the following numbers:

ART EXHIBIT AT THE CENTRAL SCHOOL

Was largely attended by the Parents Yesterday Afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon and evening a large and interested number of mothers and friends of the Central School children attended the art exhibit held in the Kindergarten room of the school under the auspices of the Home and School Club, and all were keenly interested in the splendid exhibition, which included some really splendid samples of art.

The guests were received by Mrs. Roland Denne and in the afternoon Mrs. Campbell poured tea and was assisted by Mrs. Burrell, Mrs. Gavine and Mrs. Lush, while in the evening Mrs. J. T. C. Laing presided at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. Oke and Mrs. Bennett. Mrs. Heiderman acted as convenor of the tea arrangements.

During the afternoon the three ribbons donated by the Home and School Association to the three best artists in each room, were presented to the winners by Mrs. Denne.

In the evening the teachers from the different forms welcomed the guests and explained the different exhibits, which included some splendid samples of sewing done by the children and some weird and ingenious specimens of plasticine.

Always buy an unbroken package of "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" which contains proper directions for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Joint Pains, and Pain generally. Tin boxes of 12 tablets cost but a few cents. Larger "Bayer" packages.

There is only one Aspirin—"Bayer"—You must say "Bayer"

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid. 1ST CO-OPERATIVE SALE OF CHEESE HELD YESTERBAY

H. B. COWAN, WHO ATTENDED, REPORTS A BIG SUCCESS—GOOD PRICES OBTAINED.

The first cooperative sale of cheese by public auction in Montreal, in which many Peterboro County dairymen were keenly interested, was held yesterday afternoon and proved a great success. The factories which had shipped their cheese to Montreal made considerably more money by doing so than they would had they sold their cheese on the local cheese boards. The sale was held by the United Dairymen Cooperative, Limited, the new farmers' company which has been launched within the past few months and whose head office is here in Peterboro. Mr. H. B. Cowan of Farm and Dairy, the Secretary-Treasurer of the company, who was in Montreal yesterday attending the sale, returned this morning and gave the Examiner full details about it.

The cheese, on its arrival in Montreal, was graded by experts furnished by the Dominion Dairy Division into three classes, "Specials", "Firsts" and "Seconds", 45 "Specials" sold for 29 7-8 cents per pound; 671 "Firsts", both white and colored, sold for 29 3-4 cents. One lot of 29 boxes of "Seconds" was not sold. The best bid was 28 3-4 cents. The price asked was 29 1-8 cents. Cloverdale Factory in Prince Edward County by shipping to Montreal instead of selling on the Picton board on May 28th, saved 5-8 cents a pound. A Tweed factory, which sold half its cheese at the Belleville board price and shipped the other half to Montreal for sale, obtained 1-2 cents a pound more on the cheese shipped to Montreal. In both cases, all shipping and selling charges in connection with the Montreal sale have been allowed for. Other factories did equally as well. Most of the cheese offered for sale was from the Central Ontario district, although there were a few lots from east of Kingston. Some cheese that were shipped did not reach Montreal in time for the sale. It is expected that next week's sale will be much larger. The sale was held in the Council Room of the Board of Trade. There was a large attendance of buyers, practically all the big firms being represented by their head men. Mr. R. W. Ireland, the former president of the company, presided, and explained what the farmers were aiming to accomplish by holding the sales in Montreal. Dairy Commissioner J. A. Ruddick, of Ottawa and Chief Dairy Instructor, G. G. Publow of Kingston, both spoke strongly in favour of the new method of selling cheese, which they considered was a far superior method to the cheese board system. Mr. Vallincourt, president of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association, on behalf of the Montreal merchants welcomed this new move on the part of the Ontario farmers. Mr. Cowan spoke on behalf of the farmers.

The sale was conducted by Mr. W. W. Moore, the manager of the United Dairymen Cooperative Ltd. In all between $16,000 and $17,000 worth of chese was sold in about 15 minutes. Considerable Peterboro County was not shipped in time to reach the sale but will be sold at the next sale next Friday. Mr. Cowan stated that the attacks that have been made on the new company on the various cheese boards during the past month were pretty well exploded by the results of yesterday's sale. He expects that next week from $25,000 to $35,000 worth of cheese will be sold and that the volume of chese sold will increase rapidly from week to week. The Ontario cheese sold realized nearly half a cent a pound more than Quebec cheese sold by auction earlier in the day.

NOURISHING FOOD AND GOOD HOURS

Help You to Resist Disease — Aid These With a Tonic to Keep the Blood Pure.

The power of your body to resist disease and to fight it after disease gets a foothold, is one of the most precious possessions you have. You weaken this power when you let your general health run down, your blood gets thin and your nerves unsteady.

You weaken it when you worry, when you overwork, when you do not get sufficient sleep, and when you are under-nourished, either because you do not eat the right kind of food or because your digestion is out of order.

You preserve your power to resist disease when you keep good hours and eat proper food at regular intervals. You further increase and strengthen resistance to disease when you build up your blood and nerves by the occasional use of a tonic like Dr. Williams Pink Pills, which are free from opiates and harmful drugs of any kind. The value of these pills as a health builder is fully shown by the experience of Mrs. E. C. Taylor, Hanover, Ont., who says: "At various times since I was a girl of fifteen I have proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. At that age I was in a much run down condition, suffering from many of the well known symptoms of anaemia. My mother procured a supply of Dr. Williams Pink Pills, and after taking about a half dozen boxes I was restored to normal health. Again after my marriage, and before my boy was born, I felt miserable and again took Dr. Williams Pink Pills, which once more met all my expectations and fully restored my health. My latest experience with these pills was following an attack of pleurisy, which left me completely broken in health. Part of the time I was under the care of two doctors, and for three months I was practically between life and death. Again at my mother's suggestion I started the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills. I had not been taking them long before I could tell that they were helping me. Day by day I could feel my strength returning, and was soon enjoying good health once more. In view of my experience I think I can safely say there is nothing in the way of medicine better than Dr. Williams Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CLIENTS OF MR. BNGLEY IN DIVISION COURT

In the division court yesterday the case of F. J. A. Hall vs. Elliott and Windover, was adjourned till the next sitting of the court, since Windover had not been served. Mr. Basil Hall appeared for F. J. A. Hall, who is suing to receive $40 for the services of Mr. J. Guise-Bagley in endeavoring to secure exemption for Chester Windover. Alex. Elliott of Harvey township, is the employer.

Lawrence E. McCracken was sued for $25. Mr. Bagley told the court that he served overseas and had an honroble career in the army. He applied for exemption which was refused on the persuasion of his employer and friends. The Judge suggested that Mr. Bagley and the defendant get together and settle the matter between them. Judgment against McCracken for $12.50 and costs, amounting in all to about $19 were given by Judge Huycke.

WORK ON SUNDAY.

Some Farmers Say They Are Obliged to Because of Late Season.

(Canadian Press.)

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., June 5. — Considerable protest is being voiced by farmers in certain districts in being interfered with by the provincial police in asking them to desist from working on the land on Sundays. The farmers claim they are obliged to work Sundays on account of the late season, so as to make up for the lost time which the weather occasioned. The action of the police, it is said, is the result of complaints made by the Lord's Day Alliance of the province.

DO YOU EXPECT TO LIVE LONG?
The facts are against you. In one Life Insurance Company during three months, sixteen died of OLD AGE, 3736 died at PREMATURE AGES, and each one was sound when the Insurance was issued.
Each one had just as good a right to expect to live to old age as you have.
Another Insurance Company shows that out of Claims paid last year, 8.8 per cent. died the FIRST YEAR, and 72.5 per cent. died INSIDE OF TWENTY YEARS.
Note well that the Men and Women who died the first year left approximately fifty times as much to their heirs as if they had carried the premium.

GAME LAWS FLOUTED IN FALL; SPRING ALONG RICE LAKE SHORES

BONNYCASTLE DALE FINDS SIGNS OF ILLEGAL TRAPPING OF MUSKRATS AND SHOOTING OF WILD DUCKS—INTERESTING STORY OF HIS VISIT THIS YEAR.

By BONNYCASTLE DALE in "Rod and Gun."

It was mid-February when we started across the badly cracked surface of the lake ice for the hut on Migration Island. We wanted to register climatic and flight conditions and—of course—Laddie Jr. wanted to trap.

The Indians of Hiawatha fooled him by placing their unset traps out a week ahead of time—it seemed to be April Fool all around as the weather turned so mild that some of the wild fowl migration fared north and the moose wood threw out leaves over an inch long—down pounced Winter again and froze everything up—but not the Lad's desire to get his traps out too before the first of March. As all the best places were being taken up I told him to go to a kind neighbour's and to telephone to a Game Overseer and ask if it was permissible to lay out traps now. He got the answer "Yes" and out he set with his traps on the night of the 27th of Feb.—lo and behold on the morning of the 28th another Overseer arrived with the kind news that he was ordered by the Department to pick up all traps. I kindly but firmly told him not to touch the Lad's traps as he had permission to put them out, but to go and telephone the Department of Game himself. We watched the good old chap skate off and hours after he returned—and did not pick up any of the hundreds of traps set out. Although he kept his counsel we "smelt a mice," and were glad we had not been accused of an infraction of the Act.

In the meantime another Overseer aided by two white trappers, picked up all the Indians' traps at the mouth of the Otonabee, as well as a few white men's set traps. Off posted one of the Hiawatha Band to Peterboro and he got news that the traps could not be seized if they were unset—by this time we were so uncertain as to just where we did stand that I wrote the Deputy Minister and found out that the Department did not make a practise of seizing unset traps. I wrote this letter for the Chief of the Hiawatha whose entire set of traps had been seized—so the Overseer had to take back to the Otonabee the traps he had wrongfully taken, although the blame is not on him as he had orders from someone to pick them up—but although the Indians, under advice from Chief Crowe, acted orderly, there was some tall grumbling and mutterng. Poor Laddie Jr. ad half his traps up and half scattered through the marsh. Some men lost good places and others got them.

Now my advice is—No trap should be set until it can be set in and well covered by water— and not water made by chopping holes, the natural water of the thaw or rise. Many advocate not setting until they can be set in the water from a canoe. I think this is good too—BUT NO TRAP SHOULD BE.. PUT.. OUT FOR.. MUSKRATS.. SOUTH.. OF THE FRENCH RIVER, SET OR UNSET, BEFORE MARCH FIRST.

Were Illegally Trapped.

The prolific Muskrat has had a hard time. I told you last April of their being frozen in great numbers during the winter of 17-18, then they were illegally trapped out in the Fall of '18, but they produced about half a catch for 1919. It was a rare sight to see a muskrat house at all in the Fall of '18. I knew it was utterly impossible to trap out the muskrats thoroughly from any one place. This animal, belonging to North America only, has spread from the furthest northern place where grows a tree, to the warm waters of the Gulf of Mexico—although I have noted a difference in the color of the fur; a few thousand miles difference in the homes of the animal leave them exactly alike. All have the young born blind, and a pretty little grey and pink silky thing it is, with great awkward hind feet. Many a time one of my assistants has tried to rear one of these puny crying babies; I have found my fountain pen filled full of curdled milk when an overzealous Laddie Jr., had tried to squirt warm milk into a writhing youngster, but always in the small hours before dawn of some morning the squawling ceased—not altogether; for the lad now took it up at the loss of his wee pet. I must defend him by saying he never took a young one until it had been deserted by its mother. It is sad the great number of muskrats that twist and tear their legs when caught. Here is money reward for some man who can make a trap that will always hold a muskrat and sell it for a fairly low price: I still do not think the animal eats its leg off. I know many a trapper tells me so. I have seen many muskrats fearing at the trap, but I have never seen any part of the foot below the trap actually torn with tooth marks—Yes! I know I am on debatable ground, but I cannot really find proof that the animal applies its teeth to its imprisoned member—if it did the foot projecting into the trap would be badly numbed; and a much less painful place to tear at.

It is remarkable the quarrelling and jealousy this trapping arouses—although many of the men are trapping on ground from which they could be turned off—(see High Court decision that the owner of lands owns all trapping rights in waters thereon, or write Edward Meek, lawyer, for printed decision to be published in the Mail and Empire, Toronto, at any time.

No Work for White Boys.

Trappers still argue and quarrel with one another as if they owned the ground. There is no doubt that the few dollars a white man can get at trapping is a ready addition to the housekeeping funds, but it does seem a shame, in this age when education is the only test of a man or boy, that any father should bring his boy up to such an uncertain livelihood as trapping.

Flout the Law.

I find things in the trapping and hunting field in worse condition than before the war. I never heard any such regular Spring duckshooting as I heard this year and nearly all if it was from localities where only white men could have done it. I hear that many muskrat houses were broken into this Spring and traps set in them. Also the Overseers tell me there is much more Fall trapping than before. I would strongly advise the Department to select Returned Men—strangers to each locality where they are placed—as overseers. Remember I am speaking from the viewpoint of a middle aged man—true I broke game laws when I was young—but the alarming decrease in the bass and maskinonge tells me that unless the overseers really stop the Spring spearing and the Winter ice-fishing there will be little left for the Summer trollers. Everywhere I go I find the same apathy towards the game laws, if we Canddians would only realize that we are actually stealing our own fish and wildfowl and fur, when we take them out of season, stealing from ourselves as truly as if we slyly put our hand into our own pocket and abstracted and threw into the water a handful of silver; then we may begin to value our game.

The same toll of maimed and injured among the song birds and wild fowl and marsh birds was taken by the traps this Spring—Oh! how it makes one shudder to hear the alarmed cries and see the wild plunges of our game birds when caught in the trap; poor black ducks call so loudly, the great blue heron thrashes so wildly that it dies from exhaustion in a few hours, bitterns survive a long time, mudhens a shorter while, the Fall ducks soon thrash their weary lives out, the blackbirds and snow-birds, yes, nearly all the perching birds soon perish. Is there no short cut to mercy? I know the majority of trappers will trap and cannot avoid these poor intruders. I also know our appeal last year saved hundreds of lives, a few traps were set before they were placed in the water this year. I tell you truly, all you trappers who have farms or gardens, if you kill off the insect-eating birds this way the world will eventually face famine.

Catch Fell Off.

The crop of 1919 muskrat skins fell off fifty per cent. from the year before. No sale of ten million skins this year in London as there was in 1914. Without doubt this is the most valuable furbearer, and, if the fur seal does not soon strike, all milady's coats will be of "near seal," commonly called "musquash" or muskrat. Why do not more men go in for muskrat farming? A hundred acre marsh, well inclosed, will give any man a fair living, without, if it is stocked with natural food, the expenditure of much cash. The only animal to guard against is Man, the one member of the Animal Kingdom always worth watching. Reports from the South tell of one taking in seven thousand dollars off his big marsh—over a thousand acres—but he sold all the bodies as "marsh rabbits" to the cafes of a big city—so city dwellers watch your menus closer than ever.

The Fur Sale.

"Say, I want to go to the fur sale," Laddie called over my clicking typewriter. I watched him sail away to the Indian village, and on his return he told me, "We all went into the Council Chamber, bags of skins and all, they took your advice and got together and made the buyers bid on the fur. Each man wrote his bid and signed it and laid the folded paper on the table—how all the faces leaned forward when the bits of paper were opened—"Two dollars and forty-five cents" read one, "Two dollars and fifty cents," the next, "read out Hank Cow," "Two dollars and fifty cents he repeated for the third one, "Guess you fellows had better bid again" he told the two highest bidders. Once more they wrote and folded and handed in their bids, "Two dollars and fifty-three cents," called out the Indian, "Two dollars and fifty-five cents," he called for the last one. This was acceptable, and off went the lucky buyer with the men to count the big catches. Chief Crowe beat them all with two hundred and ten—and he also ran had but three, but the total was about fifteen hundred, and many a satisfied Indian there was at such an unheard of price—yes and "everything went" even a last Fall's pelt that was shot by mistake for a wounded duck.

The mildness of the winter made the skins a bit tender for stretching and the entire absence of kittens made the run of size very large, this no kitten catch tells of Fall trapping and it would be better for those men to leave them until the Spring and get a good price. I think the authorities should make a strong effort to find out just who are the guilty buyers of illegal pelts and take away their licenses.

Appeal to Sportsmen.

I would just like to again appeal to all true sportsmen to try and kill the drakes in the Fall flight of big bluebills, as they so greatly outnumbered the females in the Spring flight—some fifteen thousand males to five thousand females—that the most prolific duck family that we have left is in danger of being badly reduced in numbers.

I have not the same fear for the muskrats as I heard of two couples that were exported to a Bohemian noble—these were the busy little four these just got right down to business and they filled that Kingdom of Bohemia chuck full of little muskrats who cut into all the great fish pond reserves, and in ten years the descendants of that industrious four keep all the trappers of that part of our late Austrian enemies busy.

CHERETTE AND COURSEY ARE TIED FOR THE LEADERSHIP

C.G.E. SHORT STOP AND THISTLE OUTFIELDER ARE HITTING AT .556 CLIP IN THE CITY LEAGUE RACE—THISTLES LEAD IN BATTING, FIELDING AND PITCHING—THE INDIVIDUAL BATTING AVERAGES.

Roy Cherrett, shortstop of the C. G.E. team, and Jim Coursey, outfielder of the Thistles, are tied for the in dividual batting honours in the City League, according to the official averages, which are published to-iay, and which include all games played so far, the records being those of players who have taken part in at least three games. Cherrett and Coursey have each made five hits in nine trips to the plate. The Thistles haye five men among the first eight on the list.

The leading run-getter is Harold Adams, centre fielder of the Thistles, who has crossed the home station nine times in four games.

The Thistles also have the player who has made the most hits, in Max Swanston, with nine safeties, and the leading extra base hitter in Hap Harrison, who has six doubles to his credit.

The team batting and fielding averages show the Thistles leading by a wide margin in both departments of the game, while of course they top the pitching lists, as no defeats have been registered against them. Incidentally their pitching staff has only allowed six runs in four games.

BASEBALL LEAGUE IN THE FAR NORTH

(Canadian Press)

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., June 5.—Far northern international baseball supremacy will be decided this Summer when teams from Ketchikan, Alaska, and Prince Rupert, B.C., will meet in a series of games. Games can be played at Kethchikan only at low tide as the ball park is on the waterfront flats and is flooded at high tide.

LOCKWORKS WON FROM BARRIES IN OVERTIME MERCANTILE GAME

SHREWD TACTICS BY MANAGER WHALEY IN TROTTING OUT PINCH HITTERS—WYATT'S THREE-BAGGER IN EXTRA INNINGS ENDED THE SESSION.

A fine brand of strategy introduced by Manager Whaley enabled Lock-Works to walk off the Oval last night with an overtime victory of 6 to 5, over Barrie's. The two Commercial League teams put up a scrappy battle and Barries after coming from behind, were leading at the end of the sixth by two runs. With two gone in the seventh, the Lock Works pilot sent Huffman to bat for Connors and he got on when Irvine mussed up a throw from off Huffman's grounder. Black sent a sizzler at Irvine, who stabbed the ball but instead of retiring the runner at his bag threw to second and both men were safe. Then Huffman bluffed a lead off second, and got Barries throwing the ball back and forth, and finally he made the third base. Black going to second. Guerin clouted out a long single and two runs were counted, tieing the score. Westbrooke was pulled out from the crowd and went to bat for Ward. He fanned, retiring the side.

A fast double play, engineered by Wyatt, killed Barries' chances in the eight. In their half Lock Works won the game with none out. Jobbitt who had gone hitless, dumped the ball in front of the plate and beat the throw to first. Wyatt hit to right for three bases, sending in Jobbitt with the winning run.

Ed. Doughty twirled for Barries, and deserved a win. His teammates bobbled horribly, and due to "Duke" Neary's good pitching did not get anything that looked like a hit for four innings. Then they tried to make amends and on doubles by Dougthy and Smith, with a wild pitch and a pas sin betwe n, scored two runs. Three more, giving them the lead, came in the sixth. With this trio, Neary handed the burden over to Connors, who steadied the game. Then came the Lock Works barrage in the seventh, and Neary returning to the box in the eighth, held the Barrie crowd back.

ANNA CASE AT GRAND

Anna Case, the beautiful grand opera singer, will be seen in her first picture, "The Hidden Truth", on at the Grand Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Helen Merrill, a beautiful girl with a wonderful singing voice and a refined manner, is out of place as an entertainer in Bill Sheridan's saloon and dance hall in Nugget City. Another girl in the resort is Myrtle Cadby, whose husband, a drunkard and a bully, treats her abusively and takes all of her earnings.

Sheridan and "Snipe" Roach, a mining shark, salt the Golden Chance mine and attempt to sell it to Charles Taylor, a rich New Yorker. Taylor sends George Reed, a mining expert in whom he has absolute confidence to investigate the mine. Reed sees through the fraud at once but offers to keep quiet and put the deal over if the results are split three ways.

One day Cadby is particularly hateful to his wife, and Helen tries to protect her against her husband's tirades. He throws Helen down and advances to the bed of his wife where she is lying ill. She picks up Helen's pistol and kills her husband. Before she dies, Myrtle gives Helen a letter to a man in New York, to whom she was supposed to ha e gone when she ran away and married her husband. She tells Helen to take the letter and go to him, as he was her father's mining partner at one time and will treat her well.

A few days later Helen goes to the city. When she gets to the home of the man to whom the letter is addressed she learns that he is Charles Taylor, to whom Sheridan and "Snipe" are trying to sell the salted mine. Taylor believes her to be the daughter of his old mining partner and she accepts the assumed name of Myrtle Stone. They soon grow to love each other. Helen and Taylor are engaged when Reed returns with glowing reports of the mine; he recognizes Helen and tells Taylor. He confronts Helen with the story and she admits it to be true. Helen cannot see the man she loves defrauded and so tells him about the salted mine. At the point of a pistol she dares him to deny it. He escapes and Helen and Taylor renew their love vows.

MONDAY'S CITY LEAGUE FIXTURE

Fans are reminded of the City League Game at the Riverside Park on Monday night at 6:15 o'clock when the Thistles and the C.G.E. will meet. The Electricians say that they are going to stop the headlong flight of the Yeotes' crew while the latter are out to make their record five straight wins. It promises to be a most interesting game in the City League series.

THE CANADIAN WAR PLAY SCORES A BIG TRIUMPH

"P.B.I." AT THE GRAND DELIGHTS BIG AUDIENCE WITH ITS PORTRAYAL OF LIFE OF THE MAPLE LEAF TROOPS IN FRANCE—PLAY WILL BE REPEATED TWICE TO-DAY.

—The P. B. I. (or the Poor Bally Infantry, to use the full description) won the war, so they say. At all all events there is no disputing the fact that the P.B.I. won the hearts of the capacity audience which gathered at the Grand last night to see this all-Canadian play, written by Canadians, staged by Canadians and acted by Canadians— a Maple Leaf combination that proved as irresistible as the

"The P.B.I." or Mademoiselle from Bully Grenay, was writen by Messrs. W. B. Scudmore, B.A., R. W. Downie, W. L. McGeary and H. R. Dillon, four veterans of the war, while the large caste is composed of Varsity students who averaged twenty months' service in France. It was originally produced at Hart House, Toronto University, last winter, and was enthusiastically received by the Toronto critics who urged that the people of Ontario should get an opportunity to see the play, hence the present tour, which has been an unqualified success.

It is a series of stage pictures of some features of the Canadian army in France and Belgium. Being a war play there is a spy plot and there is a love story or two. There is a very realistic trench scene showing the departure over the parapet of a wiring party and the return of the same party after a brush in no man's land with the Huns. There is a glimpse of an advanced dressing station and a look-in at a company headquarters in the front line. Shown, too, are several scenes in billets, and altogether the play is pronounced by those who know as a most realistic stage version of life at the front among the Canadian troops. The authors and caste had no need to hunt around for local colour for they had only to write and act what they had already gone through.

The characters introduced are many and typical. The rank and file include such celebrities as Pte. 'Eibert' Awkins, the grouch from old London, Lance Corp. Wilkins, the ladies' man, Harris, the officer's bat man, Pte. Michael Sullivan, the old timer, and Pte. Jock McTaggart from Glasgow. Of the "exalted ones," as the programme terms them, there is a multitude ranging from Lieut. Edward Brock Green, the new sub just out from Bexhill, to Brigadier General Montague Smythe, a "dug out." There are several charming French girls to supply the love interest.

The authors have eliminated mock heroics and flag waving, but they have nevertheless supplied a production that carries with it convincing evidence of the indomitable spirit that caused the Canadians, like their British comrades, to rise triumphantly over every hardship and every peril of the wold's greatest war. The sense of humour that distinguishes the British race, even in the face of danger and death has been made clear in "The P.B.I" As a result there are many amusing episodes, and a host of funny sayings, which convulsed the many returned soldiers in the audience, and which were equally thoroughly enjoyed by every one else. Interwoven into the action are many of the familiar trench ditties sung by the Canadians in France and their rendition is one of the most enjoyable feautres of the production.

The acting of the large caste is surprisingly good. The various types are effectively portrayed. R. A. Young's picture of Pte. "Awkins" is a masterpiece, and R. M. Lawrie scores heavily as the batman. A well known Peterborough boy, Murray Carlisle, has a most important part as Pte. Bill Walton, and he won many laurels by his work in the role last night. Miss Mary Fred makes a delightful Suzanne, the heroine of the play, and Mlle. Hilde Filmere is a charming Julie. All the other roles are in good hands. The scenic investiture is elaborate and effective, the trench scene being an especially realistic effect.

Mr. J. Harvey Graham, director and leader of the Princess Theatre Orchestra, Toronto, conducted the orchestra in splendid stye, and between the third and fourth acts rendered a violin solo that was greatly enjoyed.

"The P.B.I." will be seen at the Grand at a matinee performance this afternoon and again this evening. The opportunity should not be missed.

LACROSSE

Practice will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, beginning next week. All players please take note.

Voice Of The People

Peterborough, June 3rd, 1920.

Editor of The Examiner:

A letter signed "Citizen" in to-day's issue condemns the community dance of June 2nd, given by the Machinists. Last year a community dance was given but no word of condemnation was forthcoming from "Citizen." I wonder why! Simply because last year's dance was not to aid labor. This "Citizen" is probably a bitter enemy of labor and attacks it in this mean, small way. I myself am not a dancer, but I have never condemned common, clean dances such as waltzing, one-step, etc. We must remmeber that a part of the ceremonial in worshipping the King of kings, included dancing in the old law of the Jews. Surely when God did not condemn dancing then He will not prohibit it now. The Pharisees were notorious hypocrites, but Christ showed them up, together with their vanities and self love. We have Pharisees to-day just as Christ knew them. We are living in the twentieth century, not the 17th or 18th century. Thank heaven the "blue laws" never invaded Canada. I think an apology is due to these young ladies and men who took part in the dance, by "Citizen."

I hope this will be printed.

SINGLE MEN WON FROM THE MARRIED AT FOOTBALL

An interesting game of football was played last night at the Exhibition grounds between the married and single men of the Wm. Hamilton Co. The game was called at seven o'clock sharp, with the married men taking the kick-off. The game was good and snappy all through, with the single men leading at the end by 1 to 0.

Haliday was the married men's best man out, while McFadden showed some of his old time form in goal. Veach did not come up to expectations and did not seem to hurt himself much.

The star of the single men was our old friend, Peggy Thorndyke. His performance in goal was really 'malicious,' making many great saves.

Among the large number of spectators prsent was seen Mr. Ralph Flitton and his wife. Mr. Flitton is well known at Hamilton's as a great lover of sports.

Next week the married and single men clash in baseball, and it shows signs of being a very fast and interesting game.

RESIGNS FROM CHAMBER BECAUSE MEMBERS SMOKE

YONKERS, N.Y., June 3. — The persistency with which members of the Yonkers Chambers of Commerce smoke at its meetings and dinners over the continued protest of 83-year-old John C. Havemeyer, patriarch of the Havemeyer family, of sugar refiners, to-day caused him to resign. In a letter Mr. Havemeyer said his expressions of disapproval of smoking as improper at chamber functions had brought a "spirit of antagonism."

SUB-STATION SITE DISCUSSED BY THE HYDRO MANAGER

Mr. L. G. Ireland, manager of the Eastern Ontario district served by the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario, was in town yesterday, and met the Peterborough Utilities Commission in discussion of this city's future power needs

In 1914 plans were prepared by the Utilities Commission for a new transmission station for this city, but conditions during the war were responsible for postponement of building until a more favorable date. Now, however, the Utilities Commission have decided to erect a new station in the very near future. There are two sites available for this power building—one at the south side of Hunter street, adjacent to the new bridge, the old Allen property, until recently used as a temperance hotel, the other the present site of the city's sub-station now in use, corner of Sherbrooke and Bethune streets. The former site is now owned by the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario, and the question now arises as to which site would be most advantageous for the erection of a new power transmission station. It is desirable above all things that the high tension wires to be carried into this building should cross and run along as few public thoroughfares as possible ,and Mr. Ireland yesterday advised the Utilities Commissioners to have an inspector go over the whole ground and abide by his decision as to choice of a site, which would reduce danger to the public from these high tension wires to a minimum.

The demand for power, for street lighting, industrial and domestic service is growing rapidly, and Mr. Ireland contends that within ten years from now that demands will be double what it is to-day.

The power to feed this new transmission station will probably be generated at Healey's Falls.

FIERCE FIGHTING ON KIEV SECTOR

BOLSHEVIKI STATEMENT SAYS POLES SUFFERED SEVERE LOSSES.

LONDON, June 5. — The Bolsheviki have inflicted severe losses on the Poles in an attack south of Bialatserkiev, 50 miles southwest of Kiev, according to an official statement issued by the Moscow government on Friday. Successes for Bolshevik arms are also reported at other points along the fighting front. The statement says:

"Southwest of Drissa, government of Vitebsk, we repulsed an enemy attack. In the direction of Molodetchno fierce fighting continues.

"Twenty four miles south east of Kiev our troops are engaged with an enemy detachment which crossed to the eastern bank of the Dneiper.

"South of Bialatserkiev, our cavalry is supporting infantry in holding up the enemy's advance, severe losses being inflicted. Six hundred Poles have been cut down in a dashing attack.

PRICE OF COAL MAY SOAR TO $20 LEVEL

MINERS WORK PART TIME BECAUSE OF RAILWAY TROUBLES.

When The Examiner interviewed a number of coal dealers in this city on the coal situation, they all stated that the situation was serious, but would not be remedied any by a frenzied panic amongst the citizens.

"We are working in the dark, and can only depend on the American dealers," they stated.

That the price is sure to go higher was the general expression. That it would reach $20.00 a ton was the opinion of one dealer.

The c... is not being mined because there are no cars to carry it, the dealers say. The mines are running for a few days, and then shut down for a while until the coal mined is moved on. Shipments are independable, and they have to take practically what they can get at any price they care to charge. Although they prefer to deal with the old line companies, they are sometimes forced to get coal from the jobbers, and it is this coal that is the lower grade.

One dealer wanted to take the public entirely into his confidence, and said that coal cost them at the mine $9.75 for 2,240 lbs, or $8.71 for 2,000 lbs. The freight amounts to $4.12, and the exchange fluctuates considerably, but would average about $1.40. This makes a total cost of $14.23 a ton, or say $14.25. If a profit of $2.75 is charged (the profit allowed in Toronto is $4.00), the coal must be sold at $17.00.

From the old companies some coal, he said, might possibly be got $2.00 cheaper. Averaging both, the lowest price they could retail it at would be $16.00, and he contended that he wouldn't handle it at that price.

Since this interview, the price has been advanced $1.00 at the mine and freight 33 1-3 per cent., which puts the price up $2.00 more.

The situation amongst local coal men seems to be about the same. Some yards have more coal on hand than others. One dealer, who is supposed to have a good supply, said he had only supplied one-quarter of his customers, and another believed that one one house in three had its winter supply of black diamonds.

Wood is very scarce also, and little relief can be expected from this direction.

In America's last fiscal year Canada sold $400,000,000 of her products in the U.S. Market, but purchased there $700,000,000 of goods. Rev. Mr. Clarke, in responding, expressed their complete surprise in receiving this generous and kindly gift, and spoke of the very happy relations between pastor and people at Fairmount.

LARGE ATENDANCE OF DELEGATES FROM ALL OVER THE DOMINION—TRADE CONDITIONS.

(Canadian Press)

VANCOUVER, B. C. June 7.—The convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association opened here this morning with a large attendance of delegates from all parts of the Dominion.

President T. P. Howard of Montreal opened the proceedlings of this the forty-ninth annual general meeting with a lengthy address, covering the associations' work last year, the development of manufacturing and Canadian trade, labour, commercial, industrial and agricultural conditions generally.

Growth and Prosperity.

The President was agreeably surprised at the signs of growth and prosperity in Vancouver, quite evident on all sides, and appreciated that this city's destiny was to be a great ocean port. The history of this part of British Columbia, he said, is associated with the names of such empire builders as Captain James Cook, who visited this coast in 1778, Captain George Vancouver, who gave his name to the city, Sir Alexander McKenzie, who made the first journey from Eastern Canada in 1793, Simon Fraser, who explored the Fraser River in the early years of the 19th century, and Lord Strathcona, who drove the last spike on the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1885. And as Port Vancouver serves as an outlet for the products of one of the richest areas, so far as natural resources are concerned in the whole world to-day. Tremendous inroads have been made during late years on the natural resources of older countries, and while w have been in the habit of congratulating ourselves on the immense resources of Canada, we have sometimes lost sight of the fact that these resources are not inexhaustible and have been sharply reminded by the Commission of Conservation that in certain fields they are limited. This applies to British Columbia probably less than to any other province of Canada because this province seems to have been singularly blessed.

Increased Shipping

It is significant to note, the President continued the increase in the shipping facilities of this province. In addition ti the great dry docks at Prince Rupert, government docks are being undertaken at Vancouver at a cost of $4,000,000, while other harbor improvements will cost another $1,000,000.

Canadian Products.

Referring at length ot manufacturing growth for a period of 50 years President Howard gave a comparison of the value of Canadian products during that period as follows: the output in 1880 was valued at $221,000,000. For 1917, the last year for which definite figures are available it was $3,000,000(000, an increase of about 1,400 per cent.

Great Volume of Business

Continuing, the President was warm in eulogy of Canadians for the admirable manner in which they had risen to the need for getting the country back to peace conditions after the armistice, which was accomplished without any serious trade depression or widespread unemployment. Then manufacturers in reaching out for European trade, had succeeded in securing a big volume of new business in this way to replace the loss of munitions activities.

Labour Matters.

Touching on the question of labour the speaker was pleased to note a gradual elimination of the revolutionary element by moderate labour men and also encouraging signs of industrial progress from now on in the spirit of co-operation and in the knowledge of the fact that there is a relationship between the interests of all classes of citizens, irrespective of their occupations.

Cost of Living.

President Howard was emphatic in his declaration that the practical remedy for high prices lies in increased production of all materials from farm, factory, mine and forest which is the greatest need of Canada to-day, and will do more than anything else to lower the high cost of living.

Taxation and Tariff.

He dwelt exhaustively with the unpopular subject of increased taxation; a burden necessary, however, to reduce Canada's national debt.

As to tariffs, the President assert-

ISSUES WARNING TO EAMON DE VALERA

(Canadian Press)

CHICAGO, June 7.—Eamon de Valera, the self-styled "President of the Irish Republic," was yesterday afternoon served with a warning by Patrick H. O'Donnell, of Chicago, that he must not attempt to dictate to the American people.

This warning was given in the course of a debate at a meeting of Irish sympathisers behind closed doors as to the methods to be pursued in attempting to secure a plain Republican platform calling for immediate recognition of the Irish Republic by the United States Congress.

Damages in Full

JUDGEMENT TO BONNER-WORTH COMPANY FOR $22,550 WAS AWARDED BY MR. JUSTICE LATCHFORD.

AGAINST SARNIA FIRM

TORONTO, June 7. — Judgment has been given by Mr. Justice Latchford in the action brought by the Bonner-Worth Co., Ltd., of Peterborough, against Geddes Brothers, of Sarnia, claiming $22,550 for an order for a large quantity of yarn purchased during the war. The defendants alleged that in accepting the order they were at liberty to cancel any balance undelivered. The defendants paid into court $13,530, which they contended was full payment for all shipments of yarn up to December 12th, 1918. The dispute arose as to the alleged cancellation of shipments from December 12, and plaintiffs claimed the balance of $9,020 was due them.

His Lordship gave judgment for the plaintiff for the full amount, and dismisses the defendants' counterclaim for $15,000 damages for breach of contract.

The judgment also gives the plaintiffs interest from the date of judgment to date and also dismisses a counter-claim with costs.

R. C. H. Cassells, of Toronto, and J. F. Strickland, of this city, represented the Bonner-Worth Company, and A. Weir and A. McKinley, of Sarnia, acted for Geddes Bros.

LABOUR BUREAU IS NOT AFFECTED

The announcement a short time ago of the closing of the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment Bureau this month, has led to some misunderstanding on the part of the public.

This Bureau is an entirely separate and distinct branch and is not conected with the Government Employment Bureau and its closing will not affect the Employment Bureau which will still remain open.

The Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment Bureau was established to aid the returned soldiers in their re-absorption into civil life, and now as it is considered that its use is at an end as a separate branch its work will be carried on by the Government Employment Bureaux throughout the province.

Recalls Big Fire of June 7th, 1855

SHERIFF HALL FINDS RECORD OF FIVE INCENDIARY FIRES IN ONE WEEK.

Perusing an old book at the Court-House this morning, Sheriff Hall chanced to discover a faded record of the burning of the Dickson lumber mill on Burnham's Point sixty-five years ago to-day. That week of June 7th, 1855, was written in red in the history of Peterborough, chronicling five incendiary fires, four of which were the burning of the Dickson mill, the Benson lumber mill above Inverlea Park, the Roy tannery and another tannery at the corner of Aylmer and Brock Streets. Although the causes of the fires were not discovered, the citizens were convinced that the five fires occurring at night in that week were of incendiary origin.

At that time the Dickson mill was one of the most complete and efficient in this district. It was driven by steam power, operating gang saws, and had a great capacity. Its destruction followed a comparatively short time after it began operations, and with it was consumed several million feet of lumber. The Peterborough Lumber Company's mill now stands almost on the identical site of the old Dickson mill.

The Benson mill was located on the west side of the river above the Smith Street Bridge, where the remains of an old dam still shews at low water.

Mr. Benson lived in the house now occupied by Mr. Richard Hall. This mill was not rebuilt. The three other fires were of less importance, but, together, they comprised a serious loss to the town of that time.

Firemen's Contest.

Of interest too in this brief record is a note of a contest here between the Cobourg and Peterborough firemen, on the 24th May, 1855. In the rest of the two brigade's handpumps, for that was before the steamers and motor apparatus were thought of, the stream of the Peterborough engine carried twenty feet farther than Cobourg's. However, Cobourg objected that there had been foul or unfair play of some kind by the local firemen, and they went off in high dudgeon, refusing to remain for the dinner which had been prepared specially for them as the city's guests. They departed on the first train, and the Peterborough brigade had the dinner all to themselves. It is likely that they invited some of the first citizens of that day to sit in to the banquet.

COUNT VON BERNSTORFF DEFEATED.

Proportional Voting System for the Reichstag.

(Canadian Press)

BERLIN, June 7.—Of the individual candidates elected yesterday, it is known that Count Von Bernstorff, former ambassador to the United States, running as German Nationalist, has been defeated.

The German election was held under the proportional voting system, under which every 60,000 votes cast by any party gives it one member of the Reichstag.

There is no definite number of seats in the Reichstag under this arrangement, and there are various complications, providing for uniting of election districts and other groupings, which make the result difficult of computation.

COME FROM SCOTLAND BUT NOT REMAINING.

Informed that there was work for them in Peterboro a number of machinists have recently arrived in the city from Glasgow, Scotland, and it was stated that others are on the way, directed by the Union Transit Company. Local machinists say that the men who have already arrived have not remained here, declining to work as strike breakers. This morning it was reported that four or five more Peterboro machinists were leaving for a city in the western end of the province and also that a few men who had come from the United States had begun work in the machine shop of the C. G. E. Company.

In conection with the C. G. E. strike Mayor McIntyre had a further communication from Ottawa this morning but did not wish to make it public to-day.

Independent Socialists will hold 24 seats, the German People's Party 26, and Democrats 16. It is indicated that Mathias Erzberger, former Vice-Chancellor and Minister of Finance, has been elected from Wuerttemberg, and the election of Dr. Karl Helfferich at Hamburg is assured.

RANGERS' BAND IN SUNDAY CONCERT

ENJOYABLE PROGRAMME GIVEN IN VICTORIA PARK LAST EVENING.

The band of the Peterborough Rangers under the direction of Capt. Rupert Gliddon, rendered a very enjoyable programme before a very large audience at Victoria Park last evening. It was the first concert given by the organization for some time and the band made a very favourable impression. A number of bandsmen who have played with the 57th for many years, were noticed, among them Mr. W. E. Lech, who played the stringed bass very acceptably. The band's numbers included the overture, "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna," which was very effectively presented, a gavottee with a solo on the tubular chimes, the favourite hymn, "Pleasant Are Thy Courts," the immortal Robinstein "Melody in F," a selection of Scottish airs and several lively marches, all of which were most enjoyable. Miss Helen McLaren sang "The Holy City," with band accompaniment, in splendid voice, and had to respond to an enthusiastic encore, and Mr. Otto Gliddon was heard to great advantage in a clarionet solo, which also had to be repeated.

If you have not already handed in your subscription to the Serbain Relief Fund at your bank or the Examiner office, make your gift as soon as possible and thus give valuable assistance to the committee in charge of the campaign.

If you could see the plight of the Serbian children, hundreds of thousands of them scantily clad and weak and dying from the want of proper nourishment, your mind would be made up at once that aid was urgently needed.

Remember all the local banks and this office will receive subscriptions.

The Merchants Bank of Canada

Proceedings of the Fifty-Seventh Annual Meeting of the Shareholders on June 2nd, 1920.

The Fifty-seventh Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Merchants' Bank of Canada was held on Wednesday, 2nd June, in the Board Room at the Bank's Head Office at Montreal. The meeting was called to order at 12 o'clock noon.

On motion of Mr. John Patterson, the President, Sir H. Montagu Allan, was asked to take the chair.

Mr. J. M. Kilbourn was appointed Secretary of the meeting and read the notice calling the meeting.

The minutes of the last Annual Meeting were taken as read.

THE ANNUAL REPORT.

The President, Sir H. Montague Allan, then presented the Annual Report as follows:

I beg to submit, on behalf of the Directors, the Fifty-seventh Annual Statement of The Merchants' Bank of Canada as at the close of business on the evening of the 30th April, 1920, together with a statement of the Profits covering the relative period.

Despite the fact that operating costs have continued their upward course, the net profits resulting from the year's business were $1,686,156.15, being an increase over last year of $302,586.75.

The financial position of the Bank, as reflected in detail in the Balance Sheet before you, will, I hope, meet with your full approbation.

In the Directors' Report of a year ago, I mentioned that an issue of $1,400,000 of new stock was being made, and that, owing to the date of allotment, this step would fall for comment more appropriately at the next Annual Meeting. I am now pleased to advise you that the issue was promptly taken up and long since paid for in full by the shareholders. The Paid-up Capital of the Bank, therefore, stands to-day at $8,400,000, while the $700,000 premium received from the new issue and $700,000 transferred from Profit and Loss Account have been added to the Reserve, thus maintaining that Fund upon an equal basis with the Paid-up Capital.

You have already been advised that, in line with the growth of the Bank, and with a view of keeping pace fairly and reasonably with the legitimate requirements of our ever-growing clientele, a further issue of $2,100,000 of new stock, upon the same favourable terms to the shareholders, is now under way. This new issue will appropriately be referred to again a year hence.

It may be of interest to mention that the Bank's shareholders now number 2,622, as against 2,496 in 1919, and 2,340 in 1918.

At the commencement of the Bank's fiscal year presently under review, the Directors felt warranted in placing the Dividend on a regular 12% basis, and also, later, in distributing a bonus of 1%, making in all 13% received by the shareholders during the twelve month period. No doubt their action in this respect will have your full approval.

During the year we opened 65 Branches, with a number of sub-agencies as feeders, and I may say that results have amply justified our action, as evidenced by the fact that we have only closed 2 Branches during the period.

In December last our office in London, England, was opened for business, and already gratifying progress has been made in the building up of a London connection, while the facilities afforded our clientele on this side have greatly enhanced the value of the services we are enabled to extend to them. It had been apparent for some time that the growth and increasing importance of the institution called for the completion of our organisation by the establishment of an office in the Capital of the Empire.

During the year we conceived it to be advisable and expedient, in keeping with modern and approved practice, to liquify to some extent the inactive asset represented by Bank Premises Account, which, as you are aware, must, with the growth of the Bank, be an ever-expanding one. We accordingly turned over certain of our premises to a subsidiary company called the Merchants' Realty Corporation, who in turn issued Bonds against the respective properties to the amount of $4,000,000, the proceeds of the sale of which have been appropriately applied. These Bonds are of a serial nature and will be thus automatically amortized as they fall in for payment, control of the property being held by the Bank through the ownership of all the stock of the Company, this being shown upon our books at a nominal figure.

Since the last Meeting death has removed from our midst Mr. E. F. Hebden, formerly General Manager of the Bank, and, for a period, Managing Director. His service in the institution was lifelong, and in his demise the financial community lost a distinctive and distinguished personalty, the Bank an able and experienced administrator. His death is regarded with deep regret by all.

The vacancy upon the Board has been filled by the appointment of Mr. F. W. Kneeland, of Winnipeg, a business man of wide experience and influence in the West.

In view of the continued growth of the Bank's business, the Directors are of opinion it would be desirable to enlarge the numerical strength of the Board by adding one more to their number, and an amendment to this effect of the relative by-law will be submitted for your approval. The name of Mr. Gordon M. McGregor, of Windsor, Vice-President of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, will accordingly be included in the list, which will be submitted to you in due course. He is a man of high standing in the commercial community, and we are sure of your agreement with the Directors that he will prove an acquisition to the Board.

You may be interested to learn that I made a trip last autumn through Ontario and the West—accompanied by some of the Directors and the General Manager. We met all the senior officers, and I have pleasure in saying that I found the trip both inspiring and beneficial to a degree.

We have undoubtedly an efficient staff, and you will, I am sure, join with the Directors in extending to its members, one and all, a word of cordial appreciation for their capable and loyal services, to which the measure of progress the Bank has enjoyed is in no small extent attributable.

All the various offices of the Bank have been inspected during the past twelve months.

The Auditors' Certificate is appended.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. MONTAGU ALLAN, President.

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS TO THE SHAREHOLDERS OF THE MERCHANTS' BANK OF CANADA.

In accordance with the provisions of Sub-Sections 19 and 20 of Section 56 of the Bank Act, we report to the shareholders as follows:

We have examined the above Balance Sheet with the Books of Account and other records at the Chief Office of the Bank and with the signed returns from the Branches and Agencies, and have checked the cash and verified the securities of the Bank at the Chief Office against the entries in regard thereto in the books of the Bank at 30th April, 1920, and at a different time during the year, and found them to agree with such entries. We also attended at some of the Branches during the year and checked the cash and verified the securities held at the dates of our attendances and found them to agree with the entries in regard thereto in the books of the Bank.

We have obtained all the information and explanations we have required. In our opinion, the transactions of the Bank which have come under our notice have been within the powers of the Bank, and the above Balance Sheet is properly drawn up so as to exhibit a true and correct view of the state of the Bank's affairs, according to the best of our information and the explanations given to us, and as shown by the Books of the Bank.

VIVIAN HARCOURT
GORDON TANSLEY
Auditors.

(Of the firm of Deloitte, Plender, Griffiths & Co.)

Montreal, 25th May, 1920.

President's Address.

In moving the adoption of the report, Sir Montagu Allan said: "After my formal address I wish to add just a few words, and I apologize to Mr. Macarow for doing so, because it is somewhat of a personal matter, but I think on this occasion it should be referred to.

"I wish to say that the day before yesterday I and the members of the board were notified by a member of the staff of the bank that a very important affair was to take place in the board room here yesterday afternoon. We attended and were agreeably surprised to find that the business in hand was a presentation to our General Manager, Mr. D. C. Macarow.

"I have not secured his permission to mention this matter, but take the opportunity of doing so because it was a decidedly unique event, of which neither he nor I nor the directors had any previous knowledge.

"It turned out to be a spontaneous gift from all the members of the bank's staff, from Vancouver to Halifax, a magnificent silver tea service, one of the most beautiful things I have ever seen, with other objects of art.

"The presentation was the occasion of several very happy addresses from members of the staff with an address which they presented Mr. Macarow, along with their gift, and led to a particularly illuminating reply from the General Manager, which needless to say, brought down the house.

"It is with particular pleasure that I inform the shareholders of this event, because it is of interest to you all to know that the General Manager and the staff are in such close accord, and have such friendly personal relations. We of the Board have every confidence in Mr. Macarow, and from what we saw in the west last year, there was no doubt of the friendly feelings of the staff everywhere towards him. As an evidence of the friendly and confident relations that exist between Mr. Macarow and the staff all over Canada I think yesterday's function was one of the most agreeable and unique I have been privileged to witness for a long time, and I congratulate Mr. Macarow on the regard he has won from the staff throughout the whole bank (Applause.)

"I am confident then made the formal resolution for the adoption of the annual report, seconded by Mr. K. W. Blackwell.

The General Manager's Address.

The General Manager, Mr. D. C. Macarow, in rising to make his address, was received with much applause from the shareholders. He said:

"In the first place I must say that the personal onslaught upon myself by the president is as unexpected as it is kindly. I was deeply touched by the presentation so spontaneously made to myself by the staff throughout the country. I view the presentation with mixed feelings, appreciation of the kindly intention it showed, and doubt as to my own merits. However I accepted it in the spirit in which it was given, and it will always be one of my most prized possessions.

"The President's address forms a comprehensive epitome of all the important phases of the Bank's present position, and has appropriately dealt with or touched upon the several outstanding developments which have taken place during the past year.

"I shall therefore but add a brief word of amplification as to some features of the statement which occurs to me may be enlarged upon without unnecessary repetition.

"Another Victory Loan last autumn was again heavily subscribed to by the bank's clientele throughout the country, their total subscriptions reaching the large sum of $1,770,000, practically all of which (conversions being negligible in amount) was a direct charge against our deposits. Yet the resultant heavy withdrawal was not only overtaken, but deposit totals show an increase, in addition, over last year, of $24,000,000. This must be considered a satisfactory achievement, I think.

"Commercial Discounts have, in natural course, advanced also, and the total now stands at $113,198,000, being an increase during the year of $17,324,000. These figures indicate that the Bank is continuing to carry its full share of the load in a period when the support and encouragement of the productive capacity and energies of the country is a matter of paramount importance. If stable conditions are to be reasonably maintained it is essential that the vital channels of commerce and industry be kept open and, I venture to assert in functioning as the above figures reflect, the Bank is playing its part to the end.

"At last year's Annual Meeting I made reference to our Asset column as representing dollar for dollar of actual value, and I make the same assertion to-day with equal emphasis.

"The record of growth this year leads me to feel that a few figures showing our progress, taking the last five years as a basis of comparison, may be of some interest to you. The totals and percentages are as follows, based on the year end figures as at 30th April, 1915, and 30th April, this present year:

	1915	1920	Gain
Total Deposits	$64,869,000	$163,080,00	151%
Current Loans and Discounts	47,401,000	113,198,000	138%
Total Assets	86,190,000	197,387,000	129%

A satisfactory and evenly balanced measure of development, you will, I am sure, agree.

If I may be permitted to add a word as to the general conditions I will be brief, for the subject has been dealt with from platform, pulpit and press so exhaustively that I cannot say much without wearisome reiteration. I fear it must be admitted however that the progress of this country and indeed of the world at large, toward normal peace conditions has not been what we looked forward to a year ago. Unsettlement continues, labor and other difficulties abound, and the dominant need of the time, production, palpably inert and backward. So long as productoin lags, so long will high prices and general inflation continue. Costs are mounting to ever higher levels and the process of deflation with the necessary changes in ideas, in habits and in outlook, to something more aproaching those of normal conditions can hardly be said yet to be in real evidence, though sporadic and somewhat spectacular cutting of prices in certain seasonal lines of manufactured goods may perhaps be accepted as a psychological sign showing that the trend, at least, is in the right direction.

The demand for borrowed capital continues to be more or less importunate and it is in the conservation of credit and the equitable rationing of it that Banks can play, and, indeed, are playing, a sound constructive role. Legitimate production enterprises are being fostered and encouraged fairly, while at the same time a firmly restraining hand is held upon unproductive, non-essential and speculative undertakings. This policy of selective curtailment, so to put it, operating as it does, at the root of existing evils, and applied with due judgment, discrimination, and consistency, cannot but prove a beneficial corrective and an importantly contributing factor towards restoring with a minimum of dislocation and disturbance, healthy and normalconditions in the body politic.

I might here venture to say that it is a matter of gratification to see our mercantile marine growing apace and to know that the government will have it is understood, some 45 merchant vessels in commission by the end of July next. I mentioned last year, and I reaffirm the opinion then expressed, that there is nothing of greater national importance than the establishment of our own lines of ocean transport, and what has been, and is being accomplished in this direction, both by the government and by private enterprise, augurs well for the future safety and stability of the country's trade and commerce.

After what looked like in some respects an ominous start the crop situation throughout the country now seems to justify the belief that good yields will be secured this year. Predictions, however, are futile and we can only nurse the hope that actual results will fairly measure up to present optimistic estimates. Certainly, on the theory of averages alone, we are entitled to look for some redress in the crop situation this year. Much depends upon it, more especially in view of the disappointing results of the last two years, and if nature is benevolent in the coming harvest this country will benefit to an unmeasured extent, and we shall be reasonably in a position to view the period of deflation, upon the threshold of which we stand, with feelings of confidence as to our immediate future—as to our ultimate future there need be no misgiving, for it must be borne in mind that Canada is a young and virile country of almost limitless possibilities and immense natural resources awaiting development, that its manhood is strong, enterprising, thoughtful and sane.

While we have our readjustment difficulties to deal with our progress through the transition period will be orderly and well conducted if there is a fair measure of mutual appreciation of surrounding difficulties and reasonable cooperation and good will all along the line in surmounting them. In a word if the wise and reasonable policy so briefly and clearly condensed in the three simple words "give and take" continues to operate with cordial uninterruption we shall move with steady and assured step to the great destiny which lies before us through wide open avenues of peace, progress and prosperity.

Before closing I would like to add my tribute of appreciation to the staff of the Bank for their devotion and efficiency. I cannot do so better than by saying that the President's apt and graceful remarks there anent have my unqualified and unrestricted endorsement. It is true indeed that the progress of the bank is in no small measure due to the co-operative efforts of a loyal, capable and contented staff. That I know, we have.

Before putting the motion for the adoption of the report, the Chairman invited questions for discussion. There being none, he put the motion, which was unanimously adopted.

It was moved by Mr. A. Haig Sims, seconded by Mr. David Kinghorn, that Messrs. Vivian Harcourt and Gordon Tansley, of Deloitte, Plendor, Griffiths and Co., be re-appointed Auditors of the bank to hold office until the next annual meeting.

On motion of Messrs. K. W. Blackwell and aFrquhar Robertson, it was proposed: "That By-law 111, enacted by the Shareholders of the Bank, be and is hereby amended by substituting the word "fifteen" for the word "fourteen" in the first line thereoff." This was unanimously adopted.

On motion of Messrs. A. Haig Sims and David Kinghorn, Messrs John Patterson and Arthur Browning were by unanimous vote appointed as scrutineers, and instructed to cast one ballot for the election of the following persons as directors:

Sir H. Montagu Allan.
Mr. K. W. Blackwell.
Mr. Thomas Long.
Sir Frederick Orr Lewis, Bart.
Hon C. C. Ballantyne.
Mr. A. J. Dawes.
Mr. F. Howard Wilson.
Mr. Farquhar Robertson.
Mr. George L. Cains.
Mr. Alfred B. Evans.
Mr. T. Ahearn.
Lt. Col. James R. Moodie.
Hon. Lorne C. Webster.
Mr. E. W. Kneeland.
Mr. Gordon M. McGregor.

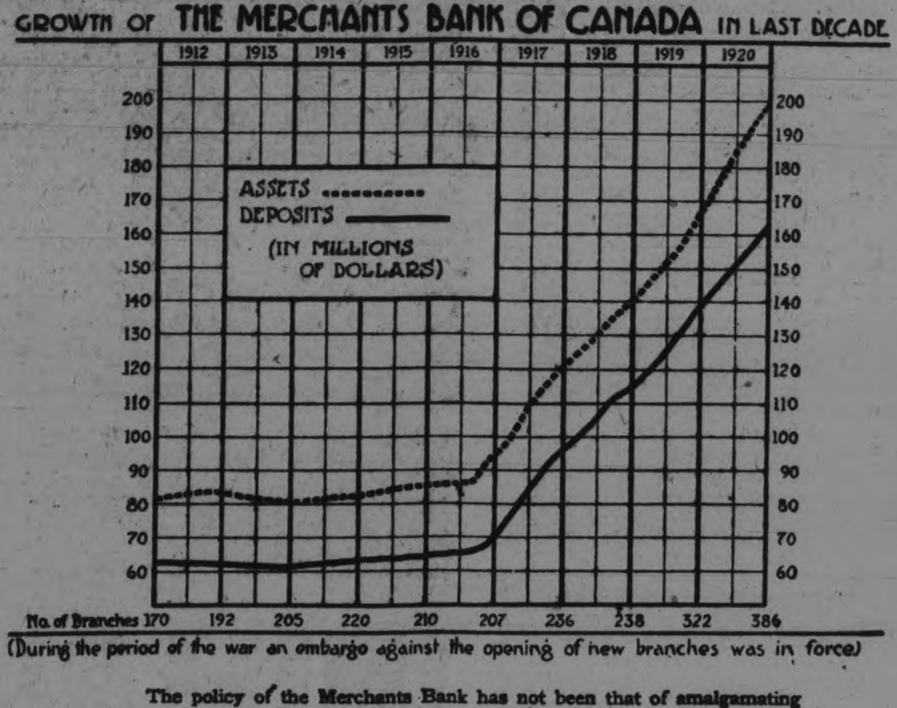
The ballot having been cast, the Directors as named were declared to be elected:

Mr. A. Haig Sims—"Before this meeting concludes I wish to move a hearty vote of thanks and apreciatoin to the President and Directors for their services during the past year, which have made it possible to present the splendid report we have heard to-day. With this I would like to couple the thanks of the Shareholders to the General Manager and all members of the staff throughout the country for their efficient and loyal service to the bank, which have contributed in no small degree to enabling the Directors to carry on their work for the advancement of the Bank."

This was seconded by Mr. A. A. MacDougall, and carried with applause, after which a brief address of thanks was made by the President for himself and the directors, and by the General Manager for himself and the Staff.

This concluded the business of the meeting, which then adjourned.

At a subsequent special meeting of the Directors, Sir H. Montagu Allan was re-elected as President and Mr. K. W. Blackwell Vice-President.



(During the period of the war an embargo against the opening of new branches was in force)

The policy of the Merchants Bank has not been that of amalgamating with other Banks, nor of acquiring business in foreign countries. The gains, therefore, as shown by the above Chart represent the actual growth of the Bank's business in Canada during the period covered.

THE MANUFACTURERS MEET IN CONVENTION

ed the objects of the fiscal system of Canada should be to diminish, as far as possible; the buying of goods from other countries, which can be produced here; to facilitate the importation of raw materials which cannot be produced at home ;to export our own materials in the shape of finished products; and to make Canada as self-contained as possible by developing and encouraging activities which will give occupation to our citizens.

Immigration

In conclusion of a clear and concise review of Canadian conditions generally the speaker was happy to report that this spring and early summer every boat entering a Canadian port is loaded with settlers. It is most desirable, he urged that we should have increased immigration. We need more people to increase our food production; to increase the home market, and to help us pay our taxes. But such immigrants should be of a desirable type—people content to live under British rule, and willing to assimilate with this country's population.

STREET OILING TO BE LIMITED

ANOTHER CAR ARRIVED THIS MORNING.

Another 8,000 gallon tank car of oil for the streets arrived to-day, and will be used by the Board of Works at once.

City Engineer Parsons stated today that he believed three or four more cars would be all that was required. To keep the dust down this year only 40,000 or 45,000 gallons will be used, as economy is necessary, instead of 50,000 gallons as last year.

The roads around the Cemetery and in front of the Waterworks will be oiled when the city streets are completed.

Mr. Parsons declared that all the streets that are clamouring for oil can not be oiled on account of the stringent economy necessary.

The City Engineer said that time would show how this year's oil, which is a tar product, measured up with that used in other years.

Several minor local improvements are under way. A sewer is being laid on Park Street from Murray Street to the Creek.

WATCH YOUR GUMS—BLEEDING A SIGN OF TROUBLE

Medical science knows how serious is the sign of bleeding gums. For it knows that tender and bleeding gums are the fore-runners of Pyorrhea, that dread disease which afflicts four out of five people over forty.

If the disease is unchecked, the gum-line recedes, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the Pyorrhea poisons generated at their base—poisons which seep into the system and wreck the health. They cause rheumatism, nervous disorders, anaemia, and many other ills.

To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and use Forhan's For the Gums. Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums firm and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult your dentist immediately for special treatment.

MONDAY, JUNE 7TH, 1920.

YESTERDAY'S CEREMONY.

In carrying out their annual custom of decorating the graves of departed comrades who are buried in Little Lake cemetery, the Peterborough Great War Veterans yesterday were fulfilling one of the aims and objects for which their Association was formed, namely, the paying of proper and fitting respect to the memory of the soldiers who have played their part and gone on. For yesterday's ceremony, while it actually only included those comrades whose last mortal remains lie beneath the sod of Little Lake cemetery was in spirit much broader than that, for in honouring the memory of the soldiers who died here, the Veterans were at the same time honouring the memory of those many other comrades whose last resting place is on the foreign battlefields of France or Belgium or in some beautiful cemetery in England. Undoubtedly as each veteran deposited his floral tribute on the graves yesterday his thoughts went across the sea to where the wooden crosses tell of the death of beloved comrades who fell fighting for Canada and the Empire. It is well that the G.W.V.A. has adopted an annual decoration day. It is a beautiful custom and one that the Association should carry out as long as their organization remains.

THE FUEL SUPPLY.

An Examiner reader, commenting rpon the article in these columns the other night on the coal situation, declares that the talk of a crisis next winter is a false alarm and that Canada will get her normal supply of coal from the United States as usual. We hope he is right—it will be much more comfortable for everybody if he is—but at the same time his prediction cannot shut our eyes to the fact that the outlook at present is far from being reassuring. There is every indication just now of a shortage of coal next winter, a shortage that will approach famine conditions. The railway strike and a falling off in the output in the American mines have combined to make the present situation, and there is little to be gained in sitting with folded hands and saying that everything will be normal by next winter. The Examiner believes that the fuel situation is sufficiently critical to warrant the city council in discussing as soon as possible what steps can be taken to protect the people of Peterborough from the effects of a possible coal famine. It may be that a municipal supply of wood would solve the problem—some communities last winter took advantage of the offer of the Ontario government and secured a quantity of wood from Algonquin Park. The Examiner is not prepared to say just what action should be taken, but without any desire of appearing in the role of an alarmist, would suggest to the civic authorities that the situation be investigated.

INVERLEA PARK.

The petition of the Auburn mills employees of Canadian Woollens asking that the bathing beach at Inverlea Park should be cleaned and improved, is one that the city council should speedily and carefully consider with a view to action. Thanks to the public-spirited policy of the Nicholls Park Board the public for the last couple of years has had the privilege of using the dressing rooms at the Park free of charge and a caretaker has been appointed to maintain order. There have also been lifebuoys provided and last year by reason of the interest taken in the matter by Mr. A. G. Roberts, several diving boards and rafts were added to the equipment. The result has been that Inverlea has become one of the most popular parks in the city, and it is patronized not only by residents of the north ward but by people from all other sections. The only drawback from a bather's standpoint is that the river bottom is rough and uneven, making conditions uncomfortable for children and for the adults who are learning to swim. If the Council could see its way clear to improve the beach, either by laying a concrete bottom on the bed of the river inside the cement breakwater or by building a sandy beach there, the only existing defect at Inverlea would be removed and the conditions there would be ideal.

The petition sent in by the Auburn employees, the Council may rest assured, is endorsed by hundreds of other citizens.

PROFITEERING.

The transaction in sugar revealed at a recent sitting of the Board of Commerce, which showed that this particular quantity of sugar passed through five hands before reaching the consumer with a consequent increase in price every time it was passed on, has caused more thought on the subject of profiteering than any other incident that has been heard for some time. Possibly this is because it is such an unmistakable proof of the folly of the business methods that are in vogue in Canada and such a revelation of the vicious effect of the pyramiding of profits. The world shortage in almost every necessity of life is too often used as an excuse for high prices—the explanation screening the real reason that there are too many grasping hands between the producer and the consumer. There are too many middle men making their profits; the goods change hands too often and each change is accompanied by too large a percentage of gain. It is a fact that everybody knows that many Canadian products, and Canada is an over-producer of many articles of food, are actually sold at higher prices to the public in Canada than they are retailed in the countries to which they are exported It is equally clear that the exporters must gain a profit on their transactions with other countries or they would not continue to ship their goods out of Canada The only logical explanation for the higher prices of their goods here at home, therefore, is that the circle of middlemen are taking too large a bite in the profits and are shoving the price to the Canadian consumer higher and higher. When sugar is sold from the refinery at 19c. a pound and costs the public 30c. a pound, there is certainly some need of revision of the present methods of doing business if the public is not to be robbed on every hand.

A FINE SHOWING.

The growth of the assets of the Merchants' Bank of Canada during the year ended April 30 was so rapid that even the increase of $1,400,000 in the capital stock scarcely caused any change in the ratio of capital to total assets. The increase in capital was exactly 20 p.c., while the increase in the assets was 18.40 p.c.

The assets are now over 197 million dollars, being nearly 31 million dollars in excess of the previous year. Of this growth the sum of $24,900,000 is accounted for by the growth of deposits, representing in the main the savings of the clients of the Bank, and totallin over 163 million dollars.

The Bank's liabilities to the public are now just under 180 million dollars Against these the Bank holds liquid assets of 72 1-2 million dollars, representing a ratio of nearly 40.81 p.c.

In spite of this strong liquid position, the bank was able, as a result of the large increase in the funds entrusted to its care, to provide no less than $113,198,913 for the carrying on of Canadian business by means of current loans and discounts in the Dominion.

The shareholders have reason to be more than satisfied with the year's operations. Their net profits were at the rate of about 20.48 p.c. on stock, or 10.64 p.c. on the total combined investment in capital and Rest Fund. This enabled the directors to increase the distribution to the shareholders by adding a bonus of 1 p.c. to the regular dividend of 12 p.c., while, at the same time, they were able to write off $100,000 from Premises account, and to appropriate $700,000 to the Rest Fund, the balance of profit carried forward being $260,774.

The year's remarkable progress and development must be highly satisfactory not only to the shareholders but to Sir H. Montagu Allan, the president, and Mr. D. C. Macarow, the general manager, as well as to the Board of Directors, but it is evident that so good a showing could not have been secured without the most faithful cooperation on the part of the staff of the institution. Mr. C. S. Cummer is the manager of the bank's Peterborough branch.

A NEW TEN COMMANDMENTS.

The Canadian Reconstruction Association has just issued a very interesting pamphlet entitled, "Ways to National Prosperity." The Association believes that "Canadian money, Canadian made, should stay in Canada for Canadian trade," and issues the following ten commandments that are well worth general consideration:

1. Buy Canadian products. In doing so, you develop the home market, encourage factory expansion, provide employment for new populations, and create bigger and better markets for all kinds of farm produce. New factories, expansion of old factories, greater production, more workers, and better agricultural markets mean national progress.

2. Import only necessities, and then only if similar Canadian articles or substitutes are not available. With Canadian money at a discount of from 10 to 15 per cent., exchange with the United States is costing Canadian consumers between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000 a year.

3. Produce to the limit in field and factory. Increased production means new wealth and is essential to the success of any effort to reduce imports and promote export trade.

4. Co-operate, conserve, specialize, standardize. These are the means to maximum production of high quality goods at minimum cost.

5. Develop export markets. Foreign business gives stability to trade. It reduces unit costs, benefits domestic consumers, affords employment to factories and workers in times of depression, and corrects adverse exchange by improving the trade balance.

6. Utilize Canadian services. Ship by Canadian carriers through Canadian ports. Patronize Canadian railways, Canadan steamships, and Canadian banks. Place insurance in Canadian companies. Employ Canadian architects, engineers, scientists, and other experts. Spend vacations in Canada.

7. Manufacture raw materials to final stages in Canada. Hundreds of millions of dollars are lost annually to the Dominion, and especially to Canadian wage earners, by the exportation of raw materials and semi-manufactured products.

8. Use science for the determination and development of natural resources. Industrial research will reveal new wealth, improve industrial processes, and help to relieve our economic dendence upon outside sources for fuel, iron and other essentials.

9. Make quality the hall-mark of Canadian products. In return for public support of the home market Canadian manufacturers should provide products that compare favorably with imported goods and Canadian workers should recognize good workmanship and maximum production as their standards.

10. Be fair to capital. Canadian money should be encouraged to invest at home and foreign capital attracted to promote Canadian industrial expansion.

MORE WORKERS COMING.

Hark, ye pessimists and hosts of discontent! The sure and unmistakable herald of better days looms on the horizon. The immigrants are coming!

The vicious circle is about to be made into a square deal. A mighty army of workers, looking to the Western World for relief from sorrows and sufferings and enforced idleness, is coming to reinforce our labor market, to help build up our industries and to share with us the good things of this land.

Penned in for five years by the war, the immigrants who would have been here long ago are now seizing the chance to come. Undaunted by the prohibition amendment, they are clamoring for passage on all the steamers that sail from Europe. What they seek is oportunity—not inebriation. Their coming will mean a severe disillusionment for the prophets who told us that to exile liquor meant to shut off immigration. Those newcomers are showing the world that whiskey is not the prize they seek in this broad land of freedom.

Immigrants are coming in such numbers, according to Superintendent Baker at Ellis Island, that the inspection force is inadequate. In one recent week 9,000 reached this port. There would have been more, Mr. Baker declares, if there had been more ships to carry them.

Nine thousand immigrants with their productive capacity mean more for the future welfare of this country than many cargoes of pure gold. They are the very class of labor for which the country is starving. With work waiting to be done on every hand, the laborer in this country, enjoying high wages and plenty of everything, has been fooled into believing that the advent of a new paradise was imminent; an era in which food and raiment would be wafted down like manna from heaven, without so much as the lifting of a finger to produce it.

But the fallacy of high wages and decreased working efficiency is about to be relegated to the limbo of forgotten dreams. Workers, producers, toilers are coming. Men who hav wanted to work, but have no tools; men unafraid of toil, who will show us again that from the ground, which swallows the human ashes, may also be wrested sustenace for the human body to chase away the artificial plagues that are upon us to-day.

This country should welcome the immigrants, for their own sake and for ours. They need this country to give them the opportunity they could not find at home. This country needs them to push forward its development work and to restore the equilibrium of our economic structure so badly shaken by the war.—New York Sun.

APPROPRIATE CEREMONY MARKED DECORATION OF THE GRAVES OF THE PETERBORO WAR VETERANS

RAIN SHORTENED THE PROGRAMME —BAND IN ATTENDANCE.

With a simple but appropriate ceremony the graves at Little Lake Cemetery of the veterans of the late war, who fought and bled for the Empire, were decorated by the G.W.V.A. on their annual decoration day on Sunday afternoon and six of the wooden crosses similar to those that mark the graves of the dead in Flander's Fields were placed at the heads of the resting places of the six veterans who died in the war or from the results of their service.

The veterans over one hundred strong and most of them in uniform marched to the cemetery leaving the hall about 2.45 led by the G.W.V.A. band. Many of the citizens reached the cemetery before the veterans and when the parade arrived cars were drawn up all along Crescent and Haggart streets and the people were congregated in the cemetery waiting for them.

Dark clouds hung low over Little Lake and a stiff breeze that whitened the tops of the rollers blew in from the lake warning the gathering that the rain was on its way once again. Marching around the driveway the men drew up to the west of the chapel with the band in the centre and the Venerable Archdeacon Davidson in the inner ring. Under the trees around the men stood the relatives of many of the deceased drawn together to pay tribute to their memory. There were as well numerous outsiders who perhaps did not know the men but were there simply to pay respect to their memory for the part they played in the great cause.

For the relatives it was a sad yet noble proceeding and to the veterans it was one that recalled similar services in France and Flanders when their comrades' graves were decorated. Many sad memories were recalled of true friends who gave their all and now sleep beside some quiet country lane across the seas, their earthly resting place marked by a simple white cross. It is not for their intrinsic value that these memorials are erected. It is to mark a soldier's grave.

The band played the first and last verses of "Nearer My God to Thee" in opening the service and quietly, reverently this hymn of prayer was sung by the multitude of people. The rain which had held off till now began to patter downward in a few moments the drizzle began. The service which had been planned by Archdeacon Davidson, was necessarily shortened to a few passages from Scripture and a brief address and prayer. He emphasized the part the army has played in making the Empire what it is to-day and in making the Dominion a country we should be proud of. They gave their lives freely and he appealed to Canadians to make the name of Canada what the men fought for. "Our heart goes out to all the men who are with us for what they have done and especially do we think of the maimed and wounded heroes that suffered so much but more especially do we think of the men who lie under the sod of France and of the suffering and sadness that has been caused in homes throughout the world through this war. " Following his short prayer and the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison one verse of "Abide With Me" was played softly by the band. With bowed and uncovered heads in the beating rain the assemblage paid a silent tribute to the unreturning brave. The singing of the National Anthem concluded the service.

Some thirty-four graves of returned men were decorated with flags and flowers, and the crosses, inscribed with the soldiers' number, rank, and battalion and time of death, placed on the graves. On the graves of the following, crosses were placed:

Pte. Merton Adams, 8th C.M.R.—died July 10, 1915.

Pte. W. D. Metheral, 207th Battalion—died March 2, 1917.

Pte. H. Nichols, 39th Battalion—died April 15, 1915.

Pte. H. York, 93rd Battalion—died October 23, 1918.

Pte. H. Bolton, 1st Depot Battalion, E.O.R.—died October 17, 1918.

Pte. R. Levoir, 2nd Battalion, died November 4, 1915.

Robert Mahood, J. Blake, John Lightfoot, Walter H. Irwin, Lieut. H. Boyd, R. F. Cook, Sidney Martin, Gilbert Martin, Preston Grange, John McLeod, Sidney McIntyre H. S. Childs, Lieut. A. Ackerman, E. LIGHT DOCKET FOR THE COUNTY COURT

SAMUEL ARMSTRONG'S ACTION AGAINST JAMES THOMPSON A JURY CASE.

Only two cases are set down on the docket of the June sessions of the County Court, which opens, with Judge Huycke presiding, to-morrow afternoon at one o'clock.

Samuel Armstrong, of Asphodel, claims $500 and $500 in stock from Mr. James Thompson, ex-M.L.A. for East Peterborough. This action involves a pulpwood deal in which Mr. Thompson denies legal liability. Peck, Kerr and McElderry, for plaintiff, and O. A. Langley for defendant.

Thompson vs. Baker.

William Thompson, of Burleigh Township, is plaintiff in an action in which he claims $839.48 against W. H. Baker and P. D. Fitzgerald (deceased) during their partnership in the Peterboro Planing Mill. Thompson's account for towing lumber and wood in 1918 totalled $1,354.48, and he received in payment $515, contending that the balance of $839.48 is still due him.

Defendants admit an original indebtedness of $1,019.34 and credit as payments to the amount of $650.20. That would leave a balance of $369.14, which would be further reduced by a counter claim of $60 to $309.14, which is paid into court. The item of the counter claim is for the sinking of a scow of wood and ties, which defendants allege was due to Thompson's negligence.

O. A. Langley for plaintiff and Gordon and O'Brien for defendant.

SANDRA THE JEALOUS

By JANE PHELPS

"THERE IS NO POSSIBLE EXPLANATION."

CHAPTER CXLII

"I was just coming to look for you, Sandra!" Everett said as he stepped into the hall. Miss Pierce had evidently followed his advice and gone upstairs.

"Why? Haven't I a right to be late once in a blue moon? You often keep me waiting, you know," I answered as lightly as I could. The door was open; Thomas was listening. Perhaps Thomas knew of that tryst in the library and was even now laughing in his sleeve at me—at how easily I was fooled?

Instead of going upstairs I went into the library.

"Better run up and get ready for dinner, Sandra," Everett said, glancing at the clock.

"I don't want any dinner!" I had closed the door carefully. I was absolutely reckless of what I said now.

"Don't want any dinner! Are you ill?" My appetite was usually very good. Hence his question.

"Yes, I'm sick! Sick to death of your actions. It was bad enough before, but when it comes to making love to a servant in your own house it is enough to sicken any woman—any wife."

"What in the world are you talking about, Sandra?" he demanded, growing stern as he always did when accused.

"I a talking of you! Your actions. Because I have kept still always, or almost always, you think I shall always do so. But you are mistaken. I won't this time, I can assure you." I was trembling with anger outraged pride, and jealousy. I tore my gloves off, threw them beside my hat on the table, and faced him: "I not only heard, but I SAW you making love to Miss Pierce. Either she or I leave this house at once. At once!" I repeated, almost screaming.

"Stop!" Everett stood over me in a threatening manner, his face white with anger. "Do you realize that you are insulting me as well as Miss Pierce? Evidently you were spying. For her sake I will explain. Your actions I cannot explain."

"There is no possible explanation of what I saw and heard!"

"There is. And you must listen to it," he quietly turned the key in the door. "That child might come back and know what you have thought," he said. A pitying note crept into his voice.

"I tell you I do not want to hear any explanation. I shall not believe it, so it will be useless."

"Nevertheless you shall hear. Miss Pierce has just heard of the marriage of a younger sister who remained at home and helped her stepmother (who is not domestic) to keep house. They cannot afford a servant, so now have sent for Miss Pierce, telling her it is her duty to come home at once and take the sister's place. She was looking for you with the letter, then I came in, and she showed it to me instead. She is terribly averse to going, yet wants to do what is right."

"I suppose that was what she meant when she said I would never consent to let her stay!" I sneered, determined not to be convinced. "And I suppose that was why you put your arms around her."

"Your name wasn't mentioned Sandra. She asked for you and when Thomas told her you had not yet come in, she never spoke of you again. She was talking of her stepmother, whom I judge to be rather common, as well as selfish. I have advised her to remain with us; and promised to write her father that she will do so. I see no reason why she should be sacrificed to a selfish step-mother's whims, as well as we be robbed of a good nurse."

I said nothing. I did not know whether I was convinced or not.

"You have heard all I have to say. I would suggest that you get ready for dinner." He unlocked the door just as Hetty appeared, announcing it was ready.

"I'll be down directly," I said.

"Oh, Mrs. Graham! I am so glad you have come!" it was Miss Pierce's voice arrested my attention. "I have talked it over with Mr. Graham, but I want your opinion. Will you let me come to your room a few minutes after dinner?"

"If you wish," I ungraciously replied. But she didn't seem to notice, and thanked me effusively

You Can Get All the Mileage which is Built into Goodyear Tires

OBVIOUSLY, the maker cannot guard an automobile tire against all the accidents incident to a strenuous career.

But Goodyear has produced Tire Savers and Service Stations to cure or prevent things which shorten tire life.

The Goodyear Tire Reliner is one of these Tire Savers—a complete new lining for tires weakened by injuries or hard driving—the cure for fabric breaks, the prevention of premature blowouts.

This reinforcement, given the tire as soon as weakness shows in the fabric, should add a thousand or more miles to the service you usually get.

Goodyear Service Station Dealers recommend and use Goodyear Tire Reliners and other Goodyear Tire Savers solely for one purpose—to make Goodyear Tires go farther, and thus build up their sales.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

CITY IS CONSIDERING SITES FOR TWENTY-FOUR NEW HOMES

ARRANGEMENTS UNDER WAY AND PRELIMINARY WORK IS BEING DISPOSED OF—COMMITTEE IS STILL WORKING AWAY.

(By F. H. Dobbin.)

The request from the Council and Housing Commission for offers of properties and lots on which to erect houses has been quite successful. In all 148 pieces have been offered, the larger number such as would come as to location and price well within the estimated sum that was considered reasonable for a piece of ground on which to build. Sketches accompanied the larger number of offers, showing the position of lots in relation to other properties

As was to be expected the larger South ward. And considering that convenience to the place where one works is a consideration, such must have been held in view. At the same time being too close to the building in which the man spends his working hours does not appeal to him. He wants to be a reasonable distance away.

Several properties offered from the East Ward present possibilities. A claim is put forward by men working in the plant buildings of the Quaker Oats Co. that they should not be forgotten. Again with the new bridge in use we suppose that any objections to the East Ward as being out of the line of travel to and from work on the west side of the river should cease. If not then the bridge misses its function. Some difficulties as to sewage service exist in the East Ward but possibly such may be overcome.

Tuesday evening of last week the Commission met to go over the list as compiled, consider the availability of lots, and make a tentative selection on which to erect the twenty-four houses that is proposed to put up. The Commission had agreed that about $3,100.00 was as much as which the lot should cost, for each house, taking into consideration present costs of building. Very many lots offered come within the figure indicated, showing that in making offers property owners have not been unreasonable. Still many are offered and something of an advance, and where the municipal improvements are fully installed and at hand, such will be taken into account.

Travelled Over Area.

On Thursday last the Commission and City Clerk went over the city to view the positions of forty lots, as selected. Mayor McIntyre, Mr. Finnie, Mr. Dobbin, and the Clerk sat in judgment, so to speak, on the virtues and advantages of such as had been noted. Notes were made in all respects, and a further weeding out will follow in order to get at the very best to be used under the circumstances. Frontage and depth were looked at, the necessity or absence of required filling was considered. Position as to possible employment taken into account. Convenience of schools was not forgotten. The report to be made to Council will indicate the preference to be given in the interests of the housing project.

Plans were received early in the week. These cover four types, including one cottage-bungalow, which class is in large favor in places visited by the commission. All plans provide for excellent dwellings, in all respects well up to modren requirements, for these homes will be the standard, if erected, in Peterborough for years to come. Any working man will be proud to own one and occupy it, for he will have for himself and family something for which he will never have to make apology. Not that money will be lavished on the houses, for the utmost care and economy will be used, but that what is put into the house will represent good value. Contractors are invited, as per advertisement, to make prices for one or more of each type of house.

In addition to the four room house and cottage-bungalow, five and six room houses are among the plans. Based on the contract prices offered it will be decided the number of houses of each type to have built. It may be that costs of building will be so startling that none could be erected and bring the costs within the ability of the prospective owner to pay. However Council will decide as to that. In all houses the hall and bath room are not counted as being rooms.

The four room house will be erected with an additional room in the attic. Lighted and floored, so as to be utilized if the owner wishes. Then several forms of building are in view. Of solid brick, of veneered construction and of concrete blocks and stucco. This latter form is very popular in the western part of the province and is well liked. It may be, if used, one way out of large cost. Brick is now at its highest price, but assumed to have reached a limit. Let us all hope so, for while the clay in the ground, as a raw material, is no more costly than in years gone by, the cost of manufacture and delivery have added to the prices. At one time in the history of the town a brick, or half-brick, was a favorite form of missile. Bricks now cost too much money to throw away.

Contractors are taking plans and specifications and making up estimates, and as soon after the end of next week as possible a report will be made to Council and the prospects for building definitely ascertained

Our Murder Record.

For every million inhabitants Canada has each year three murders; Germany, under five; Great Britain, ten; France, fourteen; Belgium, sixteen. In the United States there are every year 129 murders per million inhabitants. In one single year over 11,000 men, women and children are murdered. One murderer in seventy-five pays the death penalty, and for the rest an average imprisonment of seven years settles the score

Seeds of Vegetable Plants.

Seeds may be saved from the best vegetable plants one year for the next season's planting. Lettuce and radish go to seed if permitted to do so. The best corn ears may be left on the plant to mature. The best potatoes from the biggest hills may also be saved if they can be kept safely. Peas and beans allowed to ripen on the plants will supply seed for next year.

An Aged Gander.

The birds that live to a great age are comparatively few. Gulls have been known to reach forty years, parrots frequently live eighty years and swans nearly as long. Ravens and owls usually die somewhat younger, but there is good reason to believe that eagles and falcons sometimes live more than a hundred years. Of barnyard fowls ducks and geese live longest. D. MacLachlan of Islay, Scotland, writes to the Field that he has a gander that is now sixty-six years old. For forty-five years it belonged to the proprietor of a hotel at Bridgend, Scotland. Twenty-one years ago the father-in-law of the present owner bought it. Mr. MacLachlan says that the gander looks as well and as young and seems as active as it ever did. There is no doubt about its age.

Her Adopted Name.

They were discussing the peculiarities of names, and Blobton suddenly said:

"By the way, Cox, your wife's got a queer name, hasn't she—'Duty?' Where did she get that name Duty?"

"Oh, she adopted it," replied Mr. Cox. "She claims that every married woman's middle name is Duty, because she is either being done or neglected."—London Mail.

"How does he manage to fool them, then?"

"He doesn't. He deals in furnaces."

Sheer Idolatry.

"I guess he's proud of that bird."

"Proud is not the name for it. Why, man, he has had a phonographic record made of her cackle."

Martin-Senour Paints and Varnishes

A Paint to Be 100% Efficient Must Be 100% Pure

That is why Martin-Senour 100% Pure Paint is the most economical and satisfactory paint to use.

It is an absolutely pure paint. By a PURE paint is meant one that contains no ingredient that cheapens it, such as barytes, whiting, silica, marble dust, china clay, alkali, benzine, water, adulterated linseed oil, etc. These substitutes only add weight or bulk. MAKE PURITY YOUR STANDARD and see that the paint is guaranteed, just as the Martin-Senour 100% Pure Paint is.

TO ASCERTAIN THE AMOUNT OF PAINT YOU REQUIRE.

It depends on the condition of the surface, but the following example will show the method of estimating approximately the quantity of Martin-Senour 100% Pure Paint needed. Add the number of feet front and rear to the number of feet in length of both sides. Multiply this by the average height. Divide by 400 (as one gallon will cover 400 square feet, two coats); this will give the required number of gallons:

EXAMPLE.

Front	.25	feet
Rear	.25	"
Side	.30	"
Side	.30	"
Height.	20	"
Divide by 400)	2200	"
Gallons for two coats	5½

No matter how good a paint may be it will fail unless it is correctly applied to a surface in proper condition to receive it. To be assured of satisfactory results always read the directions carefully.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH

REV. F. E. MALOTT GAVE ADDRESS AT THE MORNING SERVICE—FORESTERS' MARCHED TO CHURCH.

Addressing the Canadian Order of Foresters in George Street Methodist Church yesterday evening, Rev. A. J. Thomas spoke on the theme, "Men Which Every Community Needs," his text being taken from Luke x., 37: "Go and do thou likewise." Jesus spake the parable of the good Samaritan to the lawyer who came to Him asking how he might inherit eternal life. This parable undoubtedly convinced the lawyer regarding the question, "Who is my neighbour?" and he was quite willing to acknowledge that the Samaritan showed the neighbourly spirit. Then Jesus said to him, "Go thou and do likewise."

Call Forth Admiration and Praise

There are many things about the good Samaritan that call forth our admiration and praise. In the first place we like him because he did not allow himself to be hindered by personal prejudices. Nationality was subordinated to humanity and sectarianism to real religion.

We like the Samaritan because of his personal touch. The personal element was manifested in all his services, and it is this element which always makes kindness beautiful. Money has done splendid service in many cases, but real neighbourly love will sometimes give more than money, because it will minister with its own hands.

Another reason why we like the Samaritan is because of his absolute disinterestedness in his services. He did what he could without any thought of recompense. We also like him because of the generosity of his kindness. He did not give this man temporary relief and then leave him lying on the road. He took him to the inn and saw that he was cared for.

Emphasis Needed To-Day.

The lesson of the good Samaritan needs emphasis in these days. Jesus says to us as He said to the lawyer, "Go thou and do likewise." There are many who need this touch of neighbourliness. Not often do we come upon people who have been maltreated by robbers, but we do frequently come upon people whom we could serve in their distress as did the good Samaritan. There are the sick and suffering, the defeated and discouraged, the fearful and the fallen, the poor and perplexed, the sorrowful and sinful.

We also owe it to our fellowmen to endeavour to prevent these tragedies in life. It is better to stop people at the top of the precipice, than let them go down to the bottom and then pour in the oil and the wine.

We should also deal with the sins of omission. The priest and Levite were by no means guiltless. Was there not blood on the hands of the priest and Levite just as there was on the hands of the robbers. It is a sin to refuse to give the love and practical sympathy which our fellowmen are needing, and yet this is a sin of which few people are guiltless.

Foresters Recognized By Church.

"Real religion," said Mr. Thomas, "will find expression in service such as we have mentioned. It is very fitting that the Canadian Order of Foresters should be recognized by the Church in this service. We are pleased to have them with us and wish them prosperity and success. The Church of God joins with you who are members of the Order in emphasizing the necessity of a practical sympathy and a real brotherliness and neighbourliness. Religion that is not associated with a loving consideration of others is of no avail. The gospel teaches that a man should be so religious, that he considers it is Christ-like and also his duty and privilege to minister to those with whom he comes in contact. Service in Jesus' name is what He expects."

Another Side to Question.

There is also another side to this great question. Not only does real religion find expression in practical sympathy, but in order to render the best service we need the power of the indwelling Christ. As George McDonald said, "When God comes to man, man begins to look around for his neighbour."

"If you are to fulfill your full responsibility as a neighbour," concluded Mr. Thomas, "then let Jesus pour the oil and wine into your sin-stricken soul and invigorate it with His love and grace. Let us do all the good we can, in all the ways we can, to all the people we can, and such service will not only brighten the lives of those who receive it, but it will beautify our character and win for us the personal favour of God."

Morning Service.

Rev. F. E. Malott, of Trinity Methodist Church, who took the morning service, gave a highly instructive and interesting sermon on Christ as King. He took as his text, Zechariah ix., 9-10, wherein the advent of Christ being hailed as King of Jerusalem is prophesied. All four gospels quoted the prophecy as being fulfilled with Christ's entry into Jerusalem, but when He entered Jerusalem, He also made a prophecy of the day when the whole world will acknowledge Him as King. The Apostles believed in the kingship of Jesus, and this kingship is becoming more evident every day. Zechariah did not ascribe him a sovereign such as Alexander the Great, but as a king, due to His preeminence, matchless character, and full and undoubted authority, in the realm of truth.

Intellectual Supremacy of Jesus.

Jesus' intellectual supremacy is seen in His themes and intellectual resources. The five greatest intellects have been named as Homer, Dante, Shakespeare, Milton and Michael Angelo. Yet Christ is far removed from these men as the mind of Shakespeare from the veriest savage. Consider His influence on life, literature, law, etc., to-day, and we must admit that the enthronement of Jesus over the minds of men is going forward.

Kingship in Realm of Character.

He who is king of himself and controls his own forces, is the true king. Jesus is supreme in this regard. Even outstanding men, who have refused Him homage and denied His deity, have acknowledged Him as supreme on the earth. Jesus was reared in surroundings which were absolutely corrupt, yet He grew up spotless and pure.

King in Realm of Authority.

Mr. Malott pointed out that Jesus could say what no other king or ruler has been able to say, "All authority is given unto me in Heaven and on earth. Alexander, Caesar, Napoleon, the Kaiser, all wanted a universal kingship, and all failed miserably.

Zechariah points out that His conquests and rule are spiritual and moral. "Surely truth," said Mr. Malott, "is winning its way in the world." The victory He had is a forerunner of the victory His disciples and Church shall have.

Our Attitude.

What should be our attitude to Jesus as King? Men often shut Christ in, keep Him in the church all week and pay homage to Him on the Sabbath. We owe a better loyalty and Jesus demands it. He wants our full service, for no man can serve two masters. We must give Jesus first place.

'IT HAS PUT ME ON MY FEET," HE SAYS

TWELVE YEARS' SUFFERING SOON OVERCOME BY TANLAC—LACHANCE FEELS FINE NOW.

"When a man has suffered for twelve years and then finds a medicine that puts him back on his feet like Tanlac has done me, I think it is time for him to talk for the benefit of others." said Albin Lachance, a well-known employee of the Gilette Safety Razor Co., living at 1252 Ethel street, Verdun, Quebec, recently.

"Yes sir, I have been in the worst sort of health for the past twelve years," he continued, "and if I had searched the world over I don't believe I could have found a better medicine than Tanlac. My appetite was next to nothing and what I ate soured and settled in a lump in my stomach. I had a burning in my chest like fire and was so short of breath I thought I would suffocate. My tongue was always thick and coated and I had a sour, mean taste in my mouth. I was so nervous that during the night I would wake up with a jump and have to sit up in bed for hours unable to close my eyes. I was constipated all the time and at the least effort I would break out in perspiration.

"One of my neighbors had tried Tanlac with such fine results that I knew there must be something to it and I began taking it myself. Well, sir, my appetite picked up right away I slept better and felt better in every way, and now after taking four bottles I can eat anything set before me and never have a sign of indigestion. My tongue is not coated or thick any more and the sour taste in my mouth has disappeared. I am not constipated now and I don't perspire like I used to. My nerves are as strong as steel and I can sleep all night long without waking up once. I am feeling like my old self again and, as a medicine, I consider Tanlac without an equal."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corner by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

EAT LESS AND TAKE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the elminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headaches or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

STIRRING ADDRESS TO THE FORESTERS

EXCELLENT MUSIC AND LARGE CONGREGATIONS.

Excellent music, large congregations, and deep spiritual power characterised the services at Mark Street Church yesterday. "A Voice in the Night" was the subject of the morning sermon, and was based on the text found in Matthew 8, 15th verse: "And he touched her hand and the fever left her." The following were some of the thoughts developed:

First—No disease, whether of body or soul, can exist under the touch of Jesus. Still as many as He loves He rebukes and chastens, and it may not be for His glory to have our physical afflictions cured. Like Paul and Job, our sufferings may be the devil's challenge to God of our integrity. But Jesus wills the healing of Peter's wife's mother.

Second—Notice, Jesus touches her hand, not her head. We all know our duty, but our hands drop at our side. What could we not accomplish by this hand of ours if Jesus touched its slumbering powers. One stroke of the pen and strikes would be dissolved, and the wheels of industry would move in beautiful harmony. One stroke of the pen and the hungry are fed, the naked clothed, the wounded healed, and the fever of greed and selfishness and lust and discontent driven from the world, but Jesus must first touch the hand that moves the pen.

Third—Fever is poison in the blood and sin is venom in the soul. Fever is universal and contagious, so is sin. As fever is common to the race, so is sin common to all mankind. As in fever nature struggles to throw out the offending cause, so Jesus touches the hand of the fever-stricken world and brings a blessed harmony, but He does this by touching the individual.

Fourth—When Jesus touched her hand she arose and ministered unto all about her. Touched by Jesus, she began to serve others. Can He not do this for all of us? He can and will.

Addressed Foresters.

In the evening the pastor preached to Court Stanley and Court Alexander, A.O.F., the subject being "Brotherhood in Nature and Society." The text was, "Who is my neighbour?"—Luke 10, 29.

The following are some of the points developed:

First—The earnest student of creation is convinced that the idea of association or brotherhood slumbered in the Divine mind from all eternity. The millions of flaming worlds that flash in the great star chamber of the skies seem to constitute one vast brotherhood of stars. A thousand million suns in God's great universe have for their big brothers Mercury and Venus and Mars, and far away majestic Jupiter, flashing in splendour 480,000,000 miles distant from the sun. It is so in the earth and sea. Families of trees and grasses, clusters of fruits and flowers, associations of birds and insects and finny denizens of the deep. No wonder, then, that we find men in companies and communities and associations. It is natural for men to form themselves into brotherhoods for mutual protection.

Second—In our text Jesus makes the lawyer answer his own question in regard to who his neighbour may be, and speaks the parable of the good Samaritan. There are four classes of people represented by the wounded man, the priest, the Levite, and the Samaritan. Because this one priest passed by on the other side and failed to help the wounded we may not conclude that all priests were guilty of neglect. Nevertheless, he was the representative of God's Church and should have been looking for the wounded by the wayside. The Levite did a little better. He looked at the wounded man. He had charge of the music of the Temple, could sing like a nightingale, but fell down on first-aid work when it came to pick up the wounded. Have you any of that kind in your church? While music has its place, the Levite will have to do more than sing if he helps the wounded brother by the wayside, that sin has cursed and wounded and robbed.

Third—Now that Samaritan is certainly a hustler. He comes along, sees the wounded Jew, ties his horse while he renders first-aid, tenderly lifts the poor fellow to the back of the horse, while he himself walks. He comes to the hotel, orders hospital service, pays the shot, and goes away, leaving orders that the wounded man is to be cared for at the Samaritan's own expense. This is brotherhood in the truest sense of the term. This is the aim of all benevolent societies. Go and do likewise, and remember that Jesus is the great brother of all men.

LATE MRS. J. C. WILSON LAID TO REST.

The funeral of Mrs (Rev.) J. C. Wilson, who passed away at the family residence, 251 Havelock street, Toronto, on Thursday last, took place in this city on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Wilson, who was formerly Miss Annie Ivison, daughter of the late John Ivison came with her parents from England about 68 years ago.

She became the wife of the Rev. J. C. Wilson on July 3rd., 1867 and for forty years was his faithful and efficient helpmeet in the work of the Methodist itineracy, within the bounds of the Bay of Quinte Conference. In all the various fields in which she and her husband labored she was greatly beloved, as one who had the kenest interest in the welfare of the people.

For several years she was 1st vice president of the Bay of Quinte Branch of the Women's Missionary Society, and was also very active in the work of the W.C.T.U.

Thirteen years ago, the year Mr. Wilson superannuated, she sustained serious injuries in the Caledon wreck from the effects of which she never recovered.

The remains arrived from Toronto on Saturday at noon, accomplished by her bereaved husband her son, Rev. J. S. I. Wilson of Cobourg and daughter, Miss Annie of Toronto.

A brief but impressive service was conducted at Belleghem's Parlours by the Rev. Benjamin Greatrix, an intimate friend of the family for over forty years, after which interment took place in the family plot at Little Lake Cemetery, where her second son, Dr. J. A. Gardam Wilson was laid to rest twenty-three years ago.

LAW WILL BE ENFORCED IN IRELAND

Government Determined to Use Iron Hand.

LONDON, June 7.— The Government intends to take steps to bring to justice all persons associated with crime in Ireland, Premier Lloyd George declared in the House of Commons to-day in answering a question.

The Premier added that with this object in view the government was re-organizing the Irish executive and was strengthening police, naval and military forces in Ireland. It would probably also be necessary he said, to strengthen the law for dealing with crime. It was the intention of the government, Mr. Lloyd George asserted, to put down the present organized campaign of murder and assassination.

C.G.E. AND MACHINE GUNNERS MADE FIRST DRAWN FOOTBALL GAME

GUNNERS OUTPLAYED THE C.G.E. FIRST HALF AND WREE AHEAD TWO GOALS TO ONE, TILL THE PENALTY AWARDED IN THE LAST FEW MINUTES ROBBED THE GUNNERS OF TWO POINTS.

In a downpour of rain the Machine Gunners and the C. G. E. played their return football game on Saturday evening, at the Exhibition grounds before a meagre attendance of spectators. Referee Alex. McKinley handled the whistle and lined up the teams as follows:

C. G. E. — J. Naples, goal; C. Hotson and R. Leach, backs; J. Flanders, H. Cowie and A. Parkins, half- J. Bills, W. Ridley, A. Gash, H.Turner and E. Bartley, forwards.

Machine Gun. — W. Flowers, goal; N. E. Crowe and R. H. Perry, backs, Hig Darling, R. G. McLeish, and A. Dodds, half backs; R. Payne, W. Bell, L. Fraser, E. Bell and Harold Darling, forwards.

The Game.

There was no choice in winning the toss ,and the game started in a deluge of rain. An individual effort by J. Bills jeopardized Flowers' goal, as Gash missed the upright. The Gunners retaliated and Hotson punting up the field to J. Bills who lashed the ball across to Bartley, only to witness Crowe kick back down again. The whole forward line of the Gunners raided the C. G. E.'s goal and E. Bell getting too close in was brought up for offside. A foul against the Gunners was sent over the bar. Harold Darling received a nice pass from Hig Darling and wasting no time lashed the ball across to Fraser and E. Bell and the latter carried it up against the goalkeeper for the inside left to land it in goal. The goal keeper held on to it with the whole forward line on top of him and in his endeavour to clear he travelled through the goal—the referee immediately certified the decision by punting to the centre of the field. Flowers saved repeatedly from Bartley and Perry clearing to Payne who transferred play to C.G. E.-end and W. Bell getting hold of the ball on the touch line shot across to E. Bell, who put through but the referee blew his whistle for offside. Midfield play continued until the Gunners' outside right beat Flanders, and crossing to Harold Darling on the left, the ball hit him on the arm for a foul. From the resulting kick Turner was given a chance to score but was dilatory in front of Crowe to swing the ball down to Payne, who outwitted Flanders and carrying into the corner, centred a beauty in front of goal for the Machine Gun forwards to put through Naples for second goal.

The Gunners came back again and were still pressing when half time arrived. Machine Gun 2. C. G. E. 1.

Half Time.

On the exchange of goals the C.G. E. made things hot for the Gunners' defence and in a raid on goals by Bartley ,a foul was awarded the C. G. E. from about 18 yards out; the left winger lashed the ball across the goals for Gash to pick it up nicely to even up the score. Just afterwards Bartley missed an open goal. A solo run on the right by J. Bills looked promising but he was slow in crossing and only received a fruitless corner. Nice combination by E. Bell and Harold Darling left Parkins behind and travelling into goal at full speed they were checked by Wag Hotson who was standing facing his own goal, lifted the ball over his head, thereby preventing the Gunners from scoring. At the other end Turner headed over the bar, with Flowers standing waiting for the issue. Even and interesting play ensued for a long time and the pace slowed down. It was a defence game throughout and the full backs on each team where checking and punting to their respective forwards to make an opening.

A break-away by W. Bell was tacked by the two C.G.E. defence men to clear slowly. and E. Bell catching the drop to ground bewildered the goal keeper by breasting the ball through the goal for the Gunners' third goal. The C. G. E. worked hard to get a goal that ultimately came to them through Crowe bringing down one of the C. G. E. men in the penalty area. Wag was trusted with the ball, who shot into the far corner of the goal out of Flowers' reach.

There was only a few minutes left for the Gunners to redeem themselves but the final whistle ended the first draw game in the Football League. C. G. E. 3. Machine Gun 3.

A Summary.

The folowing table will give an approximate idea of Referee McKinley's decisions.

Machine Gun.

	1st Half.	2nd Half.	Total
Goal kicks	4	5	9
Goals	2	1	3
Corners	0	1	1
Offside	2	2	4
Fouls	1	2	3

C. G. E.

	1st Half.	2nd Half.	Total
Goal kicks	4	4	8
Goals	1	2	3
Corners	1	1	2
Offsides	0	1	1
Fouls	1	2	3

The two teams were pretty well matched during the first 15 minutes; although the C. G. E. were playing many substitutes they showed up well, more especially J. Bells, who should have crossed quicker instead of hanging on to the ball. In the last period of the first half the Machine Gunners deserved to be ahead because they were more aggresive in front of goal. It was a well placed ball from Bartley in taking a foul outside the penalty area that gave Gash the opportunity to score.

Speaking as a whole, the Machine Gun team was far superior to the C. G. E., with Payne and Dodds being the best players on the field. Wag Hotson and R. Leach made a creditable defence pair and for the latter's baptismal game he made good.

SHORT OF BREATH

Could Hardly Walk Without Resting

When you go to a physician to be examined for any heart trouble one of the first questions he asks is: "Are you short of breath?"

Now, when the heart becomes affected there ensues a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, dizziness and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are just the remedy you require. They regulate and stimulate the heart and strengthen and restore the whole nerve system.

Mr. Stephen Crouse, East Clifford, N.S., writes:—"I suffered for five years with heart trouble. I could hardly walk from the house to the barn without resting as I used to get so short of breath. Doctors could not help me. My wife told me to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I felt better after taking them; three boxes made me quite well. I am now helping my son to work the farm, and can truthfully say I feel like a different man."

BASEBALL OUTFIT ENTERS THE ARENA

A NEW AGGREGATION OUT TO CLEAN UP.

A recently organized baseball aggregation of aspiring young ball players is the Bohunks team, whose official organization dates from June 1. Allan Doughty does the twirling for the outfit, while the receiving honors are divided between Reg. Huff and Chris. Bergoine. The rest of the line-up follows: R. White, 1st base; J. Thirnbeck, 2nd base; F. Rutherford, shortstop; H. Tudhope, 3rd base; E. Meredith, r. field; F. Herbison, c. field; K. Anderson, l. field.

Last Wednesday the C.G.E. picked team suffered a whitewashing at their hands by 12-0. Negotiations are under way with Lakefield, Keene and some other points for games that, if they materialize, should provide some lively sport for the rural fans and a chance for the youngsters to show what they can do. The nine are not as hard as the name might apply, but as far as bathing goes are purported to be able to live up to it.

ALL SET FOR CIRCUS TO-MORROW

THREE SPECIAL TRAINS WILL CARRY THE BIG SHOW.

To-morrow is the day when juvenile dreams come true and the old become young again. Circus day, the day of all days for the kiddies, is reckoned about on a par with the Fourth of July and Christmas. About the time the milkman is making his rounds the first of the three long trains bearing the Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows, one of the largest circus organizations in the world, will come slowly pulling into Peterborough over the Grand Trunk.

The first section known in the parlence of showmen as the "flying squadron," is scheduled to leave Orillia at 10 o'clock to-night. The other trains loaded to the guards with circus paraphernalia, are due to depart shortly after midnight. As quickly as the circus specials arrive they will be placed on convenient sidings, where the work of unloading will begin. And without any halts or perplexing delays the huge baggage waggons and other equipment will be transferred to the circus grounds.

The circus parade will make its start as near 10.30 o'clock to-morrow morning as conditions will permit. The pageant stretches three miles in length and its beauty, promise is given, will surpass the expectations of the young and old. Three herds of elephants will tread the route and of camels, zebras, zebus, sacred cattle, yaks and other "led" animals will be legion. Dozens of open cages will disclose their jungle inmates and trainers. More than 500 equines, ranging from the powerful plumed draft and Percherons and Clydesdales, thoroughbred chariot racers and ring horses to the sturdy Shetland ponies, ever dear to the hearts of the children, will display themselves, and there will be a myriad of other interesting features.

Fire Meets Its Master

Recently, fire broke out in the Hamilton, Canada plant of the Canadian Shovel & Tool Company, Limited. It started in a large fuel oil tank.

F. Skelton, Managing Director, writes that the fire burned for four hours, and that water had no effect whatever on it.

A. B. Ten Eyck, Chief of the Hamilton Fire Department wrote:
"As water would not extinguish the burning oil, the Firemen devoted their attention to saving the Factory I called up Mr. J. Lindsey of the Canadian Foamite Firefoam Ltd., and requested him to bring down some of his Foamite Firefoam."
Mr. Lindsey then went to his place of business, got a supply of Foamite Firefoam and proceeded to the fire. In less than five minutes after his arrival the Foamite Firefoam had the fire practically extinguished."

W. T. James, First Assistant Chief, Hamilton Fire Department wrote:
"It is the greatest thing I ever saw. The fire at the Canadian Shovel & Tool Company would be burning yet without the use of Foamite Firefoam."

CALEDONIANS DROPPED ANOTHER TWO POINTS IN FOOTBALL LEAGUE

FROST HURT IN FIRST FEW MINUTES—RHAM OPENED THE SCORING—MATT SHAW EQUALIZFD—HALF-TIME A DRAW—JONES BRILLIANT IN GOAL—DE LAVAL ADDED TWO MORE GOALS—CALEYS GET A PENALTY—DE LAVAL 3, CALEDONIANS 2.

The return Football League fixture between the De Laval and the Caledonians was played at the Exhibition grounds on Saturday afternoon before a fair attendance of spectators. The De Laval team was completely re-organized and showed up well. The Caledonians had a number of substitutes on their line-up. Mr. A. Day was the appointed referee for the game.

The Teams.

De Laval — W. Jones, goal; H. Hartshorn and J. Godfrey, backs; A. Styles, J. McDonald and Wm. Brown, half-backs; G. Hartshorn, J. Long, J. Rham, E. Abraham and J. Lindsay, forwards.

Caledonians— C. Fenner, goal; A. Duthy and R. Willshaw, backs; H. Frost, S. McMillan and J. Shaw, half-backs; F. McKinley, Matt. Shaw, Jas. Shaw, Neil Hurry and R. McDowall, forwards.

The Game.

Caledonians won the toss and it was not long until they raided the De Laval goal for McKinley to put past on a pass from McDowall. Offside against Hartshorn spoiled a great chance to score. From the resulting kick McDowall tore down the wing to test Jones with a hard one to put out to play, which McKinley returned for Jones to clear. A foul against McDonald looked dangerous for De Laval. McMillan shot hard to goal for Jones to clear nicely. Lindsay accepting the ball in midfield play drew Duthy out of the defence and shot across the goal for Hartshorn to pick up but he was slow and letting it go past.

Frost Hurt and Retired.

Fully ten minutes had been played when in a tackle on the right wing between Herb Frost and Brown, the Caledonian player received a bad knee kick that put him out of the game. On the throw up Matt. Shaw worked his way to Jones to get a corner of Godfrey. The corner kick was unproductive and to go into midfield play. McMillan kicked the ball to go against Styles' face and stop the play a few minutes. McMillan on another foul kick against the De Laval gave Jones some trouble in clearing the fast drive from 20 yards out. Twice in succession the De Laval forwards gave the Caleys' defence a fright until on the third visit R. Willshaw banged the ball against the centre forward, and without any hesitation he beat Fenner with a low ground shot.

Jones' Marvellous Saves.

The Caledonians confined the play to the De Laval area for a long while, with Jones punting and saving his goal from all angles. During one of the attacks Jas. and Matt. Shaw broke through the defence and the De Laval goalkeeper running out of his goal stopped them at the critical moment. The Scotsmen received four corners one after the other, that always landed in front of the goal for Jones to clear. Matt. Shaw accepting a well placed ball from the centre forward, he beat three men, and feinting a kick, made Jones go to the near end of the goal, but quick as a flash the inside right beat Jones with a fast ground drive just before half-time. De Laval 1 goal, Caledonians 1 goal.

Half Time.

Even play continued on resuming a little later. The Caleys pressed for McDonald to clear to the right wing and J. Long let drive from about 20 yards out, for the ball to strike the inside of the upright that deceived the Caley's goalkeeper for De Laval's second goal, after three minutes' play. At the other end McDowall was called up for being offside. McMillan returned the ball to Matt. Shaw who was checked nicely by Godfrey as the inside right let drive. On the left, Abraham beat John Shaw on nice play and passed across the goal for Willshaw to put up the field. At this period of the game McDonald got kicked on the face and retired to touch to get it dressed; he continued playing.

Caleys Could Not Score.

The whole forward line of the Caleys forced play at the De Laval's goal but could not get the necessary goals after some nice combination. A break-away on the De Laval left Abraham with the ball, who beat the right back on the run and fixing himself gave Fenner no chance whatever from close in. The Caleys' right wing repeated the same play, just afterwards, on a pass from Matt. Shaw, the Caley's outside left run into the goals with only Jones in front of him, and taking his time put the ball out of the goalkeeper's reach, but to the surprise of the players the ball went past the outside of the upright.

Caledonians Awarded a Penalty.

With five minutes to go the Caledonians pressed and in a melee in the penalty area Godfrey accidentally hit the ball with his hand. McMillan took the kick and made no mistake with his parting shot for the Caleys' second goal. Play was in midfield as full time arrived. De Laval 3, Caledonians 2.

DISCUSSION OVER DECISION.

May Withdraw Japanese Troops in Siberia.

(Canadian Press.)

TOKIO, June 7.—The Cabinet reported a decision partially to withdraw the Japanese troops from Siberia, is the subject of much discussion in the newspapers here. The foreign officer made the following statement:

"With reference to reports that the withdrawal of the Japanese expeditionary forces from Siberia formed a subject of a cabinet meeting on June 1st, various surmises that an actual decision has been received seem to be in circulation. As a matter of fact the discussion related to the general policy and practice to be observed in negotiations between the Russian political groups and the Japanese military authorities in Siberia. It is needless to state that the time and the extent of the realization of the policy thus determined depend entirely on the actual developments hereafter of the situation in the regions concerned."

HOLLOW VICTORY FOR PETES IN LOCAL CENTRAL LEAGUE OPENER

PORT HOPE, DISORGANIZED BY LOSS OF THEIR PITCHER, ARE BEATEN BY 17 TO 3 IN GAME THAT WAS DEVOID OF PEP AND INTEREST—HARRISON'S BATTING A FEATURE.

HOW RUNS WERE SCORED

The weakness of the disorganized Port Hope team in their Central League fixture with Peterborough at Riverside Park on Saturday, made the local opening of the League season a disappointment—the chief brightness being supplied by the fact that the Petes won. But they won so far away—by 17 runs to 3—and put the game on ice so early by scoring seven runs in the first innings, that the engagement was listless and tame. There was a grand crowd of fans out, too, in spite of the threatening weather.

The action of the O.B.A.A. in ordering the Central League to cancel the certificate of McDonald, Port Hope's good pitcher, left the Ontarios without an experienced twirler, and the team was all in the air. In addition, Shortstop Guy failed to put in an appearance, and the outfit that finally took the field was a makeshift lot who were beaten before they started, and showed it by their lack of pep and fight.

Baxter, who won a game from the Petes in Port Hope last year, a feat that incidentally knocked the local crew out of the Central League title, was entrusted with the task of trying to stop the home gang Saturday. But he had nothing to do it with, being combed for nineteen hits in five innings, while his support was as full of holes as a screen door. When he was finally derricked in the fifth, the Petes had almost worn out the home plate, trotting across it seventeen times. Friar, a red-headed southpaw, who had been performing in the outfield, went to the hurling hill in the sixth, and with a tantalizing curve as slow as the United States in signing the peace treaty, stood the homesters on their heads for the rest of the game. In the last three innings the Petes got nary a run and only two hits, both of them made by Cherrett, to whom all pitchers seem to look alike this season. If Friar had started the game the score might have been much closer, although it is doubtful if he could have got by for a whole engagement on the little stuff he had.

Charles Melwyn Harrison, better known to the fans as "Hap," was Manager McCabe's pitching selection, and the big fellow never had to extend himself. At that he should have had a shut-out, for none of the three counters scored by the visitors were earned. Harrison fanned eight Ontarios allowed only seven hits, of which several were scratchy, and did not issue a base on balls. And on top of his steady pitching, Harrison occupied a goodly share of the limelight by his prowess with the willow, getting two solid doubles and two singles in five trips to the plate. Cherrett also had four safeties in five appearances.

The chief fielding feature was supplied by Stan Lowe, who galloped over to the right field foul line and, running at full speed, made a great catch of Hill's long drive. The fielding of both teams was loose, Port Hope having no fewer than fifteen errors, while they seemed to communicate some of their inaccuracy to the Petes, who were guilty of eight misplays But a notable percentage of the boots can be charged to the condition of Riverside Park, which was never in such poor shape. The earth placed on the diamond last autumn has proved a failure as material for a baseball cushion, and as a result the infielders are ankle deep in shifting sand They have to choose between playing inside the base paths, where it is impossible to cover much ground, or taking a chance on stopping the erratically hopping grounders on the skinned portion of the diamond, where only a player with second sight can guess how the ball is going to bounce. Unless some improvement is made soon the fielding averages of the teams that perform at Riverside Park will be decidedly poor

The game was late in starting, owing to the fact that a car carrying some of the Port Hope players was delayed. The opening ceremonies were brief. Mayor McIntyre pitched the first ball, with Manager Dan McCabe of the Petes batting, and Secretary McLean of the local club, behind the bat. The Mayor's control was good and he tossed the ball right down the main line, but Manager McCabe who in the good old days used to Baberuth many a ball over the fence in the PA.A.A. grounds, showed his eye still to be good by tapping a grounder into the infield and the season was open.

Ross Chasing Flies.

Big First Innings.

The Petes broke up the game in the first innings. Adams led off with a single to left centre and went to third on Slemin's wild throw to second. Cherrett walked and stole second, and two runs clattered in when Lowe tapped a single over second. Lowe went to second on Baxter's bad peg to catch him off first and scored on Swanston's single through short, the batter taking second on the throw to the plate. Corrin doubled to left, scoring Swanston. Hills dropped a fly from Ross, Corrin going to third. Murray was the first victim on a fly to Carveth, but F. Chalk let Holyman's roller trickle through and Corrin and Ross registered. Harrison singled to left and Holyman was out at the plate, the pitcher going to second on the throw. Friar muffed Adams' line drive to right and Harrison scored. Cherrett mercifully struck out, winding up the innings.

In the third the Petes added another quartette of tallies. Johnny Rowden mussed up Murray's grounder to start with. Holyman singled through short, Harrison doubled on a line to left, Adams singled through short and Cherrett to right, the consecutive safeties with a wild heave by Fire Baseman Slemin allowing four runs to scamper over the plate.

One more was registered in the fourth when, after Ross had singled to right and Holyman got a safety on a roller down the first base line, Harrison doubled to left centre.

There was another bad storm in the fifth. Cherrett began the dire doings by beating out a bunt, and after getting cought between first and second, outwitting the Ontarios' infield and reaching the second sack in safety. Then came the bombardment. Lowe hit safely through short. Swanston hit to right for a sack. Corrin cracked one to centre and went to second when Hills lost the roller. McCarney, batting for Ross, fanned, but Murray, Holyman and Harrison all hit safetly, five runs being the net result, before Adams lined to Friar in centre and a double play put an end to the slaughter.

That ended the Petes' run-getting for the day, Friar blanking them in the last three innings.

Port Hope scored one in the second. Bob Chalk, first up, was safe on Cherrett's fumble and went to second when Harrison's throw to catch him off first, hit the runner. Friar fanned and Harrison threw out Hills. Carveth's Texas Leaguer, the first hit registered by the visitors, scored Chalk. Slemin made the third out on a roller to Harrison.

The other two runs bagged by Chalk and Company were registered in the fourth. There were two out when Murray made a wide toss to first on Hills' grass cutter and the runner went to second. Harrison missed Carveth's tap to the box, Hills going to third. On a double steal, Hills scored and Carveth went to second. Carveth stole third and came home when Slemin bumped a clean single to right, the second hit off Harrison.

The visitors threatened to score in the fifth and sixth, getting two hits in each, but it was only a threat. Rowden led off in the fifth with a single over second, but Swanston's perfect throw to Cherrett nailed him stealing. F. Chalk rolled to Corrin. Thompson got a life when Corrin missed Cherrett's toss and Bob Chalk singled to left. Friar lifted a high one to Cherrett to retire the side.

The sixth started the same way, with a safety by Hills, who was thrown out, Swanston to Holyman, when he tried to steal. Carveth fanned. Baxter was safe on Cherrett's fumble, but Rowden struck out. F. Chalk was the only Port Hoper to get to first in the last three innings.

CANADIAN GENERAL OUT TO STOP THE THISTLES TO-NIGHT SOME BASEBALL COMMENT

The City League game to-night between the Thistles and C.G.E. is one of the most important that has been played in series so far for it is necessary that the C.G.E. should win in order that they may have a chance in the race. The Thistles are well out in front with four straight wins and if they add another to-night, the race will be a procession from now on. The Electricians claim that they are going to turn the trick and that from now on there will be a real fight The game is called for 6.15 o'clock and promises to be a good battle.

President Lockington failed to put in an appearance at Saturday's game. He must have had a hunch what was going to happen to his Port Hope team.

The Chalk Brothers supply all the pep that Port Hope has. The third baseman especially is there with a loud brand of noise that amused the fans.

Alex. Kay and his assistant "Curley Lebarr handled Saturday's game in good style.

Oshawa with victories over Port Hope and Lindsay to their credit will meet the Petes on Saturday at Riverside Park. This will be a much different game from last Saturday's and the Petes will have to be on their toes all the way to stop the fast going Oshawa crew who beat Port Hope 22 to 2 and scalped Lindsay 12 to 4 on their own diamond. Next Saturday's game will be the last home game until Dominion Day.

"Babe" Head who was with Jake Solomon's Orientals in the City League last year has signed with the G.W.V.A. and will likely play first base for them in Thursday's game with the Canadian Woollens.

If Harry Corrin plays for the Canadian General team to-night as is announced there will be a nice little problem for the City League executive. Corrin has played one league game for the G.W.V.A. but did not sign a certificate for the Veterans. Now it is claimed he is eligible to play for the C.G.E. because he did not sign with another club alhough he played for one.

Max Swanson's throwng to bases on Saturday was a feature. He got two would be purloiners of second cold and would have had a third had not Holyman returned the ball to the plate instead of tagging the runner from first. There were two out at the time.

There were plenty of errors in Saturday's game but Friar the Port Hope second pitching choice distinguished himself in making two on one play when he dropped an easy pop fly and then threw wildly to first giving the batter an extra base

Bob Chalk's uniform looked as if the Port Hope Catcher was a charter member of the old Clothes League.

Of the nine Peterboro players who started in Saturday's game every one but Holyman got exactly two runs and he would have his pair if he had touched the plate instead of Chalk's foot when he came in on Harrison's hit in the first.

On his City League showing 'Shag' Shaughnessy of the Thistles is entitled to a chance in the gardens for the Central League team. There is no better fielding out-fielder in town and in the four city league games he has played he has bumped the old apple at a 500 clip, getting seven hits out of fourteen times up.

There is no argument over the question that some of the Petes are helpless before south paw pitching Friar with nothing but a slow curve had no trouble in disposing of them in on the last three innings. And Friar is no Freddie Goyer, we'll tell the world.

Some of last year's City League batting leaders are well down in the ruck so far this season. Walter Jackson who lead the League regulars last year is only hitting, 182 while Frankie Collins of the C.G.E. who was among the leaders last season is away down with a .100 percentage.

BROKE INTO STORE IN PORT HOPE

BURGLARS CLEANED OUT PORT HOPE JEWELLERY SHOW WINDOW.

PORT HOPE, June 5. — W. Piper's jewellery store, John street, was burglarized on Friday night, when some thieves got away with practically all the valuables displayed in the show windows. The thieves' haul consisted of 3 nickel case watches, four gold filled watch chains, one silver watch chain, silver necklace, three ten carat gold rings, eight gold plated tie pins, four set with pearls; two dozen bar tie pins, six watch bars, one beaded hand bag, four souvenir brooches, one gold filled bracelet, two gold filled lockets, one gold filled watch fob and two pearl necklaces.

Entrance to the store was effected by pulling the lock from off the store's door and this lock evidently broken in the operations, was found the following morning on the doorstep. Investigation revealed that none of the local hardware men carry this particular grade of file in stock.

Mr. Piper, a returned soldier, has only been in business a few months, and the loss of the stolen jewellery is a very serious one for him.

All the jewellery under repair was fortunately locked up in a safe, and which the burglars did not attempt to break into.

Majority Award in Dispute Between G. T. R. and Employees

DEPARMENT GETS A COPY OF FINDING

G.T.R. EMPLOYEES WILL BENEFIT AS RESULT OF THE AWARD.

Canadian Press.

MONTREAL, June 9. — The Minister of Labour has received to-day it is understood, a majority award in the dispute between the Grand Trunk Railway and its station, yard and office employees, numberig over 7,000, whereby the conditions agreed upon and the recommendations made, will together add, it is estimated, close to 1,000,000 to the annual payroll of the company. The award is signed by Mr. Justice McClennan, chairman, and Mr. U. E. Gillen of Toronto. The third member of the board, Mr. Fred Bancroft, does not join in the report, and intends, it is stated, to make a separate report.

The award is the result of hearings and negotiations which have been somewhat protracted. Four trade unions are involved and it is estimated the award covers about 1000 employees in Toronto and other employees at various points on the G. T. R. from Windsor to Quebec City, including Peterboro.

The Increase.

The working conditions agreed upon by the representatives of the company and the representatives of the employees, it is declared, means a incease of about 325,000 to the annual wage roll. The company made an ofeir to the employees committee of an increase in wages to certain employees paid by themonth but not to the great mass of hourly rated employees. The increase offered by the company, including the working conditions, meant, it is declared, an addition of nearly 750,000 to the annual wage.

The question of wages was left to the board and it is understood heer that the majority have awarded additional increases to the hourly men of a certain amount per hour and a percentage increase to the daily rated employees. This addition, it is understood, will bring the increase to a total of one million.

In addition, it is learned, from parties interested heer, that the wage increases are to date back nearly two months.

OFFICERS AND MEMBERS OF HIAWATHA ENCAMPMENT NO. 66 ARE REMINDED OF AN IMPORTANT MEETING THIS EVENING. 1d-135-971

EXCERPT FROM THE BOARD OF TRADE ACT

Article 30, Section 1.

At the time hereby appointed for the election of the council, and in the same manner, the members of the corporation may elect, from their number, twelve persons, who shall form a board, which shall be called the Board of Arbitration; and any three of such persons shall have power to arbitrate upon, and make their award in any commercial case or difference which is voluntarily referred to them by the parties concerned

Remedial Proposal

IMPORTANT RESOLUTION SUBMITTED TO LABOUR CONVENTION.

(Canadian Press.)

MONTREAL, June 9.—Recommendation that workers and employees of the United States create a voluntary arbitration body to settle labor's grievances in the future was placed before the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor here to-day, as a remedial proposal to bring about a more harmonious relationship between two classes and reduce the high cost of living. The resolution, presented by E. L. Edgerton, of Syracuse, N.Y., representing the International Union of Steam and Operating Engineers, declares that the establishment of a commission would put an end to the present cycle of wage advancing and price boosting, which it seems like utter folly to continue. Should the Federation accept the proposal, the Executive Council would be instructed to extend an invitation to associated industries and such other representative bodies of business men as in their judgment are necessary to meet with them for the purpose of devising ways and means and creating a voluntary arbitration body. "Labor and Capital must get together," said Mr. Edgerton, "if the cost of living is to be reduced. We must voluntarily decide this question for ourselves as Congress has failed to enact remedial legislation for reconstruction or reduce the high cost of living."

Support of Federation to coastwise Longshoremen in their fight for recognition and against "open shop" New York city and other ports is asked in the resolution introduced by delegates of the International Union of Steam and Operating Engineers.

Sinn Fein symapthizers among the delegates to-day declared war on the League of Nations ratification programme recommended by the Executive Council to the convention. They asserted they were against any covenant that binds American people by solemn obligation to respect and preserve territorial—integrity of Great Britain. The Irish delegates, Sinn Fein sympathizers, headed by Dan MacKillip, of Los Angeles, have organized to fight the Executive Council proposal, that the Federation call upon Congress to ratify the League without reservation. Ireland's hope for a republic goes aglimmering if the League is ratified, said Mr. McKillop.

THE BABIES' CLINIC WELL PATRONIZED

ORGANIZATION AIMS TO PROTECT AND SAVE CHILD LIFE IN PETERBORO.

In the fact it concerns every part of the community, the Well Babies' Clinic should have the support of every organization and individual, Dr. A. W. McPherson, M.H.O., told the large assembly at the open meeting of the clinic held yesterday in the clinic rooms in the G.W.V.A. hall. The Council should support it, he continued, because it is a civic affair, the Board of Trade because it is of financial importance and the Board of Health because it concerns the city's health. After congratulating the committee in charge of the clinic upon the splendid work which is being done, the speaker dealt first with the aims and objects of the organiznation: namely, the conservation of child life and health and the prevention of the wastage of child life through disease, deformity and death.

The conservation of life, the doctor said, is an especially serious matter to the State at present on account of the devastation wrought by the war which wasted hundreds of the young lives of the country. The clinic's work is invalueable because ofr the work it is doing throughout the world in combatting the infant mortality which has been up to the present ten to twenty per cent. of the children under a year old and a large percentage of those from one to five years of age. Again the neglect of proper knowledge of rearing chlidren is a serious matter to the State on account of the financial loss to the community and family involved in the sickness and death of children. The speaker also dealt with the serious cosequences to mothers in the ignorance of the rearing of healthy rearing of children and of the suffering and sadness following such ignoance.

The Prevention.

The work of Well Babies' Clinics so far has aleady reduced infant mortality by about half by the careful attention given to children at an early age accomplished through a census of all babies, a tabulation of them all and a subsequent examination at the clinics, and instruction in rearing them given to the mothers. This method reaches all children under school age when medical inspection steps in through which all mothers are informed of any need of medical aid.

A Demonstration.

Miss M. Stratton demonstrated with great skill the best methods of washing and dressing a baby and gave a valueable talk upon the proper method of preparing baby's food. The mothers present were much interested in the babies' layette kept at the rooms and a number of them asked most intelligent questions concerning the proper care of their little ones. The committee of the clinic was gratified by the interest shown by every one present and by the ever increasing number of mothers who are grasping the opportunities offered by the clinic.

CHEQUE HOLDER IS ENTITLED TO THE RATE OF EXCHANGE

As there has been more or less misunderstanding by some of the citizens concerning cashing of cheques, bonds and coupons from the United States in the local banks, Mr. C. Leonard, American Consular Agent said this morning that the holder of such is entitled to ask for an advance on the face value according to the rate of exchange on the day it is cashed. If the bank refused the exchange the individual can always find a merchant dealing with the United States who will cash the cheque and pay the advance in exchange. It may happen that the bank will need a reminder of the exchange in cashing the cheques.

TOY BALOONS UP IN PRICE

Yesterday's Sales Were Heavy in Spite of High Price.

Along with 999 articles out of every 1000, colored balloons have gone up in price, and now the same kind that sold for 5 cents in days gone by yesterday, left the buyer 20 cents poorer than before he purchased one. Nevertheless they sold as many as ever, apparently, but the father with several youngsters found the drain on his petty cash came pretty heavy.

TENDER FOR THE CIVIC GARAGES

HENRY CARVETH SECURES THE CONTRACT.

Henry Carveth's tender of $1,000 for the contract for the erection of a garage at the rear of the City Buildings has been accepted by the City Trust Commission out of three other tenders submitted. The building will be of brick, 18 by 24 feet, and will house three cars. The black maria of the police is booked for space in it, and the Board of Works car will fine a home there too. A rear entrance from the station will have to be built now for communication with the garage.

In connection with the car purchased by the police department, many citizens are wondering when the authorities are going to have the "City of Peterborough" inscribed on the car, as is usually the case with all civic cars.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY THE WINNIPEG G.W.V.A.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, June 9.—Col. Margeson's denunciation of President Maxwell of the G.W.V.A. at the Ottawa branch meeting Monday night was strongly criticized by the Central Branch Executive, Winnipeg last night, when a resolution was adopted declaring that the Executive believed Col. Margeson's opinion only his own personal opinion and not the general opinion of the Ottawa command, of which the Colonel is president. The resolution also alleged that Colonel's opinion might be influenced by his highly salaried position under the Dominion Government.

The other dead were two unidentified men and an elderly woman.

STIRRING APPEAL AT THE WOMANS' MISSIONARY CONFERENCE

MISS M. N. TURNER, OF CAMPBELLFORD, GAVE INTERESTING ADDRESS.

On Tuesday evening's session of the Woman's Missionary Society, which is being held in Trinity church, Miss N. M. Turner, of Campbellford, gave an interesting address, making a stirring appeal for the young women of to-day to consecrate themselves to the service of God through Missionary work.

Three Reasons.

Miss Turner said she had been looking forward to the branch meeting for three reasons: 1st, because out of last year's branch had grown the greater part of her work for this year, 2nd, meeting old friends, and 3rd, because she had been asked to speak only twenty minutes. Three days of soaking-in inspiration and only twenty minutes of giving out.

The Text.

After some apt illustrations Miss Turner based her remarks on Romans: "I beseech you, therefore, by the mercies of God that you present your bodies, a living sacrifice unto God which is your reasonable service. As the audience was composed largely of women and girls she appealed to the sisters to present their bodies this year for missions, which is your reasonable services.

"If you would only give your hands, If you would only give up some unnecessary work and write to a missionary in foreign fields. If instead of making things for a bazaar put your hands into your purse and give your money. If you gave your feet, where would you be on missionary day. Would you be hunting up people who might come if you called for them Or if you used your feet for Him, would you not go to homes of those who do not attend and tell them of the good meeting you had just attended.

If God had your eyes would you read the report and all other missionary literature so as to know intelligently the condition of affairs.

If God had your voice would you refuse to use it in missionary meeting? Would you read or sing for the Master?

If you were consecrated to God, would you present your motherhood as a living sacrifice to God?

Life's Work.

My work is arming girls of 'teen age, and back of them stands the mothers. So often girls wish to give themselves up to missionary work, but their mothers have other ambitions for them, and the girls' ambition are thwarted.

There is great danger of girls when planning their life's work to choose "dead heads," as one of old did, due to the advise of her mother.

A young girl desired to become a missionary but wished to consult her mother before deciding. What was her delight to be told by her mother that when only 5 years of age she had been dedicated to the Lord.

Another girl who heard Dr. Anna Henry say that some day some girl would take her place, wondered if she were that girl. But, said she, what will mother say?

If our girls are going to be missionaries, we must start back at the home. The home must breathe the atmosphere of missions otherwise our girls will not be interested. The greatest need of to-day is consecrated motherhood.

If we would only consecrate ourselves for one year what joy would come to each of us, the joy of service.

My own home has a rose vine of which I am particularly fond because my father and I planted it. I prune it because I love it. Sometimes I take a most promising-like bud and bury it, so that it will be more productive.

Planted a Vine.

Over 1,900 years ago, a father and son planted a vine, and because the father loves if he prunes it back to where the life buds begin, and often the finest ones he buries in order that they may bear most beautiful fruit.

A boy perished in staying in a place of danger in order to be near his father. His father insisted on his going away, but the boy repeatedly came back even though the father threatened to punish him. Is that the way we feel? Would we rather stay with the father or would be rather play in the world?

"I beseech you, therefore, my sisters, that ye present your bodies as a living sacrifice unto God, which is your reasonable services."

This Morning.

This morning's session was occupied largely with the reading of reports, all of which were very encouraging to the delegates and showed rapid advancement in every line.

TRAFFIC RULE TO BE CHANGED.

British Columbia Traffic Will Soon Go to the Right Instead of the Left as at present. The adoption of the rule makes a big problem for the radial company.

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 9.—When at a date yet to be indicated by the lieutenant-governor of the province, British Columbia falls in line with the rest of the American continent and changes the rule of the road from left to right, one of the largest and most intricate feats of engineering in the history of street railway operation in Canada will confront the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, costing anywhere from five hundred thousand to one million dollars. Large crews of men will have to work at least 150 days in Vancouver; probably somewhat less in Victoria where the problems are not so involved.

All cars, with the exception of the interurbans, are built to conform with the "keep to the left" rule, and to change the rule of the road does not simply mean turnng the cars around and running them on the other track. Many replacements must be made.

All switches must be taken up and new ones installed, but perhaps the most delicate operation involved will be the rectifying of trolley wires, which do not follow the natural curve of the car around the track, but are adjusted to the swing of the car.

As a result of the change a large influx of automobile tourists, eager to view the splendors of the Sunset Province and undeterred by fear of accident, is expected.

The Rise of Maxwell is Due To Its Metals

Fine soil makes fine wheat; fine feathers make a fine bird; and fine metals have made the Maxwell. They have given it:

1—A life of 100,000 miles. 2—Thriftiness.

For its metals are light in weight. Therein comes thriftiness.

But these metals are of extra strength. Therein comes long life.

Metallurgists—those who have made the study of metals a science—will tell you that such metals are costly, but they guarantee quality in a car and their generous employment in a Maxwell is by far the best evidence anyone may need to determine its quality.

They are almost alone responsible for the rapid rise of Maxwell, for the fact that nearly 400,000 now have been built, for that ever-growing friendliness to Maxwell the world over.

TRENT DELEGATES WILL CONVENE IN PETERBORO

TRENT WATERWAY DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION MEETING.

Through the efforts of the Peterborough Board of Trade and through the co-operation of the municipalities along the route the organization of the Trent Waterway Development Association is now practically an assured fact. Next Tuesday evening, the 15th, at 7 o'clock, delegates from the municipalities along the entire 240-mile route of the Trent Canal from Trenton to Georgian Bay, will convene together at the Empress Hotel for the purposes of organizing. Senator W. H. Bennett, of Midland, who has been the pioneer in this movement, will be the principal speaker at the meeting.

The Board of Trade has interested itself greatly in this movement to open up the Trent Canal, both from a commercial, industrial and tourist standpoint. Literature has been printed and distributed and an active advertising campaign carried on at considerable cost, part of which has been met by the municipalities. That the campaign has been successful is evidenced by the number of enquiries that have been received by the secretary of the Board of Trade from Americans. Many prominent and wealthy Americans have already promised to make the trip through the canal this summer and Mr. Frazer was confident that Peterborough would witness the biggest tourist trade it had seen for years. It is expected that on July 1 when the work at Washago is completed opening the entire canal from end to end to 35 boats a monster celebration will be held there and arrangements will be made Tuesday night for this.

Throughout the United States great interest has been displayed in the canal and waterways and next year will see a larger tourist trade than this, it is believed.

Dear Sir,—On page 4 of your issue of Tuesday the 8th inst., there is published, under the heading, "Voice of the People", a letter, addressed, I believe, to your humble servant. As no name is subscribed, I am at a disadvantage. If "An interested party" will send me name and address, which I will treat confidentially, it will give me pleasure to meet the lady in question and discuss a topic which is evidently one of mutual interest.

It is only fair to say that the students whose names were mentioned in my comments (published on page 7 of your issue of Thursday the 3rd instant) are personally unknown to me.

The building is of red brick with stone facings. Aside from the memorial tribute the building is a magnificent effort to promote a community spirit. The cost was $60,000 divided between the town and the municipality. Over four hundred men enlisted from the Carman-Dufferin district, eighty-five of whom were killed in action.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEET IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Trinity Methodist Church presented a very busy scene yesterday when the women of the Bay of Quinte Branch assembled n their 27th annual convention.

At 1:30 the executive met for the transaction of business, and at 2:15 p.m., the whole convention assembled.

The devotional exercises were conducted by the officers after which committees weer appointed and memorials were read.

Welcomed Delegates.

Mrs. R. F. Downey, in a few well-chosen words, welcomed very cordially the ladies to the city and the church.

Greetings were also given.

At the close of her remarks Mrs. Downey presented Mrs. Grange, the President, with a sheaf of roses.

Greetings were also given by Miss Dickson, from the Presbyterians, by Miss Walton from the Baptists, and also from the Anglicans.

These greetings were graciously acknowledged by Mrs. D. B. Wilson, of Napanee.

The reports of the Superintendents were very encouraging. All districts reported increases in membership and finaces.

At the close of the afternoon session a reception was given by Miss Morrow for the deleates and hostesses, which was much appreciated and enjoyed.

Night Session.

The night session opened with devotional exercises conducted by Mrs. Ross, after which the choir rendered in a most effective manner the anthem, "He that goeth forth with weeping."

The chairman for the evening, Rev. F. E. Malott, pastor of Trinity church then extended a most cordial welcome to the society ,speaking in most complimentary terms of the good work done by the Woman's Missionary Society, at the same time paying them the unique tribute of being leaders in the study of the Bible and in systematic giving.

The treasurer's report was then given by Mrs. Kendry, Branch Treasurer, which showed that the Society had raised during the year $38,011.62, an increase of $5,719.00 over last year.

The Auxiliaries.

Mrs. Ashton, Branch Corresponding Secretary, reported 124 Auxiliaries, an increase of 7. Annual members 6090, an increase of 266, life members 1220, an increase of 160. Outlook subscribers 1892, and 658 reports taken and 352 study books.

The report of the Circle and Branch treasurer followed, which showed the amount raised $7,440.07, an increase of 22% over last year.

Annual Members.

The Circle and Branch Secretary reported the number of Circles 40, annual members 777, an increase of 13. Life members 272, an increase of 41. Total membership 1049, an increase of 54.

The number of bands reported were 100, an increase of 8; annual members 2770, an increase of 177; life members 244, an increase of 22; making a total increase of 3,014 members, an increase of 199.

A solo by Mrs. King was so pleasingly sung that the whole audience sat almost spell bound during the whole rendition.

Miss M. Turner of Campbellford, then gave an address, which will be published later.

THE ROYAL MOUNTED.

Canadians everywhere are proud of the Royal Mounted Police and of the traditions that in its many years of service the Force has established and maintained. The fame of the Mounties is world-wide, and the people of the Dominion give full credit to the men whose splendid work has established such a glorious reputation.

But there is a limit to all things, and the extending of the force into Eastern Canada, which was done by Hon. N. W. Rowell, is a proceeding that naturally finds opposition in the House of Commons and throughout the country, especially in view of the fact that the utmost economy should be exercised to reduce the estimates for the present year. The Government has asked for a vote of $4,674,066 to finance the Mounted Police for the next year, and as half a million dollars are to be expended on new buildings for the Force at Ottawa, the total will be over five million dollars, which makes the Royal Mounted a very expensive organisation.

There are many who will agree that the appropriation should be cut down by a reduction in the strength of the Force, especially in Eastern Canada, where there does not seem to be any need of their presence. While during war time it may have been necessary to maintain a section of the Force on duty in the East, all such necessity has long since vanished, and if the Government is sincere in its talk about the need of economy, it has a capital opportunity of proving it by trimming down these particular estimates and restoring the Royal Mounted to its normal proportions.

A NEW VIEW OF THE TAXES.

A new angle on the discusston of the "luxury" taxes in the Budget brought down by Sir Henry Drayton has been supplied by the Canadian Reconstruction Association of which Sir John Willison is president. Most of the criticism, outside of the complaints of merchants, that the collection of the taxes was an annoyance to them, has been directed from the viewpoint of the consumer, the opinion being expressed in many quarters that the new taxation would add to the cost of living. Sir John Willison finds fault with the Drayton proposals on entirely different grounds. He declares that unless the taxes are amended in some cases at least so as to apply not on the total price of goods when in excess of certain specified amounts, but only on the amount of excess that national interests will suffer and the industrial situation will be seriously complicated and readjustment made correspondingly more difficult. Further, he points out that a premium is placed on the manufacture of goods of poor quality as a result of the tax and that not only will the standard of Canadian productions be lowered but that many Canadian manufacturing plants may be forced to close their doors. The remedy suggested by the Reconstruction Association is that instead of having the taxes levied on the total price of an article, it should only be collected on the portion of the retail price that is in excess of the non-taxable limit.

THE CHIPPEWA REPORT.

The developments of the next few days on the Chippewa canal scheme will be awaited with a good deal of interest in view of the fact that the commission, composed of five members of the Legislature appointed to investigate the conditions, has made its findings. It will be remembered that several weeks ago when the Hydro Commission's employees on this work were on the verge of a strike, Labour members of the Legislature succeeded in averting a walkout by persuading the men to remain at work under the promise that a committee would be appointed by the Legislature to inquire into the whole matter. The commission was accordingly appointed and its report was made public yesterday. The result of the investigation indicates that there was very little real cause for a strike among the men affected. The wages paid, the commission has found, compare favourably with those paid elsewhere with the exception that some skilled labour in factories is receiving a somewhat higher rate. It would be impossible according to the report, for the Hydro Commission to pay any higher wages without a re-adjustment of the rates charged to municipalities. As to the housing conditions, they are found to be fairly satisfactory, although better ventilation is recommended and the commission suggests the appointment of a committee of workmen to consider defects in the housing and board system, confident that all difficulties could be amicably adjusted in this manner. The vexed question as to the hours of labour has also been dealt with by the Legislative commission which, while approving the basic principle of the eight-hour day, urges the workers, in view of the great importance of completing the Chippewa scheme as soon as possible, to work a ten-hour day with time and a half for overtime.

The report should end all talk of a strike for it is certain that after such a finding by an impartial commission that public sympathy would be utterly opposed to such action on the part of the workers and no strike was ever successful in defiance of public sympathy and support.

TAXING THE ILL.

The proposed proprietary medicine tax, which means an increase in the price of patent medicines, the driving off the market of many standard remedies and a doubling in the cost of hospital supplies is meeting with opposition from many newspapers, and undoubtedly there are so many reasons why this tax should not be levied that it is surprising to find that Sir Henry Drayton has seen fit to include it in his remarkable Budget proposals.

The trouble with the legislation is that it does not distinguish between alcohol as a blessing in medicine and alcohol as a curse in drink. As a result, the cost of the majority of proprietary medicines and of doctors' prescriptions will be increased to just double the present level. Grain or ethyl alcohol is an absolute necessity in the preparation of medicines, and it must not be forgotten that in addition to the direct levy of 30 per cent., there is a tax of $2.00 per gallon on medicines made with alcohol, a tax of $7.50 per Imperial gallon on alcohol, the stamp tax, and the sales tax from wholesaler to retailer, and from retailer to consumer—practically doubling the price of any medicine that contains alcohol. If this particular clause is passed, the doctor's prescription that cost in the drug store last week 50c will become 75c, and the $1.00 prescription will be $1.50 or $2.00. The family remedies that in the rural districts, far from druggist and doctor, are used in emergency cases, will also cost just twice as much as before.

And as usual it is the consumer who pays. The tax will not affect the profits and the prosperity of the wholesale druggists and manufacturers of pharmaceutical and proprietary medicines, for it will fall directly upon the man who buys, and will come out of the pockets of the salaried man, the labourer, the artisan, and the farmer.

And there is another angle to the question, inasmuch as the hospitals of Canada will be hard hit if this particular clause is passed—as the cost of operation will be increased to an extent that will be severely felt. In Montreal, it is estimated that the increased cost of operation will amount to at least $50,000 a year. The majority of hospitals are far from self-supporting at the present time, and with the increase put into effect by the new tax, it will mean that fewer people will be taken care of or that a higher charge will have to be made.

AN AMERICAN OPINION.

The sooner workers everywhere find out that the panacea for their ills does not lie in allowing themselves to be organized into disgruntled and non-producing mobs by a lot of foreign-born, hair-tearing, hell-raising anarchists of the Trotsky type, the better for all concerned and the sooner they will get back on the job and start to produce an honest day's labor for an honest day's pay.

Therein lies the secret of making the dollar they earn buy a real dollar's worth of living; and that's what all the fight's about anyway.—Literary Digest.

THE PAPER TRAGEDY.

Newspapers are closing down in Canada for the reason that they cannot secure enough paper to print on. From statements issued by Eastern publishers, it seems certain that unless something drastic is done by somebody, many of the oldest daily papers in Ontario will be compelled to cease publication. The situation is almost comical. The country is infested with pulpwood. Like a certain well-known brand of paint, it covers the earth. Pulpwood, pulpwood, everywhere, and not a drop of newsprint. Canada is a land buried alive in pulpwood. Along the southern boundary of the Dominion there is a little fringe of settlement and the rest of the land is clothed with measureless tracts of pulpwood. If a man wanted to make a cellar for Canada's pulpwood, he would have to disembowel the world. When new railroads are built in Canana, contractors have to slash down enough pulpwood to print a copy of the Encyclopaedia Britannica for each inhapitant of China, dead or alive. The land is clothed in measureless tracts of pulpwood. And there is more pulp manufactured into paper in Canada than in any other country. And there is not such a tremendous number of large daily papers. Yet there is such a shortage that some papers have gone out or businehs and many others are suffering from acute paper paralysis. What is happening, of course, is that the Canadian mills, many of which are directly under the control of American capital, are so busy supplying American newspapers with newsprint at an enhanced price, that no time or money can be wasted in diverting the product to Canadian papers. The mills which are owned and operated by Canadian capital have contracts with American newspapers which practically compel them to ignore the Canadian markets whether they would like to or not. The strange part of it is that the paper which is flowing over the border in such gigantic streams is made from wood which grows on lands owned by the Canadian people. Practically all the pulpwood is growing on Crown lands.

There is nothing, of course, to prevent a combination of Canadian papers from getting together and putting up a paper mill and supplying their own wants, but transportation difficulties would prevent such a mill from supplying anything but a very small number of Canadian dailies. Moreover, two years or more would be required before a new mill could be got into operation, and before that time, there is no telling what may happen in the newsprint situation.—Turner's Weekly.

SANDRA THE JEALOUS

By JANE PHELPS

A PERFECT UNDERSTANDING.

CHAPTER CXLIV.

"What do you mean?" Everett repeated, holding me closely, "I do not love you? How can you say such a thing?"

"Because it is true," I sobbed.

"Sandra, try and quiet yourself and tell me why you think I do not love you. Please, dear?" again he wiped my eyes tenderly, and waited.

"I—don't—dare—"

"Don't dare! I do not understand. Surely you are not afraid of me? You weren't before dinner when you were suspicious of me."

"That was different. But Everett, I have loved you so—almost ever since we were married—and it has hurt me so."

"What has hurt you?"

"Because you didn't love me—like you—could."

"Sandra, will you stop crying and tell me what you mean?" he spoke in a voice I never had heard. One that seemed to hold a note of anxiety, and something very like desire.

"I'll try, Everett," I gulped down my sobs, desperately frightened, but determined to tell him. Perhaps if I did I would stop thinking of it—my only thought.

So I told him of all I had felt since I married him five years before. How at first it was Leola's picture, then other things. Of my resemblance to her, which everyone told me of—my coloring—and his buying me the same colors in clothes and in jewelry he had bought her. How the talk of these things hurt me.

Then I told him of my other jealousies. Of Irma and the others. Finally I spoke of finding the letters,—of which he knew—and how the reading of the two had made me so miserable that even my curiosity would not let me read any more. Then I recalled all the little things which I have here narrated that made me miserable up to the time I found the note he had written Leola—that note which, so long ago, she had pinned in the bosom of her ball gown.

"That hurt worst of all," I told him. "You never have said anything like that to me, never once. Then I knew for sure that you never had loved me. Up to that time I hadn't been quite sure. I thought perhaps it was because you were dignified and older that you never said things like that to me—like Duane Sloane says to Alice; and now Irma's husband—he's as old as you—says to her. But after I found that I knew you never would love me. That's the reason I have been depressed, and couldn't tell you what was the matter—I was ashamed to tell you." I hid my face against his bosom, I could not look at him after what I had confessed:

Suddenly I heard a sob, or something very like it. His arms closed even more tightly around me, and he was murmuring words of love over me.

"My precious, precious little wife!" he said it over and over. "To think you have been unhappy because you imagined I didn't love you! Why, my darling, I was afraid to show my love for you to the extent I wanted to, for fear you would think me a silly old fool. Your young friends had made fun of me as an old man until I really felt you looked upon me in the same light. For five years, dearest, I have held myself in check for fear I would shock, perhaps disgust, you. Oh, what a waste of time!" he added whimsically. "And, dear, let us settle things once for all. I DID love Leola. I was a boy when I married her. I honored her memory for nine years. I asked you to marry me—not to raise a family, as you have said has been told you—but because I loved you. I was perhaps strict with you, but you were such a child; I wanted you to be happy, and I knew you could not be unless you were at ease in the position you occupied. It was the same fear your mother had. All these other things meant nothing, yet if you had told me how you felt all wretchedness would have been avoided. And, dearest, the love of a boy is as nothing to that of a man. You are the joy of my heart, the real love of my manhood. Oh, Sandra, why did you not confide all this to me long ago?"

"Ididn't dare! I was afraid of you. I never shall be again, because now I know you love me—I never knew that before."

"You must have been blind. I have been so proud of you, darling, I am sure others have noticed, and commented."

"I didn't dare! I was afraid of me. I wanted you to love me." I replied, and again he whispered love words to me.

"It was five years before this I had married Everett. Five years of life I had nearly wasted because I would not trust the man I loved. I was 23 years old now, and just beginning to know what it mean to be happy. Those five years—Oh, how I have regretted them! Now I am as happy as the day is Long. My story is ended. For when one is perfectly happy when one is sailing on a calm sea, there is little to tell. That we are happy, is all. But:

If any one who reads this is jealous, suspicious by nature, don't keep on being jealous and suspicious, making excuses for yourself on that ground. Talk things over, then have faith. Trust is seldom abused. But even though it were, it is better than to have soured one's life by jealousies and suspicions.

The End.

BACK PAY FOR CIVIL SERVANTS

PARLIAMENT WILL VOTE $4,000,000 FOR LAST YEAR'S INCREASES.

OTTAWA, June 9.—It is estimated by Hon. N. W. Rowell, president of the Privy Council, that the sum of four million dollars would be required to cover the increased pay to civil servants throughout Canada, in respect to last year's work. This will become payable when the Civil Service Bill, which was given third reading Monday in the Commons, is passed by the Senate and becomes law on receiving the Royal assent.

When the bill has become law, it is understood, that an estimate, calling for $4,000,000 will be put through the House and that cheques will then immediately be issued to all employes of the Government.

The increases awarded in the bill are retroactive to April 1, 1919, and the estimate of four millions is to cover last year's salaries.

Every employe in the civil service is affected by the bill which passed Monday.

GERMAN TRADE GROWING FAST

HUGE AND VALUABLE CARGOES REACH PORT OF NEW YORK EVERY MONTH.

NEW YORK, June 9. — Despite the handicap imposed by the low value of the reichsmark and the absence of credit, the manifests of cargo vessels arriving almost daily show that Germany's exports to this country have reached an unexpectedly large volume and are steadily growing.

From practically no exports in the early months of 1919 the goods now received from Germany total hundreds of thousands of cases a month. Cargoes arriving in vessels direct from Hamburg, as well as from Dutch ports, are bringing large consignments of clocks, aniline colors, acids, musical instruments, gun barrels, laces, toys, tools, earthenware and buttons. Some of these shipments, comprising hundreds of cases, are consigned to the largest financial and commercial institutions in the country. So far as these houses are concerned, the war is over and they have no prejudice against trading with Germany.

In the month of May alone eleven vessels arrived direct from Germany, nearly every one of them heavily laden with imports. Besides this twenty-two vessels from Holland brought cargoes consisting in some instances of as much as 50 per cent. German merchandise.

Large Cargoes Brought.

Among the largest cargoes direct from Germany was that brought by the steamer Jason toward the end of the month. This vessel brought 180 consignments of goods, consisting of 8,876 cases or packages. Among the consignees were such representative houses as the Irving National Bank, which received a shipment of aluminum ware; the Equitable Trust Co., a large consignment of chemicals; Gimbel Brothers, leather goods and toys; Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne, steelware; Bankers Trust Company, cigarette machinery; American Express Company, toys, books, glassware, etc., and scores of other smaller banks and traders.

The steamers Mongolia and the Kerlew also brought heavy cargoes direct from Hamburg. The former had 164 consignments, made up of 3,381 cases and parcels; the latter carried 136 consignments of 7,885 pieces. These are typical of the eleven vessels direct from Germany. But heavy imports are coming also through Holland.

The steamers Rotterdam and Ifrooniand, which arrived early this morning from Holland, brought probably twice as much German goods as any of the vessels direct from Germany. Together they carried about 50,000 cases of merchandise, a large proportion of which consisted of German colors, toys and other kinds of goods in which Germany specializes.

BUILDERS UNDER NEW EXCISE TAX

SALES TAX LEVIED ON THE AMOUNT OF CONTRACT ENTERED INTO.

OTTAWA, June 9.—Building contractors and sub-contractors, though technically manufacturers, are rated for the purposes of the new excise tax as retailers, selling to the consumer. This is the most recent ruling of the Department of Inland Revenue on the point. Any material manufactured by the contractor, such as metal cornices, sashes and doors, must be taxed. Material purchased by the contractor from a manufacturer is assessed by the manufacturer for the one per cent. sales tax.

Sales tax is chargeable on the amount of the contract between the contractor and the owner, except with respect to material manufactured by the contractor and included in his construction, based on selling price of such material, including labor, but not the cost of installation in the building.

Other rulings of the department include: Manufactured gas for fuel purposes, cordwood, logs sold by logging firms, if not squared and processed; lignite coal, surgical instruments; hog and poultry food are added to the list of articles exempt from tax. Beer is not taxable when it is used in the manufacture of vinegar. Collar buttons and cuff-links are taxable jewelry.

Photographers must collect the one per cent. sales tax as manufacturers.

LONDON WOMEN WEAR TROUSERS

LONDON, June 8.—Trousered freedom for women, long-sought revolution launched by world-famous Dr. Mary Walker in the United States a generation ago, will at last come into its own, if a fashion revolt, being agitated here by Miss Marie Wilson, prominent designer, succeeds. Miss Wilson predicts woman's sartorial emancipation by 1925.

Already former war service women, farmerettes, elevator girls and other women whom the war forced into men's positions and who have continued their work into peace days, have permanently adopted masculine garments.

Several of the advanced spring models of the great fashion artists give evidence of the predicted revolution, displaying distinct trousers under ther very brief skirts.

The revolution is presented in Mss Gertrude Jenning's new play at the little theatre, "Husbands for All," displaying women's garments of 1925, designed by Miss Wilson.

They are a compromise between the severity of masculine garments and the femininity of early Victorian dresses.

In 1925 a tailored coat and skirt will have become converted to an overcoat and trousers shaped rather like flower petals, with flowered watered silk waistcoat. Servants in black and white attire, or even neat uniforms, will be obsolete and the domestic workers of the day, no longed labelled cooks or housemaids, will do their work in casement cloth trousers, flowered cretonne bodices, and caps like a munitoner's head covering.

The change in women's evening dress is most startling of all. The dancers' desire for freedom of limbs becomes realized when taffeta trousers, tight and finished with frills, appear beneath a bell-shaped tunic. This costume, worn with a loose evening cloak, and finished by the addition of a long horn-topped cane, gives the 1925 woman the appearance of an original Beau Brummel.

There should be a drawer for recipe books in the kitchen table.

DO YOU EXPECT TO LIVE LONG?

The facts are against you. In one Life Insurance Company during three months, Sixteen died of OLD AGE, 2,736 died at PREMATURE AGES, and each one was sound when the Insurance was issued.

Each one had just as good a right to expect to live to old age as you have.

Another Insurance Company shows that out of Claims paid last year, 6.8 per cent. died the FIRST YEAR, and 72.5 per cent. died INSIDE OF TWENTY YEARS.

Note well that the Men and Women who died the first year left approximately fifty times as much to their heirs as if they had "saved" the premium.

MOTHER LEAVES HOME SUDDENLY CHILDREN'S AID TAKES CHILDREN

FATHER DIDN'T KNOW CAUSE OF DESERTION—G. W. POWELL PREVENTED WRONGDOING WHEN HIS SUSPICIONS WERE AROUSED.

REV. C. J. PHELAN'S REPORT

Several matters of a more important nature were dealt with at the regular meeting of the Children's Aid Society held yesterday afternoon, at which Rev. C. J. Phelan occupied the chair, and Mrs. Walter Stocker, Mrs. W. H. Gibbs, Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Mrs. Fanning, Mr. John Edgar and Dr. D. C. King were present.

In presenting an account of the meeting of the United Societies of the C.A.S. held recently in Toronto, Rev. C. J. Phelan, who was appointed one of the committee of eight to draft the new constitution of the Children's Protection Act, said that he was surprised at the interest and enthusiasm shown by the different delegates. He said that with many of them membership on the Children's Aid Board was practically hereditary, their fathers having figured on boards in their time. In conclusion, he referred to the splendid care Mrs. Rogers, the new matron at the home, is giving the children and to her splendid management of the shelter where he found everything in perfect order.

Unusual Case.

"I want a home for my children, my wife left me on Saturday, no reason, and I must make provision for my little ones," a recently arrived citizen told the Board, and asked the members to extend elemency to the little tots, aged 6, 4 and 3 years. Dr. King, who was acquainted with the man, explained to the Board that he is very deserving and asked that the children be allowed to go to the shelter for a reasonable time, the father paying the regular fee, which was granted by the Board.

Custody of Children.

"I'm not afraid of the truth, but I am not a liar," a mother of children, wards of the home, told the Board, and stated that she would like to settle the charges being made about her character with the person who made them. She was, however, told that anything which had been told was of a confidential nature and was assured the matter of the restitution of the children would be brought up at the next meeting.

Effort to Kidnap Children.

What was apparently an effort to kidnap two of the children from the home was nipped in the bud by the society's agent, Mr. G. W. Powell, who told of a letter, telegrams and phone messages he had received from a man signing himself and introducing himself as T. H. Pinkham, asking that two little girls from the shelter be sent to an address in London. Mr. Powell, however, suspecting the messages to be too hasty to be trusted communicated with the agent in London who found no such man residing at the address given and could find no trace of him. Mr. Powell was commended for his discretion in dealing with the calls.

Generous Donation.

Dr. King presented the society with $5, a gift from Mr. Foster, of Ottawa, who is at present staying at the Munroe House and who, having become interested in the work of the society, desired to give the kiddies a treat. The money was entrusted to Mrs. W. H. Gibbs to be used at her discretion for the children.

Matron's Report.

In her report for the month of May the matron stated that there were 14 children in the shelter during the month, 8 sent out and 2 received into the home.

Donations to Shelter.

Nut-Krust, bread and buns; a friend, pictures and clothing; Foresters, sandwiches; Mrs. Ross, clothing and toys; I.O.D.E., sandwitches and cake; Mrs. Hall, clothing; Helen Ross, toys; a friend, 3 pounds suet.

MRS. ALICE GRESHAM DODD, mother of the first American soldier killed in France, who gives entire credit for recovery to her health to the well-known medicine Tanlac.

The following remarkable endorsement of Tanlac was given recently by Mrs. Alice Gresham Dodd, at the Gresham Memorial Home, Gavin Park, Evansville, Ind., which home was presented to her by the patriotic people of Indiana, as evidence of their appreciation of the services rendered to his country by her son, Corporal James B. Gresham, the first American soldier killed in France. Expressions of sympathy were received by Mrs. Dodd from all parts of the United States, and the newspapers of the country carried the story of the first 'war mother.'

The shock of her son's death resulted in the serious breakdown of Mrs. Dodd's health, but everyone will learn with interest and pleasure that she is now in splendid health again. When seen at her home recently she made the following statement, giving the entire credit for her recovery to the well-known medicine, Tanlac.

"After my dear boy's death, I had a general breakdown in health," said Mrs. Dodd. "At first it was just indigestion. My food used to upset me and I had to diet myself very carefully, which wasn't much hardship as I lost all desire to eat. Then I had an attack of rheumatism, with severe pains in my shoulders, back and arms. Sometimes I used to suffer a great deal, and my joints would get all swollen up and stiff. I was able to do very little about the house, and at times could't even cook a meal. I got very nervous and restless, and at night would lay awake for hours, and lost many a night's sleep as a consequence.

"A friend of mine had received a great deal of help from Tanlac, and it was she who advised me to try it. I am so glad I did for it proved the best medicine I have ever taken. It soon gave me a good appetite and seemed to settle my stomach so that I was no longer troubled with indigestion. I don't know what it is to have rheumatic pains now, the swelling and stiffness has all gone out of my joints and I am able to do the work of the house with the greatest ease. My nerves are now steady and strong, I sleep fine at night, and I feel better in health than ever before in my life. I shall always be grateful for what Tanlac has done for me, and shall recommend it every chance I get."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd., in Fowlers' Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

FUEL SITUATION NOT PROMISING

SUPPLY OF COAL FOR ONTARIO PROVINCE STEADILY DIMINISHING.

TORONTO, June 9.—Mr. H. A. Harrington, fuel controller for Ontario, in a statement issued, says:

"The fuel situation in the United States is at a critical stage, with little relief in sight. The congestion of freight cars has been relieved to a considerable extent but with no effect on the supply of coal for Ontario.

"Prices are soaring in anthracite and bituminous, the former quoted as high as $11.00 gross ton at the mines, and the latter as high as $8.00 per ton, and not much available at these figures.

"The lake demands from Lake Erie ports have been relieved by the diversion of Illinois coal to Lake Superior ports, but even with this relief it will be impossible to ship full requirements.

"The shortage of anthracite and bituminous coal in Ontario is steadily increasing, and if our industries hope to continue in full operation, resort must be had to steam sizes of anthracite which are available."

GERMAN CONSUL TAKES OWN LIFE

LONDON, June 9.—Herr Wustrow, German Consul at Tabriz, Persia, committed suicide, according to a despatch from Teheran, while the Consulate was being besieged by a crowd demanding the surrender of Persian Bolsheviki, who, it was alleged, were being harbored in the building. When the crowd appeared, the Consul refused to comply with their request. Sharp fighting then ensued, in which machine guns were used. It was during the disturbance that Wustrow committed suicide.

GEN. PERSHING TO LEAVE THE U.S. ARMY

WASHINGTON, June 9.—General John J. Pershing has announced his intention of retiring from the service in a letter to Secretary Baker, which the General made public.

News of General Pershing's announcement immediately gave rise to speculation as to whether it was prompted by a desire definitely to enter the race for the Republican Presidential nomination.

This speculation was quickened when it later became known that the General was leaving immediately for Chicago, "where he will remain."

ROCHESTER, June 8.—Motormen, conductors and other employees of the Rochester, Syracuse and Utica lines of the New York State Railways are seeking a wage of $2,500 a year, based on an eight-hour day and a six-day week.

BOSTON, June 7.—A wage increase of 16 2-3 per cent. was awarded by a Board of Arbitration tonight to the 7,000 carmen employed by the Boston Elevated Railway Company. In most cases this is equivalent to an advance of 10 cents an hour. The Carmen's Union voted to accept the award.

As it was, the mill was badly damaged, and the loss is extensive. There was no insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown.

ALLEGED MURDERER OF CHILDREN A SUICIDE

Edmonton, June 8.—The Provincial Police are beginning to consider almost certainly that Thomas Mund, the alleged murderer of the two MacDonald children at Manoia, last week, has committed suicide by throwing himself in the Pembina River. A posse of about 75 farmers and Provincials were out all day Saturday and Sunday continuing their search throughout the country in the vicinity of last Tuesday's dastardly crime, but without success.

THIS WOMAN'S MISERY

Ended by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Remarkable Recovery of Mrs. Church.

Smiths Falls, Ont.—"I suffered with falling of my organs, pains around my heart and in bowels and down my legs, neuralgia in my face and head, and that terrible sinking feeling. I felt that I could not live and would fix my house in order every night so there would be no trouble if I dropped off in the night. My husband went to the druggist to get the best remedy he had and he gave him Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and felt a lot better. I will always recommend the Vegetable Compound, and you can use these facts as a testimonial." — Mrs. J. O. CHURCH, Box 845, Smiths Falls, Ont.

BOY OF 14 STOLE $40 FROM HIS MOTHER

SAYS HE IS POSSESSED OF A DEMON —WILL RETURN THE MONEY.

MONTREAL, June 8.—A boy of 14 yesterday on a charge of stealing $40 from his mother, claimed that he was possessed of a demon, and that he had stolen the money. He told Judge Choquette that he would have an interview to-night with the demon, who would reveal where he had hidden the money. If the police would wait until midnight he promised that he would take them to the place where it was concealed. Judge Choquette sentenced the boy to the reformatory where he would have ample opportunity to converse with the demon.

7 FATAL CASES OF BUBONIC PLAGUE

MEXICO CITY, June 9. — The population of Vera Cruz is on the verge of panic because the epidemic of bubonic plague in that port, instead of diminishing, is continually growing worse, according to meagre reports reaching Mexico City today. The residents of Vera Cruz formerly had been reported optimistic that the plague would be speedily subdued.

Of nine cases registered on Saturday, it was learned here, seven were fatal.

LOGGER DIES FROM WOUNDS INFLICTED BY BEAR

Suffered Terribly from Wounds and Loss of Blood Before Found by Searching Party.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., June 9.—Clarence Thompson, a logger on Chicagof Island, died recently from wounds inflicted by a large brown bear. Terribly lacerated, Thompson was found by a searching party, to whom he gave a connected account of his experience before he died.

Unexpectedly he came upon the bear while it was feeding on the carcass of a deer. It rushed at him and he shot once before the huge paw landed with smashing force on his face. The animal knocked and buffeted him about for a time and then walked away. When found Thompson had not a stitch of clothing on his body and he had suffered terribly from cold and loss of blood.

BEATS WORLD'S RECORD

Heifer Gives 11,257 Pounds of Milk in 150 Days.

BROCKVILLE, June 9—A. C. Hardy's wonderful two-year-old Holstein-Friesian heifer, Lady Waldorf Sylvia, who recently made a 28-pound record and proceeded to break the world's record in her class for 60, 90 and 100 days for both milk and butter, has now completed her first 150 days with 517,096 pounds of butter from 11,257 pounds of milk. This, without doubt, is the world's official record for 150 days. The animal will be continued on strictly official test at least for six months, and possibly for ten months.

CHURCE OF CHRIST KNOWS NO DIVORCE

PUBLIC OPINION TO-DAY ADVANCING TOWARD LAXITY, SAYS ARCHBISHOP THORNLOE.

"The Church of Christ knows no divorce," declared Archbishop Thorneloe of Algoma at the seventh Synod of this diocese in session at Sault Ste. Marie. "In extreme cases," he continued, "it had made provision for separation, but does not countenance re-marriage, and forbids the marriage of divorced persons. Public opinion to-day is advancing towards laxity, and recent English laws are but a return to paganism. Christ's ruling with regard to marriage," he stated, "was clearly defined in St. Mark's Gospel. We must not be carried away by pitiless appeals," he stated.

Hats for the Many Weeks of Summer Yet to Come

ANNOUNCING A SHOWING OF SUMMER MILLINERY REPLETE WITH PANAMAS, SPORTS AND REAL DRESSY MODELS

By this time the Hats bought last Spring have lost their pristine freshness and to accompany crisp Summer frocks smart new Hats are a prime requisite. For sports, dress, street and afternoon there are many delightful new modes that express the vacation spirit of Summer days. Broad brims, drooping and graceful, dominate the group, all of which are unusually attractive in style.

For Some a Panama Hold Great Charm

They certainly have undying popularity. We are showing a goodly number this season. They are closely woven of fine Panama strands, and appear in many smart shapes, such as little Sailors, with gracefully rolled brims and also straight brim Sailors. The latter afford great protection from the sun. The Panama seems to be more at home in this model than in any that we know of.

Flowers That Are Flatteringly Feminine

A graceful broad brimmed hat made drooping by its burden of flowers or an upturned creation with a brim banked closely with bloom—one may select either in confidence for both are favored, as is also the flower turban veiled in laces and malines. Summer frocks of laces or organdies call for hats of just such beauty and style. One does well to buy a flower hat early in the summer.

Sport Hats That Intrigue Your Interest

Frankly they are lovely and if they had no other purpose than to be gazed upon, you want more than one of these captivating Sport Hats. Fabric creations leading in popularity and one may have a gay chapeau to match any equally colorful sports costume. Smart, yet comfortable, they add to your enjoyment of the game because you may know they are the vogue. IMMENSE CROWD ENJOYED NIGHT PERFORMANCE OF BIG SHOW

WORK OF THE ANIMAL TRAINER WAS THE BIG FEATURE ON THE PROGRAMME.

That the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus was enjoyed immensely by all who attended was evidenced by the laudatory terms in which they referred to the show as they pushed their way out of the big tent at 10 o'clock after the show. The two hundred acts on the program comprised two or three ordinary circuses shoved into one and the excellence of each act was remarkable. The Hagenback-Wallace Circus has gathered together a multitude of trapeze artists, acrobats, wire walkers, bare back riders that are the leaders in their respective acts on the continent. Such an array of artists had not been seen in Peterboro for some years and the citizens and people from the surrounding country must have had an inkling of what was in store for them for the monster big top was crowded at both performances. Certainly no one went away disappointed. The acts were continuous and barely a minute elapsed between each one. The high class music of the band with the pipe organ touching the high spots seemed to imbue the performers and the animals with new life and kept the audience in good spirits.

Deserving of special mention were the animal acts and whether anything approaching them have ever been shown in Peterboro is a question. The outstanding act was the performance of the lions and the King of Beasts ride on the elephant and the horse. The trainer put six beasts through a remarkable performance in the cage in spite of their ugly growls and the people gasped and held their breath as he drove the brutes like kittens around the cage.

The Elephants

The elephants were there and received plenty of applause and peanuts for their act and the bears, kangaroos and monkeys all did their little act. The equine end of the program was splendid and too much praise cannot be given to the bareback riding the dancing, the racing, and the hurdle jumping with the horses. For those wo like the Wild West variety this show, following the big show had the real stuff.

The trapeze acts and acrobatic stunts were stupendous. New and thrilling acts were introduced. With antagonism to churches unparalleled fifteen high wire artists performing dazzling and stupendous feats in different parts of the tent and twenty feet above the ground the tent saw a thrilling and pretty act. The clowns were not to be kept out of the rings either and with the old line and some new ones they kept up a laughable comedy that delighted the kiddies.

The side shows were well patronized but the boys with the peanuts and cracker jacks received most of the attention. The coloured balloon has not lost any of its favour in spite of the passing time and the "hot lunches" are evidently as appetizing as ever they were.

When the police burst in the door Koslowski dived headlong into the street. The crime for which he was wanted was punishable by a three months' sentence.

TWO BOYS SLEPT OUT ALL NIGHT

TOOK NO CHANCES ON MISSING THE CIRCUS.

The appeal that circuses have for the small boy was illustrated to the night operator at the local G.T.R. Station the night before last. About midnight he thought he saw something dark on top of one of the freight cars on the siding east of the station. On closer inspection he found it to be two small boys huddled up on the top of the cars, sleeping on a cushion. He woke them up, and elicited a long and pathetic story from the little fellows about the unkind way they had been treated at home, and they said they were afraid to return to the parental roof.

Although the operator knew there was a nigger in the fence somewhere, the boys would not go home; so he fixed them up in the waiting room, and there they slept, head to head on the one pillow, till morning.

The operator awoke them when he heard the circus coming in, knowing full well the reason for their escapade. Either the mixed air of the waiting-room or the ozone they drew in in the early part of the evening had its effect on them, and it was a hard job for him to finally get them roused up.

Once, however, they understood where they were and what all the racket outside was about, there was no holding them, and with shouts of glee they rushed out to witness what, to them, was the greatest event in their young lives.

MR. G. N. GORDON IS DISAPPOINTED

Mr. G. N. Gordon to-day volunteered the statement that he was much disappointed at the action of the executive of the Board of Trade in refusing to intervene and attempt to get the parties together in the strike of the Canadian General Electric employees. Mr. Gordon further said that there are a large number of merchants and business men, as well as others, in the city who are directly interested in getting this strike settled, and when he moved the resolution in the City Council, inviting the Board of Trade to use their best efforts to do this, he felt that they would be influenced by the fact that they were representatives of the merchants and all other classes in the city; but apparently the executive feels that the Manufacturers' Association is of too important an element in the Board of Trade for the Board of Trade to intervene in the matter and try to get the strike settled.

As far as inviting the Board of Trade to assist again, Mr. Gordon said it would be a long time before he would ever bother with it.

DAMAGE WAS NOT SERIOUS

Fire Ranger Curtin, of the McDonald Lumber Company, who has returned to the city from an inspection of the company's timber limits in Galway, stated this morning that the loss to the cut logs owned by the McDonald Company, by the recent forest fires, was not as serious as was at first thought, when it was stated that some 5,000 logs had been destroyed. He said that only 300 had been touched by fire, and they were burned only at the ends, which will rather improve the lumber than harm it, as the scorching would serve as a sealer against grubs.

LABOR COUNCIL AGAIN FOR WINNIPEG.

Labour Aldermen Predicate That Labour Men Will Domnate Elections.

WINNIPEG, MAN., June 9.—S. J. Farmer, who opposed Mayor Gray at the last civic elections, again will be advanced as a Labor candidate for mayor at the elections for 1921, Labor aldermen predict. "I believe Labor will again control of the council next year," Alderman John Blumberg declared. He said of Labor candidates were elected every dollar would be spent advantageously to the city as a whole and no section would be given preference. "I believe Winnipeg would appreciate a Labor council," Alderman Blumberg continued. "It would endeavor to keep the tax rate down to a minimum and, I believe, some civic grants favored in the past would be discontinued."

Don't Worry About Your Victory Bonds

Victory Bonds today are stronger than they have ever been. The important announcement of the Minister of Finance that Canada has finished borrowing, means that there will be no increase in the supply of these bonds.

The huge sums of money that must be invested from time to time in the highest possible grade of security, will therefore seek investment in existing issues. This should mean a greatly increased demand, and have a strengthening effect on prices.

If you have money less well employed, we recommend that you invest it in Victory Loan Bonds at present prices.

Write us, and we shall be glad to furnish you with full particulars.

MR. JOFFE GAVE AN INSTRUCTIVE ADDRESS TO LAKEFIELD AUDIENCE

ONE HUNDRED AND TEN LANGUAGES IN USE IN CANADA TO-DAY—DIFFICULTIES IN RUSSIA.

LAKEFIELD, June 9.—Mr. L. Joffe delvered a most instructive address in the basement of the Methodist Church on Monday evening in the interests of the British and Foreign Bible Society. Rev. S. F. Dixon introduced Mr. Joffe in a brief speech in which he expressed his pleasure at having this splendid opportunity and also expressing his unqualified approval of the Bible Society movement, which, in its catholicity, has done so much for the world.

Mr. Joffe assured the audience of his powers as a phreulogist, which Mr. Dixon had hinted at, and said that if necessary he could make plenty of money in that way as religion is the poorest paid profession in the world, but he has faith in God. The Bibles of the Bible Society are sold below cost and are printed in 600 different languages.

Many Languages.

There are one hundred and ten languages in use in Canada today which must seem strange to people here in Lakefield.

The speaker is a native born Russian but is a naturalized British subject. He warns us that the information we receive of Russia in the papers is second-hand and we must read it accordingly. He has personally suffered for Russia's freedom and loves Russia. The Russian Empire (of pre-war days) consisted of 185,000,000 people of 36 distinct nationalities and 200 languages and was ruled by an autocracy. It was not held together as the British Empire is by a spiritual force, but by a material force. Germany thought the British Empire would break up like a house of cards when war came, but we all know how the empire responded. He himself went over and joined the Russian mission as he felt there he could best serve his only country and her allies. When war came the czar mobilized between twelve and fourteen million men. Compared to modern Germany Russia was slow, but fourteen million men under arms required thirty million more to maintain them at the front, to provide munitions, armament, clothing, food, etc. These forty-four million men were taken from farms, their road making, the tailor shops and blacksmith shops and, in short, from every walk of industry. In speaking of Russia the speaker has Canada in his mind's eye also for Britain gave as Russia did. There were two lines of fortifications along the German-Austrian frontier—the first well equipped, modern forts and back of them in the second line the forts were obsolete owing mainly to the graft wheich had eaten into the country vitals.

The first Russian reserves were modernly equipped but the second reserves were empty handed and had the ghastly experience of waiting till comrades would fall and then snatch their rifle. They fought the modern weapons with their bare hands and that took more than ordinary courage. No tongue can tell of these heroes who only knew how to die, the annals of human history has no grander example of courage.

Canadian Boys.

Our Canadian boys were heroes and did splendid work against the foe and we are proud of them, but those poor Russian boys died in thousands without having an equipment to fight with. We must remember that the Russian soldiers is not a democratic soldier like our Canadian soldier. Eighty-five per cent. of the populations of Russia are absolutely illiterate; at the age of 21 each Russian youth is drafted into the army and pronounced O.K., he joins a unit and there learns to be a soldier. He is instructed in blind unquestioning obedience to his corporal who in turn offers the same unquestioning obedience to the sergeant and so on all the way up the various ranks, and at the head of all is the giant Colossus, the great white czar. The Russian soldier went to fight in the war, not voluntarily, like the Canadian boys, but because he was ordered to go.

Czar Overthrown.

When the rumor that the czar had been overthrown reached the trenches, the common soldier refused to believe it and regarded it as enemy propaganda. The papers published reams about the bloodless revolution in Russia and some Americans were preparing to send a gold statue to the great new republic.

Like waters breaking through a dam, the Russian soldier realized that the unseen power which held him in the trenches was no longer there and then he and all Russia broke loose. In every town were street corner meetings, each upholding a different ideal. It was a huge madhouse, a tower of Babel, and then uprose Kerensky, who was in many ways a great man. He was like the rest, he felt that it was an easy matter to run a government but there are two things needed—first, a good heart; second, knowledge and training. Now Kerensky lacked the latter qualification and he did some foolish things. He sent orators to the trenches to urge the soldiers on to greater zeal and more courage for they were democratic soldiers now and were fighting for their own country. He removed from them the overshadowing fear and left them as a flock of bees without a queen. They had one thought and that was to get back home and their rush back, killing the officers who tried to stop them and commandeering railway lines, threw the whole country into an uproar. Instead of the men giving in their arms as was done in regularly demobilized country, they continued to bear arms and bedlam was let loose. Here were twelve million armed men going about the land, each a law unto himself. Think of it here, if at election time when party feeling runs high, and there is always lots of hot air at our elections, if the voters were carrying guns and had their pockets full of ammunition and if, on top of that ,they had good Scotch whiskey in quantities to drink instead of harmless two per cent. Things would be pretty bad here and illiterate Russia ran riot. Twenty-five million lives at least were lost in Russia since the revolution. One thing might still have saved Russia in that dark hour and that was work. They had money but that is only a means of exchange and they lacked material. If they had gone to work to replace and replenish all might have been well, but Kerensky, foolishly, urged them to strike for higher pay, which they did.

Tho Farmer.

In Russia, as in Canada, the farmer is the only man who has not struck and he supplies to the cities the mainstay of life, but the cities failed to respond and supply the farmer with clothing, etc., for his needs. Mines, mills and factories were idle and men were money mad, actually taking coal bags and wheelbarrows to get their money. In spite of their wealth they starved because food was not being produced as the farmers could not be fooled more than once or twice. Starvation was rampant in the cities and likewise disease—typhus and cholera—gathered their toll. Of the two and a half million population in Petrograd at the outbreak of war only 400,000 are left. There the Kerensky administration fell and the Bolsheviks took over. They advocated a policy of just taking what they wanted. The working people went crazy and massacreed their employers.

We must beware of the industrial unrest in Canada at the present time. Men will say men are all alike and so they are in the sight of God, but God did not make us like bricks, all in one mould. A farmer who has lived twenty years on a farm knows his farm better than a passer-by, and so with all work. Training counts and genius—the man who see above.

The Bolsheviks.

Rome was not built in a day and for all our modern inventions and conveniences a few men studied while many slept. The Bolsheviks admitted of no special skill and bosses were killed at once and the factories in the hands of the ignorant who worked as they liked soon were useless and valuable raw materials utterly wasted. Work that would ordinarily take two weeks now takes four months. The speaker cited an instance he knew of personally of a rubber plant whch was run in this way and in an incredibly short time $80,000 in spot cash was lost. Now the Bolshevik are awake to the fact that industrially are up against a brick wall, so men are made work at the point of the bayonet and each man is allowed half a pound of black bread per day.

There is a warning to Canadians not to be led away by modernism. Do not discard everything that is old. Stand by God and don't flock after the new philosophy. Russia is suffering for her sin and the full measure is not yet as typhus is prevalent and the dreaded bubonic plague is breaking out, the whole of Russia may yet be a gigantic grave yard.

The speaker, who was a British subject before the war, warned Canadians against the spirit of unrest that is abroad among us, especially among the working classes. He pictured his own country which was in 100 per cent. worse condition than in the days of the czar.

Mr. Joffe asked for questions and several were given, one being, "Should Great Britain deal with the Bolsheviki?" and his answer was a decided, "No, who makes peace with the devil must expect to get hell." But he asked for toleration of the Russians themselves. There is only about four or five per cent. of the population actually in the Bolshevik ranks, which he terms a bunch of thieves. A question as to the truth of the statements made about the nationalization of Russian women in the newspapers. Mr. Joffe could not say from personal experience, but in a land which denies God now anything may happen, but these things are not only in Russia as "free love" is a menace to our own land, which we must fight.

Weak Man.

A question as to the czar as a weak man under Rasputin was asked, but Mr. Joffe assured us of our lack of understanding the conditions surrounding royalty in Imperial Russia. The czar did not go about as the Prince of Wales and probably less than two dozen people in the Empire ever had a chance to know him intimately, but he expressed his belief in the goodness of the czar and the purity of his motives. He was the best man for Russia since his grandfather. Rasputin has been called a devil and a saint, but no one can really tell, but he certainly was a genius.

Some small boys asked some remarkably intelligent questions about transportation in Russia, and about aeroplanes and motor cars. Young Canada, as exemplified by these lads, showed a keen desire to learn about the big things of a nation.

Mr. Joffe sang a Russian hymn and a folk song and also the Russian National Anthem. The audience was very attentive and appreciative.

THE TEAMS AND REFEREE FOR TO-MORROW EVENING'S GAME—OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST.

To-morrow evening at the Exhibition ground the Great War Veterans will have the Canadian Woollens as their guests in a Football League fixture. Kick-off at 6.30 prompt. Mr. A. Bates is the official referee.

The captain (Harry Gamble) of the G. W. V. A. has returned to his old Nomad form and he thinks that the War Vets will have a good chance of the League yet. The team for to-morrow evening is as follows: C. Griffine, goal; Harry Gamble and A. Bishop, backs; A. Burrow, P. D. Ryan and J. Peel, half-backs; S. Curtiss, F. Monks, Harry Norman, A. Edwards and J. Sharman.

The Comrades' football team will play the De Laval to-night at the Exhibition grounds, kick-off at 6.30 p.m.

For the game to-morrow evening, the Canadian Woollens have added some new players to their line-up, including Harold Jones, the inside right, who played for Stratford. The team: S. Calladine, goal; J. Cridland and J. Hillman, backs; A. Barton, H. Jackson and A. Stiles, half-backs; C. Thorpe, H. Jones, J. Chambers, G. Hodson and C. Clarke, forwards. Resedves, J. Montgomery, W. Baldwin and J. Pilling.

The Caledonian Club Football executive desire all players who have registered with them to turn out to the practice on Thursday evening at 6.30. prompt.

A great amount of credit belongs to Payne (Machine Gunners) for the three goals scored against the C.G.E. It was the well-placed passes from Dodds that made the outside right so effective.

In the re-play between the Toronto Scottish and Baraccas last evening, in Toronto, in Ontario Cup, the former won the tie by the score of two to nothing. Harris, of Baraccas, in goal, saved his team from a heavy defeat.

The Bethlehem Steel Football team won the championship of the National League, U.S.A., by defeating the crack Robins Drydockers by 2 to 0. This is the second year they have won it.

OUTING FOR QUEEN MARY TEACHERS

Through the kindness of some friends, the Public school staff of Queen Mary school enjoyed a delightful outing last evening when they were taken out to Chemong and entertained right royally there, returning to the city by 11 p.m. Those to whom the teachers are indebted for the pleasant evening are Mr. and Mrs. Barns, Mr. and Mrs. Cook, Major and Mrs. Medd, Mr. and Mrs. Wren and Mr. and Mrs. Foster. Pioneered by Mr. Wren the party reached Chemong by what was called the "long road"—Mr. Wren said he could have found a longer one, but he thought this one would do. The other drivers thought Mr. Wren expert in picking a "rough" road.

After a stroll in the beautiful park, the party repaired to the pavilion, where they partook of light refreshments and then engaged in a number of games and contests between sides chosen for the purpose.

Just before returning the teachers voiced their gratitude by passing a vote of thanks and by singing "They are jolly good fellows, etc."

What You Will Be Tomorrow Depends Upon What You Do For Your Health Today—

You Must Keep Your Blood Filled With Iron To Stand the Strain of Modern Day Life Says Physician—Explains How

Nuxated Iron Helps Build Red Blood

Strength and Endurance

Have you ever stopped to look yourself squarely in the face? Are you getting anywhere? — or just drifting—a little weaker, a little more nervous, a little more run-down every day? Nothing slips away so easily as HEALTH. Unless YOU hold fast to HEALTH by your own efforts—by keeping your blood pure, red and rich in iron—the day may come when all you can do is WISH you had acted sooner. Physicians explain below how to help make rich, red blood and increase strength, power and endurance, through the health-giving, strength-building power of organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which is now being used by over three million people annually.

"Success is in the blood," says Dr. John J. Van Horne, formerly Medical Inspector and Clinical Physician on the Board of Health of the City of New York. "There are men whom fate can never keep down. They triumph over difficulties and ill-fortune because they have within them the never-failing source of courage, confidence and power—pure, red blood, rich in stamina-building iron. Where others hesitate and stumble, these men march forward with a firm step and take the best prizes of life. Their brains are keenly alive, their bodies are fortified with the strength and energy that enables them to take and keep the best the world has to offer. But in the rush and tear of modern day life, many a man and woman neglects to keep their blood filled with strength-building iron and as a result they find themselves on the verge of a physical and nervous breakdown at a time when they should be enjoying their best years. In my opinion, physicians cannot emphasize too strongly the necessity of keeping the blood pure and red with plenty of iron, and I believe they should at every opportunity prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for in my experience it is one of the best tonic and red blood builders known to medical science."

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Wertchester County Hospital, in commenting upon the foregoing statement, says: "Every keen, active successful man and woman of today recognizes that a sound, strong body is the basis of all real achievement and they leave no stone unturned to safeguard their health. Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. I strongly advise every man who is fagged out by worry, work and other strains to build up his strength, energy and endurance by taking some form of organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for I consider it one of the foremost blood and body builders; the best to which I have ever had recourse."

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron, which is recommended above is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Each tablet of genuine Nuxated Iron is stamped as follows and the words Nuxated Iron are stamped into each bottle, so that the public may not be led into accepting inferior substitutes. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists in tablet form only.

MACHINE GUNNERS LODGE A PROTEST

WILL BE CONSIDERED AT THE EXECUTIVE MEETING TO-NIGHT.

A special meeting of the Peterboro Football Association will be held to-night in Mr. Fred Sutcliffe's barber shop at 7:30 prompt. The referees for the next two weeks games will be appointed. It is an understtod fact that the executive will have to consider a protest presented by the Machine Gunners against the C.G.E. for playing an unregistered player in last Saturday's game, and demand the two points.

TO-MORROW'S CITY LEAGUE FIXTURE

CANADIAN WOOLENS AND G.W.V.A. WILL MEET AT 6.15 O'CLOCK.

The recent games in the City League series have shown that the fans cannot afford to miss a fixture without running the risk of losing a chance to see a great battle. To-morrow's game, which is called for 6.15 o'clock, brings together the Canadian Woollens and Great War Veterans, and both men will be out with their strongest line-up in action, looking for victory. The winner moves up to a tie with the C.G.E. for second place, so that there is considerable at stake. The Vets beat the Woollens on opening day, but the Mulhall crew expect to reverse the verdict in to-morrow night's game.

Port Hope Guide. The Peterborough baseball team, assisted by the order from the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association that Port Hope's pitcher could not take part in Saturday's game, gave Port Hope another real trouncing on Saturday last in the northern city. The score was 17 to 3 and the exhibition was very ragged, neither team playing up to form.

McDonald's case will be considered by the O. B. A. this week and it is hoped that the locals will then get down to business. They have plenty of material for a good team and there is no reason for such defeats.

Balloon Ascension.

Lindsay Warder, Cobourg's winning streak got a real jolt on Saturday when they bumped against the champions from Belleville.

Wallington, the Cobourg twirler, was driven to the four corners and his support throughout was rather weak. The Cobourgites touched Goyer for several safe bagouts, but he managed to keep the hits fairly well scattered. Belleville had a balloon ascension in the eighth and before they recovered Cobourg had scored five runs. The final score was 12 to 7.

TORONTO TEAMS WANT GAME HERE

William Duncan, secretary-treasurer of the Spalding Baseball Leagues, Toronto, is anxious to secure a game in Peterborough on July 1st for one of the junior or intermediate teams of his organization. If any local clubs are interested they can write to Mr. Duncan, 207 Yonge street, Toronto, for particulars.

BASEBALL.

The Central Ontario Team will practice to-night at Riverside Park at 6 o'clock.

SPORTING NEWS, VIEWS AND GOSSIP

THE OSHAWA GAME LOOKS LIKE A HARD PROPOSITION; VISITORS ARE DANGEROUS

The Oshawa team which meets the Petes at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon in a Central League fixture, will prove a much different proposition from the Port Hope crew, and the Petes will have to be on their toes every minute of the engagement. The Oshawa gang, next to Belleville, are considered the most dangerous contenders for the Central League pennant and there are many fans around the circuit who fancy them even over Freddy Goyer and company. They have won their first two games with ease, beating Port Hope 22 to 2 and Lindsay 12 to 4 right in Lindsay, and they are decidedly cocky as to their chances of beating Peterborough here on Saturday. The Petes cannot afford to drop another game as long as Belleville keeps winning, so Saturday's fixture is one of the most important of the season as well as promising to be one of the most interesting. It is called for 3 o'clock and should attract a big crowd of fans.

CRESSMAN'S WON ANOTHER VICTORY IN LOCAL LEAGUE

INTERESTING GAME PLAYED LAST EVENING AT THE OVAL—THE SCORE WAS 9-2.

Leith Bartley twirled Cressmans to another victory in the Commercial League at the Oval last evening, when Barries were defeated by 9 to 2. Bartley fanned eleven, held Barries to three hits and got out of bad holes in the fifth and seventh when, with two gone and all bags occupied, he struck out the batter.

Pitching for Barries, Al. Doughty started poorly. He hit two batsmen, made a wild pitch, and issued a pass, which with two hits, gave Cressmans four runs. With two gone in the second he was touched for two long singles by Hunter and Bartley, making three more counters. In the succeeding four innings, Doughty held the big store crowd back. Then in the seventh they tallied twice on Barrie errors.

The backstops turned in good performances, Cobb making a great running catch on Irvine's foul fly in the first, and Dugan throwing out five base runners, four of them at second base.

Harry Whitlow broke into the game with a slashing single to left that scored two Cressman runs in the first. He also scored in the inning and again in the seventh.

Two nice catches on long flies were made by Smith in left field for Barries.

Cressmans Start Early.

Doughty got Cobb on strikes. Rayner and Hunter were hit and Bartley singled, filling the bases. Whitlow singled to left, scoring two, and Bartled went in on a wild pitch. Wolfe was thrown out at first, Whitlow scoring on the play. Graham walked and Sage fanned.

Cressmans retired in a row. Cobb took Irvin'e foul fly. Nicholls was out when hit by the ball on his third strike, and Dugan's best was a fly to Sage.

Two Timely Singles.

In the second, Long fanned, Cobb was safe when Quigley fumbled his bounder. Rayner fanned. Hunter hit to left scoring Cobb and Bartley's single to right sent Hunter home. On a play to third to get him, Bartley reached home. Whitlow missed three.

Stabler was hit and he stole, getting home on Doughty's double. The next three fanned.

Nothing further developed in the line of runs until the sixth, when Barries in their half tallied one. Dugan hit and stole second. Stabler was safe on a grounder to Graham. On a play to the plate the ball went into the crowd, Dugan scoring. Stabler tried to breeze in also, but Cobb recovered in time to throw to Bartley and the runner was out. Doughty was retired at first on his smash to the pitcher and Quigley's fly was gathered in by Long.

Two Presentations.

The Barrie fielders presented Cressmans with a brace of runs in the seventh after two were gone. Bartley was safe when Walton dropped his fly. Quigley failed to handle Whitlow's grounder and the runner was safe. Both basemen scored when Quigley mussed the play on Wolfe's single. Wolfe went out going into third on a nice throw by Dugan.

Failed in the Pinch.

In their last effort, Barries switched the batting order without results, Irvine making the third out, with Dougthy on third, Quigley on second and Kelly on first.

"AS Y ESOW, SO SHALL YE REAP."

J. Hatfield Blake, millionarire promoter of big real estate deals, had risen from the ranks of the county fair ground "shell-game" operators. Throughout his entire career there had been but one thought uppermost in this man's mind, the welfare of his little motherless girl. Misguided though his methods may have been, devious the ways in which he amassed a fortune, yet there was at least one pure thought and motive behind those methods. In his early days he had known poverty and destitution, attendant upon the haphazard life of the fair ground, and he determined that his daughter should never know hunger nor want.

But in all of his schemings and plottings and plannings, the ex-shell-game expert had failed to make due allowance for the natural workings of the law of compensation, and so the inevitable happened: the gambler reaped as he had sown, having for years "sat in darkness, with his heart bound in iron and his soul imprisoned behind gates of brass!"

It is an enthrallingly interesting story which is contained in "Gates of Brass," the new Frank Keenan production in five parts, which will be shown at the Grand Theatre on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and of which the foregoing is a very brief outline.

YANKEES PLAY BEFORE 108,200 FANS IN 5 CONSECUTIVE DAYS

NEW YORK. — Playing to more than 100,000 home fans in the space of a single week is something new for the Yankees, but the Huggins team passed that mark in five playing days of the week just ended, But for the postponement of yesterday's scheduled double-header the Yanks undoubtedly would have played to 135,000 fans from Monday to Saturday, a mark that probably never has been reached by any major league club. On Monday morning 11,500 saw the Yanks and Senators play, and in the afternoon a crowd of 38,700 jammed the stands. The game on Tuesday drew 12,000 fans and on Wednesday 28,000 saw the double-header. About 8,000 atended the game with the Mackmen on Thursday, and the Friday crowd numbered about the same. This ran the total up to 108,200 for seven games in five playing days. With good weather prevailing yesterday at least 30,000 would have turned out for the double-header.

MAYOR DENIES SALE OF TANK SECRETLY

BRIDGEBURG, June 8.—"There is absolutely nothing to it, insofar as I am concerned," declared ex-Mayor Malkin here, "as I made no deal of any kind, as charged," in reply to charges made by ex-Alderman George Steane, who alleges that a tank was sold sub rosa from the town pumping station here, and that it was allowed to be taken away not being paid for. He declares that a deal was arranged between the party who got the tank and last year's Council, whereby the transaction would be kept a close secret.

Mayor Malkin declares that he did not know what the tank had been removed, and that had he known such was the case he would have insisted upon payment through the town treasurer in the usual course.

THEDA BARA MODEL FOR MADONNA STATUE

The Magdaline Learns That Only the Good May Save.

Theda Bara, the beautiful William Fox star, poses for a statue of the Madonna in her newest super-production, "The Light". This picture, which opens at the Regent Theatre to morrow tells the story of the "wickedest woman in Paris," whose beauty makes her the idol of men.

A sculptor sees her beauty and longs to have her pose for his statue of the Madonna. He feels there must be some grain of goodness behind such a beautiful face. He is right. The wicked woman finally gives up her wealth and ease at duty's call. As she is eloping with an Apache dancer she sees the sculptor, who has been blinded suddenly.

That is the Call. The wicked woman sees the light at last. She spirits away the sightless sculptor, sacrificing all and turning her back forever upon frivolity, that she may nurse him and care for him. Thus she becomes a Madonna.

Theda Bara fills the role of the heroine of this super-production.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Mrs. Geo. E. Pearson, who died May 29, 1919: "Gone But Not Forgotten."

It seems but yester morning
When God knocked at our door
And took with him to dwell in heaven,
A soul to die no more.

We loved her yes we loved her
But still God loved her more,
He bridged the way from earth to heaven
And now she rests with Jesus there.

—From Husband and Children.

LEST WE FORGET.

In loving remembrance of Mrs. G. E. Pearson, who died May 29th, 1919:

It was 16 years ago, she sailed away,
We thought we would watch her future
But "God" took her away.
We shall see her in His "Kingdom"
That he prepared for us,
And then our tears and "sorrows"
Will be turned to "happiness."

—From Her Sister Ada and Nephew Harry.

HEART SO BAD

WAS NOT SAFE TO LEAVE HER ALONE

Miss Eva P. Valentine, Krugersdorf, Ont., writes: "I feel that I must write and tell you of the great benefit I have received from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. About four years ago I was taken terribly bad with my heart, nerves and fainting spells, and was down in bed for about six months. I doctored with two different Doctors and seemed to get better although the fainting spells would not leave me, I would take such terrible falls wherever I was that it was not safe to leave me alone at any time. At last I decided to resort to proprietary medicines, and took several different kinds but seemed to receive but little benefit from them. One day noticing the advertisement of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I decided to try them Before I had taken more than two boxes I could see that they were helping me. I have taken about ten boxes and am almost cured of those terrible spells. I sincerely feel that your medicine has proved a blessing to me and I advise anyone troubled with their heart to try them as I am confident they will find relief."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

No Militarism for Canada Currie Says

ASSURES PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY THAT THIS COUNTRY WILL HAVE NONE OF IT—ADVISES PHYSICAL TRAINING FOR THE YOUTH.

WOULD PREVENT DISEASE

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 10.—"Let me convey to you the assurance that the military advisers of the Government have no idea of saddling any form of militarism on this country," said Sir Arthur Currie, Inspector-General of Canada, and Principal-Elect of McGill University, to the Presbyterian General Assembly yesterday.

"I ask you to accept that assurance in all sincerity."

He did not want to see this country saddled with militarism. To show how much of a militarist he was, he had offered to reduce the Canadian standing Militia by many thousands if the Government would supply him with a thousand physical instructors. They should have more physical training in the schools, and there were many diseases to be overcome.

Sir Arthur said they had lost more men through tuberculosis than on the battlefield. Theer was also the problem of venereal diseases. This matter ought to be dealt with in an outspoken manner. There was room in Canada for plain speaking, clear thinking, clean living, and practical Christianity. They had to learn the lessons of war. He believed that the best element of the returned soldier was on the side of right.

"There are solutions to all problems if these problem sare approached in the right manner," said Sir Arthur.

RUSSIANS IN PERSIA

TEHERAN IN DANGER OF FALLING BEFORE THE EXTENDING OPERATIONS OF BOLSHEVIKI.

BRITISH RETIRE

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, June 10.— The Bolsheviki are rapidly extending their operations in Persia according to advices received by the French Foreign Office to-day. Teheran, the capital, is threatened and in danger of falling into the hands of the Bolsheviki in two or three days, should the Reds attack, it is declared. The Persian government is organizing resistance to the Bolshevik menace. The British have retired fifty miles south of Resht under Bolshevik pressure.

A Bolshevik Invention.

LONDON, June 9.— Asked in the House of Commons to-day if there were any grounds for the Bolshevist boast of the route of British forces at Resht, Persia, Mr. Bonar Law said there was no justification for the reports, which were probably based on the fact that the British were, some time ago, voluntarily withdrawn from Resht under the scheme for reducing British commitments abroad.

CONSIDER MARKETING OF 1920 WHEAT CROP

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 10.—The pressure of other committee work was responsible today for the postponement of the gathering of Western supporters of the government in the Commons to consider the marketing of the 1920 crop, also the policy to be pursued in regard to natural resources. It is understood that several millers have written asking the committee to hear them. The committee has reached no decision on this point, however.

LONDON, Ont., June 9. — "The sums of money offered to representatives of the people to pass certain pieces of legislation was appalling," was the startling statement made by Andrew Hicks, U.F.O. whip, in an address to the East Middlesex U.F.O. picnic here this afternoon. "But, thank God," he added, "not one of our U.F.O. members succumbed to the effort at bribery."

Clergymen of the Reformed Churches Refuse to Ban Tobacco.

(Canadian Press.)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 10.—The use of tobacco will not be sacrificed for the church by clergymen of the General Synod of the Reformed Churches of America, ministers decided at the closing at the closing session of the Synod here yesterday. A resolution proposing that clergymen give up the weed in order to make their church contributions more liberal, was defeated.

Minister Protests

PROPOSED $4,000 SALARIES FOR MISSION SUPERINTENDENTS MEETS WITH WARM OBJECTION.

DISPROPORTION INDICATED

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 10.— The recommendation from finance committee which came up for consideration at this morning's session of the Presbyterian General Assembly that salaries of officials such as superintendents of missions &c., should be increased from $3500 to $4000 yearly met with an impassioned protest from Rev. W. J. Kydd of Alberta. He held that a pioneer minister could exist on $1400 when food that he purchased had to be freighted sometimes hundreds of miles. Surely officials could worry along on $3500 in Toronto. He claimed that officials were no better equipped with brains than pioneer ministers so that was not the reason of their appointment.

Toronto Next Year.

OTTAWA, June 9—Toronto, instead of Vancouver, was selected as the meeting place of the 1921 Presbyterian General Assembly, after a vote had been taken on the question at this morning's session of the Assembly.

The other important feature at the morning session was the passing of a motion whih practically does away with the indeterminate term of pastorate of Presbyterian ministers. It was decided to send to Presbyteries for their consideration the motion, which recommended a seven-year term for ministers. It was agreed, however, that should there be no application from either the minister or the congregation, that there would be no change.

MAY LIMIT A. F. OF L. NON-PARTIZAN POLICY

CONVENTION OPPOSES NATION WIDE CAMPAIGN.

(Canadian Press.)

MONTREAL, June 10.—The American Federation of Labour went on record at its annual convention here to-day as opposed to the establishment of a permanent non-partisan political educational department to make a nation-wide campaign in support of the Federation's non-partisan policy.

MONTREAL, June 9.—The proposal of Irish sympathisers to have the American Federation of Labour in its convention here endorse the "Irish Republic" and demand the withdrawal of British troops from Ireland, threatened to-night to become a serious matter when certain Canadian delegates anounced that they would oppose such a move on British soil.

"We have our own opinions on the Irish question," sand a Canadian delegate, "and while they may or may not agree with the wording of the resoiution, the convention of the American Federation of Labour is no place to discuss such a topic, especially on British soil."

ALL NIGHT DISCUSSION

OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS PLANK PRODUCES COMPROMISE FOR G.O.P. CONVENTION CONSIDERATION.

WOULD RATIFY TREATY

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., June 10.— When the Resolution sub-committee went into session again this morning with the League of Nations plank still threatening a party split, a tentative foreign relations plank was under consideration, declaring opposition to the treaty without reservations, but favoring ratification with American rights safeguarded. The plank was framed after an all night conference in which former Senator Murray Crane of Massachusetts, leading the mild reservation group, participated.

PETERBORO MAN WINS A DEGREE

STEPHEN GILBERT FIRST AND LAST QUEEN'S STUDENT TO BE AWARDED DEGREE OF B. SC. AGR.

KINGSTON, June 9.—At a special convocation this afternoon degrees were conferred upon the recent graduates of Queen's Medical College. Eighteen of the forty-five graduates were present. In the absence of the Chancellor, E. W. Beatty, President of the C.P.R., the degrees were conferred by the Vice-Chancellor, Principal Taylor.

Four young men who received degrees on continued courses were laureated. These were: Glenn Davidson of Rossmore, Ont., and Sterling Omar Morris of Athens, Ont., receiving the degrees of B.A., and W. Fred, Francis and Stephens Gilbert of Peterborough, receiving the degree of B.Sc. Agr. The last named, said Dr. Taylor, occupied a unique position, as he was the first and the last to graduate from Queen's with this degree, as the course had been dropped by the University.

In addressing the graduates, Principal Taylor dwelt upon the nobility of the medical profession, at the same time pointing out that the doctors were among the hardest worked and the poorest paid of professional men.

He declared himself in favor of the medical plan of the University of Toronto, by which the college course is divided into two periods of three years each, and pointed out the danger of too much specialization in a sparsely-settled country like Canada.

ONLY A FEW LEFT TO ANSWER ROLL

On Tuesday evening, June 8th, the Veterans of '66 held a very enjoyable reunion in the recreation rooms of the armouries.

The members present were Col. J. W. Miller, (Pres.), J. D. Collins, H. R. R. Tivey, J. Kylie, W. C. Bourn, P. Thompson, A. Fitzgerald, J. McComb, G. Stenton and R. J. Sanderson.

Pres. Miller introduced the following gentlemen as guests of the evening: Col. Clegg, Mr. F. Pratt, Mr. R. Hendry and Mr. A. Nicholl, organist of St. James' church.

The members of the Association are indebted to those gentlemen who so ably contributed a most pleasing programme in speech, song and recitation.

Comrade R. Tivey, the oldest member of the association, now over 80 years, contributed two excellent recitations. Mr. A. Nicholls presided at the piano.

The Veterans and their guests sat down to tastefully arranged tables, and did justice to an excellent supper provided by Coleman Bros.

After supper Mr. Coleman entertained the company with one of his many comic songs.

Singing of the National Anthem concluded a most satisfactory and enjoyable entertainment.

GOVERNMENT FAILS IN PAPER EFFORT

ONLY RECOURSE IS LEGISLATION TO OBTAIN NEWSPRINT SUPPLY.

Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 10.—The Government has been unsuccessful in its efforts to secure an assurance of the continued supplies for Canadian newspapers now facing suspension owing to inability to get newsprint, although quite prepared to pay the current contract prices for export to foreign countries.

Legislation conserving for Canada the domestic requirements of newsprint seems to be the only possible solution of the present crisis.

Two points are being emphasised by the Canadian publishers affected—that the total requirements are less than 15 per cent. of the Canadian production and that no favour is being asked as regards the price.

As a sidelight on their own position the Canadian publishers threatened with suspension are citing the fact that certain individual publishers in the United States are each securing from Canada almost as much newsprint as is required by all the daily pewspapers of Canada put together.

THE WEATHER

That the unusual drought this spring is not peculiar to this section, is shown by a recent bulletin received from Toronto. The rainfall was below the average in all portions of the Dominion except over a portion of British Columbia and a few scattered places in Alberta and Saskatchewan and on the Island of Anticosti. From Ontario to the Maritime Provinces the shortage was pronounced. The total fall in many parts of Ontario was less than half an inch; in Peterboro it was only .28—a little over ¼ of an inch; in Western Quebec less than an inch and over large sections of the Maritime Provinces barely over an inch. At Toronto, where the rainfall has been recorded since 1840, it was the driest May experienced.—W. P.

FIFTEEN PER CENT. ON THE EXCESS OF BOOTS AND ARTICLES OF CLOTHING—INCREASE EXEMPTION LIMIT ON FURS, ROBES AND RUGS.

IS NOT RETROACTIVE

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 9. — Important changes in the luxury taxes are impending. In the house to-night Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, indicated some changes he intends to propose. In brief they are:

(a) Boots and essential articles of clothing to be taxed 15 per cent. on the excess, instead of 10 per cent. on the total selling price.

(b) Expensive furniture, walking sticks and expensive china to be subject to luxury tax. They were not previously included.

(c) Exemption limit increased on furs, coats, caps, muffs, neckpieces, robes, and rugs.

(d) Modifications in the tax on sporting goods, velvets, velveteens, lace and braid, ribbons and carpets.

Sir Henry did not give formal notice of his proposed amendments. This will be given later. He also made it clear to the house that the taxes as laid down in the budget speech would be still in force for the present.

"Nothing said to-night," he declared, "will alter the present law until the resolutions have passed the house."

Criticism is Roused.

Consideration of the proposed changes was deferred until Thursday, but the procedure aroused some criticism. Dr. Clark of Red Deer queried the minister of finance if the budget proposals were to be taken as serious proposals, now the minister was giving a whole list of alterations in detail.

To this, Sir Henry geplied that no changes in principle were proposed. Certain luxuries were to be included which were omitted in the original resolution. Certain modifications were proposed in deference to suggestions received.

A modification was proposed, Sir Henry added, in regard to sports and games. Articles required for the popular games would be exempted from tax up to a certain amount, as for instance: baseballs and bats exempt up to $1.25; mitts and gloves, exempt to $1.50; skates, exemtp to $2; footballs, exempt to $3; lacrosse sticks, to $1.50; hockey sticks to 75 cents.

A tax of 15 per cent was also proposed on all extravagant furniture of walnut, mahogany, rosewood, etc. A tax would also also would be placed on expensive china and crockery.

Sir Henry also announced that he proposed to put a tax of 10 per cent. on all candy and substitutes for candy, except when in packages, or labeled pieces marked 10 cents or less, and with some other special exceptions. On gum and substitutes the tax is to be reduced from ten to three per cent.

He proposes to increase the tax on motor cars retailing at $3,000 or more each from 15 to 20 per cent.

The originally proposed cumulative tax of 84 on lime juices, medicines, and perfumes is to be made non-cumulative and reduced to $2.

It is proposed to abandon the present stamp taxes on patent and proprietary medicines and perfumery.

Furs will be taxed 10 per cent., instead of 20 per cent. as originally provided.

Clocks and watches in excess of $10 each will be taxed.

The tax upon playing cards is to be reduced considerably.

Not Retroactive.

Mr. Rinfret (St James, Montreal): "May I ask the minister whether this new budget, if I may call it so is to take effect immediately, or only when a bill is introduced and passed; and will the new taxes be retroactive?"

"I don't think we can make the matter retroactive," Sir Henry replied. "So far as anything new is concerned, it will become effective on a measure thereto being introduced in the house."

"To-morrow these changes now proposed will be in effect throughout the country?" Dr. Beland pursued.

"No," the minister of finance replied.

"By what are the retail merchants throughout the country to be guided to-morrow?" Dr. Beland continued.

"By the resolutions already tabled," was Sir Henry's reply.

Sir Henry also announced that instead of velvet and velveteens being taxed on the whole piece, they would be taxed when selling in excess of $2 a yard; instead of all lace and braid

MONEY'S POWER SHOULD BE USED IN THE SERVICE OF GOD

RICHES NEVER SO ABUNDANT, MAN'S OPPORTUNITY NEVER SO GREAT —MRS. C. H. COON'S APPEAL AT W.M.S. CONVENTION.

TITHEING DISCUSSED

At the Women's Missionary Society's convention in Trinity Church yesterday afternoon, Mrs. White's services in charge of the Christian Stewardship hour were very acceptable.

The whole afternoon was devoted mainly to the presentation of admirably prepared papers on varied subjects of Methodist interest in the Bay of Quinte district.

Mrs. Wilson assumed charge of the Mission Band hour, and little Nellie Payne sang "Happy as a Song Bird," in very sweet voice.

Money Obligation.

In an exhaustive paper on this subject read by Mrs. C. H. Coon, of Lindsay, the need for and power of money with which to spread the Gospel generally was lucidly presented, and in a forceful manner. "Millions are perishing without knowledge of Christ," declared Mrs. Coon, "and hundreds of men and women can be found to undertake this work were the funds forthcoming. Riches were never so abundant as at present; and can it be," she inquired, "that those who are willing to entrust their immortal souls with God cannot trust Him with their money?"

Referring at length to the joy of giving for the extension of Christ's kingdom on earth, Mrs. Coon strongly advocated proportionate contributions in accordance with one's wealth. It is quite evident, she declared, that some should give more than others. For instance, a man with an income of $30,000.00, and who contributes but $3,000.00, retaining $27,000.00 for himself, scarcely measures up to the man whose income is but $1,000.00 and keeps only $900.00 for his own use. Then a man with a large family should not be expected to give as much as he with no family, should they both be in receipt of the same income. "Our God is a just God," she concluded, "and inasmuch as ye have given unto the least of these, my brethren, ye have given unto me."

How Shall I Tithe?

Following up the question of giving for church support and mission work, Mrs. J. W. Wager's paper on "Tithes" was listened to with keen interest. When the mind is convinced and the heart warm with love the hand responds generously, she said.

Mrs. Wager here spoke strongly for systematic contribution as an investment for God made as methodically as in temporal transactions, and she urged the use of mite boxes at the special hour for prayer on Sunday afternoons.

It's Worth While.

Mrs. Hammond submitted a very timely paper on the subject, "Is It Worth While?" in the course of which she drove home the truth that God abundantly rewards faithful stewardship. Give, and it shall be given unto you, in good measure, pressed down and overflowing, is the comforting assurance of the Gospel. "If we believed that one-seventh of our time for God is binding under the Fourth Commandment, no one can accept one-tenth of his or her income is a cancelled obligation. If God's great time card has been projected into this Gospel age, so likewise has God's no less, great money law; evidence in support of the latter contention is quite as strong as that which defends the former command."

Mrs. Wager here offered the splendid Christian endeavour of Elder Yuan, of China, and his wife as worthy of emulation. In return for blessings bestowed on them by God, this exemplary couple increased their givings. They opened schools and financially assisted worthy pupils to attain high school, college, and theological education, and were generally speaking, ministering angels to the poor and needy.

Mrs. Wager evidently is a strong advocate of the principle of tithe-giving as laid down in the laws of Moses. Let us get out of the rut of giving just what we think we can afford, and contribute out of our abundance as commanded by God, she concluded. Our race's history shows that disobedience of God's commands results in darkness and degradation, while obedience brings liberty, light, and life eternal. "Is this not worth while?" was the question left with the convention by this lady.

The Mission Band.

Miss Gladys Wallace's paper on the "Value and Aim of the Mission Band" was quite illuminating and elicited undivided attention, the objects are to instruct little ones in the principle of giving their pennies to God's service and to train them in the knowledge of the world's present-day needs and the value of Mission work at home and abroad. Eulogising children of the Mission Band as of great value to the church and Sunday school Miss Wallace declared that eventually they themselves grow up trained men and women of great value to the church and its extensive field of work throughout the whole world.

Each year sees gaps in the ranks of church workers which must be filled by trained, experienced and faithful men and women. Hence for the future's sake a Mission Band should be attached to every church.

Mission Interest.

Mrs. H. P. L. Seymour's paper on "Are You a Missionary Society or an Omission Society?" was listened to in wrapt attention. The reader contended that the Missionary Society is generally conspicuous by the absence of real missionary interest. The reason for this, she claimed to be due at least to two important and vital omissions—lack of up-to-date missionary information and dimness of spiritual vision concerning the needs of the world, especially of those vast and teeming millions in non-Christian lands. The main remedy for this unfortunate condition will be found, she asserted, in competent leaders, which are born and not made, a change of executives from time to time and the distribution of well thought out literature on Mission work and needs. But above all, Mrs. Seymour concluded, the dominant note of an ideal Missionary Society must be deep spiritual fervor and real anxious concern for our race's salvation and the universal extension of Christ's Kingdom on earth.
